Another walk, T. LeSage's pop double and infield hits by Locke and White, added two in the sixth. A dropped-ball call at first, heated words over which ball should be in play and Trudeau's fourth error by Mawby's heaving of one ball out of the park led to his ejection.

Earlier, base umpires Horne and Whalen warned Robert Belcher Chair Leage several times for pitching while off the rubber. One Trudeau batter was struck after each pitch and were changed to balls because of the illegal delivery.

The losers had chances to steal in the second, fifth and seventh frames but failed to click with men on base. A double steal by Locke and Bishop Terry LeSage helped in the seventh.

Mowat gave up only four hits to chalk up the pitching victory. He struck out four and walked three, receiving sound support.

Bob Green allowed seven hits in defeat, three in the ninth, while Locke and Bishop each had three. He could have sued for non-support.

Trudeau's league had two Bobcat singles, Lem Mowat and Terry LeSage's double - each. Rick Locke, Bill Letchford and Jim White collected the others.

The finals will open here, either Saturday or Tuesday, and it is expected games will start earlier because of the cold nights.

Orioles Snap Four-Game Loss String

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Hank Bauer of the American League leading Baltimore Orioles is worried.

The Orioles snapped a four-game losing streak over last place California Angels 2-0 and 4-3 Thursday night, but the players responsible aren't eligible for the World Series.

Rookie Tom Phoebus, making his first major league start, pitched the four-hit shutout in the first game, striking out eight and driving in a run himself. Rochester of the International League Star ace, 21 and is ineligible for World Series.

Veteran Charley Lau, who has spent most of the season on the disabled list, delivered a pinch single that drove in the winning run in the bottom of the ninth in the first game. He added to the active roster after Aug. 31 and also will watch the Series from the sidelines.

Elsewhere, Sonny Siebert allowed four hits for Cleveland Indians, but lost 1-0 in 11 innings to Kansas City Athletics, Jim Northrup's grand slam homer led Detroit Tigers to an 8 - 3 victory over Minnesota Twins, Washington Senators defeated New York Yankees 5-4, but lost the nightcap 10-5, and Carl Yastrzemski's 1,000th major league hit helped Boston Red Sox to a 5-4 victory over Chicago White Sox.

HOMERS HELPED

Offensive homers by Brooks Robinson and Curt Blefary gave Phoebus his victory in the first game. The homers came in the sixth inning against loser Dean Chance.

Earl Battey's passed ball on an 0-2 pitch strike to Norm Cash opened the gates for the Tigers in the fifth inning. Al Kaline and Willie Horton followed with walks before Northrup homered. Two - run homers by Dick Nen and Jim King helped Washington beat the Yankees in the first game.

Rookie Stan Bahnsen's seven-hitter won the nightcap and kept the eighth place Yanks one game up on 10th place Washington.

Braves Stave Off Sweep

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Richmond Braves scored four runs in the fifth inning Thursday night and staved off defeat in the International League's final playoff series with a 4-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs behind the four-hit pitching of Ron Reed.

It was the Braves' first victory in the best-of-seven series and still left them down 3-1 after four games.

Toronto scored in the first inning, loading the bases on an error, a single by Tony Horton and walks to Ernie Bowman and Mike Page's fly got the run home.

Adrian Garrett's single, a walk and a single by Chris Cannizzaro loaded the bases. One run scored on Gil Garrido's infield out, Reed drove in another with a single and Sandy Alomar doubled home the last two.

Pete Magrini and Fred Wenz clouted the Braves after that, but Reed never was threatened after the first. Horton got three of Toronto's hits.

with a smooth new bottle and a celebrated taste... that's how a gin should be!

That's how White Satin is. Still made to Sir Robert Burnett's original 1770 London Dry formula; still exactly as dry and satin-smooth today as it ever was. After all, when great taste can keep a gin famous for generations on both sides of the ocean—we wouldn't dream of changing it. What we have done, though, is change the White Satin bottle. It's the best way we know to salute a well-celebrated gin. Have a look. Have a buy, White Satin!

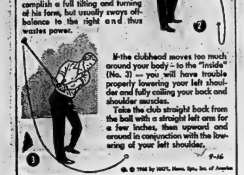
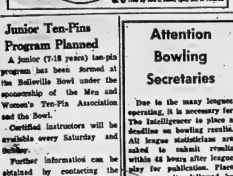
THE ARNOLD Palmer Method



by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

CLUBHEAD PATH DETERMINES BODY TURN



In No. 1, I show the clubhead's path on a proper backswing. If the clubhead moves along a proper path, your torso and shoulders will tilt and turn properly on the backswing and you will remain in balance for a solid strike at the ball.

The golfer who pushes the club away from his body on the backswing (No. 2) not only fails to accomplish a full tilting and turning of his torso, but usually sways off-balance to the right and thus wastes power.

In the clubhead moves too much around your body - to the "inside" (No. 3) — you will have trouble properly lowering your left shoulder and fully coiling your back and shoulder muscles.

Placed On Waivers

Vaughan Retires Again

MONTREAL (CP) — Kaye Vaughan, an offensive guard and linebacker with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference for 11 years before coming to Montreal Alouettes this season, has decided to retire for the second time in his career.

Vaughan, 34, sat out the 1965 season in retirement, but decided to give it another try with the Riders this fall He came to the Als after being cut by Ottawa and was injured in the season opener against his former team-mates.

The Als will place the offensive guard on waivers when he comes off the injury reserve list Saturday, just in case he is approached by another CFL club and persuaded to play again.

WAS TO RETURN

Vaughan was due to return to active play for Montreal's game against the Tiger-Cats in Hamilton Saturday night.

Leon Bauer, a linebacker in his first year with Montreal Alouettes, has been placed on waivers.

Head coach Darrell Mudra said that Bauer, who came to the Eastern Football Conference club from State College of Iowa, was placed on waivers to make room for two-way import tackle Roger Anderson who came to Montreal earlier this week from Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League.

The latest cut left the Als one over the 13-man import limit and bodes ill for other rookies back George Bork or defensive end Billy James Doss will not dress against the Tiger-Cats.

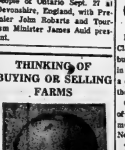
Meets Williams Nov. 14

Clay "Busiest" Champion

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay, saying he wants to be the busiest heavyweight champion in history, has officially signed a contract to defend his title for the fifth time this year.



Clay and Cleveland Williams, also-Houston, signed Thursday to meet in a 15-round match Nov. 14 in the Astrodome.

The multi - purpose, air-conditioned domed stadium will seat 60,000 for the fight and promoters claim it will break the indoor attendance record for a fight and also the top money mark paid to see an indoor bout.

The five defenses in one year will place Clay second only to Joe Louis who had five consecutive line saver tenses in 1941

Earl Gillium, head of Texas Sports Enterprises, predicts the fight will break the indoor attendance record of 22,906 who paid to see the Henry Armstrong - Fritzie Zivic fight in Madison Square Garden in 1941. He also said it will smash the all-time indoor money mark of $422,908 set by Rocky Graziano and Tony Zale at Chicago Stadium in 1947.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

BY BOB BLAIND

As the opening day of duck season draws closer more and more hunters can be seen preparing for this big day. Some are going to be very unhappy.

Feeding ducks is allowed in Ontario but all feed must be gone by Saturday, September 17th.

The Department of Lands and Forests along with the local R.C.M.P. officers have been busy the past week checking swamps and marshs known as good duck areas, for signs of "baiting" to heavily for this feed to be eaten before Saturday.

Aircraft have been used as well as boats and waders and the known hotspot has been overlooked and any area with bait still there will be checked again on Saturday. Then closed it "any" sign of feed shows up.

A closed area not only hurts the people who overfed the ducks but his neighboring hunters as well. Ducks will flock in from the surrounding country and with no shooting to put them out will stay there fed and sound for quite sometime. Therefore district hunters will have fewer ducks to shoot at.

The better way to penalize these fellows would be to let the area stay open and enjoy them heading over a baited area. Here a stiff fine would be called for and equipment seized. This would be a lot tougher to take and not only would the guilty one be taken care of properly, the innocent ones could still have a good hunt.

Have you been practicing on your duck call yet? You had better, even if the little woman threatens you. A poor caller will scare ducks away from you rather than bringing them closer.

The feeding call is the most important call of the lot and if you can master this call only your hunting success will be increased ten fold.

There is still plenty of good fishing time left. Bass are biting fair to good and bass season is open till November 30th, the same for muskie. Rainbow trout and specks close September 30th. Lake trout in our section the same as above. Pickerel no closed season in local waters till March 31st next.

Pheasant hunting at Prince quille Provincial Park opens Saturday, September 24th. A special daily fee is charged and you are allowed three birds per day any sex.

The lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Club will also be holding a pheasant shoot on October 8th, 10th, 13th and 15th. Over 800 birds will be released on private lands north of Frankford in an area covering over 1,000 acres. Arm bands and fee cards are available at local sports stores.

The Tracks

Stewards Ed Gorman, and C. Van Straubenzee of the Ontario Racing Commission and John Finn, representing The Jockey Club, suspended Jockey Noel Turcotte for 10 days from Sept. 18 to Sept. 27.

The suspension was "for careless riding in the seventh race on Wednesday in which he allowed his mount Forest Path to drift out, resulting in Tops Ace clipping heels and unseating his rider."

The Michigan Mile has attracted a prime field. Tom Rolf, three - year - old United States champion last year, is expected to face at least 10 challengers in the 18th renewal at Detroit race course.

ROAD TO ISOLATION — The Northwest Angle, a tiny corner of Minnesota described as a geographic oddity, may soon become a recreation area, but Americans wanting to get there will probably have to go through Manitoba. A road has been proposed that would cut through Manitoba to reach the Angle, which juts out from the Manitoba border into the Lake of the Woods. There are no towns in the area. Although plans for a highway aren't precise, the map shows how the road could run across Manitoba, starting at Middlebro, Man., near the Minnesota border. (CP Newsmap)

Exercise to Attain Ideal Proportions

Are you ready for that moment of truth? Then step in front of a full-length mirror and objectively analyze your figure. As Actress Kathy Garver illustrates, use tape or a piece of string.

Place horizontal lines on the side of the mirror at the following check points: head, bust, hips, knees and feet. Now measure the distance between each tape strip. If the body divides into four equal sections, you have the ideal figure proportion.

Should the measurements reveal your length is in your legs, you're in the long-demanded category of many beauty queens. Although longer limbs give you a glamorous rating in swimwear, they also mean extra pounds tend to settle around the waist. Keep the area firm and trim via regular exercise. Sit on floor, legs extended. Place a towel or rubber stretcher under arch of feet. Grasp ends of towel, or handle, and lean back as far as possible. Inhale as you recline; exhale as you sit up. Repeat eight times.

If you have a long torso, you're like most fashion models and look wonderful in fitted clothes, sweaters and suits. However, if you begin to put on weight, it frequently shows up at the thighs. To firm this area, sit well back—in a straight chair. Strap a three pound weight under the arch of each foot. Extend arms and raise right leg until limb is parallel with outstretched hands. Hold extension two seconds; return foot to floor. As Kathy, seen in the CBS-TV series "Family Affair" discovered, weight keeps movements slow and concentrates streamlining action along front of thigh. Alternate legs; practise seven times.

Sean Connery Said Likely To Turn in Baretta Pistol

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Whither James Bond? The world's No. 1 secret agent is likely to continue his espionage chores even though Sean Connery intends to turn in his Beretta pistol.

That's the word from Albert Broccoli, who with Harry Saltzman produces the fantastically successful Bond sagas. It's not likely that they or United Artists will kill their golden goose.

Broccoli is a rotund New Yorker who worked in and around the movie business here but had to go to England to prove he could produce movies. His Warwick Productions pioneered American filming in Europe.

Broccoli combined with Saltzman to produce Dr. No with a little - known Scottish actor United Artists, concerned about the investment, trimmed his budget to a modest $1,000,000.

The producer has just returned from Japan, where he checked locations for the fifth Bond film, You Only Live Twice, which will cost a shade under $2,000,000.

GROSS IS GOOD

"I don't think United Artists is worried about the cost," says Broccoli, who calculates that the first four films have grossed $150,000,000.

Continuation of the series has been questioned because of the intransigeance of the star. Connery has expressed concern that Bond will overwhelm his acting career and is under him to be capable of portraying anything else.

"If Sean does quit and we continue the series," Broccoli says, "we would get another unknown. That is the essence of the films' success—that the actor assumed the identity of Bond. After all, Batman is Batman, not a well-known actor assuming the role."

With or without Connery, the producer is confident that James Bond will continue to occupy the screen.

"He is a classic hero, like Tarzan or Sherlock Holmes," Broccoli argues.

New Secret Agent Series Not Appreciated by Writer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Jericho, CBS' new secret agent series, looks as if it was patched together with leftovers from other spy shows.

The trouble lay not with the principal actors. They are three young fellows who have not had much previous TV exposure. The problem lies in the story department.

In the first episode shown Thursday night, the three agents—an American, a Briton and one who was supposed to be French but spoke with a marked Italian accent — were assigned to get an electronics expert into a secret radar station in Nazi-occupied Holland during the Second World War.

The station was built in the top of a windmill and the job was to get the expert past the squad of the dumbest German soldiers this side of Hogan's Heroes. The good guys still had a hard time of it, and two of them were captured.

SEEN BEFORE

Fortunately, the dumb soldiers overlooked a fountain pen in one hero's pocket. After all the spy stuff we've seen, we were hardly surprised to find it wasn't a fountain pen at all but a little bomb.

There was the usual quota of fighting, and even an attempt at comedy. But it all seemed rather forced and imitative and filled with cliches.

This reviewer caught up with two comedy series that had their first shows last week at times that conflicted with other new shows.

The Tammy Grimes Show on ABC has the star playing a flocky heiress who tries to shake loose from her estate—which is tied up—vast sums for worthy causes. Thus Thursday night when she was kidnapped by four comedy - type thugs, she tried to persuade them to double the size of the ransom and split it with her.

Most of the humor was prettily obvious, with the characters running around an empty summer house, and a would-be tresser scared off when Tammy was mistaken for a ghost as she hid under a dust cover.

Miss Grimes, a fine stage comedienne, has a distinctive style but it does not seem to adapt itself to TV shtick so far.

The Hero on NBC is a series about a western star who is dashing on camera but at home is one of those dopey husbands and fathers that used to dominate most TV situation comedies. Thursday night's show, however, was not concerned much with this. Instead it features the hilarious humor of a studio traffic jam and the flight of an actor who could not remember one short line.

Star Richard Mulligan, who had little to do except act harassed, seems to be a pleasant fellow, but it was hard to tell much about the series from the single sample.

Mahdis and Mirghanis Sudan's Cabots, Lodges

A Canadian Press reporter in Sudan finds that two wealthy families dominate the African nation's politics. The rivalry is described in this story.

By CARL MOLLINS

KHARTOUM (CP) — Sudanese politics sometimes seems like a family affair. Khartoum has its exotic version of the Cabots and the Lodges of old Boston.

The el Mahdis and the Mirghanis are prominent in politics, religion and business. Usually, they are rivals. Political commentary in a tea takes on the added piquancy of society gossip.

Add to that a small-town atmosphere where everyone who is anybody knows everyone else, and politics is played with a cozy intensity that can bring government to a standstill.

The el Mahdis—more than 100 descendants of the Mahdi who united the country in revolt against the British and Egyptians in the 1880s—are now of the most powerful families in the Middle East, rich from property, forestry and cotton.

They draw political strength in western Sudan from tribal loyalties and elsewhere from followers of the Mahdist Ansar sect of Islam. The Umma party, dominant partner in the government coalition, is virtually the political wing of the Ansar sect and thus of the el Mahdi family.

FAMILY IN CABINET

Saddik el Mahdi, 30, the tall, quiet graduate of Oxford University who became prime minister at the end of July, is president of the Umma party and heir to his aging uncle as imam of the Ansar sect.

Other members of the family were in the cabinet and on the supreme council of state.

The Mirghanis, whose wealth in part derives from property in the north and in holy city of Mecca, likewise have a family sect and political party. All el Mirghani is head of the Khatmia sect and patron of the People's Democratic Party.

The party, run on a day-to-day basis by Ali's son Mohammed Osman and Ahmed, has its main strength in the east of the country. The PDP and the Mirghanis boycotted the 1958 election on the ground that it would exacerbate the division between northern Sudan and the secessionist south.

The younger members of the two families — like the young Montague and Capulet in Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet—seem anxious to reduce old rivalries. Saddik el Mahdi and the Mirghani sons Ali and Osman Mohammed confidential meeting early in the summer.

REFORM IS RESISTED

Saddik, in fact, has given indications that he is more than the continued prominence of family, sect and tribe is out of tune with the times. But if reform is in his mind, he is up against strong traditions and sometimes public reminders from his family elders where the dynasty's power resides, for the present anyway.

Before Saddik took over the government, the press made much of the fact that when the young el Mahdi set out on a political fence-mending trip to the west country without the imam's say-so, the old man overtook Saddik and instigated his nephew to the ranks of what became an Ansar safari.

Such incidents have underlined the fact that political lines are drawn between the young and the old in all parties. The major parties, organized on family or religious bases, are vague about political doctrine. The Communists are virtually banned and the young university graduates and academics who yearn for a socialist voice in the assembly are still trying to form a party.

Despite the lack of major parties with clear-cut political platforms — or perhaps because of it—political activity is intense.

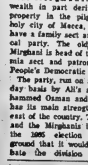
"I've never seen a place where politics is talked and written about so overwhelmingly and tirelessly," a veteran Western diplomat says. "There is virtually nothing but politics in the newspapers. The government is talked into inaction most of the time."

POLITICS IN BAR

An evening in the fan-cooled bar of the old Grand Hotel beside the Blue Nile supports the envoy's observation.

There, or in the air-conditioned Hotel Sudan next door, you will find most of the ferment to be half the cabinet, fair representation from a few would-be socialists and some mysterious businessmen—one of them said to be a millionaire from vending irrigation pumps to Gezira cotton planters.

The gossip and chat, embellished, blossom in print the next day in the 10 politically-obsessed newspapers and three mimeograph news agencies that serve a community of 300,000. The talk and print feed on each other until somebody in the government loses his temper and breaks the circle by ordering an editor to suspend publication—stirring further debate for the columnists. Two newspapers were closed temporarily this summer.



Saddik el Mahdi is pledged to seek a settlement of Sudan's major political problem—the secessionist rebellion in the south. If he should succeed there, the young leader might have a chance of realising another ambition of almost equal difficulty—shaking out the party system into a more workable pattern.

OPPOSE RATE HIKE

TORONTO (CP) — Rogers Barker of Toronto, chairman of the Drug Transport Conference, said Thursday the group sent a telegram to the Quebec Transport Commission objecting to a proposed increase in interprovincial trucking rates. The truckers applied to Ontario and Quebec transport authorities in Aug. 22 to increase minimum rates to between $4.50 and $6 from $3.50 for goods carried by truck between points in the two provinces.

Problems of Alcohol

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Only a biased person would argue that alcohol does not present a problem in our day. There is an increasing number of alcoholics, an increasing need for institutions to treat them at the tax-payer's expense. There is an alarming number of rising started by beer-drinking young people. Alcohol often opens the floodgates to poverty and crime. An alarming number of traffic accidents are caused by drinking drivers. A person does not have to be drunk to be a menace on the highways. Just a few cocktails can slow his reactions, and this is extremely dangerous in today's traffic that moves at such high speeds

Alcohol can even be a menace to our security. Someone has said there are three parties that operate in Washington — the Republican party, the Democratic party, and the cocktail party. Alcohol tends to loosen a person's tongue. One general in the Pentagon publicly expressed concern lest even moderate drinking would cause some high government officials to divulge highly-classified information

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for September 18: "Temperance and the Ten Commandments." Deuteronomy 5:16-21; Proverbs 20:20-35; 23:20; 4:11-21; 7:5-7; Luke 21:34-36; Ephesians 5:15-18.

This is no new problem. The Bible is full of warnings against drunkenness and the Ten Commandments are clearly implied in connection with this topic are only a few that can be cited. Even Jesus felt it necessary to warn His hearers against dissipation and drunkenness. (Luke 21:34) At Paul's letter to the Corinthians makes it clear, excessive drinking was a problem even among Christians in the early days of the church. (I Corinth. 11:21)

WHY THE PROBLEM?

Before we can seek solutions to this problem, we have to ask why people drink, and why so many drink to excess. Many people drink to escape temporarily from the tensions and pressures of life. Many drink is be socially acceptable. Some people drink to overcome a sense of inferiority. When they get a few drinks under their belt, they think they can lick the world. For them it is a psychological crutch. It increases their self-assurance at the expense of their keenness of judgment. Some people drink because they think it is more sophisticated to drink.

Why so many drink to excess is not so easy to answer. Some think the answer is in the chemistry of the body that causes some persons to crave alcohol. The more probable answer is that psychological factors are to blame. Alcohol, of course, is a narcotic which makes its creature a craving for itself that can easily get out of control.

Christians are sincerely divided as to the answer. Some say that total abstinence is the only Christian position. They point out that, as the Chinese proverb has it, a journey of a thousand miles begins with the first step. And a life defeated by alcohol begins with the first drink. The person who refuses to drink never ends up a problem drinker, nor does he influence others to drink.

Others, equally sincere, feel that moderation is the answer. They point out that since excessive drinking is usually caused by psychological causes, to tell a person not to drink does not get at the psychological problem that must need to be solved.

Whichever position one takes, the time has come for a rethinking, rather than a bigoted, approach to the problem. While to condemn drunkenness and debauchery in no uncertain terms (Romans 13:13), the Apostle Paul also counseled charity and judgment toward those with whom one may not agree. (Romans 14:1-3) The non-drinker must be more eager to understand than to condemn his drinking neighbor. On the other hand, those who drink must recognize there is a problem, and they are duty-bound to help find some solutions since they are the ones who keep the alcohol industry alive.

It is time to stop deriding those who prefer not to drink. Not all bigotry is on the side of the non-drinker. The drinker can be just as unchristlike in his attitude toward the non-drinker. He must recognize there is much to be said for alcohol-free living.

The letter to the Ephesians lists the two opposing alternatives. It says, "Do not get drunk with wine, for that is debauchery; but be filled with the Spirit." (Ephesians 5:18-RSV)

Some people think that alcohol is indispensable to social living. They do not know how to entertain, or enjoy themselves, without it. They turn to the things of the world for their major satisfactions. Others testify to a better way. They have found deeper satisfactions that do not end up in regrets in loving and serving God, and in living a disciplined life to His glory.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

"They don't build houses like they used to" is a persistent cry. Most people believe this statement. This often repeated maxim does not hold up when examined closely.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: At 72, I would gladly forgive me if I'm a bit nostalgic about the past. Our country is changing for the worse. Years ago a craftsman took pride in his work. A house was built with sturdy material. Today I see "boxes" going up in about 30 days and people pay high prices for them. Why don't they build houses like they used to? — Mrs. O. T.

ANSWER: The complaint that they don't build houses like the used to" has reverberated through our country since he beginning. Benjamin Franklin was critical of the new houses he saw going up in Colonial Philadelphia. Today they are considered architectural gems. In the 19th century, people thought that the new houses they were getting were inferior to the old. Today we still have the same reservations. I'm sure that when Mr. O.T.'s grandson is 72, he will be just as critical of the houses that are observing being built in the 21st century.

I hope it doesn't come as a shock to many readers if I express the opinion that houses are being built better than they used to. Today houses are more weather-tight, they provide more comfortable living, they settle less, the walls are straighter and the floors are more level. Its true we no longer use master carpenters, but we have better structural components, but there is no need for 3 inch by 12 inch joists, 24 inch 4 inch walls and 2-inch flooring. Any builder removing old or dead ends can tell many tales of shoddy construction.

Today we have many controls, standards and regulations which curb many of the faulty practices that used to exist. In summary, as a construction expert, it is my opinion that there is less shoddy construction today than was true 100 years ago. By this I don't mean to imply that there is no room for improvement in our present day building practices.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We have come into some extra money, $1,500 in cash and have a building on to it, trying to decide whether to apply it to our mortgage or put it into a savings account. Our mortgage is one year old and was originally for $13,500 for 30 years at 5¼ percent...Also, by how many years will our mortgage be shortened. Answer must be as this amount, is our checking account is too tempting — Mr. W.

ANSWER: If the $1,500 is applied toward the mortgage, it will reduce the term by about 3 years. However, interest rates being as high as they are today, you receive no monetary advantage by reducing a 5¼ percent mortgage. Personally, I would keep the money in certificates of deposit. The interest earned would offset the interest paid on the mortgage, but I would have the advantage of having a substantial liquid fund for an advantageous investment or an emergency.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Now that my husband has returned from overseas duty, we rented a house near his army post, so that the family can be together once more. I must have picked a haunted house for it's really spooky. At times, for some unexplained reason, the radio emits blood-curdling sounds and the television picture shrinks as if some giant hand were compressing it. Can you offer an explanation? — Mrs. D. G.

ANSWER: Ghosts are not haunting your house. It's merely inadequate electrical wiring. If you check, you'll find that these strange happenings only occur when you are running electrical appliances.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am a 32-year-old bachelor living in a big house given to me by my father. After all these years, I found a girl. I am getting married this Christmas and will give her the house as a wedding gift.

Is it more proper to prepare a deed in her name now and have give it to her before the wedding or should I have the deed in her married name and give it to her after the ceremony? It would be nice if we could somehow share joy troubles.—Mr. L.B.

ANSWER: I showed your letter to my wife and a lifelong married friend, and he asked "Why should a bachelor have any problems?" He also suggested that you wait until after the wedding to give her the deed to the house. You may feel that if you give her the main prize before the wedding, you may still end up being a long time bachelor, but no longer living in a big house given to you by your father.

Reds to Pay Share of UN Troop Costs

By WILLIAM N. OATES

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Russia and Hungary are expected to make voluntary contributions soon to ease the United Nations peacekeeping deficit, UN informants say.

They anticipated the contributions would be forthcoming in the next week or two, to fulfil vague, general commitments made over a year ago. The UN General Assembly session opens Tuesday.

Eastern European sources expressed belief the contributions would be made before the weekend by Hungarian Foreign Minister Janos Peter and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Some Eastern Europeans said the Russian move was influencing their decision.

REFUSED TO PAY

The Soviet bloc and France created the financial deficit by refusing to pay disputed UN General Assembly assessments for peacekeeping purposes. They differ with the majority over how to authorize new operations of the UN force.

The United States has been blamed for preventing the United Nations from becoming a universal organization by its opposition to seating of Communist China. U.S. policy in Viet Nam also has been criticized by Thant, who deplored "relying on force and military means in a deceptive pursuit of peace."

A UN committee has estimated the peacekeeping deficit at between $32,000,000 and $35,000,000. How much the Russians and Hungarians will contribute is not known.

The 19th General Assembly in 1964-65 was deadlocked over the financial issue because the United States threatened to uphold a "no vote" article in the UN charter which would deny a vote to any member two years behind in its dues.

The United States dropped that threat last year after all members agreed to make voluntary contributions to remove the deficit. But most of the members, including the Soviet Union, France and the United States, have yet to do so.

Tough Test Weathered Says P. M.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson returned from London Friday night, satisfied that the Commonwealth had weathered one of its toughest tests ever.

There were times when it appeared as though "the conference, if not the Commonwealth, was going to break up" over the thorny question of what to do about Rhodesia, Mr. Pearson told airport news conference.

But the representatives of the 28 countries were able to work out an arrangement "which minimizes the difficulties and maximizes the areas of agreement."

Obviously weary after what he called "20½ hours in rough Atlantic winds," Mr. Pearson parried most questions about developments on the domestic political scene during his two weeks in London.

ASKED ABOUT REPORT

He was asked whether he had yet received a copy of the report of Mr. Justice Wishart Spence on the Gerda Munsinger affair.

"No, I have not."

In an obvious reference to reports that the findings of Justice Spence's investigations into the relationship of the German blonde with a former Conservative cabinet ministers had been forwarded to him in London, he added:

"I hope sometime someone will believe me."

He also was asked about the announcement in the Commons shortly after his return that Ottawa's medical care insurance program's effective date would be set back a year, to July 1, 1968.

The reporter who asked about this said that among some Liberals postponement of a plan that was a major party election plank was sparking insurrection.

"That's your word," Mr. Pearson said in reply. He added that he knew about Finance Minister Sharp's speech postponing medical care before he

Workers Accept Contract

SUDBURY (CP) — International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. resumed operations at 14 plants today after the 16,000-member United Steelworkers of America local here voted Friday to accept a three-year contract worth about 86 cents an hour in wages and fringe benefits.

Company and union officials reported no disturbances at any of the plants.

Of 10,067 ballots cast, 5,708 were in favor of the contract and 4,359 against. There were 36 spoiled ballots.

Acceptance of the contract by the Sudbury workers followed approval Thursday of the same contract by employees at Inco's refinery in Port Colborne, 20 miles south of Welland, who voted 701 to 642.

The agreement, reached in Toronto Sunday by union and company negotiators just before a midnight strike deadline, is retroactive to July 10.

Wages for first-class tradesmen rise to $3.76 an hour from $3.67, to $3.31 from $3.23 for mine drillers and to $2.67 from $2.32½ for laborers.

VACATIONS LONGER

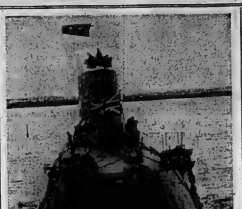
Employees with five years' service or more are to get five weeks vacation every five years in addition to regular vacations. All such holidays can be taken together or spread over a five-year period.

Employees with 30 years' service or more after July, 1968, will be able to retire at 60 on pension benefits previously available only to those leaving at 65.

Friday's vote ended five days of uncertainty as union officials struggled to overcome dissent of what they called a "disruptive group" within the union that rejected the contract without holding a secret ballot.

Picket lines were first set up here at midnight Sunday night and removed Monday afternoon when workers first heard some details of the settlement.

Pickets returned Tuesday and the company shut down operations Wednesday.



SHOUTED DOWN

Tony Soden, local president, was shouted down at a meeting night by a group of jeering workers as he tried to explain terms of the contract to a meeting of almost 5,000 members.

He said the hecklers, "an organized minority," later forced a show of hands vote which indicated the contract should be rejected.

However, Mr. Soden said Wednesday the dissidents did not represent the true feelings of the membership and he ordered the secret ballot held Friday.

The agreement also provides that the company will take no legal action against the union or individual employees as a result of a 23-day wildcat strike that ended Aug. 6.

Rusk Bids to Prevent Spread of Nuclear Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk plans a new effort in New York next week to persuade Russia to conclude a treaty against spreading nuclear weapons—without linking that issue to West Germany's role in the Atlantic Alliance.

"If the Soviet Union and others want to talk about the problem of proliferation," Rusk told a press conference Friday, "they will find that the United States is willing to go all the way to ensure that there is no proliferation of nuclear weapons."

Rusk is scheduled to go to New York this weekend for conferences with other foreign ministers on hand for the opening of the United Nations General Assembly Tuesday.

One of those he is known to be most interested in meeting is Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko. Officials say the nuclear weapons issue and other disarmament questions will be high on the agenda of any Rusk-Gromyko meeting, along with the question of the control and responsibilities in Viet Nam.

The United States and its NATO allies have discussed setting up an allied nuclear weapons system which would include Germany, but various plans have been shelved.

Pressed further, asked Rusk whether chancellor Ludwig Erhard might be told by President Johnson that Germany is not "to get a finger on the trigger" of nuclear weapons under NATO.

The secretary replied that the United States has never discussed in NATO or elsewhere "any arrangement that would involve . . . the transfer of nuclear weapons into the hands or ownership or the control or transfer of control of those weapons into the hands of non-nuclear powers."

In past negotiations the Soviet Union has consistently linked the treaty proposal and the German - NATO question, contending that the United States intends to provide West Germany with nuclear weapons.

Fears Nazi Reprisals For Spying

TORONTO (CP) — A private investigator who infiltrated the Canadian Nazi party and collected party records and names and addresses of supporters said Friday night he fears an attempt will be made on his life or the lives of his wife and three children.

John Garrity, 37, has passed on to police and the Canadian Jewish Congress the names of more than 600 Canadians, including five prominent Toronto businessmen, who have contributed to the American Nazi party or who have requested information on the party.

Mr. Garrity, a former sheriff's officer for York County, would not name the five businessmen, but said at a press conference that John Beattie of Toronto, self-styled leader of the Canadian party, and his party has the support of 600 persons across Canada.

He said most of the supporters are Germans who came to Canada after the Second World War and most live in Toronto, Montreal, Sault Ste. Marie, Saskatchewan, Sask., Sudbury, Hamilton, Stoney Creek, Owen, and Oshawa.

Mr. Garrity was hired by the Canadian Jewish Congress to infiltrate the Canadian party and became Beattie's security chief. He said the Jewish Congress paid him $75 to $200 a month for gather information on the Nazis. A spokesman for the congress confirmed that Mr. Garrity had been paid that amount.

Beattie said he knew all along that Mr. Garrity was an imposter, but decided to make use of —Rumors circulated at the Vatican that Pope Paul is preparing to make a "spectacular gesture for peace" soon.

—A former South Vietnamese premier, Tan Van Hun, said in Paris that Pope Paul told him an accord between the Roman Catholics and Buddhists in South Viet Nam would be announced shortly.

WASHINGTON (CP - AP)—State Secretary Dean Rusk says the United States welcomes efforts of Asian leaders to arrange Viet Nam peace talks.

Rusk was asked at a press conference Friday about a call by visiting Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos for "a continuing dialogue between North and South Viet Nam and step by step movement toward negotiated peace."

The secretary replied, "We, of course, would welcome any contacts that would indicate to Hanoi a readiness to talk about a peaceful settlement in Southeast Asia."

"It is not my impression that the government of The Philippines has found thus far a response from Hanoi. But this is one of the possibilities that ought to be kept open. All possibilities ought to be kept open."

Marcos, appearing before the National Press Club in Washington, said a negotiated peace is the only logical solution to the Viet Nam struggle.

NEGOTIATE POSSIBLE

"Victory is the ultimate aim, yes," he said, "but we must remember that there would be total annihilation of the world if there is continued escalation of the war."

Marcos also said he is gravely concerned over the apparent failure of economic reforms in South Viet Nam.

When he was asked to evaluate political developments inside China, characterized by what the Chinese calls a "cultural revolution" and a purge of Communist party leaders, Rusk replied:

"I suppose what is going on is of some importance, but if I were to be frank with you I would have to say that I don't know what it is."

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker celebrates his 71st birthday Sunday, bright-eyed, vigorous and ready for the fray. Generally looking forward to a long time at the centre of politics.

"I needn't tell you I'm in the very best of good health and I treasure the House of Commons as much as the day I first arrived after a long series of defeats," the Conservative leader said in a Sunday interview.

Liberals and their policies are still the main target but just in case any Tory rates a bread upon cover within the ranks of his own party he's plainly unprepared to take any advice against retirement.

On Dec. 14 he marks 10 years as leader of his party. In this decade he has fought five general elections and been prime minister six years.

Looking back over the last years, he says with relish:

"I've had a very happy year. We had an election in the period which was an event—the tremendous support was so far removed from what was so tactlessly propagated in advance."

If anyone doubts his drive, they have only to take note of the fact that after a one-day foray into Quebec last Thursday for a nomination speech, the Opposition leader returned here at 3 a.m and was in his office five hours later—well ahead of the staff members who accompanied him to Quebec.

He was sitting on cloud nine about his reception at Joliette, Que., where the Conservatives nominated their first candidate for the next election on the basis of the new constituency maps. He reads it as confirmation that the voters see the Liberals' promises of reform as empty.

Auto Makers Talk About Safety But Trend Is to Faster Cars

DETROIT (AP)—All the talk was about auto safety, but the trend was to bigger and faster cars — and probably, higher prices—as the auto industry wound up Friday its biggest week of showing off the 1967 models to the press.

In settings that ranged from a Hollywood studio to a Canadian horse track, the industry paraded its wares amid optimism that safety features would reverse a slight dip in 1966 sales blamed by some on adverse publicity during auto safety hearings in Washington.

This attitude of Detroit's top executives was in contrast with the gloom that hung over the industry during the hearings last spring. Many automakers feared the government would force styling changes that, under the pressure of a too-early deadline, would cost millions of dollars.

Along with inclusion of such safety features as collapsible steering columns and dual brakes, on virtually every new model, there is an obvious trend to bigger and faster cars.

The speculation is that added safety features will force prices up $50 to $100 depending on the size of the car.

From a styling standpoint, most of the 1967s are almost identical with the 1966 models. Most of the safety features are out of sight.

There is some additional use of sheet metal, another cost factor since the recent increase in steel prices, and body lines have lengthened to conform with the "big car" vogue.

Four new cars occupied much of the industry's attention, two of them as head-on challengers of Ford's Mustang in the personalized sport car field.

Chevrolet brought out its long-awaited Camaro and Lincoln - Mercury Division introduced a Cougar, both of them emphasizing the long hood and short deck reminiscent of the Mustang.

In another intra-family sales tussle, Cadillac became the second GM division to field a front - wheel drive car as it introduced El Dorado, a swanky challenger of Oldsmobile's Toronado.

Chrysler - Plymouth division said its Barracuda, with a streamlined fastback, would not make an appearance in mid-November.

American Motors will show its wares next Wednesday.

TORONTO (CP) — Ron W. Todgham, president of Chrysler Canada Ltd., said Friday automobile prices in Canada will always be higher than those in the United States.

"However, I predict that Canadian prices will not increase at the same extent as in the U.S.," he said at a press preview of the company's 1967 models.

Mr. Todgham said price equality is impossible because the Canada-U.S. auto trade pact includes Canadian content regulations.

"You cannot buy 60,000 parts as cheaply as 600,000 so our costs are naturally greater.

"But without the Canadian content rule, all cars would be produced in the U.S. and 100,000 Canadian auto workers would be out of jobs."

The trade agreement specifies that Canadian manufacturers must maintain 60-per-cent Canadian content in their products.

Spitfire Will Stand on Guard As Battle of Britain Marked

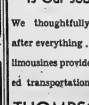
TRENTON — One of the last Spitfire aircraft used in the Battle of Britain generates more than the normal amount of nostalgia this time of year.

One of the last three "Spits" left in Canada will find its final resting place in the government air museum at Rockcliffe, in the meantime it is parked in a hangar at No. 6 Repair Depot awaiting a new paint job and fitting for a few missing parts.

Tomorrow, when the 36th anniversary of the Battle of Britain is marked at the Canadian Forces Base here, memories of the epic struggles in the skies over England will be recalled. Airmen will be reminded of the great victories that prompted Winston Churchill to coin the famous phrase, "Never in the history of human conflict has so much been owed by so many to so few." The plots he honored flew Spitfires and Hurricanes in turning back Hitler's vaunted Luftwaffe.

Tomorrow the general public has been invited to attend the traditional ceremonial parade on the square in front of the administration building starting at 10 a.m. Station Trenton's new Commanding Officer Group Captain D. R. Adamson will take the general salute from the reviewing stand.

Unknown to many taking part in the observance is the sturdy little fighter plane which played a major role in one of history's great air battles will be standing close by, like a silent sentinel. Il will brought to you by coincidence than arrangement.



St. John Ambulance Members Give Many Voluntary Hours To Community Work in City

The fall meeting of the St. John Ambulance branch was held recently at the Saint John Rooms, Dundas Street East, with Lieut. Col. Angus Duffy in the chair. Reports were presented by the various officers of the Quinte Corps, The Ambulance Division No. 309, The Women's Nursing Division No. 150, and the Nursing Cadets Division No. 150C.

Mr. J. Hodgson, Superintendent of Corps announced the appointment of Frank Wilson, formerly Division Sgt. to Corps. Sgt. Major. Mr. Hodgson also spoke of the advisability of acquainting the public of the many hours of Saint John members voluntarily given to the city functions in Belleville, as well as the first aid training provided, and also the short Save a Life courses given each summer before people leave for lakes and their vacations. In the short free Save a Life courses given this summer 340 were instructed and passed in artificial respiration. The superintendent felt due to the quiet unobtrusive way that services are rendered, that many citizens unless treated in an emergency by Saint John, were not aware, and therefore not appreciative of the work it carries on locally.

The Corps. Nursing Officer, Mrs. M. Perrill R.N., spoke of the importance of the branch providing assistance to the Nursing Division and its Cadet Division through committees set up by the branch for this purpose. She also felt that there should be a greater representation from the Division at each Branch meeting. The Division Superintendent of the Ambulance division Mr. M. E. Johnson reported staff appointments as follows - Mr. Bert Waters, Division Sgt. Mr. Al Eady, Division Corp-1. The Division Officer's rank remains unfilled.

Mr. J. Sproule, former Cadet Officer has returned to the Ambulance Division due to the closing of the Cadet Division for the time being. The strength of the Ambulance Division now stands at fourteen, 739 hours of voluntary service have been performed by this division since the first of the year. This figure first aid and supplies made available at Cub and Scout Camps, horse races, motor bike race, Belleville Fair, hockey games and in fact any activity in Belleville and district where first aid prevents suffering and in many cases saves lives. New members are being looked for to carry on this service, and training will be provided free. Mrs. R. L. Golden, nursing officer reported an increase in membership of the Women's Nursing Division, and that practical training was being given to its members. Mrs. H. Reed Sept. of the Nursing Division reported 486 hours of voluntary service by her cadets since the first of the year. Seven more members were rendered in Child Care, The Cubaree, Fair Duty, First Aid Classes and during which the Savage Life Week. Classes for Cadets have been completed in Fist Aid, Child Care, and Home Nursing with thirty cadets successfully passing. Mrs. Reed expressed appreciation and thanks to Dr. J. Russell Scott, Div. Surgeon for the Fire Fighting by Mr. Emerson, Care of Animals by Dr. Burns and Home and Road Safety by Officer Hall. The services to the community by the Saint John Ambulance are made possible in part by the financial assistance from the United Appeal, of which it is a member.

Speaker Asks Town to Be Friendly One

TRENTON — Speaking to members of the Trenton Kiwanis Club Thursday night, Rev. Frederick Love of North Trenton United Church told the men that the citizens of the town would soon have the opportunity to prove that Trenton can be a friendly town and capable of helping those who are "down and out" in the eyes of society.

Mr. Love was referring to the families of the men who will be detained at the Warkworth minimum security penitentiary, who will move into town to be near their inmfolk. The men themselves, upon their release, might decide to find work and continue to live here with their wives and families. They would . . . If the people of the town demonstrated their concern for them and willingness to help them to rehabilitate.

Many of the inmates at Warkworth will be first offenders, Mr. Love said, and none of them "hard core" criminals. Most will not return to prison once their sentence is served. A great deal depends upon the attitude of Society to them and their families.

Another effect the penitentiary will have on the town, Mr. Love said, is that many of the guards and their families will move here also. These families will add to the economy of the town and will community life.

Not Guilty Of Supplying Wine to Woman

TRENTON — In magistrate's court at Trenton on Friday, Ernest Archibell of 231 West Street was found not guilty of supplying liquor to an interdicted person by Magistrate R. C. Jackson when no conclusive proof was offered that Mr. Archibell had invited his landlady, Mrs. Edna Todd to drink any of his wine.

Frederick Corrigan, a civilian employee at the Canadian Forces Base, was fined $25 and costs or pay costs of $11.50 after he pleaded guilty to careless driving.

Defence lawyer Thomas Lally argued his client had telephoned the police following an accident on Quinte Street, August 19. He said Mr. Corrigan didn't know the area, and was going to be married the next day.

Russell A. Davidson of 39 Laird Drive, was remanded for a week on a speeding charge. Mr. Davidson said he was accelerating in order to pass a slow moving vehicle on Sidney Street when he was apprehended by Constable Harold Kaiser for driving 40 mph in a 25 mph zone.

Aerial Survey Shows Drivers Avoid Upper Bridge District

Belleville motorists appear to be avoiding the Upper Bridge and Station Street area during rush hour traffic periods with the result that Bridge Street is becoming more congested.

That is the feeling of City Traffic Inspector Ralph Blatchford and City Engineer Wilbur Purcell following an aerial check late Friday afternoon of downtown traffic conditions.

The check, taken from the plane of Mayor Jack Ellis, during the five o'clock rush hour period, showed that in the Station Street, Upper Bridge and Moira Street area traffic was moving smoothly with little build-up at the red lights, while on the Bridge Street route traffic was piled up from the top of West Bridge Street, hill to beyond William Street on the east.

COULD SPEED MOVEMENT

The consensus was that if more east or west bound motorists used the Upper Bridge during the rush hour they would get to their destinations more quickly.

The aerial traffic check by city traffic officials was the result of criticism heard in city council Monday regarding the now directed traffic system put into effect while new College Street Bridge is under construction.

One of the main points of criticism was that westbound motorists on Station Street can no longer continue down Front Street but must either turn up Church Street Hill or make a right hand turn over the Upper Bridge.

One aldermas also claimed that the left turn from Pinnacle Street for motorists wishing to go down Front Street was too short for anything more than a car.

POINTS CONSIDERED

But traffic officials say that both points were taken into consideration when the traffic pattern was designed.

Origin and destination counts taken during an earlier traffic survey showed that the percentage of westbound motorists on Station Street proceeding on down Front Street was comparatively small. The percentage was not great enough to warrant allowing only right hand turns at the Upper Bridge, it was stated.

Also, it was claimed that the left hand turn off Pinnacle Street for motorists continuing down Front Street could be easily negotiated by cars and even small trucks. However the turn is not intended for large trucks or transports.

One observation made regarding rush-hour traffic along Bridge Street was that more westbound motorists should use the second or curbside lane for driving.

The aerial check showed that most westbound motorists were using only the one lane for driving despite the fact the street is intended for double lane traffic during rush periods.

On the other hand eastbound traffic appears to be accustomed to double lane driving with both lanes being used from West Bridge Street hill through the downtown area.

Acquit Youth Of Assault On Constable

David Wayne Spring, 19, of 37 Meadowvale Road in Bellville was acquitted on a charge of common assault in city magistrate's court yesterday morning.

Constable Nelson testified that Spring, who had been arrested and taken into custody in the early hours of the day for drinking while a minor, began shouting incoherently from his cell in the basement area of the station.

Nelson said that, when he investigated the disturbance the youth grabbed him by the shirt and a struggle ensued, which was broken up only after another constable came upon the scene.

The police officer produced a badly torn shirt which he had been wearing at the time of the scuffle. Although there were no witnesses to the actual cause of the incident, the fact that Constable Nelson's body bore several bruises immediately after the scuffle was verified by two other police officers on duty at the time.

Spring told the court that he was refused permission to place a telephone call, and that Constable Nelson entered his cell, struck him in the chest, and banged his head against the concrete cell wall several times.

The youth testified that he suffered a head injury and torn cartilager in his chest. No medical evidence was submitted. Three other police officers on duty at the time of the incident testified that Spring had made no complaint of any chest injuries, that he bore no visible signs of any injuries, and that he appeared to be suffering from a severe hangover.

In delivering the verdict, Magistrate T. F. Wills said "When people are in custody, one can't apply all the ordinary conditions of common assault in the event of a scuffle of this sort. I don't however, want this judgment to serve as any kind of precedent. It applies only in this case."

Spring pleaded guilty to the charge of drinking while under the legal age, his third offence under the Liquor Control Act, and was fined $50.

United Appeal Case Outlined To Lions Club

United Appeal chairman Ted Boretski addressed the Belleville Lions Club at their second meeting of the current year, with a good turnout of members and guests.

Mr. Boretski spoke of the need of more people to contribute their share to the campaign and mentioned that those who are contributing are giving their fair share, but the percentage of the working force pledging donations is only approximately 50%

"For this reason" said Mr. Boretski "We fall short of our objective each year." Prior to his address a very informative movie was viewed by the members and guests on the agencies participating in the United Appeal and the work that they do with their share of the funds.

Mr. Boretski was introduced by Lion Fred Newman and thanked by Lion Floyd Ball.

A short business session followed, concerning the Lions' fund-raising activities and the service projects supported by them.

Who says kids today don't do anything worthwhile?

Four Belleville children got an idea this summer, dug in and went out and made a success of it.

Judy Kammer, 11, daughter of Charlie Kammer, 345 John St., and Arlene, 14, Joanne, 11, and Stanley Burchill, 10, children of Joe Burchill, 233 John St., were watching television earlier this summer when they saw Jerry Lewis advertising the fight against muscular dystrophy.

The kids then sent for a kit to the television station and spoke to firemen Ted Wessels about the idea of holding a Penny Fun Fair with the proceeds to go to muscular dystrophy. (A muscular dystrophy drive is an annual project of the firefighters.)

A few weeks ago, the four kids canvassed downtown and Bellville Plaza merchants for prizes, put up posters and told everyone who would listen about their plans for a fun fair.

With most games costing only a penny, the four energetic kids raised $10.16 and handed it over to Ted Wessels yesterday at the fire hall to go in the muscular dystrophy fund.

It took a lot of work to raise that money, but as one of the four said, "it's fun when you know you're helping somebody else to have more fun."

Commonwealth Wins Time

The Commonwealth has won a breather.

Thanks to Pearson.

Breathers, though, are only of value if they are followed by improved performance.

The communique issued by the Commonwealth conference at London on Rhodesia gives some slight hope of such an improvement.

Pearson was able to wring a concession from Britain's prime minister, Laborite Harold Wilson.

"It was agreed," said the final draft of the communique, "that, though sanctions had undoubtedly depressed the Rhodesian economy, they were unlikely at their present level to achieve the desired political objectives within an acceptable time."

Wilson, of course, had, when these sanctions were first imposed, expressed his supreme confidence that they would quickly bring Ian Smith's rebellious and illegal regime to its knees.

Once having admitted that he had been wrong in his estimate, even the cautious Wilson could hardly refuse to undertake the application of further measures.

This pressure is to take the form of a Dec. 31 deadline for Rhodesia "to take the initial and indispensable steps whereby the rebellion is brought to an end and executive authority is vested in the governor"—of face new sanctions.

If Smith refuses, Britain undertakes "to join in sponsoring in the Security Council of the United Nations before the end of this year a resolution providing for effective and selective mandatory economic sanctions against Rhodesia."

The United Nations would almost certainly approve any British request for action which won the approval of the majority of African and Asian lands. There is little doubt that it would be possible to devise sanctions of a nature which would prove effective.

Does this, then, mean that the fate of Rhodesia is sealed and the Commonwealth saved?

By no means. The Commonwealth conference communique, of necessity, was vague about details. There is ample opportunity for Britain to interpret it in a way which would not cripple the Smith regime if, for any reason, Britain wishes to avoid the whole issue of using force from dramatic punishment for their rebellion.

Many African lands in the Commonwealth distrust Wilson. It is easy to understand why. He has been described as the most devious of politicians in a land which is famous for the ease with which its citizens driving of automobiles. There have been several cases of this nature reported and the practice must be stopped.

Building permits for two buildings which are expected to cost in the neighborhood of $20,000 each have been issued at the city hall thus far in Sept., according to City Engineer Charles Mott. The two buildings are planned by Canada Packers Ltd. who will construct a warehouse near the site of their present factory on Albion Street, and Truck and Farm Supply Ltd., which has already commenced construction of a $20,000 warehouse at 128 S. Church St.

One of the best horse shows ever to be seen at the Belleville Fair will be on hand for the opening of the fair. Hyperkinetic Children Just Cannot Stay Still

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Recently I wrote about hyperkinetic children — those who are utterly unable to remain quiet or devote themselves, for any continued time, to useful activity.

They fitter, talk in school, get up and walk around, tease, and in general make such a nuisance of themselves that the other pupils can't do their work. And even beat can they.

Mere discipline won't solve the problem, because the child hyperactivity is unable to obey if he or she is truly hyperkinetic, which means abnormally overactive despite attempts to be calm.

Since then letters have indicated that some people have been helped by the column and some have not. The difference depends on whether they were able to find physicians who could diagnose the problem, and in fact treat it correctly.

There are children who have not been disciplined, and have not learned to discipline themselves. But I am referring to those who, however much they may want to behave, can not keep still, cannot remain quiet or silent. There is within them an overpowering urge to be doing something, and not necessarily constructive.

My answer for finding treatment for such children (and effective treatment is possible) is to have them examined by a "child guidance centre," or by some similar clinic or hospital, or by a skilled physician or psychiatrist.

One reader asks, "Is this a medical or psychological problem?" It is both. Medical psychiatry or reasoning or training can correct the condition alone. Medication is necessary. Tranquilizers, which sound like a logical approach, often do not work at all, yet certain types of stimulants and sometimes one of the psychic energizers, work very well. In some ways, they help the child to channel unruly energy into constructive activity instead of wasteful bursts of pointless activity.

Yet although such medication is the only effective means to combat the problem, there is no simple way of diagnosing it from a purely medical standpoint. That is why I stress examination by highly-trained experts in emotional or behavioral problems of children.

Hyperkinetics are not "bad children." They need help. That help, for the most part, is dependent on accurate diagnosis by a relatively small number of people.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain "ventricular preponderance, hypertension." What causes it? What can be done? — T. J.

Ventricular preponderance is a technical term describing certain findings in an electrocardiogram. It is frequently associated with high blood pressure (hypertension). It requires no treatment in itself, but the elevated blood pressure may need attention.

Student Loan Program

The Ottawa Citizen

The student loan program, financed by the federal government and administered by the provinces, is only a halfway house. It represents progress on the road to free university education for everyone who can meet the admission standards, a path that governments must not forget. Interest-free loans are better than nothing they are not as good as free tuition would be.

Yet the Ontario government, far from striving to move forward in the goal, appears to be travelling backward. It seems to be administering the loan program as though it were some kind of welfare handout, available only to the most deserving cases.

A fourth-year Arts student at Carleton has given voice to the "indignation and humiliation" that students and their parents are feeling. The provincial government is asking not only for information on the family finances but for complete details on the financial status of the parents. The student was given "the distinct feeling of filling out a poverty declaration, some thing akin to the means test."

This approach is totally wrong. Student loans are not a handout. They are an investment in the future of this country. Many university students are no longer children, even in the legal sense. Many of them are not, or do not wish to be, dependent on their parents. The student loan organization, which requires them to repay the money after graduation, implies responsibility and independence. What sense, then, does it make to reject a student's application on the ground that his parents have a comfortable income?

One explanation advanced for the province's attitude is that the student loan fund is limited and the money must be rationed somehow. The answer to this is that the fund must be increased to take care of the need. The federal government, which is committed to the eventual financing of university tuition must at least keep its loan fund abreast of requirements. The ultimate cost will be negative, since the money will be paid back, and the borrowers, to-use the most materialistic means, will return far more in higher income tax than the government loses in interest payments.

It is quite absurd for the federal government to launch a hopeful and constructive program, only to have it negated either by inadequate funding or by stupid provincial administration.

French Put On the Dog

Bruce West in
The Globe and Mail

Although Parisians in general seem to be pleased and helpful enough to the stranger who doesn't speak French, those who are in daily contact with the public, such as bus conductors, waiters, and the clerks in railway ticket offices, treat you with haughty disdain. So rude are some of these petty minions that an English-speaking Canadian almost feels as though he's back in Montreal again.

We were told that one of the main reasons for this arrogant manner was that our hosts probably took us for Americans. It seems that insulting Americans at great profit to the management has become the of the more popular French pastimes these days (The French, who were run out of what is now Viet Nam, apparently can't forgive the Americans for sticking it out over there.) Even a report on Vietnam over the French government television was so anti-American that U.S. Ambassador Charles Bohlen submitted a formal protest to the French government).

Signs reading "Americans Go Home" pop up on occasional fence or wall. As a U.S. newspaper cartoonist cogently pointed out not long ago in a drawing of a U.S. war cemetery in France, there are thousands of Americans who can't go home because they lie in French soil under tombstones after giving their lives in the battle that liberated France from the Nazis . . .

Ottawa Offbeat

Laugh It Up With Lester Courtesy of Daring Don

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Happen to notice, just the other day, who's Prime Minister Pearson's new speech-writer?

The new "ghost" is Mr. Donald Peacock, who moves in to help Hal Durham who moves up when dick O'Hagan moves out as the PM's Press Secretary for the Canadian Embassy in Washington at the new Ambassador.

So Don Peacock's the PM's new word-merchant, you say, so what else is new?

Just this . . . it is the same Don Peacock whose considerable talents for VIP image-making transformed that once sophisticated millionaire Calgary cattle king Henry Hays into Homespun Harry, the earthy, folksy darling of the Beverly Hillbillies.

And it was Don Peacock, too, who turned that earnest young Toronto-born-and-raised lawyer, John G. Diefenbaker, into Joe-Joe, the Joker who walks and talks like the young Abe Lincoln was supposed to have when cracker barrelry was the political vogue.

THE BACK PARLOR PIXIE

Both boys made it big, to the Federal Cabinet as Agriculture Minister, Homespun Harry up from Pekisko Creek in the High River country of the Alberta foothills, and Joe-Joe in from a comedic Arquiver law office up the Ottawa Valley way.

The Honorable Harry went on to his reward in the family plot most exclusive of all clubs for privileged gentry.

The Honorable Joe-Joe, while keeping one down-to-earth foot in the Agricultural Department, has snuck the other onto the lower rungs of that ministerial ladder of ambition that leans against the East Block wall, with his eyes on the firmly fixed on the star shining over the PM's window.

And who knows that those tall-grown-the-corn jokes of his might get Joe-Joe ladder, laughing as he plants his stable-trained size 11's on the hand-rubbed mahogany desk-top.

Anyway, that Don Peacock isn't dreaming up all those laugh-a-minute lines for Joe-Joe any more.

For he is too busy cranking the chuckles for the Prime Minister, who, under the gifted "ghost" of Homespun Harry and Joe - Joe began haunting his East Block office, is now the nearly roted for his hilarity.

Which is no sure now, though, with the Daring Donald in charge of the East Block speech-craft, that the PM won't switch his act, and soft-shoe into the Diefenbaker cowing - straw and sounding like Jethro Bodine.

DIRTY POOL

For if the gifted Mr. Peacock can ship millionaire wheeler-dealer Hays into the role of talented typewriter and pull out folksy, down-on-the-farm Homespun Harry, he can turn to just what wonders he might work with the Right Honorable Lester Bowles Pearson, P.C., O.B.E., M.A., LL.D.

You remember Lil' Ol' Harry "just a country boy," as he liked to call himself.

Or Homespun Harry of Federal politics: "They'll never make you rich by a long shot, but they'll sure as hell keep you from getting bored."

And who wisely if wryly cracked of the gang that couldn't shoot straight "discovered" by the Billing and Bloutburst Commission: "Those in power for 22 years must be getting so worked up; they ought to remember that Canadians spend so much time baring their souls they go around feeling half naked all the time."

And Joe-Joe!

Joe-Joe who used his handsome laughing face and Don Peacock's way with a wisecrack to flip a able to believe John Diefenbaker's rise and fall when where it burle most — on the sensitive subject of his health.

Joe-Joe was addressing the North Canadian Cowling Lodge Night when he took a sideswipe at the Conservative Leader and those rumors of Parkinson's Disease.

"My Department's Health-of-Animals Branch is researching serious affliction I am as 'John's Disease,'" beamed Joe-Joe, all innocence. Cackling Lodgy didn't tell me the last name of this particular John, and I'm afraid to ask."

Homespun Harry and Joe-Joe the Joker we know.

But who, pray, is Laugh-a-Minute Lester?

New England in the Fall

Leavitt Morris in the Christian Science Monitor

"The origin of the name Indian summer is uncertain. Some say it is a title the settlers applied to the period after the American Indians, who told settlers that this is a period would come. Another story says that the settler used the name to describe the gift of good weather gave the warlike Indians a chance to make more attacks on the settlers. The settlers also believed that the smokiness of Indian summer came from the fires that Indians built on the prairies.

"Other parts of the world also have a short period of fine weather similar to Indian summer. Europeans generally call it Old Wives' Summer. Sometimes it is referred to as Second Summer. The English call it All Hallow Summer after All Hallow's Eve. In Poland, the period lasts for three or four weeks, and is called St. Martin's Summer.

Four New England states — Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts — where the foliage pageant is at its best. Community events are held in connection with the changing of trees from their summer dress to colorful costumes. For instance, Vermont's Northeast Kingdom, the towns of Danville, Barnet, Peacham, and Cabot have a fifth day festival celebrating autumn foliage pageant. The events include hay rides, auctions, old-fashioned dances, and church suppers.

All of the four states mark around which the societies will follow to see the coloring of the trees. Usually the route markings are in the form of maple leaves with the number in the middle.

Holiday Weekends 'Suicidal'

Stratford Beacon-Herald

The accidental deaths of 104 people in Canada over Labor Day weekend, 86 of them on the highways, reinforce the folly of a nation staging big bang-up free-for-all suicidal sprees under the pseudonym of holiday weekends.

Added to this ever increasing toll of death are the conditions existing in riot stricken rand, sum and sex ridden Toronto where the start of summer resort names such as Grand Bend. It should be clear to all.

It is no wonder a binge results when Canadians are presented with a series of invitations to take advantage of a weekend fling.

Everything is aimed at the holiday weekend. Dad's off work and the kids are off school. Pressure mounts to go, go, go. Go somewhere, anywhere. We just can't stay home on a holiday weekend. What would people think?

This may sound silly, but the pressure is there pushing people out in a binge, 104 of

Rare Herb Cabinet Returns Home in Shaker Community

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Apothecary chests have found their way into today's living room, but the chest was originally made for use in the corner drug store. Each of the many small drawers held a different herb or medicine. The drawers were often labeled with the names of the drug. A paper or painted label appeared on many chests. Some elaborate examples had porcelain knobs marked with the name of the herb.

A very rare herb cabinet was just returned to its original home in the Shaker community at Hancock, Mass. The cabinet, 8 feet wide and 6 feet tall was made for the pharmacy at the Shaker village about 1830. The simple styling characteristics of the Shaker furniture is apparent in this cabinet.

Many of the experts on glass feel that the Mary Gregory glass made in Sandwich, Mass. was never made with tinted faces. The figures were painted in white enamel on dark glass. Boys and girls in a silhouette-type drawing were pictured. Tinted items were made of similar types of European glass made in Bohemia, France, Italy, Germany, Switzerland and England. It is the general consensus among the glass experts that Mary Gregory, the artist who worked at Sandwich, Mass., did not tint the cheeks of the children she painted.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After reading the letter from "Too Close For Comfort" I am compelled to give you the other side of the story. "Too Close" described how her mother has rattled, belittled and constantly picked on her father for 50 years.

Did it occur to you that a man who lets his wife bro-peck him for half a century is no saint. He is just plain dumb.

My husband and I were married too young — both 18. After seven years and three children he announced that he was moving out. I was shocked. Reason: He was sick and tired of listening to me finish his sentences, correct his English in front of friends and compare his income unfavorably with others in our crowd. He had become fed up with my domineering ways and said so.

After a week I asked him to come home. I hadn't realized what I was doing to him and I admitted it.

All this happened many years ago and we've gotten along extremely well ever since. Once, Ann, you wrote, "If you don't want to be treated like a doormat, say something — don't just lie there." Why didn't you say that this time? — FORMER HEN-PECKER.

DEAR FORMER: Thank you. I will. If you don't want to be treated like a doormat say something. Don't just lie there.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know women who quote you right along with the Bible. You can get ideas across like nobody else. Please print this letter for the benefit of all mothers who have small children.

Mothers: Please stay out of it when your youngsters are having their little arguments and fights with playmates. Children can be mad at each other one minute and be the best of friends the next minute — if they are left alone.

The woman who lives next door was forever getting involved in her children's battles. She was always running to neighbors to protest the way their kids were treating her kids. Naturally, the parents defended their own kids and got into a fight far more bitter than the little squabble the kids had had.

My neighbor is now on the outs with everyone in the block and I really feel sorry for her. So, Ann, please warn other mothers not to make the same stupid mistake.—NO REFEREE

DEAR NO REF: Your warning was sufficient. Thank you for writing. It's an excellent bit of advice.

DEAR ANN: No earth-shaking problem, but an annoying one. Can you help?

I have my husband and I go out for an evening we often walk or take public transportation. We leave our car in the carport.

Some folks in this town have a habit of dropping over without first calling to see if it is convenient. When they see the car in the carport they are certain we have turned out the lights and are hiding in the bedroom. Several times we've nearly called me a liar when I have told them we were not at home when they dropped by. They all mentioned seeing the car in the carport.

What do you suggest?—OUT BUT IN.

DEAR OUT: Who do you let these clods put you on the defensive? Tell them that next time they want to see you they'd better telephone first or they may have to settle for seeing just the car again.

Tripe With Onions and Milk

QUESTION:

Could you send me the recipe how to cook unbleached tripe, with onions and milk? This tripe is raw. Mrs. J. McK.

ANSWER:

TREATED TRIPE:

Thoroughly wash 2 lbs. honeycomb tripe and blanch in boiling water 5 min., wash again and drain. Cut into 1½" squares. Cover with water and add ¾ tsp salt, ¼ tsp. sugar, 1 clove garlic, 2/3 cup chopped onion, 1 cup chopped mixed celery and parsley, 6 peppercorns, bring to boil, cover and simmer 12 hours (or cook in pressure cooker at 10 lbs. pressure for 2 hours). When cook and tender drain, discarding liquid and seasonings.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON M. BAKER

Baker – Strickland

Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, September 10, 1966, when Nancy Louise Strickland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Strickland, Cosesson R. R. 2, was united in marriage to Gordon Mark Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Baker, Weston. Rev. H. M. Davis officiated at the ceremony and wedding music was rendered by church organist Mr. Alec Gordon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a semi-fitted A-line gown of white silk crepe enhanced with Swiss lace trim. The bodice featured elbow length bell-shape sleeves, and a matching train flowed from the back of the dress. A four-tier scalloped elbow length veil was held by a headdress of three white roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses, white stephanotis with sprays of fern.

The maid of honor, Miss Beverley Watt and the bridesmaids, Miss Sharon Uzkurait of Montreal and Miss Phyllis Strickland of Consecon, sister of the bride; also the little flower girl, Miss Noreen Smithson, of Toronto were similarly gowned in two-tone floor-length turquoise shantuese dresses with matching headdresses. The maid of honor and bridesmaids carried crescent shaped bouquets of turquoise tipped white mums, while the little flower girl carried a gold and turquoise basket containing the same type flowers.

Mr. David Sim of Toronto was groomsman, while Mr. Barry Thomas of Toronto and the bride's brother, Mr. Donald Strickland of Consecon were the ushers.

At the reception held at Maple Inn, Bloomfield, the bride's mother received the guests wearing an aqua gown and green dress and cost ensemble, light jade green accessories and a corsage of deep pink carnations. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a light pink dress and cost ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage of deep red roses.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Bermuda, the bride donned a rose silk and worsted semi A-line dress with matching full length coat, black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Upon return Mr. and Mrs. Baker will reside at 300 Woodbine Ave., Toronto 9, Ontario.

Practical Gift Ideas Are Listed For Friends Who Are in Hospital

DEAR DORIS: My best chum, now in her forties, is taking treatment in hospital and expects to be there for weeks. I'm running out of ideas about little gifts or treats to take her.

Flowers mean nurses have to tend them; fruit goes bad so soon. She has a pile of books and magazines. Any ideas?—PALSIE.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR PALSIE: My cousin loves spesks from experience as a patient. She suggests:

(1) A small assortment of fruit; perhaps one pear, one banana, one bunch of grapes, and a little cellophane-wrapped package of nuts or raisins. Not enough to go bad.

(2) Box of gauze-like soap tablets, a name brand with a pleasing perfume, each cake in its own wrapper. This she says is easy on one tablet at a time, to the nurses who take care of her.

(3) Package of hand-lotes. If you can find one with patient's initial, this is flatteringly personal.

(4) A supply of stamps. Irene was brought a little case for stamps with six sections. It is made of flaky embossed leather and she has carried it around for years.

(5) Buy what the patient needs. Phone before you go. She may have run out of tissues, a pen, stamps, a comb. Irene's cousin had four bath out of it when she finally went home.

(6) A box of chocolates or homemade cookies — for the nurses! Candy is a poor choice, however, for a patient whose appetite needs coaxing.

P.S.: Bear in mind that a sick person feels temporarily inadequate; and is glad to reach in her own drawer for a small gift, either for a youthful visitor or her constant benefactor — a nurse.

DEAR DORIS: The divorce laws are very unfair in some cases and I had no alternative but to live with a man for 20 years. We had a decent life and we were very happy. It was kept a complete secret for all those years and I am now in a desperate situation.

This man that I so dearly loved passed away and I don't know which way to turn or what to do. Do I have any rights to anything? Some weeks ago I heard on the radio that there is a booklet that explains just what a woman in my position can claim. Have you heard of this?

I am so heartsick. I cannot turn to anyone. I often pray to die as there doesn't seem to be any use of living on. — A.B.C.

DEAR A.B.C.: I'm truly sorry. Much as we pretend it doesn't happen, there are other good citizens in the same boat with you. And will be until our outdated divorce laws are changed.

Believe it or not, income tax laws in most provinces provide a full marital exemption for the same C.L. wife who in C.L. widowhood has no claim on an estate. Twenty years of happy togetherness seems to justify some rights of dependent relief from an estate. There might be a way of claiming these benefits.

For your own good, share your secret with a lawyer. He is honor-bound to respect confidences. (My legal counselor hasn't seen the booklet. Could a reader help?)

Second Glance

A SCIENCE FICTION CENTENARY

"Science fiction is now . . . fast catching up with the Thrillers," — from the book New Writings in SF edited by John Carnell.

"Yes — it could be," mused Miss Dorothy Matthews, the charming, competent manager of The James Text, Ltd., on Front Street, when asked about Science Fiction's increase in popularity with the reading public. "It could be that it might surpass the Thriller, though I cannot say that is true at the moment. The mystery story is still supreme.

"However," she continues, "the magazines that once featured Science Fiction stories are passing out of existence. The mass market of paper backs (and some hard backs, too) ever in search of new material are beginning to introduce Science Fiction to a greater reading public aware as never before of a space travel era.

"This trend, like many trends of this swift moving, modern age, is possible due to superior marketing facilities. The final approval lies, in the end, with the reading public.

"That is why — that is just my own opinion, of course, — I say: yes, it could be."

Miss Matthews' interest in comment and observation is most apropos at this time, due to the fact that September 21 is the 100th birthday of one of the founding fathers of Science Fiction: H. G. (Herbert George) Wells.

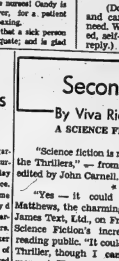
"The Time Machine" published in 1895, which now takes its place among the great stories of our language".

"The first burned brightly, and the soft radiance of the incandescent lights in the bliss of all-forever caught the bubbles that flashed and passed in our glasses", this lilting writing holds one receptive for the fantastic things to come, and as the pages turn the author's spell of his first great scientific romance has begun.)

Wells wrote other scientific romance novels, yet so convinced was he that his popularizing works would not be popular, he decided to write An Outline of History which he felt was a "story that has to be told as a whole before it can be dealt with in parts". He spent a year of "fantastic toil" to complete it and woke up one morning to find he had a best seller. (It sold 1½ million copies in ten years time).

Ironically, although Mr. Wells began to write even as a young ster, he was a school drop-out at 16 and became an apothecary's or chemist's apprentice. It was essential to know Latin. He regained his interest in school, and the speed with which he assimilated the language drew the attention of his headmaster, who induced him to get a good education.

From that time on, in spite of his many activities, it was plain sailing for him.



During the 80 years of his life he wrote more than 130 books and was called a Rockefeller among writers.

From a penniless existence he lived to make 50,000 pounds yearly from his writings.

He had a life rich in friendships. He knew well the eminent people of his day: Bernard Shaw, Maxim Gorky, Einstein.

Thus one, born above his father's china shop at Bromley in Kent, who lived to visit President Roosevelt and Stalin within the same year, and who predicted in the same year, that there would be a Second World War, who foretold of the atomic bomb, who was once said to be the most famous man in the world, is this month honored by many countries in the celebration of this centennial year of his birth.

A centenary dinner was held at the Rome of Commons. Sir Charles Snow is addressing a meeting in his honor at Imperial College, and both British TV channels are running major programs on H. G. Wells — one of the founding fathers of science fiction.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD T. CLAPP

Clapp – Travis

Rev. Gordon Woodcock performed the ceremony in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church on September 10, 1966, at 2.30 p.m., which united in marriage Marjorie Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Travis of Belleville and Gerald Thomas Clapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Clapp of Belleville. Mr. William Connor was organist and Miss M. Hales was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length white gown of peau de soie with fitted bodice, scoop neckline, and lily-point sleeves. The straight sheath-skirt was enhanced with applique of lace flowers and the back was emphasized with a full chapel train. The headpiece of silk illusion was fitted with a Chantilly lace flowed into a long mantilla veil edged with ruffles of matching lace. She carried a nosegay of yellow Shasta daisies and yellow roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. Dennis Schoneiefke of London, Ontario, wore a street length yellow peau de soie dress with brown lace bodice and lily-point sleeves. Her headpiece was a ruffle of yellow hat with yellow nylon veil and she carried a nosegay of yellow Shasta daisies and brown mums. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Ronald Travis of Belleville and Mrs. Kenneth Dalpee of Colleville and the flower girl, Miss Lori-Ann Travis, niece of the bride, were attired similarly to the matron of honor.

Mr. Gerald Daley of Belleville was the groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Rowland Travis and Mr. Gerald Blakely, both of Belleville.

At the reception, held at Maple Inn in Bloomfield, the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a brown lace over taffeta sheath dress, matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, attired in a green silk over crepe sheath dress with accessories to match and a corsage of yellow roses.

On their return, the couple will live at 286 William Street, Belleville.

CHRIST CHURCH PARISH GUILD

Members of Christ Church Parish Guild were taken for a imaginary tour backwards in time on Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Margaret Rakay of the Bell Telephone Company entertained them with an excellent talk entitled "Those Changing Years" With the aid of slides, recordings and a commentary, Mrs. Rakay outlined the changes which have taken place throughout the world since the beginning of this century, stressing the advances made in all areas of communication. Mrs. Rakay was introduced by Mrs. F. A. Beeby and thanked by Mrs. Sidley Wallbridge.

President of the Parish Guild, Mrs. J. R. Cousins, took charge of the business portion of the meeting. The Guild has now been idle during the summer months, having catered for a number of wedding receptions. Mrs. A. Jordan presented the rectory report, stating that a number of repairs had been made to the exterior of the building and also that painting had been completed. A large number of remembrance cards had been sent to ill and shut-in members and letters were received from several members.

Volunteers were recruited for service at the Cancer clinic on Monday, September 19th, at 2.00 p.m. The Guild will cater for the annual dinner of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Society on the 28th of the month and also for a wedding in November and one in December. A Corporate Commission for Guild members will be held in the morning of October 12th.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. A. Jordan and Mrs. A. Noakes.

A Lift for Living

The Best Kind of Prayer Is Earnest and Sincere

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

A farmer's land lying low near a marsh is too wet for his crops, and he prays for a long dry spell so that his land may be fruitful. But another tiller of the soil, living not far from the first, has a farm on high ground among the hills, and he tilts his soil is too dry for a good harvest. He prays for rain. How can these two farms fit other patches of land, each with its own type of soil and watered drainage and its own peculiar needs for dryness or moisture. And if each has its own family looking, praying, for a special kind of weather called to its needs.

What should God do? Should God turn on and shut off the rains over each farm according to the petitions He receives? Should everyone be allowed to control the weather with a prayer?

One little girl is reported to have closed her bedtime prayer with this fervent request: "Please, Lord, won't you put the vitamins in pie and cake instead of in spinach and cod liver oil? Amen." The request is a natural one, but wouldn't this be a confused and chaotic universe if each of us could change the nature of the world by uttering a prayer?

HARMFUL PRAYER

What should we ask for when we pray? Must we be highly selective and painfully careful concerning our requests? No. The best kind of praying is a conscious openness of heart and mind toward God, speaking of whatever we think and desire. Earnest, sincere prayer is trust that the Heavenly Father is also the Divine Intelligence, that's God's love is blended with wisdom, and He will not give us what is not good for us. We dare "speak our minds," asking for rain or for sunshine, for our child's recovery from sickness, for our neighbor's or our own success in business, for "travelling mercies" on a long journey.

We are God's children, and anything that concerns us concerns God, even when He sees it in a different perspective (as a child's broken doll is not the serious matter to the child's parent that it is to the child, but still the parent cares because the child cares).

It is better to pray a mistaken, blundering prayer than not to pray at all, better to pray in error, than to pray insensitively, fearful that we might make a wrong request. So we tell God everything that is in our hearts. We speak of our gratitude and register our complaints. We mention our whims and our hopes found desires with the strangely mixed boldness and humility of a child conversing with a dear parent.

Next we leave the results of our praying in God's hands. This is what it means to trust God: we are confident that His love and wisdom are infinitely greater than our own, and God will answer our need even when He must refuse a foolish or harmful request. Prayer at its highest and best is Christ's plea, "Not my will, but thine, be done."

Finally, expect the unexpected from God. Often, instead of giving us what we ask, God gives us something infinitely better. Saint Augustine told in "The Confessions" of how his mother, Monica, passionately prayed all night long that God would prevent Augustine from going to Italy. Monica wanted more than anything else that her son should become a follower of Christ, and she was certain that if he travelled among the temptations of Italy he would fall farther and farther away from God. Only if she could keep him safe at home under her good influences and her watch, so she thought, could he be converted.

But Monica's scapegrace son set sail from North Africa toward Italy even while his mother prayed. Her prayers seemed futile. In Italy, Augustine met Ambrose, the great teacher preacher and bishop. Augustine, who had led a libertine life in youth, was brilliant and sensitive. He suffered greatly from a conscientious sense of his moral weakness. In Ambrose Augustine found a bright mind and a compassionate heart to which he could respond. He was converted and baptized in April of 387, and he had a pronounced and lasting effect upon Christian thinking since then.

But what would have happened had Monica's prayer been answered, and had Augustine stayed home in North Africa? Only God knows. But we all know that when God said "No" to Monica's specific request He said "Yes" to her deepest desire and to Augustine's great need and did more for Monica and Augustine than either had ever guessed.

That is the kind of God we worship, who, as St. Paul put it, "is able to do exceedingly abundantly above all that we ask or think."

Lines on Life

Steady Hum Soothing

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Some time ago, acoustical engineers, analyzing the sound components of our modern city-life, came up with some very "sound" advice.

Urban man, they suggested, lives with a constant hum in his ears. During his working hours he is subjected to the distant noise of traffic, the whistle of the air conditioner, the hum of fluorescent lights. Even in the comparative quiet of his home, the washing machine and the dishwasher rumble, radios blare, telephones jangle.

Oddly and interestingly, the acoustical experts agreed that a steady hum in our ears was not a bad thing at all. Said one of them: "There should be an unobtrusive noise, constant as a surf-like. Without it, the slightest sound can prove enormously distracting." And to prove his point, he reminds us of the commuter who can read a book with great absorption amid the accustomed clatter of the 5:42, but can be shaken out of his bed by the chirping of a single robin in the silence of a country morning.

All of which helps us understand why the acoustical engineers counsel some regular, constant noise. Silence, it turns out, is not as good for us as is quiet. Silence is the lack of noise; quiet is the lack of distraction.

We often need quiet to retain our sanity. We'd probably lose it if we had only silence!

Why?

Man is a social creature and to survive in a sane way he must have constant assurances that he is related to the world around him. To be alive is to be part of things that are alive — and that give the appearance of life.

As we grow older we never completely shed our child's fears of being left alone in the house. "The dark at the top of the stairs" remains a life-long fright. We feel at home in the light, because we can see — our relatedness to the world around us must always be clear and visible. When we can see and hear the world we can also feel the world — we feel alive, vigorous and creative.

Like coupons, man is "not good if detached." Often, in our travail, we should like to run away from the world — it is too much with us. Yet, always, all else having been said or done, We must come back. We come back because we need the power that is fed to us when we are connected to the sources of life—the people, the ideas, the very earth around us.

OFF THE RECORD — By Ed Reed

"I suppose I could be happy with a man like you, Eddie, as long as he isn't too much like you."

Brewers Raise Age Ceiling in Hiring Workers

TORONTO (CP) — Employees of Brewers' Warehousing Co. went back to work Friday after the company agreed Thursday night to raise the age ceiling for hiring permanent workers to 45 from 40.

Members of Local 326 of the International Union of Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America went on strike in Toronto Monday night to protest the company's hiring regulations.

Specifically, the union complained about the case of Anthony Myrei, 44, who has been on temporary staff since the beginning of this year.

The agreement cleared the way for Mr. Myrei's transfer to permanent staff.

EFFECTS WIDESPREAD

The dispute between the company, owned by the Ontario breweries, cut off beer supplies to licensees of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, closed several retail beer outlets in Toronto and affected more than 30 other provincial centres.

Robarts Seeks Bigger Share Of Tax Field

TORONTO (CP) — Premier John Robarts said Friday the province could take over 75 per cent of the personal income tax field without damaging the federal government's ability to influence the economy.

He told reporters on his return from the federal-provincial tax structure committee meeting in Ottawa that the federal government should control the economy even if it held only 50 per cent of the tax field.

"Our economists tell us that in the neighborhood of 25 per cent would give complete control of the tax field as an instrument of fiscal and monetary policy," he said.

Control was possible because marginal fluctuations in the income tax, not the full range of the tax, influenced economic activity.

WOULD OPT OUT

Finance Minister Sharp's offer of 17 per cent additional personal income tax revenue meant only that the federal government was ready to opt out of the tax-cost programs it had started, he said.

In his brief to the committee, Mr. Robarts demanded a "considerably greater share of the personal income tax for the provinces" but did not specify how much.

However, he said there was no need for the federal government to set any arbitrary limit —such as 50 per cent—on the provincial share of the field.

The Ottawa meeting got out of hand because it developed into a discussion of constitutional matters outside taxes, Mr. Robarts said.

The discussion started because Quebec Premier Johnson was making his first appearance at a federal - provincial conference and showed "no reluctance" to talk about his position in terms of statehood.

This view, he says, was driven home by Finance Minister Sharp watching on the government's commitment to bring in a medical care insurance plan by July 1, 1967. Mr Sharp last week delayed the starting date by one year.

Casting a glance at the federal - provincial horizon, he tagged the two-day tax-sharing conference as an illustration of unco-operative chaos in federalism on the part of the federal government.

Though he has an undisguised relish in current political events, Mr. Diefenbaker's well-known interest in the past comes through frequently in conversation.

REMEMBERS CHIDHOOD

The Red River carts when he went west as a boy in 1903, the Metis leader Gabriel Dumont whom he calls "the greatest Indian fighter of them all," and the old shack on the family homestead in Saskatchewan—which he regrets has never been preserved—all crop up in reminiscing.

Politics has been his one ambition and he likes to show souvenirs of his path along the road of this ambition. One is the 1915 University of Saskatchewan year book which contains an article looking ahead 40 years. It refers to John George Diefenbaker sitting in the Commons, "the leader of the opposition who was struggling manfully with difficulty in the face of such government expenditures."

His retires any opportunity to press a new conviction—Parliament should be televised.

He thinks there should be a daily period of television, experimentally on closed circuit so MPs could get used to it and then national network time daily.

He hasn't always thought this way. "I changed my mind a couple of years ago," he says. The date isn't clear but it seems to have been after his six years as prime minister.

Canadian Markets Showed Some of Old Bounce This Week

By GORDON GRANT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets showed some of their old bounce this week with industrials moving ahead, speculative mining issues generating some steam and oils attracting attention.

Recent anti - inflationary measures announced by the Canadian and United States governments were cited as key factors in bringing investors back to the industrial market.

Some analysts said also that the post-Labor Day rally is becoming a reality. However, analysts generally were divided in their opinions on whether the eight-month bear market has hit bottom.

One said the down trend is over and the time may be ripe to buy although he hedged a little when he suggested that prices might fluctuate fractionally for some time to come.

Another said he didn't agree.

"The market never goes straight up or straight down, the latest upswing is merely a break, but it will be temporary. We haven't hit bottom yet."

He likened the market to a yo-yo.

Mining companies led the advance with Inco ahead 4¼ to 50¼.

Cominco, Hudson Bay, Noranda and Brunswick also moved ahead while Falconbridge was unchanged at a shade below, at a new 1966 low, at 44.

Price changes in steel issues were fractional, although there was activity in the stocks following Stelco's record-breaking largest steel producer's — announcement that it would increase some of its prices. The stock jumped almost $1 until Finance Minister Sharp asked the company to reconsider. Stelco closed the week up ¾ at 22¾.

Auto found support as the introduction of new models is expected to perk up sales. General Motors, which in addition to its regular lines is taking aim at Ford's highly - successful Mustang with its Camaro, was up ⅝ at 84¼, Ford was up ⅛ at 129 and Chrysler ¼ at 41'.

The speculative mining section found primarily because of two issues which roared ahead. Area Mines jumped 70 cents to 1.60, well up from its 1966 low of 74 cents, and added more than 1,900,000 shares.

Norbec advanced 42 cents to 2.30 on more than 2,000,000 shares. Its low for the year was 53 cents.

Both companies are financing drilling on a property in the Gaspe area of Quebec which previously was drilled by Noranda but dropped because of inconclusive results. The Area-Norbec combination has drilled more than 20 holes on the property and reported encouraging results.

There was a long list of excellent gains in western oils with Dome up 3 to 75, Canadian Superior 2¾ to 21¾ and Banff 2¼ to 13¼.

Among juniors, Provo jumped 30 cents to 4.40, Canadian Export 45 cents to 4.45, Mill City 36 cents to 2.39 and International Helium 18 cents to 3.25.

LEASES FOR SALE

Oil experts say interest was aroused because of the upcoming sale of petroleum and natural gas leases in the Rainbow Lakes and Zama Lake areas of northwestern Alberta.

On index, western oils jumped 3.33 to 103.56, base metals 1.05 to 88.18 and the TSE index 2.32 to 140.82. Golds, not attracting much attention, eased 1.57 to 109.52.

Volume for the week was 19,960,000 shares with a value of $51,824,000. Last week, which was shortened by the Labor Day holiday, volume was 12,877,000 shares with a value of $32,420,000.

In Montreal, utilities were up .36 to 132.54, banks .65 to 100.39 and papers 1.82 to 111.08. Industrial volume was 534,742 and mining volume 3,979,657. This compared with 455,622 and 2,825,078 last week.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

It looks now after some silly bickering and demands on the part of a few of the clubs, the new Ontario Senior "A" Hockey League has finally got its feet on some sort of solid ground.

Woodstock and Galt after holding out for a two-division league finally saw the light and agreed with a two-club set-up. The longest "holdercutter" the Toronto club, the first senior "A" to spend its money since the Queen since the Marlies won the Allan Cup back in 1950, has also agreed on the original scheme of things.

The Toronto club backed by a societie of legal lights and business men, held out for some ridiculous demands. First they wanted to play a half-schedule, twenty games, with each tilt calling for four points. They canvassed other teams of the loop for support but got none. A representative even wanted to contact Belleville's general manager, Bob Temple, holidaying in America.

Making no headway here they suggested that their club draw a bye and play the schedule champ-ions a post-season series for the title.

The Ontario Hockey Association turned thumbs down on both requests. "The bye idea was ridiculous" said a spokesman. "It would set a precedent in OHA annals in that a club could win the all-Ontario title by playing only seven games, and that a maximum."

The Toronto suggestion that because of its geographical location (we live in the centre of the league) it should be given the abbreviated schedule or the bye was also given the heave-ho by the OHA.

It seems to be the Toronto club's demands were a trifle far-fetched. Located as they are in it, "in the centre of the league" it would appear their transportation problems would be the minimum of the circuit. Players-wise they have the Toronto Metro Senior Hockey League to draw from.

A report from Toronto states the club will be known as the "Varsity Grads" reminds of that great club of the same name that defeated Fort William for the Allan Cup back in 1927.

And when they skate on the ice there will be more "brains" chasing pucks than you'll find at an "M.A." convention. For, the Toronto report states, the club has had 28 prospective members working for a week. They include school - teachers, lawyers, law students, chartered accountants, doctors and dentists.

"We are hoping," a spokesman said, "as the name of the team implies, to restrict the playing personnel to graduates of recognized universities."

And get this. "Most of the fellows working out with us have either played or had tryouts with professional teams but were placed on the inactive list to finish their education."

"Father Bauer, where are you?"

FISH AND GAME

The Belleville and District Fish and Game Club resumes its fall and winter monthly meetings next Tuesday at the Club Corner and is prepared an informative program for the season's inaugural.

Mr. N. D. Patrick, district Forester Tweed District, Department of Lands and Forests, will be the guest speaker. It will be Mr. Patrick's first visit to the club and he will review the work on his department in the district. It should be highly interesting as every hunter and angler knows of the good work being done by the district staff.

And don't forget, you waterfowl hunters, that this year for the first time you must purchase, besides a regular hunting license, a Canada Migratory Game Bird hunting permit. The fee is two dollars, available at any post office.

And moose hunters are reminded that in the Tweed district north of Number Seven highway the two-week season is the same as for deer for residents of Ontario only. The licence tab is $10.00, available at departmental offices. Licenses may also be obtained at local issuers in the area by those who plan to hunt moose north of North Bay.

Governor's Cup Champs

Two In Row For Leafs

RICHMOND, Va. (CP)—Tony Horton, Julio Navarro, allowed only two hits and one earned run while striking out 14 batters.

Navarro had pulled a thigh muscle while rounding third base earlier in the game. He had allowed six hits and four runs.

Win, Win, Win ★★★★★★★★★★ Bucs, Giants Lose

Dodgers' Simple Tactic Spoiling Race

By MURRAY CHASE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first - place Los Angeles Dodgers, using the same tactic they used in capturing the National League pennant last year, increased their lead to 3½ games over Pittsburgh Pirates and four over San Francisco Giants Friday night by defeating the Pirates 5-2 while the Giants lost to New York Mets 5-4.

The tactic the Dodgers used last year was simple—win, win win; some more. Now they're doing it again.

Just one week ago the Dodgers were tied for second with San Francisco, each 1½ games behind the Pirates.

Since then Los Angeles has won all seven of its games—the winning streak is right over-all—while Pittsburgh has dropped four of five and the Giants four of seven.

That combination has been enough to open the biggest lead since the Giants led the Pirates by four games, on June 28.

WON 13 STRAIGHT

In winning the 1965 pennant, the Dodgers, who were 4½ games out at this time, won 13 straight games and 15 of their last 16, while the Giants managed only a 9-4 record in that time.

Perhaps, it's such a situation that prompted Pirates' slugging pitcher, Bob Veale, to say:

"We're not out of it yet. They have 11 games to play on the road. Who knows, maybe they might lose eight or nine of them."

And maybe they won't, at least not while they have Sandy Koufax pitching. The brilliant left - hander stopped the Pirates on five hits and posted his 18th victory, most in the majors, against eight defeats.

Two other games Atlanta Braves whipped Cincinnati Reds 7-2, Houston Astros topped Philadelphia Phillies 6-4 and St. Louis Cardinals swept Chicago Cubs 3-1 and 4-0.

Helping Koufax was Lou Johnson, who hit a three-run homer off Veale in the third inning. Koufax extended his consecutive scoreless inning streak to 32 before Gene Alley drove home a Pirate run in the seventh with a sacrifice fly.

Willie Mays' scoring single sent the Giants ahead 3-2 in the eighth, but the Mets rallied for three runs after two were out in the ninth. But Harrelson drove in the second run of the outburst with the second triple of the game, then stole home for the eventual winning run.

Rookie Larry Jaster won his fifth straight game, pitching a four-hitter against Cincinnati. Joe Torre drove in two runs with two singles as Atlanta handed Jim Maloney his eighth setback against 14 victories.

Chuck Harrison's fourth - inning, grand - slam homer earned Houston past Philadelphia while Bob Gibson became the "Mr. Inny" 20-game winner in St. Louis' sweep of the game triumph over Chicago. He received help from Curt Flood, who drove in all three Cardinal runs.

Mike Shannon's three - run homer powered the Cardinals in the second game. The eighth-inning blow broke up a scoreless duel between St. Louis' Bob Jackson and the Cubs' Rich Nye.

Five Knockdowns

Chuvalo Scores 2-Round Victory

EDMONTON (CP) — George Chuvalo of Toronto scored a second - round technical knockout over Irish Bob Arnold of Tucson, Ariz., Friday night in a heavyweight boxing match that excited few fans and drew even less.

Only 831 persons paid $4,300 to see the Canadian heavyweight champion humble his opponent at the two minute mark of the second round of what was scheduled to be a 10-round bout.

Referee Jack Berry stopped the fight after Avery had been knocked down for the mandatory eight count twice in the first round and three times in the second.

The victory was Chuvalo's 37th against 13 losses and two draws. Avery has won 19 of 24 bouts, including Friday's whipping.

The 220 - pound Chuvalo pressed the fight trying for a quick knockout. He softened 215-pound Avery in the first round with several powerful body punches.

Avery's first knock down came on a right hook followed by a looping left to the head. The second, a few seconds later, followed a flurry of punches to the body and finished off with a left to the head.

In the second round, the first two knockdowns, came from rights to the ear. The third was from a left hook to the head.

Chuvalo's general manager, Irving Ungerman of Toronto, said the champion's next opponent might be former Canadian middleweight champion Charlie Chase of Montreal Sept. 27 in Montreal.

Avery said after the fight, "I blew it in the first round."

Chuvalo said he'd hoped for a tougher fight but gave Avery credit for his courage.

Ungerman said "we're looking for (world champion) Cassius Clay and we're doing exactly as the other ranked fighters are doing in taking any match with between-class opponents."

Minto Cup Tied

Gaels Win Overtime Thriller

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—A tight defence, some good stick - handling and plenty of leg power proved the winning combination for Oshawa Green Gaels Friday night as they edged New Westminster Salmonbellies 11-10 in the Minto Cup series.

It was the best game so far in the best-of-seven national junior lacrosse championship series and left the clubs tied with two wins each.

The game was pushed into a 10-minute overtime period after the clubs ended four consecutive quarters tied. Ken Henry scored for New Westminster at 14:06 of the fourth quarter to force overtime.

A crowd of 3,000, the largest to watch a junior lacrosse game this year, saw the lead change hands endlessly—but always when the quarter bell sounded, each score was even. It was 3-2 after the first, 6-6 after the second, 8-8 after the third and 10-10 at the end of the fourth.

The game was marred for two two-minute fights in the second quarter when Ross Jones of Oshawa and Paul Shmyr of New Westminster hooked heads and at least three separate fights broke out.

When officials got things untangled, three Oshawa and three New Westminster players were sent off the floor with five-minute penalties.

Both goalies had a good night. Oshawa Westminster Don Wallace had more work, stopping 34 shots. Oshawa's Merv Marshall had no trouble with the 25 he stopped.

Stinson, Gaylor Fowless and Ken Clayton were the scoring sparkplugs for Oshawa, each getting two goals. Fowless added three assists. Phil Clayton, Neil Armstrong, Jim Hyde, Brian Thompson and Dwight Wilson figured on one goal each.

Ed Goss fired three goals to lead the New Westminster forwards. His effort was backed by Wayne Bellwood and Henry each with two, and John Shmyr, Ken Winnoski and Wayne Goss.

The Gaels pre - game work on defence paid off handsomely, particularly in the overtime period.

After Stinson had scored his game - winner, the Gaels went into command and set up a defence so tight the Salmonbellies couldn't get away a single-goal shot at Marshall. Stinson was in the thick of the checking for Oshawa.

Says CAHA Recognizes Suspension

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP) — Fred Page of Vancouver, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Friday the CAHA recognizes the suspension of Carl Brewer by Toronto Maple Leafs.

On his way home from the International Ice Hockey Federation's annual meeting in Europe, Page said the CAHA annual meetings have voted to extend the association's agreement with the National Hockey League which includes terms of reinstatement of former professional players.

Brewer, a former NHL all-star defenceman who was suspended when he left the Maple Leafs' training camp a year ago after a salary dispute, has asked for reinstatement as an amateur to represent Canada in international competition.

"We are pleased Mr. Brewer has indicated his wish to join Canada's national hockey team," Page said. "However, the Leafs' training camp a year ago after a salary dispute, has asked for reinstatement as an amateur to represent Canada in international competition.

"We are pleased Mr. Brewer has indicated his wish to join Canada's national hockey team," Page said. "However, his reinstatement at present is a personal matter between himself, his professional team and the National Hockey League."

Page said the CAHA has arranged clearance with the IIHF Swiss federation for the 27-year-old defenceman to play for Canada if he becomes available.

ATTENTION HUNTERS!
This autumn, you must have a Canada Migratory Game Bird Hunting Permit to hunt ducks, geese, coots, sandhill cranes, rails, woodcock, mourning doves, hand-tailed pigeons, gallinules or snipe.
The purpose of this special permit is to provide information that will result in increased hunting opportunity through more efficient management of the resource. The Canadian Wildlife Service needs an accurate method of measuring waterfowl populations.
Presently, aerial and ground surveys of the breeding grounds in spring and some information, but not enough. Biologists estimate how many birds of each species can be harvested, so that hunting regulations can be set to maintain breeding populations.
Variation in licensing systems has prevented a country-wide harvest survey. But now, sales records of the Canada Migratory Game Bird Hunting Permit, and questionnaires to some hunters, will enable the Wildlife Service to obtain the information needed. The new permit must be purchased in addition to any regular provincial licences. Purchase of the new permit is not necessary this year in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories.
These permits are on sale now for $2.00 at most post offices. Check with your local city post offices to find out where permits are being sold.

Good Night For Pitchers

Tigers Trim Oriole Lead To 8½ Games

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

There seemed to be no way to turn off Kansas City Athletics until Washington Senators turned off the lights.

Actually, the Senators were innocent bystanders Friday night when a power failure blacked out their game against the Athletics, who have been ablaze in the closing weeks of the American League pennant.

Kansas City went into the game with a seven-game winning streak and outgave on a first-division finish for the first time in 14 years.

Pitchers Lew Krausse and rookie Barry Moore of the Senators were locked in a scoreless duel in the third inning when four of the eight light towers in the stadium went out.

SOUTON BEATEN

The lights also dimmed for Jim Bouton of New York Yankees who pitched 7 1-3 innings of perfect ball but was beaten by Minnesota Twins 2-1.

Meanwhile, pitchers Joel Horlen of Chicago and Hank Aguirre of Detroit stopped out of the shadows as the White Sox blanked first - place Baltimore Orioles 4-0 and the second-place Tigers whipped Cleveland Indians 3-1.

Horlen stopped the Orioles on three hits and Aguirre scattered eight in gaining his first victory since June 10.

Elsewhere, Boston Red Sox edged California Angels 5-4 on Carl Yastrzemski's two - run double in the ninth.

Zoilo Versalles led off the ninth inning with a double and Bouton hit pinch hitter Sandy Valdespino with a pitch. Rookie baseman Mike Ferraro then threw wildly past second on Cesar Tovar's sacrifice bunt, enabling Versalles to score the tying run. Valdespino raced to third on the error and scored as Jimmie Hall bounced into a double play.

Jim Merrill held the Yankees to five hits, including Tom Tresh's run-scoring single in the first inning.

Ken Berry smacked three singles in Chicago's 10-hit attack that sent the Orioles to their fifth loss in seven games.

Aguirre breezed to his third victory in 11 decisions - and hurled the Tigers within 8½ games of the first-place Orioles - they've been since July 17.

Yastrzemski lifted the Red Sox within range with a base-empty homer in the eighth inning, then delivered the tying and winning runs with his two-out double off Lew Burdette in the ninth.

Whipper And Company

Wrestling Show A Dandy

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Whoever said "it's just not like the good old days" certainly wasn't talking about last night's wrestling show.

It was an old fashioned, rip dang - dandy from way back, with a crowd to match. Whipper Billy Watson, Hans Schmidt, Sweet Daddy Sikl, Billy "Red" Lyons and the midgets and the wrestling beer packed in over 1,000.

And the windup card, slated for September 30, should provide more of the same.

Watson, still the British Empire champ, if a few pounds heavier, met Schmidt, one of the estate Germans, in the main go.

Schmidt punished the Whipper as the crowd groaned its discontent for 10 minutes in the first fall. He kicked, strangled, stomped, choked, eye-gorged and pounded the hero while the per-usual helpless official, in this case Tiger Tasker, played straight pan.

Watson refused to quit but the use of ring ropes for strangling and a few well - placed knees in the groin gave Schmidt the fall.

Schmidt was left out cold in mid - ring when fellow villain Sikl climbed in to help. He finally revived Schmidt for the third fall.

Watson drove to the attack and clobbered double - high - aiming for another Commando ending. Sweet Daddy leaped into the ring and belted Watson to the mat where both "bad guys" applied the boots.

It was so realistic that a couple of would-be-hero fans climbed in to aid Watson - but from Red Ryder Hans and the Sweet One spotted new victims.

Lyons roared to the rescue, chasing both Sikl and Hans while Tasker hoisted Watson's hand in victory. Lyons issued a challenge on his and Whip's behalf and Watson agreed to meet Sikl and Schmidt, if two referees were tased, come Sept. 30. It should be a dilly.

Sikl, the colored blonde from Greenwich Village, and the talented Lyons had opened the evening's show with the best bout of the year here. It was a 30-minute draw after they had about tore the ring apart. There wasn't a dull minute and the fans loved it from start to finish.

The midgets, good-guy Roger Kirschbrooke and Jonnyman Pitchy Patterson, battled to two-of-three with Roger taking the nod. They gave their usual outstanding acrobatic performance.

Gene DeRoia wrestled his mangled and smart wrestling bear, Terrible Ted. The bear, weighing 700 pounds, pinned his man and displayed more grappling know-how than have many of the humans here earlier this year. A couple of fans accepted DeRoia's offer for Ted to take on all comers but fled the ring when the furry opponent headed in their direction.

Goaltending Bright Spot For Leafs

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Punch Imlach may not be pleased about everything he sees as his Toronto Maple Leafs rough it through their National Hockey League training camp, but Al Smith is an exception.

Smith, a 30-year-old lanky rookie goaltender, has obviously impressed the Leaf coach as the team regroups to try and improve on last year's third-place finish in the National Hockey League.

After watching Smith in the two-shift scrimmage of the year's training camp, Imlach conceded that "that kid is okay. He's going to be a good goalie," he said. "He's got the right style, a good attitude and his reactions are fine. Also, he's a standup goalie."

Smith played with OHA Junior "A" Toronto Marlboros last season but had two games with the parent NHL club.

"He's a standup goalie, Smith means even more depth around the goal mouth—Johnny Bower has looked as sharp as ever despite his 41 years and Terry Sawchuk has been revitalized after an off - season back operation.

Sawchuk said he is a new man.

"They (the doctors) found two ruptured discs in my back and put them back in place," he said. "What I thought was a chronic arthritic condition is gone. I'm a new man, never felt better and now get a good night's sleep."

Leaf physiotherapist Karl Elieff confirmed with Sawchuk that the 33-year-old veteran is in good shape this year, but told Imlach that "with one or two exceptions, your players are good."

Imlach responded by increasing the daily practice sessions to 90 minutes from 75, and emphasized that any player breaking the 11 p.m. curfew will be sent to training camps with one of the farm clubs.

Several newcomers besides Smith looked impressive in scrimmage Friday, among them Gary Gredzal, a right winger from Fort William who played at Des Moines last year, and Biffy McNeil from Vancouver Canucks, who got the nod from Imlach's assistant King Clancy.

Whistling Bird Tops Field

HAMILTON (CP) — Montreal Alouettes had two short - term problems and another long term puzzler on their hands Friday as they prepared for tonight's Eastern Football Conference game against Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

One of the immediate problems is the Tiger-Cats, smarting after dropping a 37-16 decision to Ottawa Rough Riders and seeking revenge for a 16-6 upset loss to Montreal earlier.

Another is a scoring famine —the Alouettes have managed but one touchdown in their last five games.

The long - term problem is rookie flanker Gerry Sternberg, who will decide after tonight's game whether he'll stay with the team or remain in Ontario to register for law studies at Toronto's Osgoode Hall.

The game, which will not be televised, is the only one scheduled in the east this weekend. A win for Montreal would give the club a record of 4 wins, 4 losses and 1 tie, second spot with Hamilton.

A loss would leave them four points adrift of Toronto Argonauts, who play Saskatchewan Lions in Vancouver tonight.

GONE MUST BE ONE

With Hamilton still recalling how they lost to Ottawa on a late Rough Rider surge, the Alouettes will send a 37-man squad. Coach Darrel Mudra said Friday all will travel to Hamilton, where quarterback George Bork or defensive end Billy James Doss will sit out as the 38th import.

Mudra is hoping the recovery of fullback Bob Paremore will help end the scoring drought. Paremore, the league's top runner, has been out with a pulled leg muscle but looked in form at practice Thursday.

But Sternberg's academic situation is another problem, one that could hurt more than a leg injury.

Sternberg came to the Als after a brilliant college career with University of Toronto Blues, and Mudra doesn't want to lose him.

He said the club is attempting to work out a solution and may place Sternberg on suspension after the Hamilton game.

"We're thinking of suspending him and leaving Double Davis outside, then if we need him later in the season after he gets established we will take him back.

"Next season he can attend his second year and still play football for us, as it's just the first year that makes such an arrangement difficult," Mudra said.

Softball Finals Will Start Here Tuesday

Dates for the first three games of the Belleville and District Softball League championship series, between Picton Kinsmen and the Bobcats were released by Bobcat manager Ron Pavlick.

The series, a four-of-seven, will open Tuesday night at Belleville's Alemite Park with the second in Picton on Wednesday night.

Pavlick was double-checking about park arrangements today but said he was almost sure that games at the Alemite would be starting at 8.00, rather than 8.30. The change in time is being made because of daylight saving.

Picton's home games will also start at 8.00 p.m.

The third game is scheduled for next Saturday night, at the Alemite, at 5.00.

Picton, idle since being eliminated from OASA playdowns several weeks ago, will be defending the title won last season.

The Kinsmen ousted the Juniors and Bobcats eliminated Trudeau Motors, both four games to one, in this year's semi-finals.

COURT WON'T ACT

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A federal court refused to act on a writ of habeas corpus Friday seeking the release of the wife of one of Canada's most wanted fugitives. District Judge Roger D. Foley Jr. ruled the writ on behalf of Lise Lemay, 29, wife of Georges Lemay, 41, arrested last month in a downtown cafe also, was filed prematurely.

Bob Goalby Has Lead At Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Bob Goalby charged ahead in the Portland open golf tournament Friday, firing his second of straight 67 for a one-stroke lead after 36 holes.

Close behind in the $50,000 event was Pete Brown, one of four first-round leaders, who followed his opening 67 with a 68 Friday for a 135 total on the par-72, 6,436 - yard Columbia-Edgewater course.

Next came Bert Yancey, Gay Brewer and Dave Hill at 136.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus, winner at Portland in three of the last four years, fell out of contention Friday after playing another round in par for 144.

12th Season of Gunsmoke To Be Opened in Color

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Color-set viewers will be able to recognize for the first time tonight that Matt Dillon's eyes are deep blue and Kitty's hair is orange-red.

The beginning of the 12th season of Gunsmoke brings the CBS western to the home screen in color for the first time. But viewers won't be seeing any splashes of chartreuse and fuchsia or any other bright colors, for that matter. That's the edict of Philip Leacock, who has been guiding the destiny of the long-run series.

Says the producer: "When it was announced that we were going to color, some of the people on the show said we could now repaint all the sets brilliant colors, put bright green curtains in the Long Branch Saloon and new dresses on the girls. I said no.

"Oh, maybe the Long Branch is a bit brighter, but otherwise Dodge City will look pretty much the same. It would be easy to lose the dusty atmosphere of the town by going wild on color. But we'd also be destroying the essential quality of the show."

Leacock is a jealous guardian of Gunsmoke's success, and his stars now appreciate his efforts. That wasn't always true. When he took over the show three years ago, the performers eyed him with suspicion. HAD SOME CLASHES

"We had some clashes at first," admitted Leacock, discussing his relationships with James Arness, Amanda Blake and Milburn Stone. "There people care so much about the show and their characters that they are suspicious of anyone who might want to tamper with them. I had to prove to them that I cared just as much as they did."

After a dozen years it can be rugged going to maintain enthusiasm for a series, but Leacock manages. A longtime director (The Little Kidnappers, The War Lover) he knows how to stimulate an actor's interest.

"I often go for young writers and directors," he explained. "They approach a show like Gunsmoke with new ideas and viewpoints, and their vitality infects the actors. We sometimes have guest stars, not

FEARS BANKRUPTCY

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP)— The total debt of the United States—private and government —now stands at about $1,200,000,000,000 says Barry Goldwater. The 1964 Republican presidential candidate told a fund raising dinner Friday night that the debt compares with the country's over-all assets of $1,400,000,000,000 and such spending and borrowing "is business means bankruptcy."

Bears Beaten By Rams

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

"They've got a nice ball club," said George Halas, the 73-year-old patriarch of Chicago Bears.

"Any win in the National Football League is satisfying, but to beat George Halas 126 the Bears is extra special," said Los Angeles Rams' rookie coach George Allen.

That was the best, or worst, Allen and his former boss had to say after the Rams beat the Bears 31-17 Friday night before 50,000 fans in Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

Chicago had the chances Friday night and Bates could not be too pleased with the way the Bears let them slip away.

QUARTERBACK CAPITALIZE

Leading 24-17, the Rams twice fumbled away the ball in the final four minutes. The Bears took over each time on the Los Angeles 19.

The Bears got nowhere, on two runs by Gale Sayers and six incomplete passes by Rudy Bukich.

In the final two minutes, Bukich's pass attempt from his 44 after a Ram punt was gathered in behind the line of scrimmage on a trap by 6-7, 250-pound defensive end Lamar who lumbered 23 yards for the touchdown which put the game out of reach.

As 84-yard pass play, Roman to Jackie Smow, put the Rams on the scoreboard in the first period.

Sayers' twisting 58-yard run from scrimmage gave the Bears a 17-14 halftime lead.

FUMBLE RUINED RUN

There was a 94-yard kickoff return by the Bears' Dick Gordon, but he fumbled on the second zone when overhauled on the Rams three and kicker Bruce Gossett recovered for a touchback.

Green Bays clash will the Browns at Cleveland and the Houston Oilers match with the Jets in New York feature the American schedule. No games are scheduled today.

The rest of the NFL schedule has New York meeting at Dallas for the Cowboys opener, Baltimore Colts at Minnesota Vikings, Chicago Cardinals at St. Louis Cardinals, Detroit Lions at Pittsburgh Steelers and Atlanta Falcons at Philadelphia Eagles.

The Houston - New York afternoon stands as about the only fair featuring quarterbacks George Blanda and Joe Namath, is a fight for the Eastern Division lead in the American Football League.

The other games have Miami Dolphins at Buffalo Bills, Boston Patriots at Denver Broncos and Kansas City Chiefs at Oakland Raiders.

Set NL Attendance Record

Amazing Mets Gotham Fans' Delight

By KEN PRITCHARD

NEW YORK (CP) — The amazing New York Mets, firmly anchored in last place during their first four years in the National League as one of major league baseball's expansion teams, have climbed out of the cellar this year.

But contrary to most predictions, their rise to mediocrity on the field has not been matched by a decline in fan support.

The day after Labor Day, the Mets' paid attendance for 1966 stood at 1,300,170, the highest ever achieved by a National League team in New York, more than ever saw the Giants and Dodgers before they fled to the West Coast.

The fifth consecutive annual increase does not, however, put the Mets in quite the same class that the once-invincible American League Yankees used to occupy.

The Yankees drew 2,373,901 fans in 1946, their best year. This season, with the club battling to avoid last place, they will be hundreds of thousands behind the Mets.

One reason the Mets are outdrawing the Yankees is the magnificent stadium they occupy on Long Island adjacent to the 1964-65 New York world's fair site.

Shea Stadium, which is also used by the Jets of the American Football League, is modern, comfortable and in a pleasant part of the city.

BRONX RUNS DOWN

"The area is almost as bad as the ball club," says one local sports expert.

Many people dislike going to Yankee Stadium at night. Parking is difficult and the subways are a bit frightening.

The biggest night crowd to watch the Yankees in New York this year was 29,648, for a doubleheader with the league - leading Baltimore Orioles. The Mets attract as many as that on a Monday afternoon.

Since 1901, the year Roger Maris hit 61 home runs, Yankee home attendance has dwindled this way: 1901— 1,747,000; 1962 — 1,493,000; 1963—1,308,000; 1964 — 1,305,- 000; 1965 — 1,213,000; 1966 (estimated)—1,200,000.

The Polo Grounds stood just across the river from Yankee Stadium and were the home of the Giants and, for a couple of years, of the Mets.

Now they have been torn down and a big housing project is nearing completion on the site, leaving Yankee Stadium in virtual isolation as a sports centre.

The answer for the Yankees, who last year became the property of the Columbia Broadcasting System, is a new ball park in the suburbs, perhaps even in New Jersey, across the Hudson River. But so far there has been no announcement from CBS.

Mann Cup

Petes' Star Will Likely See Action

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Peterborough Petes' rookie forward, John Davis, will probably play in the fourth game of the best-of-seven Canadian senior lacrosse series for the Mann Cup here tonight against Vancouver.

The slim forward, winner of the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior scoring championship with 119 points, 51 of them goals, was checked heavily by Vancouver defenceman John Cervi at the final buzzer of the third game Wednesday. Peterborough leads the series 2-1.

Cervi received a five-minute charging penalty and a game misconduct after Davis was helped from the floor by a couple of team-mates. Later it was discovered Davis had suffered pulled muscles in his right shoulder.

I was talking to John Thursday and he thinks he is in good enough shape to play Saturday," said Petes' manager, Jack Gibson.

Bob Marsh, Vancouver coach, said he does not like the idea of playing at Civic Arena here.

"The length of the arena is all right, but the width will hurt us," he said.

"Everybody will be right on top of both sides of the net. I hope something can be done about getting the Oshawa arena after Saturday's game."

Civic Arena seats 2,000, Memorial Centre, where the first three games were played, can accommodate 5,000.

NUNS DROWN

TECOLUTLA, Mexico (AP)— Four nuns, who had taken off their shoes to wade along the shore here, were swept out to sea by sudden high waves Friday. Bathers pulled them from the water but they died en route to hospital.

Says Cookie

'Big, Misunderstood Boy'

"I am not a bad guy," the 255-pound controversial retired fullback of Denver Broncos of the American Football League said Friday. "I have been given a bad image.

"I want to play football. I can be in shape in three days. But I never will play for Denver. That is definite."

The bone-crunching ball carrier retired because he said he was dissatisfied with the management of the Broncos, to whom he was traded in 1965 by Buffalo Bills.

Gilchrist played at Denver last year, scoring 250 for the first year of a two-year contract. Then he retired in a dispute with the management.

SUED FOR $20,000

The Broncos said Cookie violated an Denver hiring an old Buffalo buddy, Willie Ross. The Broncos put him on the reserve list and promptly sued him for $20,000, which they said had been advanced.

"Denver doesn't have a suit because by putting me on the reserve list the club has deprived me of the privilege of making money to pay them," Cookie said.

Gilchrist was reminded that he was quite an articulate talker for the son of a Pennsylvania steel worker and a man who never graduated from high school.

"I have helped myself," he said. "In Toronto, I associate with college professors, professional men, bankers and lawyers.

"On the football field, I am aggressive but actually I am of a very sensitive, introverted nature. I read good books. I love music. I persevere out of my own convictions."

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Avelino Gomez has been stealing the riding limelight of this season but Friday at Woodbine another Cuban, Ramon Hernandez, had his moment.

Hernandez, a diminutive 27-year-old, won his first two races at this meeting when he guided Famous Wealth to victory in the third race and came right back in the fifth on a score with Call the Preacher.

In the third race Hernandez moved out from eighth place in the six - furlong dash and drew off to win from Ablegate by five lengths.

In the fourth, Call the Preacher didn't appear to have a chance as the seven - horse field raced around the final turn of the six - furlong dash. He was last at this point.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We are driving to Manitoba and would like to know if our car insurance is valid there in case of an accident? — A. McK., Belleville

ANSWERS: Authorities in Manitoba will impound the car and will deprive the motorists of driving privileges until evidences of financial responsibility is produced. This evidence is established by a pink card and is obtained from your local insurance agent. They also advise you to keep your insurance policy in the glove compartment at all times when travelling out of your own province.

QUESTION: We would like to go on a canoe fishing trip, not too far away. We were considering the Rideau Lakes. Have you any information about these and what highway should we take? — D. B., Belleville

ANSWER: Highway 15 between Kingston and Ottawa. To give you a run down on the Rideau Lakes the following is taken from the OML Tour Book: The Rideau Lakes comprise Little Rideau, Big Rideau, Newboro and many other smaller lakes. The Rideau waterway, a continuous system of rivers, lakes and canals connecting the Ottawa River with Lake Ontario, follows the military canal built in pioneer days. Long canoeing and boating trips are possible on the waterways and the lakes afford splendid fishing for bass, pickerel, pike, trout and panfish.

QUESTION: We are interested in a camping trip up in the Pembroke area. Are there facilities tables on the highways and camps where we could pet up a tent? — Mrs. M., Trenton.

ANSWER: If you take Highway 41 from Napanee you will find a number of picnic tables on the roadside all the way down to Pembroke. As to camp sites, there are about a dozen. If you would contact the OML office, we could give you a camp site book or you could go to the Chamber of Commerce and ask for an Ontario Camp Site Book.

QUESTION: When is the best time to visit Muskoka to enjoy the autumn colors and scenery? — Miss M., Belleville left for London and had approved it.

He was questioned about another move by Mr. Sharp, asking the Steel Company of Canada to reconsider its recently announced hike in steel prices.

Mr. Pearson said because of the rapid developments, he was not informed about this step until Mr. Sharp had taken it. But he was very much in favor.

He said he could not comment on the federal - provincial tax conference that wound up in Ottawa Thursday until he had time to be filled in on just what had happened.

Then he spoke for several minutes about the achievements of the London conference, where he was given a major share of the credit for keeping the split over what to do about the white supremacist Ian Smith regime in Rhodesia from growing into an unbridgeable chasm.

The conference was "the most difficult, complex and the most rugged I have ever attended."

Many African delegates deeply involved emotionally, thought mainly of force in having the illegal Smith regime down, Mr. Pearson said. He felt the use of force should be avoided.

The British government had made adjustments in its thinking about the colony that declared itself independent unilaterally. The result was an agreement to give the Smith regime a last chance, then to seek strong economic sanctions against Rhodesia through the United Nations.

"All members expressed satisfaction that the new Commonwealth, representing people all over the world, was able to face and meet and, in part at least, solve the problem."

his legal talents and to get the maximum publicity from him.

"At a time like this we have to make use of people who eventually we would be putting on trial," said Beattie. "Our main aim at present is publicity."

The press conference for Mr. Garrity was held by Maclean's magazine prior to punification of his article.

During the year he was spying on Beattie, Mr. Garrity obtained party membership files and the poems Beattie as a witness at their trial following a disturbance in Allan Gardens when Beattie tried to speak there

Frost Destroys 20 Million lbs. of Tobacco

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Frost early Friday destroyed an estimated 20,000,000 pounds of tobacco in southwestern Ontario.

For farmers, it was a $12,000,000 loss. Insurance companies stopped frost coverage at noon Thursday.

The loss represents about 10 per cent of the year's total crop.

Full impact of the frost damage will not be determined for several days.

J. E. Gardner, manager of leaf buying for Imperial Leaf Tobacco Co. of Canada Ltd., Aylmer, said Friday his staff is plans a full tour of the district early next week.

"The frost was pretty well spread," Mr. Gardner said. "The Delhi area, Tillsonburg and south towards the lake (Erie) were hit heavily, although not so much toward the west."

He said there were about 40,000,000 pounds of tobacco left in the fields before the frost hit.

Operation Fails to Save One Twin

Her sister, Sherri Lee, died of heart failure Saturday, about eight hours after a team of doctors successfully separated the twins in a 6½-hour operation at the Hospital for Sick Children.

Early today, Crystal Ann was in the hospital's neo-natal unit, her breathing assisted by a specially-designed respirator. A hospital spokesman said her condition was critical, but her progress satisfactory.

A special team of 10 doctors and six nurses was faced with two major problems when surgery on the three-month-old girls began Saturday morning.

The girls' livers were separate, but fused within a large area of tissue that joined them from chest to navel. Their hearts, enclosed in one membranous sac, lay horizontally instead of vertically.

HEARTS PROTRUDE

The elongated lower chambers of the "big babies' hearts protruded each into the other's chest cavity. But doctors said Sherri Lee's heart extended more than her sister's.

The operation took longer than anticipated, but surgeons said they met nothing that preoperative cardiac tests had not prepared them for.

Surgically, it was a triumph of skill and planning that the tiny babies, together weighing only 15 pounds, survived the separation.

A hospital bulletin after the operation explained the problems encountered during surgery:

"Following the separation of the McGee twins it was found that Sherri Lee's heart protruded from the chest cavity and could not be placed in a normal position without impeding the function and bringing on an immediate fatal result.

DOME USED

"A plastic dome prepared prior to the operation was placed over the heart as temporary measure. This procedure, it was hoped, would allow the heart to function normally.

"It was known that even though the twins survived surgery the chances for survival would be critical. With this in mind, plans and precautions as complete and elaborate as those made for surgery itself, were prepared for post operative care."

The twins were born June 2 to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McGee of Guelph.

Since birth, Sherri Lee had remained smaller than her sister, whom doctors described as "constitutionally inadequate." Despite her greater

Postmen Threaten To Strike

TORONTO (CP)—The Letter Carriers' Union of Canada has threatened to strike post offices across the country unless the federal government raises postmen's salaries $2,000 a year by Nov. 15.

Roger Decarie, the union's president, told a meeting of 2,200 members in Toronto Sunday that if a strike is called it will not be in only one or two cities but will extend from "St. John's, Nfld., to Vancouver."

"If we don't accept a government offer, the post offices will be closed tight before Christmas and we'll wait for the cobwebs to take over," he said.

He said the 9,500 - member LCU was assured of solid support from other nations if there was a strike.

The national executive of the 21,000-member Canadian Union of Postal Workers announced Sept. 7 that ballots had been mailed to all members asking whether they will support a strike if pay negotiations with the government break down.

DEADLINE IS THURSDAY

Deadline for return of the ballot is Sept. 20 with the results to be announced two days later.

Alex Power, president of the LCU's Toronto local, said after Sunday's meeting the two unions have already formed a strike committee which will meet shortly.

The LCU is demanding an increase of $1 an hour which would raise letter carriers' starting salaries to $6,500 a year from $4,500.

Mr. Decarie told the cheering letter carriers that the union's demands would not hurt Canada's economy.

"The state of the economy now is certainly not the fault of the letter carrier with less than $5,000 a year," he said. "It's not up to us to settle the economy. We have to fight for our rights."

He said 85 per cent of the LCU's membership would vote to strike if the ballots were sent out now.

Pope Paul Proclaims October Month of Prayer for Peace

VATICAN CITY (CP)—Pope Paul today proclaimed October a month of worldwide prayer to end the Viet Nam war.

In the fourth encyclical of his reign, the Pope told the world's 500,000,000 Roman Catholics that he lifted his voice "with piercing cry and with tears" to political leaders to "prevent the further spread of the conflagration and even to extinguish it entirely."

He called for a meeting to work out plans for a peace and said, . . . "A settlement should be reached now, even at the expense of some inconvenience or loss, for (otherwise) it may have to be made later in the train of bitter slaughter and involve great loss."

The Pope added that a peace settlement "must rest on justice and the liberty of mankind, and take into account the rights of individuals and communities, or otherwise it will be shifting and unstable."

The pontiff also appealed for an end to the nuclear arms race, nationalist expansion, racism, segregation and revolution.

In his encyclical, a circular letter to the world's Roman Catholic bishops, the Pope noted that the month of October is dedicated to prayers to Mary and said that this October "our prayers and supplications should be redoubled" to help bring peace to all men.

He announced that Oct. 4, the anniversary to his visit to the United Nations would be set aside by Catholics throughout the world as a special day of prayer for peace and that on that day he would hold a special ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica.

The 1,000 - world encyclical was the Pope's first major public act after his two-month summer retreat. Vatican sources said the pope had acknowledged that all his diplomatic efforts to end the war had achieved nothing. They said with this encyclical he was launching an intensified program to influence world opinion at the level of the people.

The sources said the Pope had decided on this course particularly because of the decision of U-Thant to quit as secretary-general of the United Nations. The Pope and Thant have been working closely, in efforts to promote peace, and the sources said the Pope considered Thant's departure a great blow.

The Pope said that those responsible for the safety of the human family "should carefully examine their moral record and obligations, remembering that men will esteem their mercy and if they have followed their shortsighted wish wisdom.

"We cry to them in God's name to stop. Men must come together and work out concrete plans and terms in all sincerity."

No Suspect in Murder Of Candidate's Daughter

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP)—Police said they were without a suspect, motive or hard clue today as they investigated the mystery - shrouded murder of Valerie Percy, daughter of Republican Leader Charles H. Percy.

Valerie, 21, blonde and pretty, was beaten and stabbed to death in her bed early Sunday while the Percys and two other children, including the victim's twin sister, slept in nearby bedrooms.

Percy, 47, is the Republican candidate in the November general election against U.S. Senator Paul Douglas and has been active in politics on both the state and national levels.

The long search of the 17-room house and grounds on the fashionable North Shore turned up no clues but nothing of immediate significance, police said.

"We have no leads at all," said Kenilworth Police Chief Robert Daley. "There are no clues that would help us in any way."

Police pieced together this:

The intruder approached the Percy home, situated on the shore of Lake Michigan, apparently shortly before 5 a.m.

He cut an opening in the locked screen door, then cut a slice out of a glass panel of the inside door, unlocked it and entered the house.

The intruder crept up a staircase. At the top landing were three doors. He chose Valerie's —whether accidentally or by design is not known.

Percy and his second wife, Loraine, the victim's stepmother, were sleeping in a bedroom about 35 feet from Valerie's.

Mrs. Percy told police she was awakened by a moan. She walked into the hall, unaware that Valerie was dying of a crushed skull and more than a

British Ministers Fly to Rhodesia; May Meet Smith

By SEAGHAN MAYNES

LONDON (Reuters) — Two British cabinet ministers headed for Rhodesia today with Prime Minister Wilson's "last chance" offer for a negotiated settlement with the breakaway white-minority government.

But whether Commonwealth Secretary Herbert Bowden and Attorney - General Sir Elwyn Jones, will present the British conditions personally to Prime Minister Ian Smith or his official representatives was an open question.

Britain insists there will be no government - to - government encounter in Salisbury, and emphasized Sunday night the trip is no way implied recognition of the Smith government.

But a surprise message from Salisbury was delivered to the British government about 30 minutes before the two ministers were scheduled to leave Sunday. In the message, Smith agreed to discussions, but only on the condition the talks were at government level.

Wilson postponed the flight four hours while the government sought clarification of Smith's attitude. He then announced the mission in no way constituted any change in the attitude of Britain to the regime in Rhodesia, and that all discussions in Salisbury would be under the aegis of the British-recognized governor, Sir Humphrey Gibbs. The Associated Press quoted officials as saying Wilson let Bowden and Jones leave after receiving assurances from Salisbury that Smith's statement was made to placate extremists in the Rhodesian Front party.)

Bowden and Jones are the first British cabinet members to visit Rhodesia since the former colony unilaterally declared independence in November.

In Salisbury, sources close to the Rhodesian government suggested that Smith might meet secretly with the two British ministers, with Smith attending as a "private citizen" and Bowden and Jones as British ministers with power in Rhodesia." This was the procedure followed by Smith and another emissary from Rhodesia earlier this year.

The ministers' official task in Rhodesia is to convey to "sections of opinion" the consequences of continuing to resist a return to legal government as a result of Wilson's ultimatum issued in London during the recent Commonwealth conference.

Own Guns And Plane Hit Marines

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. military headquarters reported today that an accidental bombing by U.S. marines by a marine plane and two accidental shellings of American infantry by their own artillery killed six U.S. servicemen and wounded 26 others.

One shelling at 1:30 a.m. today killed two soldiers and wounded 16, an official spokesman said. Several hours later, two more rounds of 105-millimetre artillery killed one soldier and wounded three, the spokesman added.

Both artillery incidents took place a few miles from Tay Ninh city, 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

In the accidental bombing, a marine fighter - bomber dropped a 500-pound bomb Sunday on marines in the northernmost province of South Viet Nam a few miles south of the demilitarized zone.

FIRE CALLED IN

The U.S. command said three marines were killed and four were wounded. A spokesman said the air strike was called in by the marines and was under direction of a forward air controller. He said the jet made one bombing run 600 feet closer to them.

The forward controller marked the target with a smoke grenade and the bomb was dropped in the designated target area, inflicting the casualties, the spokesman reported.

The air mistake overshadowed war developments in which U.S. planes kept up crippling pressure on targets in North Viet Nam and sparred with MiG jets for the third straight day. In the east, the war was reported in the south, marines fought North Vietnamese regulars just below the demilitarized zone which separates North and South Viet Nam at the 17th parallel.

The MiGs fired on U.S. fighters in two passes Sunday but there was no damage to either side, a U.S. spokesman said. He did not disclose how many planes were involved in the encounters.

Denounce Truckers' Violence

TORONTO (CP)—The Automotive Transport Association of Ontario has drawn up a document describing alleged acts of violence in a dispute between the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Taggart Services Ltd., a Perth, Ont., trucking firm.

The document, which alleges arson, attempted murder, sabotage, intimidation and car bombings, is to be submitted to Attorney-General Arthur Wishart, an association spokesman said Sunday night.

He said the decision to prepare the document was prompted by a rifle shot at Taggart driver George Waits, 34, as he drove a company truck on the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway last Wednesday. Mr. Waits was hit in the neck by the bullet, which tore through the truck cab and broke a window.

Kenneth McDougall, president of the Teamsters' local in Toronto, said Sunday night that no Teamsters have been involved in the violence. The union struck Taggart Aug. 17.

Cables Placed On Sub

HAMBURG (AP)—A salvage crew ran the first of two cables under the sunken West German submarine Hai (shark) today and prepared to lift it from the bottom of the North Sea. Then it will be towed to the German naval base at Heligoland.

The salvage ship Magnus III reported calm seas and clear weather on the Dogger Bank, where the sub sank in 130 feet of water with 20 crew members aboard last Wednesday night. Only one man survived the sinking, which set off sharp criticism of West German naval commanders.

At Heligoland naval inspectors will try to determine what caused the ship to sink during a strong gale while on the way to Aberdeen, Scotland, for a goodwill visit.

Divers who located the vessel Sunday got no answer when they knocked on the hull, confirming fears that no one had survived in the air pocket in the sub. Seven bodies have been recovered.

West Germany's largest newspaper, the Bild Zeitung, reported that the commander of the three submarines and two escorting ships bound for Aberdeen ignored safety regulations by making the trip through rough seas.

The paper quoted sailors from the tug Passat as saying that the commander had been advised that the waves and pitch exceeded the level at which safety rules specify such trips were to be broken off.

Gigantic Meteor Flashes Across Sky in the Great Lakes Area

TORONTO (CP) — Telephone switchboards at radio and television stations throughout southern Ontario were flooded with calls Saturday night after a gigantic meteor flashed across the sky in the general area of the Great Lakes.

Reports of the sighting were received from points as far apart as Sarnia, Ont., and Drummer, Que.

Most reports of the meteor's progress came from the Great Lakes area, but Quebec Provincial Police said it was seen falling through the skies above the Montreal area.

An official at the U.S. Coast Guard station in Port Huron, Mich. said the fireball was first tracked on a radar screen. He said that apparently the meteor broke up and the bulk of it landed in Lake Huron off Harbor Beach, Mich., about 60 miles north of Sarnia.

As the meteor broke up a shower of sparks cascaded earthwards.

In Sudbury, there were reports that fragments of the meteor landed in that area, causing two fires. One fragment was reported in the Huntsville, Ont. area and another in Port Carling, Ont.

A brush fire in the Midland, Ont. area, believed to have been started by fragments of the meteor, was also reported.

Bruce Connor of London, Ont., a pilot flying from Peterborough to London, said a meteor fell just his plane about one mile north of Woodstock. He said he was flying at about 4,000 feet when the fireball burst out just below his flight path.

An explanation of the nature of the meteor was given Saturday night by Dr. Helen Hogg of the David Dunlop Observatory in Toronto.

Dr. Hogg said she had not seen the meteor, but observed that eyewitness accounts did not mention hearing any sound. She said a body as big as a meteor would have created a rumbling as he sing sound.

She said that as a general rule a meteor can be heard if it passes within five to 10 miles of witnesses.

Crew members aboard a U.S. Coast Guard lightship on Lake Huron five miles south of Sarnia said they heard a noise described as a deafening thud shortly after they sighted the fireball.

Provincial police in Timagami, 70 miles north of North Bay, reported one or more sections of the meteorite landed in their area. However, none of the sections had been found.

Mel Inche, provincial police constable of the Huntsville detachment, said Sunday he saw a "white flame with a tail 200 to 300 feet long" land in the bush, north of Huntsville.

"After it landed, it emitted a bright glow for several seconds," he said. Police searched for fragments Sunday but could not find any.

Another section of the meteorite was reported to have struck the ground between Bracebridge and Port Carling. Neither police in Bracebridge nor Bala, a nearby town, were able to locate it.

Around the 'Cat'

The second monster Jitney sponsored by the Lawn Bowling Club was held on Sunday on the local greens and it was a decided success. The weather was delightful, the greens lush and the pot luck supper which followed the second game, provided by the women's section was a delicious treat. There were eight rinks of trebles in the Jitney and a rink of George Fisher, Mrs. Pearl Carter and Bill Wright as skip won the honors. The two-game high score was taken by a rink of Mrs. Dorothy Argus, Mrs. Grace Clapp with Claude Tice as skip, while a rink of Lyle Langabeer, Mrs. Dorothy Price with Bill Fuller as skip won the one-game high. Ralph Tuck conducted the draw.

Six rinks from the local Club journeyed to Brighton on Friday to enjoy a women's doubles tournament and two rinks came home with prizes. Mrs. Phyllis Graham and Mrs. Millie Smith won the three-game high count and Mrs. Betty Vince and Mrs. Carm Mott captured the two-game high score. Mrs. Bill Cohn and partner of Brighton won the one-game high while Mrs. Mary Ash and Mrs. Helen Coutts of Trenton had no wins but had the high score in that category. The women enjoyed a dinner before the last game. Other Belleville rinks present were Mrs. Irene Trudeau and Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon, Mrs. Vera McIntosh and Miss Mary Fairbairn, Mrs. Elsie Humphreys and Mrs. Jessie McIntosh and Mrs. Nora Kyle with Mrs. Kay Jackson.

Congratulations to Mrs. Vera McIntosh and Toy Hall in winning the mixed doubles tournament at Stirling on Saturday. "Jerry" Hyde, the president of the PLSA, has recovered his bowl lost in the Trent River at Campbellford recently. Mr. Hyde, instead of playing a "Sisely-yard" draw was firing and the bowl jumped the fence and plunked into the river.

RAF Chaplain Wonders Aloud About Battle

SALISBURY, England (Reuters)—A former RAF chaplain Sunday chose the 26th anniversary of the Battle of Britain to wonder aloud whether the heroic efforts of a handful of RAF pilots against the Nazis really resulted in a free England worth living in.

"We do well to ask," Rev. William Rodda told a memorial service in Salisbury Cathedral, "when we look around today, was their journey into the unknown really necessary?"

"We are told we were fighting for freedom, for a country fit for heroes to live in. This is now just a joke.

"Instead of wanting to live here, as many as possible are getting out—our doctors, scientists, tradesmen, and others are leaving to find freedom elsewhere.

"The ideals of the welfare state have proved an illusion. Bureaucracy has gone mad. Petty restrictions have multiplied.

LAWS NOTHING

"Unemployment is disguised as redeployment. The sanctity of the law counts for nothing, provided you can get away with it."

In services elsewhere in England, more than 3,000 persons crowded into Westminster Abbey to pay their respects to men Winston Churchill dubbed "the few."

Attending the service were Prime Minister Wilson, Air Chief Marshal Lord Dowding, who directed the battle, dozens of representatives from Commonwealth countries and relatives of the pilots who died in the battle.

Forty-seven Canadians died in the Battle of Britain.

Canadian airmen destroyed about 120 enemy aircraft with about 100 more counted as probably destroyed or damaged.

Marriage Vows Taken Dangling From Copter

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two aerialists exchanged marriage vows while dangling on a ladder beneath a circling helicopter, hundreds of feet above the ground.

"As performers, we wanted to do something that nobody else has ever done," said Frank Clark, 36, speaking for himself and his bride, Ruthie Engford, both of Chicago.

The ceremony took place before thousands of spectators at the Western Fair, where the couple, billed professionally as the Fraserons and Estreiets, have been performing their mid-air acrobatics for weeks.

Rev. Jonas Shepherd, a local Presbyterian minister, who had agreed to conduct the service, said prior to the ceremony:

"I think they're very sincere. I wish every couple I talked to before marriage had as good an attitude."

The couple, fitted with sacrophone boxes for the minister's words, used a microphone for their responses which were heard by the grandstand audience throughout western Ontario on a radio hook-up.

The rings for the double ring ceremony were attached to their wrists by a thin string.

TIRE KILLS MAN

BUFFALO, NY. (AP)—Stanley F. Klebrak, 29, of suburban Cheektowaga, was injured fatally Saturday when a large industrial tire he was filling with air exploded at his service station. Police said the explosion flipped Klebrak five feet, causing head and chest injuries.

THE UNITED WAY — Charlie Buckley, manager, Bell Telephone, and a member of the Belleville United Appeal board, explains the appeal to two Northern Electric employees, Mary Peters and Arnold Hutchinson. Mr. Buckley, along with United Appeal executive director R. L. Porter, addressed Northern Electric employees today as Northern started its in-plant campaign.

Northern Electric Campaign Started in N. E. Plant

Belleville's United Appeal got off and running this morning, and employees of Northern Electric jumped quickly to the fore with the start of their in plant United Appeal campaign.

Every 40 minutes throughout the day, groups of Northern employees are viewing a film and listening to an address by United Appeal workers.

This morning Charles Buckley, manager, Bell Telephone, and a member of the United Appeal campaign executive, asked for support from the employees.

Manager Neil Davidson said the idea of the session was to "get the facts to the people. To let the individual decide for himself."

He said the company supports the United Appeal and feels it is useful in solving the problem of life that many people face and can not solve themselves. "The only way to do it is for people to work together in the community through the United Appeal."

He said that since 1960, Northern Electric has doubled its contribution to United Appeal.

Mr. Buckley said the United Appeal was formed to escape from the high cost of administration of separate campaigns and to co-ordinate funds so they will be put to the best possible use.

BETTER EQUIPPED

"We are often asked, 'Why doesn't the government take better care of it?'," Mr. Buckley said. "Local agencies are better equipped to handle emergencies quickly and efficiently and can tailor their services to the community itself much better than the vast organization of government can."

He said that perhaps the most basic appeal of United Appeal is it gives us a single appeal. "There are many of the agencies outside of the Appeal having their own campaign," he said. "The only way to eliminate this problem and make one large appeal is to make sure, by our contributions, that we reach our objectives and assure the immediate and continuous success of these outside agencies being able to meet their financial needs through the big appeal."

He stressed the point that the main objective of the 1966 United Appeal in Belleville is to have more people contributing. He said the idea is to broaden the base of the appeal. He said the 1966 objective of five hours.

IN MEMORIAM

TWIDDY — In loving memory of a dear Grandma who passed away Sept. 19, 1965.
When I think of you Grandma, Hold in the memory,
To hear your voice, see your smile,
To sit with you and chat awhile,
To hear you laugh,
For you'll never know the heartache,
You left behind,
But you see his vacant chair,
And you know why by his son Ray and family.

TWIDDY — In loving memory of a dear husband, Father I Twiddy, who passed away Sept. 19, 1965.
It left us lonely when you went,
Our thoughts unknown,
But left us memories,
We are proud to own.
Your smile, your face,
Your gentle ways,
For when on earth,
We love you the best,
Are fondly missed by wife Annie, and family.

TWIDDY — In loving memory of a dear father who passed away Sept. 19, 1965.
A light is from our household gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
Sweet memory lingers with us still,
Though on earth you are no more,
And in our hearts you live for ever,
As you always were before.
—Sadly missed by the family.

MARACLE — In loving memory of our dear father, Frederick Maracle, who passed away September 19, 1964.
We do not need a special day,
To bring you to our mind,
For every day we think of you,
And always will.
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were ours to give,
We'd give it you and more,
For you were more than dear,
You were everything to us.
—Always remembered by son Doug, Mary and family.

Rigors of Canadian Winters Not Appreciated by Guyanan

The 23-year-old son of a South American sugar plantation owner currently taking a two-year diploma course in agricultural science at Kemptville doesn't greatly appreciate the rigors of Canadian winters.

Sukhde Doobay of Guyana (formerly British Guiana) arrived in Canada in September 1965 and last winter had his first experience with ice and snow.

"From pictures I thought snow was something like sand," the young man of East Indian ancestry said yesterday as he visited with Kemptville school mate Lynn Reynolds at his father's farm west of Foxboro.

FARMING BIT STRANGE

On his way back to Kemptville Sukhde stopped off for a week's visit at the Reynolds farm west of Foxboro. The two boys reported for classes in Kemptville this morning.

Although farming the Canadian way is a bit strange to Sukhde, he is well acquainted with the growing of rice and sugar cane. On his father's plantations 500 acres of rice and about 200 acres of sugar cane are grown each year. There are also about 200 acres of coconuts.

The family also raises a type of beef cattle which thrives best in hot humid climate.

Few dairy cattle are raised and Sukhde had never seen cows milked mechanically until he came to Canada. In his country the weather is hot that cattle have to be kept under sheds during the heat of the day and sent out to graze only in the morning and evening.

PLANT RICE BY HAND

Sukhde says that the planting of rice is strictly a manpower operation with planting being done by hand in six inches of water.

After the grain germinates the fields are drained and when harvest time rolls around, the grain is cut and threshed by combine.

Harvesting of sugar cane is also a manpower operation. The 15 foot stalks are cut with a machete type cycle and loaded on scows for shipment to the sugar plant.

The costal area of Guyana is low with much of it protected from the sea by dykes built by the Dutch who originally developed the country. There are no roads in the interior with transportation being mostly by river craft or plane.

Temperatures in some part of the country soar to as high as 120 degrees.

Main exports of the country are bauxite, sugar and rice.

Gold and diamond mining is also carried on. Gold mining is mainly a manual operation with workers called "Pork Knockers" leasing government-owned property from which they mine the gold through an open pit operation.

After receiving his diploma in agricultural science at Kemptville next spring Sukhde hopes to go on to McGill University to take a soils specialty course. He is not yet sure whether he will return to Guyana to live.

More than 50 per cent of the population in Guyana are descendant of workers brought in many years ago from India to work in the sugar plantations. Sukhde's grandparents came to the country about a century ago.

Taxi Driver and Student Rescue Boy From Harbor

A taxi driver and a University student were credited yesterday with the rescue of an eight-year-old Belleville boy who drove his bicycle off a boardwalk into the Victoria Park harbor.

The boy, Brian Whalen, son of Belleville realtor, Don Whalen, of 41 Victoria Avenue in the city, was playing with a companion around 11:40 a.m. Sunday when the mishap occurred.

Fifty-two-year-old Willi a m Dimitie of 49 St. Charles Street, a cab driver for Central Taxi Co. of Belleville, was parked in the area awaiting a call on his car radio when cries for help from the Whalen boy's companion attracted his attention.

Dimitie rushed to the water's edge and jumped into the water where the boy was struggling to remain on the surface. The harbor is some five feet in depth at that point, but drops off sharply to 12 feet nearby.

A passerby, Laurie Rowbotham, 20, of 46 Catharine Street, also dove into the water, when he arrived on the scene and assisted Dimitie in getting the boy up onto the shore.

Two items were lost in the harbor during the course of the rescue: Whalen's bicycle, which was later recovered by the city fire department, and Rowbotham's eye-glasses, which are still presumably buried in the murky harbor bottom.

STEELWORKERS OBJECT

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) The United Steelworkers of America took issue Sunday with President Johnson's economic policy, brushing aside the administration's wage guideposts as "inequitable and unworkable." The union, the third largest in the U.S. with 1,100,000 members, said the 3.2-per-cent guideposts "can only delay" the goal of full employment and full production.

Smut in Corn Crop Seen In District

There is an increasing number of reports reaching the office in Stirling concerning smut in the corn crop. Jack Hagarty, the Soil and Crop Specialist for the Quinte area, reports that this condition is quite prevalent. The cause of this smut development can be attributed to unsettled weather conditions of the summer of 1966. The hot dry period of the summer occurred just when smut infection was at its most prevalent stage. / At the same time, due to the hot weather, most of the corn was just barely surviving. Under this weekened condition, the smut infection spread rapidly.

As far as is known at present there will be no detrimental effect from putting this smut infected corn into the silo. Smut is a fungus, not a mould. As far as is known fungus growth will not effect cattle feed. Also, as far as is known, as a fungus it should have no detrimental effect in the making of good silage.

There is no economic way to control this at the present time. It would add too much to the cost of the production of corn to try and spray for control during the growing season. In areas of high fertility where the corn can better combat poor weather conditions, there seems to be less smut infection and less damage. This observation is made on an area basis.

Bus Route Has Been Made Permanent

The temporary north end route of the Avondale - Parkdale bus put into operation with the reconstruction of North Front Street has now become a permanent run, according to the Belleville Transit Commission.

The bus runs up North Front Street to Craig Street; east on Craig to North Park and then north to Bell Boulevard returning to College Street by way of North Front Street.

Transit commission officials say it has been found that this route offers better service to residents in the north - east section of North Front Street and also eliminates a duplicate run on North Front Street from College Street to Bell Boulevard.

There will be no change in the timetable as result of making the changed route permanent.

Vorster—Logical Choice

Balthazar Johannes Vorster is the new prime minister of South Africa.

Even some of those who have supported the Nationalists and their policy of apartheid in the past may be alarmed about this choice.

They ought not to be surprised. Mr. Vorster was in the logical line of succession.

The father of apartheid as a determined policy, rather than as merely a recognition of the existing state of things, was Dr. Malan. He cloaked the policy with the conviction of the religious fanatic. Strijdom, who followed him, was a propagandist. Hendrik Verwoerd was tainted with intellectualism and endeavored to build a facade of nationalism for apartheid, with his talk of separate development and of bantustans.

To clear away the deceptive mists of this trio, a strong wind was needed, and Vorster is it —strong, and steady and bitterly cold.

In a few years we shall probably hear little of such altruistic plans as seeking to assist the natives to progress along the path to civilization.

The white society in South Africa, prospering on the cheap labor of the natives, needs an assured supply of workers who will never aspire to become entrepreneurs. Vorster is the man to provide this need, with no nonsense about catering to the ambitions of the natives.

Only one logical step remains — the establishment of an undisguised class of slaves. If Vorster is not the man to make this change—and it would be unfair to him to say at this early stage that he is not equipped to meet this challenge — then time will eventually raise up the man for the job.

Of course, time dwells with the blacks and the colored too.

As the Nazis, Vorster's ideological predecessors, discovered.

Tax Relief

There is merit in Mayor Jack Ellis' proposal of a tax relief plan for senior citizens who have owned their own homes for at least 10 years and wish to remain in them.

Ellis pointed out in The Intelligencer on Tuesday the tax relief would be in the form of a credit to senior citizens for that part of their realty taxes which normally would be used for school purposes.

The limit of such tax credit would be $100 on the house in which they are living. Although means tests are an unpopular device, it is reasonable in this instance that provision should be made for such a test in order to avoid subsidization of citizens by others less well-endowed than themselves.

The rising cost of living hits hard at people on fixed incomes. The elderly whose pensions are stretched to the limit, and beyond, are among those who are finding the going particularly difficult.

Mayor Ellis had citizens in these circumstances in mind when he outlined his plan to council. He cited the fact that the old age security pension had remained static while wages in industry had been considerably.

The plan is subject to the approval of council —a decision is expected at next week's meeting— and if agreement is obtained the provincial government will be asked to sanction enabling legislation.

Who Is Retarded?

Residents of York sub-division in Trenton have little to scrawl about in their attitude towards establishment of a home for mentally retarded adults in their area.

The lack of any human considerations in their pleas that such a home would devaluate properties and put their children in danger speaks poorly for that area.

York sub-division residents, though, are not to be condemned alone. If it is any consolation to them, though it is no excuse, the attitude they displayed is nothing new.

Many forget the fact that a retarded person is human, not some kind of awesome monster waiting to kill the first person who dares walk near them.

People who think about other human beings as financial liabilities or mad monsters are themselves sporting retarded values.

No Malice, Alice

They peep out from the nest of their flowing locks with a bored air, apparently certain that their elders will disapprove of their display of modernity.

Actually they stir memories. They look like nothing so much as that antithesis of all sophisticates, Alice in Wonderland, who wore her locks just like that when she took tea with the Mad Hatter and his party or, later, Through the Looking Glass, confronted the Black Queen.

How charming.

And Little Lord Fauntleroy is back, too.

Gallbladder Removal No Problem for Many

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I know that the gallbladder is a vesicle attached to the liver, which receives bile from the hepatic ducts, concentrates it and discharges it after meals."

When the gallbladder is removed diet is very different and some foods (fried foods and fewer) are prohibited entirely.

This is my question. Can anything be given to replace the bile? — G. E. R.

What you say about the gallbladder is true, but what you say about the diet after its removal is not true.

Bile, which is necessary for digestion, is being produced constantly by the liver (the volume in 24 hours is about the same as that of urine).

Removal of the gallbladder does not mean that this supply of bile is lost. Instead it is discharged directly into the small intestine, where it will go anyway.

The difference is that it no longer is saved in a concentrated form to be discharged in larger amounts at eating time. In most cases there is a perfectly adequate supply to control digestion.

Innumerable people have no problem at all after removal of the gallbladder, and can eat anything. A few who already have exceptionally large meals, including a lot of fats, may have a little distress but can avoid it by reducing their intake.

There are some folks who lack other digestive essentials — hydrochloric acid, certain enzymes from the pancreas, pepsin, etc. There are medicaltions to supply these essentials if needed.

When digestive troubles persists after removal of gallbladder it is time to look elsewhere for the cause. Ulcers, hiatal hernia, colon disorders, function all disturbances.

Dear Dr. Molner: My six-year-old daughter has had swollen lymph glands ever since a live measles shot last October, and she runs a fever. The doctor can't find any cause except large tonsils and an infection that has to work its way out of her system. Should I take her to a gland specialist? — Mrs. B.

Reaction to live measles vaccine disappears within a week or 10 days, so I would look for some other reason for the swollen lymph glands. The enlarged tonsils seem to point to tonsillitis or chronic infection of the nasal or throat area.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is ruthi thyroid deficiency and what can be done for it? — T. D.

It's a mild lack of thyroid — not enough to be obvious, but enough to slow you down a bit, make you a little more tired than you should be. Small doses of thyroid drugs can make up the deficiency and give you more up.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had a mild heart attack (coronary) a year and a half ago. I am now 57 and in good health.

I have enjoyed steam and sauna baths since my 20's. I went to a sauna bath establishment but a sign on the door prohibited persons with heart defects from entering. What is your knowledge of this? — W. W. H.

I can conceive that the intense heat an subsequent perspiration could have some unfavorable effect on a person with coronary heart disease. Obviously the establishment has to protect itself and clients who have any type of heart trouble.

My suggestion is to stick to conventional showers and baths.

Ike Favors Conscription

Hamilton Spectator

Former U.S. President Eisenhower has an idea that could do much to keep the juvenile delinquents from rising into the stratosphere. He would call up all American boys when they reach the age of 18, and train them for 48 weeks — one year minus three weeks' vacation.

Conscription of youth might appear to be impossible in Canada a the present, but it has worked splendidly in many other nations, including the U.S. and Australia. A year out of the life of an 18-year-old, who isn't at university, couldn't possibly do him or his future any harm.

As General Eisenhower points out, the blanket rule he proposes would rub out much of the resentment, imagined or otherwise resulting from the present willy-nilly draft system. In addition, it would provide the U.S. with a much larger force of trained manpower on which to call in cases of national or localized emergencies.

Most important, from any nation's standpoint, a year's service in the armed forces does wonders for the young. It teaches them discipline and self-control, two qualities missing from the makeup of so many of today's privileged and under-privileged alike. In that reason alone, the Eisenhower suggestion will receive serious consideration. As a matter of fact, any scheme that would keep a couple of million energetic youngsters off city streets for 12 months at a stretch will be applauded wildly by many law-makers.

At the Supermarket

Windsor Star

Supermarkets traditionally have been tidy places. The various commodities are neatly stacked in bins and the price cards firmly affixed under each item. A citizen has noted recently, however, a deterioration — especially as regards the price cards.

In two different supermarkets he found the price cards in disarray, with some markers incomplete. There might be a lot — 3, with the other figure missing so the price might be 83 cents, 63 or 35 cents. Some commodities lacked price cards entirely.

He thought this might be due to customer carelessness which had distorted the markers. But that he came upon a whole row of a certain commodity under which there were no price markers at all.

In these inflationary days it is ever more important that the customer know the exact prices, without having to buy "right unseen" as it were. That a customer might be shocked at certain prices is all the more reason that he know just what they are before he puts the packages in his cart.

Fallible Machines

Christian Science Monitor

For a decade now we have been hearing about wonderful machines being developed which will translate languages faster than one can read them. They are certainly needed in this multilingual world. But can they be trusted to do the job as well as human translators?

The Sunday Times (London), commenting on the grafting of the British Broadcasting Corporation's Language Supervision Unit for economy reasons, warns of the dangers of unsupervised translation. The bloopers it cites show that a rendering can be both literal and wrong.

An Arab, translating a news dispatch stating "Four coaches of the train were telescoped into one," gave a dramatic version in his own tongue: "Four coaches of the train were flung so far that it required a telescope to see them." Another Anglo-English translator, thinking "strike" had only one meaning, turned "Australia's biggest oil strike" into "Australia's biggest oil stoppage."

And Mr. Khrushchev's famous challenge to capitalism: "We will bury you eventually" became, in the hands of a translator into French, the assertion of "We will bury you, maybe."

The difficulties of mechanical translation appear even when an American travels to another English-speaking land. In a British bakery he may ask for biscuits and get, instead, cookies. He would like to see a machine so smart that it would know which kind of English it is translating and respond accordingly.

Short Life For Indians

Vancouver Sun

The average fifty expectancy of the Canadian Indian male is only 33.67 years, according to information supplied to the House of Commons recently by the secretary of state's department.

This is a shocking disclosure in a dynamic society which mouths platitudes about equal opportunities for everyone; in the case of the Indians it really amounts to better opportunities to die.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, dubbed an honorary Kootenay chief during his Cranbrook electioneering, held out vague — even quaintfied — assurances of provincial assistance to Indians. "Although it is a federal matter we are going to do more ourselves," he said. True, Ottawa has a responsibility, though there is a question of challenge to its jurisdiction. But Mr. Bennett was suspiciously vague. He was much more specific in addressing the voters at large — a 70 percent increase in health and welfare spending, a 58 percent increase in hospital beds over seven years. How much for BC's 40,000 Indians, Mr. Bennett?

Although he has proved himself to others to be an Indian giver of long standing, Mr. Bennett should take the phrase literally for a change. He should know that on his 66th birthday he was two Indians old.

Strictly Personal

Doctors and Patients

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"The most valuable part of my medical training," said the young intern, "was selling vacuum cleaners in the summer, between terms."

I nodded agreeably. It seemed sensible enough, although I had not the vaguest idea of what he meant.

"Not the most valuable," he amended, "but I got something I couldn't have got in medical school — and that is an understanding of how people feel about doctors.

"I'd be demonstrating a cleaner and would somehow manage to swing the conversation around to health and sickness and pretty soon the lady of the house would be telling me about her problems with doctors.

"And, you know, they almost all had the same problem: communication. They felt that their doctor didn't know how to talk to them, or wasn't willing to explain enough.

"Sometimes they added the opposite problem — the doctor didn't really listen to them, didn't give them a chance to explain fully, and made them feel foolish and ignorant for suppressing their fears. All these people respected what doctors did — but they didn't like the way they did it."

The principal reason for this attitude, it seems to me, has been the overspecialization in medicine: a trend which is essential, yet which is full of dangers.

In the last 30 years we have learned so much about the parts of the human body that the parts came to obscure the whole.

Doctors began to treat all wounds, or organs, rather than individuals, ignoring the ancient truth that the patient is a whole person, and not merely a collection of parts.

The rise of modern psychiatric knowledge has begun to check this superscientific approach to medicine. We now recognize that the patient's anxieties are an essential part of his illness (sometimes, indeed, the predisposing part), and that unless the doctor is skilled in the art of communicating with a patient, his treatment can be as harmful as it can be helpful.

It shouldn't be necessary to sell vacuum cleaners in the summer in order to learn the public's reaction to medical attitudes. The medical schools themselves should devote a portion of the curriculum to a course in "patient communication." It is fine for a doctor to have a warm bedside manner; it is even finer if his desk-side manner can prevent many patients from taking to their beds.

Socialism Curbs Freedom

Orillia Packet and Times

Now that socialist legislation is part of the program of practically parties of every persuasion and socialism itself has become "respectable," there is a tendency for Canadians, like the British before them, to lose sight of one vital fact. For the hard truth is that, in the long run, socialism will not work without compulsion.

Socialism, like the communism from which it differs only in its theoretical objective, is a system in which ownership and distribution of wealth are vested in the state. Since the state itself is operated by relatively few politicians, the means of production, depending on whether the state be a nominal democracy or a nominal communism, will ever they be called, they are in fact that Orwellian monster, Big Brother, and must of necessity be a potent factor in the unemployment and a generous betterment of the exploited be may be. Big Brother is a notoriously poor creator of wealth and encourager of enterprise in any field.

One has only to compare the brief effects of rigidly-controlled authoritarian states, like modern-day Russia and China or the Egypt and Greece of the Pharaohs, with those of free-enterprise states such as Victorian Britain or 20th century America, to appreciate the inevitable strategies conferred by freedom in man's battle to better his lot. The greatest expansion and use of individual opportunity ever recorded in history occurred in Britain in the first three quarters of the 19th century.

British exports doubled themselves every ten years, and exports of iron soared from 30,000 tons in 1815, to 70 times that figure by 1830. Never before had the world seen such an incredible explosion of created wealth as that engendered by the new free enterprise system. Although it was the attempt to bring the abuses of such runaway industrialism under the rule of law, to "humanize" the industrial revolution, that led the British down the long path of the welfare state.

It is one thing to legislate against the tyranny of the rich and the unjust exploitation of the many by the few, as the British sought to do, and quite another to substitute the arbitrary power vested in the place of the industrial leaders that British have done. A nation which embarked simply against an absolute monarch in a now growing restive under the rule of a bureaucratic civil servance, for the price of socialism, however enlightened and well-intended, is inevitably compounding "in order to enjoy this, you MUST do that . . .

In the long run, there is no substitute for freedom in the affairs of man. Organize it, limit it, here it on one or set to cushion its worst effects on the unwilling and the unable a of the unready, there remains the one essential ingredient of a progressive society. It is the inherent weakness of socialism and communism that, for all their concern with human welfare and well-being, they fail to understand the importance of freedom as the means of harnessing human energy to the making of human wealth.

Serious Butter Shortage Seen By Official

QUEBEC (CP) — A serious butter shortage resulting in runaway consumer prices is almost certain to develop this winter unless Ottawa assures sufficient imports of butter, the president of the National Dairy Council said today.

T. B. Cooper told members of the Dairy Industries Trade Association that Canada must import at least an estimated 20,000,000 pounds of butter.

Butter stocks held by the federal government's stabilization board, which supports the wholesale price of butter at 61 cents a pound, were inadequate to control the situation when the gap was filled by imports.

If government assurance of imports does not come at an early date, the expected shortage "will undoubtedly be reflected in further inflationary rises in prices of most dairy products," Mr. Cooper said.

Mr. Cooper said there was widespread uneasiness and an air of perplexity in the dairy industry—a $1,000,000 business involving farmers, processors, consumers and governments.

PRODUCTION DOWN

Since 1944, domestic demand for dairy products had outstripped farmers' supply, which both this year and last declined from the steady 1951-1954 level.

This had happened despite federal subsidies totalling some $100,000,000—about 17 per cent of dairy farmers' $600,000,000 total cash receipts.

Increasing numbers of dairy farmers, particularly those with small herds, were also losing to the more profitable and less demanding production of beef, hogs and grain, or were leaving farming to enter better-paying jobs in industry.

The dairy plants too were in a precarious position, Mr. Cooper said.

Their average net profit of about two per cent of sales was among the lowest in Canada's food and beverage industry.

This year's continuing cost inflation had made it impossible for many processors to absorb further increases and cover their operating costs.

Mr. Cooper called for a national dairy policy because the industry was "too important to the economy to afford the luxury of erratic policy changes or piecemeal, conflicting and balkanized policies."

Deficit Virtually Unchanged In International Payments

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada rolled up a $736,000,000 deficit on international transactions in goods and services during the first half of 1960, almost unchanged from 1959 despite a better showing in merchandise trade.

Offsetting the export improvement was a sharp rise in dividends and increased interest and dividend payments, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Last year's first half deficit on all transactions totalled $735,000,000.

The $1,000,000 difference occurred when merchandise trade improved $40,000,000 to a $36,000,000 deficit and net payments on non-merchandise transactions widened by $41,000,000 to $730,000,000.

Expressed for balance of payments purposes, merchandise exports increased 20 per cent to $4,798,000,000 during the first half and imports 18 per cent to $4,834,000,000.

DBS noted that the expansion occurred despite transportation disputes in Canada.

The two most important changes in trade volume were heavy shipments of grain to Russia and China and a boom-ing trade in automobiles and parts between Canada and the U.S. under the automotive pact.

Main influences in the higher deficit on non - merchandise transactions were a rise in the interest deficit to $89,000,000 from $770,000,000 and a $21,000,000 increase, to $383,000,000, in net payments of interest and dividends.

Immigration operated as a counter force, to Canada's advantage. The 25-per-cent increase in immigration this year combined with a sharp reduction in the number of Canadians going to the U.S. for permanent residence—a result of new immigration regulations — to expand by $27,000,000 net receipts of migrants' funds and inheritances.

The current account deficit with the U.S. increased by $80,000,000 or eight per cent to $1,110,000,000. The surplus with Britain dropped 10 per cent to $323,000,000.

Canada's surplus with other countries almost doubled, to $233,000,000 from $117,000,000.

Many happy smiling faces were in view Friday as what might have been quite a drought was averted and everything was back to normal. So the social evenings can still carry on. The club is the place to fetch your guests on Friday and Saturday evenings for a pleasant night of relaxation and fun. There are darts and shuffleboard for the more energetic and a quiet game of cards can be enjoyed by others in the downstairs lounge while upstairs, when there is no dance, a tape recorder plays music to either dance to or sit back and listen to. As the long winter evenings draw near, it would be hard to find a more friendly and enjoyable place to spend a couple of leisurely hours with your friends.

The President, at this time, would like to ask the members to think about the ANAF 'Blood for Peace Week' that is coming up shortly. The exact date will be announced later and it is hoped that a large number of the comrades are able and willing to donate their blood to this worthy cause. This is a nation wide project and is helping out quite considerably so let us see that the proud Duke of Edinburgh Unit is doing its share.

Max Rollins is now recuperating at home but Cdr. H. Theobauld is still in the hospital condition and no visitors are allowed at present. A very welcome message was received from the 48th O.C.A. to the effect that some of the members were visiting Cdr. Fred Carmichael at the Orthopedic Hospital and making him feel a little less lonely. This club certainly appreciates this friendly gesture to a member away from his home town.

It has just become known that another member, who worked very hard for the club in the past, has been seriously ill for the past few weeks, namely, Frank Hall. The members especially the old sweats, hope that he will soon recuperate and will be up and around again hortly.

Saturday morning a well deserved tribute was paid to the Duke of Edinburgh Unit ANAF Vollies in a peewee football town. The boys covered themselves with glory. Just missing winning the championship by one run. Vice-president P. Stillhorick of the Minor Baseball League was on hand to present the boys with their well earned crests and through the courtesy of Mr. Ken Lawson, films were shown. The meeting concluded with hot dogs, ice cream and soft drinks to send a happy bunch of boys on their way home.

There is plenty of activity around the dart boards on Saturday afternoons and the winners receive nice cash prizes. The sports chairman will be announcing his plans for further sports activities, in the near future so keep watching for further announcements. A number of these events will be in support of the Centennial and we hope to do our part to help it out.

Police Seize $200,000 in Counterfeit Bills

MONTREAL (CP) — RCMP and Montreal city detectives have seized about $200,000 in counterfeit $50 bills as a result of one of a number of weekend raids.

The investigation continues into the appearance in the Montreal area of dozens of the bills which police said seem to be numerous, cleverly contrived and possibly nationwide in circulation.

Eight men were taken into custody for questioning in the weekend operations, but all were later released.

The $10,000 in bogus bills were reported to have been scattered in a northeast Montreal area by two men who fled in a car Saturday night as police closed in on them.

About 100 plainclothesmen from the two police forces staged a dozen raids starting Friday night.

ISSUE WARNING

On Saturday both forces released a statement warning the public about the counterfeit currency.

The bills, though deceptive, contained "minute printing defects."

Police urged the public to compare the pictures of the Queen appearing on the genuine note and on any suspect $50 bill. The genuine bill features a picture that is "lifelike" in its portrayal of the Queen, the police said.

Officers also described the counterfeit notes as having plainchettes which could not be picked off, unlike those on genuine notes.

Counterfeited plainchettes are just dots of ink.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Secret Service agents reported Sunday the seizure of $435,000 in counterfeit $50 bills. Andrew King, 36, of Patterson, N.J., was charged with having them in his possession.

Australia must modify about 245,000 cash registers and accounting machines to prepare for conversion to decimal currency.

$435,000 in Bogus Bills Uncovered

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The U.S. Secret Service says a counterfeiting counterfeiting operation that spanned the continent has ended in the arrest of a man in a parked car near this city's nightclub section and the discovery of $435,000 in bogus bills in a home.

Two Baltimore policemen awakened Andrew E. King, 36, jury of everything but murder or piecemeal, conflicting and balkanized policies."

Convict Locks Four Guards Into Cell

MONTREAL (CP) — Raymond Sigouin, 25, locked four guards in a cell he had occupied in Montreal's new courthouse Sunday, then walked downstairs and out a back door to freedom.

In his pocket as he left, said police, were the keys to the cell.

There was no immediate explanation of how Sigouin managed to herd the guards into the cell.

The escapee was being held in connection with a recent bank robbery in suburban St. Laurent.

The four guards were reported to be from Bordeaux jail, a provincially-operated institution in north-end Montreal, from where Sigouin had recently been transferred to the courthouse.

Rescue Unit From Trenton Called Off

TRENTON, Ont. (CP) — The air - sea rescue unit here reported today that a young airplane pilot and a girl passenger, missing since Sunday evening on a flight from Wingham, Ont., turned up safely this morning.

Ronald Hitchings, 19, of Wingham and Shirley Martins of RR 4, Wingham, walked out to a highway in Gravenhurst Township, Bruce County. There was no immediate information on what happened to the light plane in which they had taken off for a 30-minute hop.

Neglected Wives Told Timing May Be Poor

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've had it to here with wives who complain their husbands are dead (or half dead) sexually and that they feel unwomanly and unloved. Why don't these whining females stop thinking about how they feel and give some thought to how their husbands feel?

The problem of the "neglected" wife is more prevalent among people in the higher income brackets. Why? Because the greater the economic pressure the less energy a man has left for romance.

The 9 to 5'er leaves his troubles at the office or at the garage or the store. But the aggressive young guy who is clawing his way up is a different story. He has to have eyes in the back of his head to see who is trying to knee him. Every decision must be right because one wrong move could land him out on the street. Organizational foulout can leave a guy completely drained.

So what happens? He comes home exhausted and his wife considers it a personal insult if he doesn't become instantly aroused at the sight of her bending over the kitchen stove.

If she should suggest something, and he says he's too tired, she locks herself in the bathroom and cries for hours. She is positive (a) he no longer loves her, (b) her life as a woman is finished, (c) he has another dame someplace. It has always struck me as interesting that a woman has the born right to be too tired, but a man never!

So, what happens to the husband who struggles to get ahead and isn't sure he's making it? His wife lets him know he isn't making it at home either and he becomes doubly depressed. More conflict, more guilt, more anxiety — and finally total incapacitation.

You won't print this letter because you always take the women's side. Well I feel better for having written it. Now you can throw it on the floor, Babe. Thanks. — WALL STREET WARRIOR.

DEAR WARRIOR: Your letter was too good for the floor. You make sense, boy. Now, read on:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you know why so many women complain about insufficient physical attention from their husbands? Well, I can tell you. It's because their timing is lousy, that's why.

Most men come home from work about 6:00 p.m., exhausted from fighting with employees, associates, bosses and the word know of all — customers. The minute he hits the door, the kids are on him. Gloria needs a new dress for a party. Junior wants an electric guitar. All through dinner the kids are campaigning and the little woman is in there hooking up the kids.

When dinner is over the wife starts on what she needs. "The washer broke down today. It'll cost so much to get it fixed we really ought to buy a new one. "My mother needs an operation. You know who is going to have to pay for it." "The living room rug is so shabby I'm ashamed to have people in. I saw a real bargain advertised in the paper . . . . . "

All this chatter goes on and on until the lights go out. And then — sowie! In two seconds the husband is supposed to turn into a sex maniac.

This has happened so many times at our house that I'm sure it happens in thousands of other homes. So stop sending people to doctors, Ann. Tell the wives to improve their timing and they won't be so frustrated. — VETERAN OF DOMESTIC WARS.

DEAR VET: You and Warrior must be reading each other's mail. And thanks to you both for your contribution to my mail today.

Tent Silhouette Is Back

Probably Canadians won't be wearing it until spring. We always have to see a style in newspaper and magazine photographs for at least six months before we're willing to gamble on it.

But 20 days of concentrated fall fashion showings in New York have placed the tent silhouette right in the forefront. It appeared in all the collections.

It isn't always called a tent. One fashion writer renamed it the wigwam, as more appropriate for North America. Many of the designers referred to it as the pyramid. This word seemed more in keeping than tent with the return-to-elegance theme noticeable in most of the collections. Other designers came up with dome. For those who were holdouts for the continued bouncy young styles, it's the swinger.

Whatever you call the new silhouette, it's wide - skirted. Some of Pauline Trigere's coats measured at least 5½ yards around the hem.

The tent coat swings from small shoulders or from under a high flat bosom. Many of the designers combine the tight, high-necked rajah shape at the top with a flaring hemline.

CALLS THEM CONES

Tent coats appeared in all the winter fabrics, in tweeds, plaids and stripes. They came in the bright new fall colors, too. Norman Norell featured a vivid pumpkin tent coat and skirt combined with a bright blue turtleneck blouse.

Bright colors are also favorites with Phillip Tournaye, designer for Modella. Or else he likes his big coats in two colors, such as black with a camel yoke.

A turquoise tweed - eight-to-length tent coat was teamed by Adele Simpson with a black-and - white horizontally striped dress.

Geoffrey Beene introduced the flaring silhouette in his new pseudo-suits, designed to be worn in place of a dress. They look like a two-piece suit but aren't intended to be worn with a blouse.

The jacket, which he calls rickshaw, is in pyramid shape, narrow at the shoulders and flares wide and low over a slim skirt. One interesting pseudo-suit was in steel-grey flannel. He also likes such fabrics as tweeds, heavy silk crepes and silk satins for his new suit style.

SILHOUETTE IS OLD

The use of the tent silhouette in afternoon and evening fabrics is new but the silhouette itself appeared some 20 years ago. This was the loose-swinging coat.

There was an important difference, however. In 1947 Christian Dior plunged the skirt down to mid-calf. So these tent coats really were tents. Today's version is short, as short as the dresses they cover. That's probably the reason for the half-humorous description of fall's big coat as the pup-tent.

The early tent silhouette was confined to coats. Now it includes dresses. It is a change from the slim sheath we've had for so many seasons. And it bypasses the waist.

Mollie Parnis likes the silhouette in a soft, fluid bat full shape which swings wide at the hem. Donald Brooks calls his version the swing. "It begins at a deliberately flattened high bosom and then conceals its fullness within an enormously deep inverted fold at the front," he says. Wragge introduces a black yoke and black sleeves in a black-and-white tweed tent dress.

For evening the tent silhouette becomes spectacular. There was a big floral printed cire coat in blues and yellows by Tournaye for Modella. Oleg Cassini presented poison green silk with stained-glass circles. Mollie Parnis created a paisley print velvet dome on chiffon to look like animated snakeskin.

For ultra-elegance there was her dome formal gown of pale pink satin, the long sleeves and shoulders paved in jewels.

Sucessful Living

Wed for Love, Loot That Is the Question

DEAR DORIS: I would like very much to go back to school and then to university. But I am in debt. I could sell my car but I know I could not complete school unless I was married and had something to work for. I am 21.

I could still accomplish this, not by marrying the girl I love, but a girl I used to go with, who still loves me. I don't want to hurt either one of them.

The girl I am going with now and myself love each other very much. She is not working at the present time. What can I do? — TROUBLED.

DORIS CLARKE

DEAR TROUBLED: Your life story threatens to end with: "So he married the girl who could put him through college and they lived unhappily ever afterwards." What a grim fairy tale!

A marriage with love is worth waiting for. My advice is to keep your job, complete high school at night, save up for university and marry the girl you love when you can.

It's a long life. Make it a merry one!

DEAR DORIS: I have been asked to M.C. a recreation club banquet. Would you have rules for this job? — CLUB CHAIRMAN.

DEAR CHAIRMAN: As Master of Ceremonies, you can set the pace and make or mar proceedings. You provide the background.

One brief description of an M.C.'s duties says: "He should stand up so people can see him; speak up so they can hear him; shut up so they will like him." He puts everyone in a good humor, keeps the program on schedule, sends everyone away feeling he has had a good time. A tall order!

You introduce the guests, so you need the facts about them ahead of time. Your well-worded remarks should make each person feel at home.

How do you keep your program on schedule, when the guest speaker goes on overtime? Pull his coat tails? No! But you can scribble the words "Three minutes left" across his program. Or hand him your watch. Better still is the kind of friendly pre-arrangement which means he will be watching for a signal from you.

(Doris can help you with that puzzling decision. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

CURRIED SCALLOPS FOR SIX

This scallop dish is for courageous cooks who always are hunting for flavor and variety and if a 1966 economy is thrown in for good measure all the better.

This dish has some good uses besides the obvious one of being the meat dish for dinner. It may be made in advance. It will be popular on a hot buffet table and particularly attractive for the curry-colored scallops look beautiful against a ring of fluffy white rice. Your guests will chester fascinated around it when you serve it for a party.

Pete's three and four-year-olds bravely tried this highly flavored dish and ate it to the last drop of sauce and grain of rice.

Have I persuaded you?

CURRIED SCALLOPS

(serves 6):

1 cup desiccated or feelberstrip or flaked coconut
4 whole cloves
2 cups boiling water
½ cup butter
2 medium onions, chopped
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
2 tsps. (or more) curry powder
½ tsp. cinnamon
1½ tsps. salt
two 12-oz. packages (or if available, one-pound packages) fresh frozen scallops each cut into 2 crosswise slices
¼ cup hot water
4 tsps. cornstarch
¼ cup cold water
1¼ cups raw long grain rice
2¾ cups boiling water
1 tsp. salt

Measure coconut and cloves into a saucepan, pour boiling water over, bring to a boiling point covered, remove from heat and let stand ½ hour.

Cook rice in 3¾ cups boiling water with 1 tsp. salt, covered, 30 minutes.

Melt butter in large frying pan and in it gently saute the chopped onion, garlic, green pepper, curry powder, cinnamon and salt until vegetables are limp but not brown. Add sliced scallops and ½ cup hot water and simmer gently until scallops are opaque — about 5 min. Add strained coconut liquid through sieve to frying pan. Discard coconut and cloves. Stir and simmer gently 3 min. Now make a paste of the cornstarch and ¼ cup cold water and stir in until thick.

BLIND BOWLING — John Towner, a member of the Belleville White Cane Club, sets himself at the Bowl-O-Drome Saturday. Mr. Towner, along with five other members of the club, bowled Saturday under the auspices of the Kinettes.

Blind Bowlers Enjoy Day On the Alleys

Members of the White Cane Club of Belleville are spending some time each Saturday afternoon at the Bowl-O-Drome on Front St., thanks to the efforts of the Kinettes (wives of Kinsmen.)

The blind bowling program began in 1961. The Kinettes keep score and purchase the guard rails on the alley to guide the bowlers.

Kinettes have worked with the blind in Belleville since forming their club in 1960. The club serves lunch at the regular White Cane Club meeting each month and have a birthday party for the blind each March.

vitality, however, her heart was more misshapen than her sister's.

The doctors hoped that, after a time, Sherri Lee's heart might assume a more normal shape and become less fragile so surgical reconstruction of the chest might become possible at a later

However, at 11:45 p.m. EDT, the tiny heart gave up and the baby died.

It was only within the last 10 days that the surgeons reached the babies' heart abnormality posed the greatest threat to their lives.

The doctors consulted with Dr. Eardley S. Allin of Edmonton, who operated on a set of twins with overlapping, horizontal hearts in 1959. Both infants in that case died during the operation.

Dr. Allin found that after separation the protruding hearts were too fragile to bear pressure and could not be placed within the babies' chest cavities.

The Edmonton doctor's experience caused Dr. James Simpson of Toronto to alter slightly his operation plans. Once he found that extensive work would be required on the hearts, his team decided to separate the livers first, giving as much room as possible for heart surgery.

It took Dr. Simpson and Dr. William T. Mustard, a Toronto cardio-vascular surgeon, nearly 4¼ hours to separate the livers and begin the difficult heart separation.

The abdominal incisions in the babies were too large to be closed by drawing their skin across and were closed with surgical mesh and, in Sherri Lee's case, the plastic dome.

The operation finally ended about 2:15 p.m. and a hospital bulletin said both babies "were alive and alert."

Sherri Lee had erroneously been called Sherry Ann since her birth, but Mr. and Mrs. Mc-Gee brought the error to the attention of hospital officials before the operation began.

Besides Dr. Simpson and Dr. Mustard, others on the team included another cardio-vascular surgeon, anesthetists, two general surgeons, two scrub nurses, four floating nurses and four medical photographers to record each phase.

Only seven other pairs of Siamese twins have been born in Canada in the last 15 years. All have died, three after surgery.

Eisenhower Was Ready to Use Atom Bomb

NEW YORK (AP)—Former president Eisenhower said Sunday night he was prepared to use nuclear weapons against China during the Korean War and that the Communists' knowledge of this "had a great effect" in ending the conflict.

He made the statements in a national educational television network interview broadcast.

However, Eisenhower said: "I don't mean to say that we'd have used those great big things and destroyed cities, but we would use them enough to win and we, of course, would have tried to keep them on military targets, not civil targets."

He added:

"I don't mean to say I wanted to use them but I just said that it is intolerable our own country alone had 325,000 casualties in that war. . . . We were going to do whatever was necessary to win."

postal employees and civil servants.

Introduced by Revenue Minister Benson, the bill provides for reclassification of all government employees and the juggling of 1,800 occupational units. It was drafted by the government following last year's 11-day postal strike.

Mr. Decarie said a joint action committee of the two unions will seek support of all members and political parties in their battle against the bill.

Jack Robinson, president of Local 459 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Transitors, isolated his union would also support the LCU.

Ray Andrus, president of the LCU's Vancouver local, said the government bill would destroy both unions.

dozen stab wounds and unaware that the killer was still in the girl's bedroom.

As Mrs. Percy entered Valerie's bedroom she was blinded by a flashlight beam. She ran from the room screaming and pushed a burglar alarm button, awakening her husband.

Percy telephoned police, then went to Valerie's room. The killer had fled. Mrs. Percy telephoned a neighbor, Dr. Robert P. Hoff. Valerie was dead when he arrived.

Mrs. Percy was unable to describe the killer.

Dr. Andrew Toman, coroner of Cook County, said the "attacker obviously came into the house to murder someone." But Police Chief Daley was unwilling to commit himself to this theory or to one that the crime had started out as a burglary.

Valerie, a June graduate of Cornell University, had been working in her father's campaign.

Percy's campaign manager said Percy is still in the race for senator but that campaigning will be suspended. Senator Douglas said he, too, was cutting off his campaign.

Buckskin and feather clad Indians from different tribes and reservations across the province met on the Tyendinaga Indian Reservation Saturday with the staging of the annual Mohawk Fair.

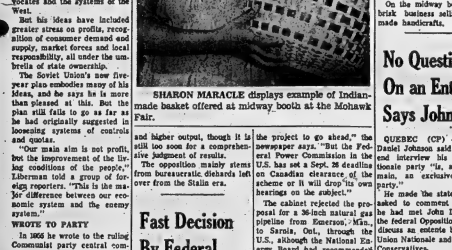
True, the majority of the people present were conventional clothes but the centre of attention were the Canadian Indian Dancers from Toronto who staged a colorful program of Indian tribal dances, complete with flashing tomahawks and flowing feather headdresses.

Eight costumed Indians representing different reservations and tribes across the province made up the dance group. Included were members of the Huron, Ojibway and Mohawk tribes, with Laurie Claus, formerly of Deseronto, as their leader.

Hon. Kelso Roberts, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests officially opened the Fair, recalling the early history of the fair, which he said at one time was held on the airport site.

Mr. Roberts said the Mohawks of the Quinte district had a history of which they could be proud. Deganawidah, one of the Mohawk Tribe, had been responsible for forming the first United Nations before the days of the white man in America.

Clarke T. Rollins, M.L.A. for Hastings East, introduced the ministers. He congratulated Fair President Clifford Maracle and his directors for a "wonderful exhibit and a wonderful parade".



"You can be proud of your boys and girls," Mr. Rollins said.

A colorful parade of Reservation school children, headed by the Colborne Recreation Band, got the fair program underway. Each group wearing or wore head bands topped by single feathers.

Also included on the fair program were a baby show, horseshoe pitching and a baseball game.

There was a good showing of livestock, while in the agricultural building there were fine examples of home cooking, home handicrafts, grain and vegetables and school children's exhibits.

On the midway booths did a brisk business selling Indian made handicrafts.

Profit System In Russia Makes Rapid Strides

By JOHN WEYLAND

KHARKOV, Ukraine (AP)— The Soviet Union's evangelist of the profit system still runs into stubborn opposition, but in 20 years his economic reform ideas have made great strides.

Yevsei Liberman, 69-year-old professor and economist, insists that profits, in the capitalist sense, are not the main objective of his reforms proposals and that there remains a great difference between what he advocates and the systems of the West.

But his ideas have included greater scope for profit, reconciliation of consumer demand and supply, market forces and local responsibility, all under the umbrella of state ownership.

The Soviet Union's new five-year plan embodies many of his ideas, and he says he is more than pleased at this. But the plan still fails to go as far as he had originally suggested in loosening systems of controls and quotas.

"Our main aim is not profit but the improvement of the living conditions of the people," Liberman told a group of foreign reporters. "This is the major difference between our economic system and the enemy system."

WROTE TO PARTY

In 1956 he wrote to the ruling Communist party central committee and presented his case.

"The committee invited me to Moscow to explain. The members criticized some points. A year later, Pravda printed an article, indicating I had managed to obtain some support."

The support grew as the old rigid system of planning and quotas failed to produce the promised good life, while the West maintained its big economic lead.

Finally, Premier Alexei N. Kozygin, Nikita Khrushchev's successor, made Liberman's approach official policy. Now plants already on the new system claim increased efficiency and higher output, though it is still too soon for a comprehensive judgment of results.

The cabinet rejected the proposal for a 36-inch natural gas pipeline from Edmonton, Alta., to Sarnia, Ont., through the U.S., although the National Energy Board had recommended acceptance.

The 1,600-mile line was designed to serve growing markets in Eastern Canada and to offer service to potential U.S. export markets along the route. Trans - Canada and American Natural Gas formed a company, Great Lakes Gas Transmission, which was to build and operate the line.

Fast Decision By Federal Govt. Sought

CALGARY (CP) — The Alberta says the federal government is under pressure to make a fast decision on whether its veto three weeks ago on a Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. proposal to build a pipeline through the United States is final.

"It is understood that Trans-Canada has made some compromise proposals to the government aimed at clearing up policy objections and allowing the project to go ahead," the newspaper says. "But the Federal Power Commission in the U.S. has set a Sept. 26 deadline on Canadian clearance of the scheme or it will drop its own hearings on the subject."

New Caledonia Has Greatest Nickel Reserves

NOUMEA, New Caledonia (AP)—The naturalegist, so the story goes, reported to his superiors in Britain years ago in these words:

"If you took all the bloody minerals out of these bloody mountains, the bloody mountains would fall to pieces."

Today the reserves of nickel on this big French island in the South Pacific are the largest known in the western world. They run into hundreds of millions of tons.

International Nickel of Canada, the biggest producer of nickel in the western world with around 200,000 tons a year, is reported anxious to get into the business in New Caledonia. The question is whether Paris will permit it or any other foreign developer to get at the island's great riches.

Nickel is used for the manufacture of stainless steel, heat-resistant metals and a host of other products. Its use has been increasing at the rate of six to seven per cent each year.

On this island of 6,200 square miles, great gashes can be seen as bulldozers slice the tops off mountains or tear away outcrops for the nickel-rich ore.

Nickel made up 96.5 per cent of New Caledonia's exports in 1965. The Doniambo nickel treatment plant of the French Societe le Nickel sends a cloud of red smoke and dust over the capital city of Noumea, but only the tourists complain. The French company employs 3,000 of Noumea's 56,000 persons; and a tax on nickel exports brings in three-fourths of the local administration's spending money.

An expansion program is under way to raise nickel production to 60,000 tons a year in 1968. From there on the current 35,000 tons a year.

Nickel production in the nonCommunist world is around 350,000 tons a year, which keeps up with demand. But a French forecast is that consumption will rise to 600,000 tons in 1975, and to 800,000 tons in the following decade.

Agreed Basis Of Union Said Scuttled

TORONTO (CP)—The Anglican Church of Canada cannot proceed with formal union negotiations with the United Church of Canada because the latter has scuttled the agreed basis of that union, says an Anglican publication here.

In an editorial in The Communicator, published in Winnipeg, the editor, Canon Eric Hardman, says that since last week's United Church general council in Montreal did not unequivocally approve the principles of union, formal union talks should be called off.

Last year the Anglican Church's general synod approved the principles of union, a document prepared by a committee of both churches, but the general council approved the document only as "a working document . . . subject to such revisions and additions as may become necessary. . ."

SYMPATHETIC TO VIEWS

Dr. D. R. G. Owen of Trinity College here, chairman of the Anglican Church's official committee on union, said he was "some sympathy with Mr. Hardman's questions."

"I was disappointed by the apparent equivocation of the United Church general council."

Dr. A. B. B. Moore, president of Victoria University here, and chairman of the United Church's union committee, said both Mr. Hardman and Dr. Owen were "misinterpreting the action of general council."

"I think the general council left no doubt that they wanted to enter into union negotiations on the basis of the report. But they were concerned that if changes appeared necessary in the course of the negotiations these would be possible."

No Question On an Entente Says Johnson

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson said in a weekend interview his Union Nationale party "is, and will remain, an exclusively Quebec party."

He made the statement when asked to comment on rumors that he had met John Diefenbaker, the federal Opposition leader, to discuss an entente between the Union Nationale and the federal Conservatives.

Mr. Diefenbaker was in Quebec last week and is to revisit the province Sept. 30 to attend a meeting of the Quebec wing of his party.

"There is no question of an entente between the Union Nationale and the Conservatives or any kind whatsoever," Mr. Johnson said.

However, individual members of the Union Nationale were free to act as they chose at the federal level.

"Some of my members were invited by the Democratic Party during the last federal election campaign, and I let them go ahead."

Red Guard Moves in China Less Sudden Than It Seemed

China has been going through a convulsion impelled by high authority and carried out by the youthful Red Guards. This article is based on reports from China and on information gathered by Associated Press bureaus in the Far East.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It seemed a sudden madness had descended on old China and engulfed it.

Terror stalked city streets in the form of swaggering teenagers, uniformed, arm-banded and on the prowl by the loss of thousands, hunting for victims.

They were to strike down the "four olds": old customs, old habits, old cultures, old ideas. They were to root out "all monsters and freaks, all revisionists and those who took the capitalist path."

Priceless treasures of old Buddhist temples and art museums were wrecked. Old books, old songs, old paintings, the words of ancient wise men old were banished as tools of feudalism and "the bourgeoisie."

Old people, once - respected writers and educationists, shopkeepers, men and women who had the wrong kinds of haircuts and clothing, were beaten and humiliated.

It was all in the name of what the politburo had labelled "the great proletarian cultural revolution." The youngsters were tools of a political upheaval and a struggle for power.

There are reasons to speculate that the mastermind was Defence Minister Lin Piao and that the Red Guard activities were directly related to his emergences as the second to Mao Tse-tung, if not more powerful than the Communist party chairman himself.

"Your revolutionary actions are very fine," Lin told a rally of 500,000 Red Guards and other youths in Peking Aug. 31.

But the Red Guards threatened to interfere with orderly government, with agricultural production, with education and even with Communist authority in some areas.

By last week, the party leadership, through editorials, were telling the Red Guards to slow down. Lin cautioned against cruelty: "Don't hit people." The newspaper People's Daily told them to suspend their revolutionary drive. Possibly the leadership was alarmed at the rambunctious youngsters to prevent disruption of the economy.

Possibly, too, Mao's followers were becoming, sensitive to a wave of criticism from foreign Communist parties.

There were doubts the momentum of the drive could be wholly checked. Last Thursday, for all the precautionary words of moderation, the Red Guards and army men jammed the main square in Peking for the largest Red Guard mass rallies ever held, Lin Piao and Mao both were there, along with the top echelon of Communist leadership.

The phenogenon was far less sudden than it seemed.

Selected youngsters, indoctrinated from the cradle and given a free course in politics, would be potent weapons in the hands of a dominant faction. There are 8,500,000 selected youths in the Young Communist League, Communism's nursery. In All - China Student Federation and perhaps 100,000,000 preteenagers, Young Pioneers. The plan apparently was to choose elite groups from youth organizations, such as Lin Piao's words, would "mobilize, organize and lead the masses of youth."

In June, with the purge well under way, with the Peking City party committee overturned and the national party propaganda apparatus liquidated, Peking postponed high school enrolment in universities for half a year, so that young people could be "carry through the cultural revolution." Press reports from Peking said students would mobilize the masses and smash all representatives of capitalist ideas. Then they would who followed the capitalist road."

In July the Young Communist League met and issued a call to revolutionary youth to "sweep away all demons, and monsters and carry the great proletarian revolution through to the end."

The meeting was under the leadership of Li Hsueh - feng, who replaced the purged Peo Chen as head of the Peking party committee. The press hailed the session as the beginning of a movement to prevent anti-party and revisionist (pro-Soviet) elements from capturing the younger generation.

Organization work for the Red Guards was under way at Peking University, whose president, Le Ping, was purged and humiliated, and at secondary schools. It was to be organized, like the party, on a pyramid of secondary schools in other major cities.

In Canton, the Red Guards, denounced a statue of the Goddess of Liberty and decided to put it on trial with the slogan "Goddess of Liberty, go to hell."

Churches and temples were sacked, old art works and statues smashed. Teachers suspected of bad thoughts were paraded naked and beaten. Red Guards demanded that traffic move on red instead of green, because red signified "progressive." They demanded that soldiers, when given the "eyes right" order, should look left; right meant "reactionary."

Many humiliated victims were reported to have committed suicide.

A new shock wave ran through the Communist world. Party after party—some privately—broke in the past—denounced the Chinese phenomenon and the constant vilification of the Russians.

But the Red Guards had the highest authority for their rampage. At an Aug. 18 rally attended by a million persons Mao gave the Red Guards his personal stamp of approval.

There was a resistance in some areas. There were clashes. Red Guards killed or injured. Some people were executed for resisting them.

Thant Apparently Wants Improvement in Outlook Of Viet Nam, UN Finances

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Secretary-General U Thant apparently wants definite improvement in the outlook on both Viet Nam and United Nations finances before he will agree to stay on, some diplomats here say.

In a tough statement Thant scorned the characterization of the Viet Nam war as an ideological crusade, and criticized a UN committee for failing to make any headway in resolving a crisis over paying for UN peacekeeping operations. He expressed doubt that the committee wasted to come to grips with the problem.

In an introduction, made public today, to his annual report to the United Nations General Assembly, Thant said the real issue in Viet Nam is the survival of the Vietnamese people.

Rejectnin implicitly the U.S. conception of the war, often stated by President Johnson and State Secretary Rusk, the secretary-general said:

"I remain convinced that the basic problem of Viet Nam is neither one of aggression nor of national identity and survival.

"I see nothing but danger for the future in the attempt to extend outside Viet Nam, that the conflict is a kind of holy war between two powerful political ideologies."

In a generally gloomy statement on world events during the last 12 months, Thant blamed the Viet Nam war for seriously damaging "the ethos and the fruitful international co-operation on many crucial issues in which the United Nations has a clear responsibility for decision and action," notably threats of a drift to disarmament and to the development of poor countries.

The U.S. government defended its actions in Viet Nam on the theory that it is there to help South Vietnam defend itself aggression from the North and subversive activity by the Viet Cong guerrillas.

Summarizing the problems facing delegates to the General Assembly, which opens its 1966 session Tuesday, Thant:

1. Deplored the failure of a UN committee to find peacekeeping operations to agree on any specific recomgendations to the assembly.

2. Warned that scientific developments could lead to a new and accelerated competition in arms race unless the partial test-ban treaty of August, 1963, is extended to prohibit underground tests.

3. Stated that economic aid to underdeveloped countries is stagnating, while the gap between them and the developed countries is widening.

4. Blasted South Africa for continuing its policy of apartheid, the separation of people according to race.

5. Told Britain it needs to take bolder measures against the Ian Smith government in Rhodesia, "even though they may be more difficult now to carry out than they would have been some months ago."

As U Thant's term drew nearer, Thant was still under considerable pressure from many UN members, including the United States and the Soviet Union, to reconsider his decision, announced Sept. 1, to retire as secretary - general. Thant's first five-year term expires Nov. 3 and last Thursday, in a speech to UN correspondents, he said member countries had been at him with the job of finding a successor.

The fierceness diplomat has indicated that failure of efforts by himself and many others to make any headway in resolving the conference table was a major factor in his decision to retire. He said in his report he has done his best to cut down the fighting in Viet Nam and open talks started.

But, "I have been increasingly distressed to observe that discussions of the matter (the Viet Nam conflict) have by and large been dominated by considerations of the attitude of the power politics involved, and that there has been much less concern for the enormous human suffering which the conflict has entailed for the people of Viet Nam and also for the people of other countries involved in the fighting."

In his criticism of the peacekeeping committee, which was assigned the task of finding a universally acceptable legal and financial basis for UN peace forces such as those on Cyprus and the Israel-Egyptian frontier, Thant said its "negative" report shows a stubborn disagreement on basic principles and "a reluctance to come to grips with the problem."

"I must draw attention to the fact that the peacekeeping activities of the United Nations, perhaps more than any other part of its work, have enabled the organization to gain a measure of public confidence which is in danger of being lost if the member states remain deadlocked on the constitutional and financial questions involved."

The central issue is whether the peacekeeping operation need the explicit authorization of the Security Council, as the Soviet Union and France say it does.

Thant noted that the UN has helped to end a conflict between India and Pakistan over Kashmir a year ago, but fresh tensions and crises and new violence erupted elsewhere.

On the whole, he said, gains in the UN have been set by setbacks and he criticized the major powers for a failure, in general, to take stock of the suspicions, fears and, mistrust that spring from their different ideologies and from the different conceptions of the best interests of the rest of the world."

Thant expressed "distress" over the violent changes of government that have occurred in a number of African countries in the last year.

"They have created a sense of instability which can easily be misrepresented or exaggerated to the disadvantage of Africa as a whole," he said, causing an increase in tensions among African countries, they have produced a setback to African unity."

He had harsh words for South Africa, whose treatment of its non-white population continues to be "the most conspicuous and continuous and serious violation of human rights and fundamental freedoms."

SPORT SLICES

It is only natural that as an ex-heavyweight champion of the world, Rocky Marciano, the Brockton Blockbuster, hasn't missed a world championship fandango since he hung up the gear.

Especially the six Walt(ing Matilda wetnut's that Cassius Clay has executed in since the Black Muslim announced he was the greatest and proved he was against the half-dozen second raters who fell, fainted or flopped before his dancing feet and flicking gloves.

Rocky joined the maharajahs and lesser lights of boxing the other day when he hinted that he might retrieve the padded mittens from their eleven-year-old mothballs and take a whack for the title against the unbeaten Clay.

The likable 42-year-old ex-champion has been indulging, he admits, to axe-swinging, roadwork and other essential rituals usually associated with the training of a boxer.

But 43 years is 43 years. And that old bloke with the scythe and whiskers must have taken some kind of toll from the physical wellbeing of a champion who never indulged in any form of exercise that was detrimental to his well-being.

Rocky's hint that he might return to the heavyweight wars explains some sort of a mystery that enshrouded his actions while watching the Clay ring calisthenics.

At the Clay-Chuvalo fight in Toronto I sat two seats (ringside) from Marciano. Vic Ragusin was between us. For the benefit of those in Rocky and the table, head in hands, watching every move Clay made. He never spoke until round intermissions, then had a word or two.

He was concentration personified. He never took his eyes off Clay, watching him intently even as he sat in his corner.

One top-ranking boxing observer is of the opinion that Marciano may be finalizing the notion Clay was made for him. Cassius has never been hit by the kind of punch Rocky threw in knocking out 43 of the 49 opponents he faced.

"For 12 years" he writes, "wily Joe Walcott was never knocked out by anybody except Joe Louis until Marciano hit him. A succession of bums of the month have been greeted that Clay is easy to hit. They have lacked only Marciano's power."

If you look through the records of heavyweight championship history you will find that the most famous comeback was by Jim Jeffries back in 1910. The title was held by the colorful negro Jack Johnson and public reaction to a black man holding the crown was such that undefeated Jeffries came out of retirement at the age of 35.

Out of the ring for six years Jeffries was easy meat for the huge Johnson who almost massacred him before knocking him out in the fifteenth round at Reno, Nevada. While supporters of boxing raised such a furore that export of the fight films out of the state was not permitted for many years after.

Johnson was the master boxer and fighter. The controversial knockout by Jess Willard in Havana, Cuba when Johnson was alleged to "take a dive" is still a topic of conversation around oldtimer cracker barrels.

A Washington boxing writer may be reflecting Marciano's reaction to the Clay record and how he has scored his many knockouts.

He writes: — "Clay's boast that he has a killer punch are debatable. He couldn't dispose of a backraptured Floyd Patterson until the twelfth round. Toronto George Chuvalo took all he had and stayed the limit. Henry Cooper was ahead of him until he bled to defeat. Brian London was a sitting duck. Mildenberger, the German reached him and at times had him in trouble."

Rocky may have taken all these things into consideration but at 43 he should take other things into consideration, too.a Clay, sheit without a solid knockout punch is a dancing will-o'-the wisp, young and confident. He could very well waltz out of range of Rocky's reputed thunderbolt punches — if they are still there.

HAMILTON (CP)—With half the schedule completed in "developing into the same old story in the Eastern Football Conference—two-way battle between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Tiger-Cats stayed within two points of the leading Rough Riders by trouncing Montreal Alouettes 33-4 Saturday night in Hamilton.

Ottawa downed British Columbia Lions 21-16 in Vancouver Saturday and now has 12 points on six victories and a loss. Hamilton has a 5-3 record for 10 points.

The loss left Montreal in third spot four points behind the Tigers while Toronto Argonauts, 23 - 7 losers Sunday to Saskatchewan Roughriders in Regina, are last with two points.

Ottawa has a chance to increase its margin tonight by moving to Edmonton to take on the Eskimos, second to Saskatchewan in the Western Football Conference.

The game was the fourth in a row in which Montreal has failed to score a touchdown.

Hard - working Bobby Kuntz pounced on a Tiger Cat fumble on bursts over the line for Hamilton, but Dick Cobee scored the only other touchdown, a touchdown in the fourth quarter on an 81-yard gallop up the middle.

Hal Patterson caught a 27-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Jack Cowlishaw for another Ticat touchdown and Don Sutherin kicked a field goal, single and four converts. Joe Zuger also kicked a single for Hamilton.

It was a particularly bad night for Montreal quarterback Bernie Faloney, making his debut in Hamilton when he starred for the Ticats. Faloney completed only two passes for eight yards in the first half and was replaced after the intermission by Sam Etcheverry.

Gino Berretta kicked a single and Peter Kempf a field goal for the Als. Berretta also kept Kempf in first place in the EFC scoring race. He has 41 points, five more than second-place Walt Tucker of Ottawa.

Kuntz opened the scoring by crashing over from one yard on the first quarter. Sutherin converted and added his single in the minutes later then opened the second quarter with a 16-yard field goal. But Montreal replied with Berretta's single and Kempf's field goal. Zuger added his single before the half.

Kuntz bulled through from the Montreal seven for a third quarter touchdown and Cohee was Patterson exploded in the fourth quarter for their scores.

Both touchdowns came on Hamilton fumbles, tackle Pierre Desjardins recovering Barney Hesley's fumble at the Faloney punt to set up the single and Pierre Dumont falling on a loose ball on the Montreal five to pave the way for the field goal.

Zuger who went into the game with only one interception, had three big passes picked off. However, he had 10 completions for 214 yards as the Ticats rolled up a total offence of 408 yards, 251 of them through the air. The Als rushed for 143 yards and passed for 113 more.

Two Hamilton players were knocked out of action. Guard Chuck Walton was kept overnight in hospital after he was knocked out cold in the fourth quarter. Ted Page, who started the game with a broken jaw suffered in last week, was hit so hard on the first play the second time around and he was replaced in the defensive backfield by Bob Krouse.

Beat Giants; Phils Blank LA

Pirates Cut Dodger Lead To 1½

By DICK COUCE
Associated Press Sports Writer

When the rain finally fell on Los Angeles, it was too little and too late for the Dodgers.

Philadelphia Phillies' Larry Jackson was putting the wraps on a 4-0 victory over the National League leaders Sunday when a downpour halted play for seven minutes at the start of the ninth inning.

The Dodgers have learned to live without rain—they had been shut out 14 times this season before Jackson blanked them. And Pittsburgh Pirates' 3-1 victory over San Francisco Giants which trimmed their lead to 1½ games, caused no panic in the Los Angeles clubhouse.

But rain was something else for the Dodgers. Sunday's rain delay was the first they'd ever had to sit out in nine years at Dodger Stadium.

It was Jackson's 16th victory and fifth shutout of the year as he scattered seven hits and allowed only seven Dodger runner past second base.

Meanwhile, Woody Fryman, who had not pitched a complete game in two months, tamed the Giants on four hits, losing his shutout bid when Tito Fuentes homered in the ninth.

Houston Astros swept a doubleheader from New York Mets 9 - 2 and 6 - 5; Atlanta Braves ripped Cincinnati Reds 9-4 and Chicago Cubs edged St. Louis Cardinals in other action.

DODGERS LOSSERS

Saturday it was Pittsburgh 9, Los Angeles 5; San Francisco 6, New York 4; St. Louis 6, Chicago 5, Houston 11, Philadelphia 2 and Atlanta 2 Cincinnati 1.

The Phillies scored all their Sunday runs in the third inning, chasing starter Claude Osteen, who had won three in a row. Cookie Rojas drove in two runs with a single. Dick Groat punched a run - scoring single, and reliever Bill Singer balked the last run across.

Jackson walked two and struck out three in boosting his record to 16-14 and shutting out Los Angeles for the second time this year.

Orr Could End Up A Forward

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Orr, all-star defenceman with Oshawa Generals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, got in his first licks as a professional Sunday and could end up as a forward.

Orr took his turn on defence with Boston Bruins opened training in London, Ont., for the upcoming National Hockey League season but general-manager Hap Emms hinted he might see some work in camp as a forward.

A prolific scorer with Oshawa, Orr starred with the Bruins this summer for salary speculated at $50,000.

A crowd of about 1,500 watched the Bruins drill, Sunday was a quiet day in the Peterborough camp of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Three other teams—Chicago Black Hawks, New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings—open training today while Montreal Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, wait until Friday to begin workouts.

HARS STAY HOME

The Red Wings and Black Hawks will train on home ice with the Rangers in Kingston, Ont. The Canadiens will settle down to work at the Montreal Forum.

The Bruins' workout also gave rookie coach Harry Sinden his first chance to see how 18 holdovers stack up against the 21 rookies he has in camp. Sinden, who coached Oklahoma City Blazers of the Central Professional League last season, replaced Milt Schmidt in Boston.

Ted Green, who suffered a damaged right knee last season when he collided with Chicago's Eric Nesterenko, showed no apparent ill effects Sunday. He underwent treatment this summer, pumping a bicycle exerciser up to 23 miles a day.

Orr, 18, was paired on defence with 21-year-old Gilles Marotte, who stayed with the Bruins last season after being acquired up from Niagara Falls Flyers, Boston's farm club in the Junior A OHA.

Stamps Nip Bombers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Four of the five clubs in the Western Football conference saw action over the week-end, but the only change in the standings came at the bottom when Calgary Stampeders moved into fourth place with an 11-4 victory over third-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

In Vancouver Saturday night the Lions dropped a 21-16 decision in a rain-soaked interlocking game with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Conference.

Saskatchewan Roughriders stretched their first-place lead to two games over idle Edmonton Eskimos with a 29-7 win over Toronto Argonauts in an interlocking game Sunday in Regina.

Two fourth - quarter touchdowns capped the Roughriders win over Toronto before a crowd of 19,320 and gave them 14 points for the season on seven wins against two losses.

ESKS TRAIL BY FOUR

Edmonton has 10 points with a 5-4 record. Winnipeg has eight points, Calgary six and B.C. four.

Hugh Campbell scored a touchdown for Saskatchewan to increase his lead in the WFC scoring race to 50 points, two touchdowns short of the CFL record set in 1959 by Winnipeg's Ernie Pitts.

George Reed turned in his best performance of the season as he broke through the Argo line on 29 carries for 172 yards.

Paul Dudley and Reed accounted for the other Saskatchewan touchdowns while Jack Abendschan kicked three converts. The other point came on a third-quarter safety touch.

Dave Mann gave Toronto a 1-0 half-time lead as he kicked a CFL record 102-yard single in the second quarter. Bobby Taylor rounded out Argos scoring with an unconverted touchdown late in the fourth quarter.

SWIFT LOST

The only injury of consequence in the game was suffered by Toronto fullback Bob Swift who suffered torn knee ligaments on a mileup after the game's opening kickoff. He was flown back to Toronto where surgery was planned for today. He won't play again this season.

Speedy Frank Budd broke loose for his first touchdown of the season to lead Calgary to its win in a game marked by crushing defensive play.

The Bombers had a 37-yard rushing deficit for the entire game, 22 of them in the first half. Calgary had a 15-yard deficit on the ground in the first two quarters.

Ken Nielsen scored Winnipeg's only touchdown when he took a pass in the end zone from Ken Ploen. Norm Winton converted, and also scored a first quarter single on a wide field goal attempt.

Winnipeg rusher Dave Raimey found the going tough and ended up with a net loss of 24 yards on 10 carries.

Ottawa substituted their fine over B.C. in a game played in steady rain before 27,264 fans. The Lions have never beaten Ottawa in league play since they entered the CFL in 1954, but did manage an exhibition win last year.

Russ Jackson spurred the Ottawa attack, throwing a touchdown pass to Whit Tucker and carrying himself for another. Ron Stewart scored the third touchdown pass in Whit Tucker and carrying himself for another. Ron Stewart scored the third touchdown and Moe Racine converted all three.

Guelph Senior OBA Champions

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph CJOYs defeated Orillia Majors 8-3 Sunday to win the Ontario Baseball Association senior championship in two consecutive games.

CJOYs, champions of the Inter-County senior series, won the sponsor of the best-of-three final 4-3 in 10 innings Saturday night. Orillia topped the South Simcoe league to reach the finals.

Harry Barber allowed only four hits in blanking the Majors Sunday as the CJOYs counted all their runs in the fourth inning on home runs by Wes Jeffries, Tom Holmwood and Ted Hastongs.

Orillia took a 3-0 lead after five innings Saturday night but Guelph tied the score with three runs in the eighth. A bases-loaded single by Holmwood broke the tie in the 10th.

McDowell Whiffs 14 In Indians' Win

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

For six innings in Cleveland Indians' 6-5, 10-inning victory over Detroit Tigers Sunday, Sam McDowell struck out almost everybody who dared appear at the plate with a bat in his hands.

He tied a major-league mark by striking out the first five batters he faced and then, after Mickey Stanley doubled, McDowell fanned the next four. In all, Sam struck out 14 Tigers before something — maybe all that wind coming from the plate —caused his shoulder to stiffen and he had to bow out.

But by then the Tigers had couldn't seem to stop striking out as relievers John O'Donoghue and Luis Tiant whiffed seven more between them for a grand total of 21.

In the first nine innings, 19 Tigers returned ingloriously to the dugout, a record for regulation play. At the same time, eight Indians struck out and the total of 27 for nine innings probably was another one for statisticians to cope with. In all, there were 31 strikeouts.

As for the game itself, the Indians were rolling nicely along with a three-run lead in the eighth inning, when Norm Cash pulled the Tigers into a 5-5 tie with a three-run pinch homer in the eighth.

But in the 10th Vic Davalillo doubled and came in on a single by Max Alvis.

In other games, Chicago White Sox beat Baltimore Orioles 4-3, California Angels took Boston Red Sox 5-8, Minnesota Twins stopped New York Yankees 2-1 in 10 innings and Kansas City won the completion of a suspended game from Washington Senators 3-0 before the Senators won the regular game 1-0.

In Saturday's games the Red Sox bounced the Angels 3-1 while the White Sox did the same to the Orioles, the Twins doubled the Yankees 4-2 and the Indians bombed the Tigers 6-2.

Baltimore stranded five runners on third base as the White Sox completed a sweep of a three game series. Bill Skowron doubled in two runs in the fifth inning for Chicago and a single by Pete Ward added another.

Jim Fregosi drove in three runs with four hits and Paul Schaal scored four times, spoiling the season finale at Fenway Park for the Red Sox. Schaal hit his sixth homer for the Angels and Mike Ryan had a two-run shot for Boston.

East York Smothers St. Kitts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

East York Argonauts continued their domination of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union with a 31-0 victory Sunday over the hapless St. Catharines Saints.

The Argos, who have won five consecutive games, have had only 23 points scored against them while scoring 205 points.

Bob Smith scored three touchdowns for the Argos, Ray Williams two and John Grot and Don Koppin one apiece. Jim Walker kicked a field goal and six converts.

The Saints, who have lost five games, have scored only seven points while having 280 scored against them.

Sarnia, by virtue of their win over Oakville, moved into a third-place tie with London which was inactive during the weekend.

For Oakville, Rolf Herman kicked a field goal, and Bill Hickey scored an unconverted touchdown.

Cooper Wins Three-Par Tournament

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Dave Cooper of Toronto sank a birdie six-foot putt on the first extra hole to win the third annual par-three golf tournament here Saturday.

Cooper and Herb Rudkey of Kitchener were tied with identical one-under 107s for the 36-hole event.

On the extra hole, Cooper had a birdie while Rudkey had to settle for a par. His drive overshot the green, but he chipped to within two inches of the cup.

Pam Miller of Oshawa, Ontario open women champion, was the top woman golfer in the event with 122.

Celtic Wins, Bottle Fight Ends in Draw

GLASGOW (AP) — At least 22 soccer fans were arrested Saturday and about 30 injured at the clash between Rangers and Celtic, traditional rival teams of Glasgow.

Most of the injuries were caused by flying bottles. That's a regular feature at games between these teams.

Police said 14 fans were taken to hospital for treatment.

Yancey Wins At Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bert Yancey fired a 67 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 278, winning the $30,000 Portland open golf tournament by three strokes over Billy Casper.

George Knudson of Toronto finished with 279 and was tied with five others, including Jack Nicklaus who has won the tournament three times in the last four years, for sixth place.

The victory, Yancey's third on the PGA tournament trail, was worth $5,800.

Casper, who shot a 66, threatended to overtake Yancey, but the 26-year-old Philadelphian shrugged off the challenge with an eagle on the first hole. His 67 was his lowest round of the tournament, going with three consecutive 68s.'

Pete Brown, a leader since the second day of the tournament, shot a 72 for a 276, good for third place. The tournament was played on the 6,606-yard Columbia - Edgewater course. Par is 72.

Camps In Swing This Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Hockey League, led by superstars Gordie Howe, Bobby Hull and Jean Beliveau, swings into earnest preparation this week for its final season before expansion when training camps open for Detroit Red Wings, Chicago Black Hawks, New York Rangers and the champion Montreal Canadiens.

The Red Wings and Black Hawks will train on their home ice starting Monday. The Rangers also open Monday in Kingston, and the Canadiens are scheduled to report Friday in the Montreal Forum.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins get off to early starts, the Leafs in Peterborough Thursday and the Bruins in London, Ont., Saturday.

The league is scheduled to operate with 12 teams next season, including another six-team division with clubs representing Los Angeles, San Francisco-Oakland, St. Louis, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Boston will have the only new coach this season. He is 33-year-old Harry Sinden, promoted from the Bruins' farm club at Oklahoma City of the Central Professional League. He succeeds Milt Schmidt.

TOE BLAKE RETURNS

Toe Blake returns to lead Montreal. The other coaches are Sid Abel, Detroit; Billy Reay, Chicago, and Emile Francis, New York.

Howe, 38, the NHL's all-time goal-scoring leader with 634, will be setting ready for his 21st season with Detroit.

Chicago's Hull, who scored a record 54 goals last season, will be starting his 10th big league year with 318 career tallies.

Beliveau, Montreal's star centre, will be starting his 14th season. He is No. 3 among all-time goal-scorers with 387.

Bernie Geoffrion, former out, standing right winger for Montreal, returns to the NHL with the Rangers after a two-year absence during which he coached Quebec of the American League. Geoffrion, 38, has 371 career goals.

The Bruins expect big things from Bobby Orr, their highly-regarded rookie defenceman. The 18-year-old, reported to be the best amateur player in Canada, recently was signed to a two-year pro contract for an estimated $40,000.

The regular season opens Oct. 19.

Chelsea Tops First Division

LONDON (Reuters) — Left-winger Bobby Tambling scored five goals and then was injured as Chelsea won 6-2 away to Aston Villa Saturday to become clear First Division leader of soccer's English League.

Chelsea, the county's London side on the verge of top soccer honors for the last two years, was the only winner among the 4 teams jointly leading the division before Saturday's matches.

Sheffield Wednesday and Burnley both won 3-1 to rapidly-improving West Ham United and Burnley and Tottenham Hotspur, the other joint leaders, fought to a 2-2 draw.

Critics who claim English soccer is becoming too defensive were silenced as the 1st First Division games produced 64 goals.

Tambling went off with a thigh injury after scoring his fifth goal in the 76th minute against Villa, which had conceded only six goals in its seven previous league games.

Chelsea, with 12 points, leads by a point over Burnley, Sporting and Stoke. Each club has played seven games in the 42-game schedule.

Manchester United paraded new goalkeeper Alex Stepney, signed this week for £50,000 ($140,000), in its match against Manchester City which drew the biggest crowd of the day, 62,500. Denis Law scored the only goal in United's 1-0 win.

Newly-promoted Southampton lost goalkeeper Campbell Forsyth with a broken leg after 31 minutes and went down to a 3-0 home defeat by defending champion Liverpool.

Everton beat West Bromwich Albion 3-4 after leading 4-1 just after the interval. A'an Ball, Everton's middle forward, scored twice.

Bolton Wanderers moved into second place at the top of the Second Division with a stunning 5-2 away victory over Cardiff.

Packers Nip Browns

Cowboys Crush Giants 52-7

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Meredith threw five touchdown passes Sunday en route to Dallas Cowboys' 52-7 humiliation of New York Giants.

The overwhelming triumph in Dallas' National Football League opener—the Cowboys were idle last week when the rest of the teams opened—stamped the team as the one to beat in the Eastern Conference.

The Cowboys' victory looked even bigger when Green Bay Packers knocked off Cleveland Browns, the other big favorite—in the East, 21-20. Pittsburgh Steelers surprised Detroit Lions 17 - 3, Philadelphia Eagles handed Atlanta Falcons 23-10, St. Louis Cardinals took Washington Red Skins 23-7, and Baltimore Colts bombed Minnesota Vikings 35-3 in the other Sunday games.

Meredith completed 14 of 34 passes for 338 yards and five touchdowns, set up still another touchdown with a 32-yard run and played less than three full quarters of the game.

Bob Hayes caught six Meredith passes for 195 yards, including touchdowns of 74 and 29 yards. Dan Reeves took six for 120 yards, including touchdowns of one, two and 19 yards.

Baltimore's veteran Johnny Unitas hit on four touchdown passes after the Colts had spotted Minnesota a 10-0 lead, leading Baltimore from behind and breaking Y. A. Tittle's old career touchdown pass record.

He connected on throws of 62, 60, 38 and 4 yards for a career total of 291, two more than Tittle's old mark.

Petes Shade Vancouver 9-8

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — "I don't know what the matter is," said Vancouver coach Bob Marsh. "We just seem to peter out to nothing towards the end of the game."

After building up an early 5-0 lead, Vancouver faltered Saturday night and lost the fourth game of the Canadian senior lacrosse finals 10-9 to Peterborough.

The Petes now hold a 3-1 stranglehold in the best-of-seven series for the Mann Cup. The fifth game is scheduled tonight.

"It's our top boys like (Sid) Marsh and (Bob) Babcock," Marsh said. "We've been getting the goals from these fellows that we should be.

"Of course, the refereeing has something to do with it also," he said. "In the east, they don't call interference penalties very much."

A victory by Peterborough tonight could give the Petes the series.

Marsh said Vancouver's only definite lineup change for tonight will be John Cervi, who will be back in action. He missed Saturday's game to attend a wedding in Vancouver.

Gary Stevens, who was sidelined part way through the third quarter Saturday with a torn fingernail, will be back on the floor tonight if he can hold a stick, said Marsh.

"We have to go all out now or it'll be all over."

Denver Coach Quits

Namath Tosses 5 TD Passes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Jets were in a record-setting mood Sunday but Mac Speedie stole the spotlight as the American Football League by quitting as coach of Denver Broncos after his team lost 58-20 to Boston Patriots.

Speedie, who 30 years ago played end for Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference, quit Sunday three hours after the game.

The Jets remained the only undefeated team in the AFL Eastern Division by trampling Houston Oilers 29-13. The winners scored the most points recorded five touchdown passes and attracted a home crowd of 62,581, largest to see an AFL home opener.

In other action, Kansas City Chiefs trimmed undefeated in the Western Division with a 32-24 victory over Oakland Raiders while Buffalo Bills scored their first win of the season, 36-24 over Miami Dolphins.

Speedie, starting his third season as coach at Denver, was under a two-year contract due to expire Jan. 31, 1967.

He explained that he thought his resignation would be in the best interests of professional football and its future in Den-ity.

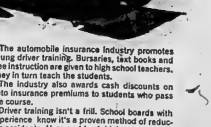
Brilliant high school student dies in car crash said the headline. All that love, all that brilliance, all that money; all gone for nothing.

Automobile accidents kill more young Canadians than anything. More than disease; more than all other accidents put together.

It costs some $8,000 in tax money just to prepare a student for university. A thorough high school driver training program costs $40 per student, and takes 50 hours of instruction. Small costs against the losses.

The automobile insurance industry promotes young driver training. Bursaries, text books and free instruction are given to high school teachers. They in turn teach the students.

The industry also awards cash discounts on auto insurance premiums to students who pass the course.



Driver training isn't a frill. School boards with experience know it's a proven method of reducing accidents. Urge and back high school driver training in your community.

3 New Shows Over Weekend Not Impressive to Writer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Mission Impossible had her its first impossible to do in the job of spiriting nuclear warheads out of a banana dictatorship in South America, and it took an extremely long Saturday evening hour to accomplish the assignment.

The CBS program was one of three new shows during the week-end. The others were NBC's T.H.E. Cat, on Friday, and CBS' western comedy, Pistols 'n' Petticoats the following evening. None of them proved to be anything more than stock treatments of familiar themes.

Mission Impossible, an hour long program, had the least amount of plot. It resolved that problem by filling the hour with a visual lesson on the fine art of applying stage makeup and with a step-by-step explanation of modern electronic methods of breaking into a bank vault.

Mission Impossible is an organization of secret agents for hire, but only for the good side. The head man, played by Steven Hill, didn't have much to do, but he had no lack of talent star Wally Cox playing a master safe cracker, Martin Landau playing a master of disguises, and Barbara Bain as a mistress of diverting masculine attention at the right time.

BUSY, BUSY, BUSY!

It was all very busy with Landau impersonating the bad dictator while Cox was cracking the safe holding the atomic warheads and Miss Bain was waltzing around clad in a bath towel. It was also confusing, not to mention boring.

Also on the busy side was T.H.E. Cat, whose title is supposed to be the name of the hero, Thomas Hewitt Edward Cat, who by a curious coincidence is a retired cat burglar. He is adept at scurrying over rooftops, climbing walls and dropping lightly from considerable heights to save the client's bacon — he is a professional bodyguard. He is likely, get around to adding some plot to the action, it could turn into a diverting show.

Pistols 'n' Petticoats made its first appearances with a sorry and not very funny story about the tactics of a pioneer woman, the Widow Hanks, who persuades a Tobacco Road type family that baths and education are more fun than dirt and ignorance. Ann Sheridan plays the widow and the program may become more amusing when her character is sort of ladylike Annie Oakley is developed.

Matassa Takes Bowling Title

HAMBURG, N.Y. (AP)—Lou Matassa of Leamington, Ont. defeated Andy Toth of Hamilton 232-172 Sunday to take the $10,000 Canadian Professional Bowlers Association national championship.

Matassa and Toth each had defeated winners in separate eight-man divisions earlier in the day. Matassa rolled a 2,132 total for his 10 games, six of which he won. Toth scored 2,080 to pace his division, winning the matchup, losing three and tying the other.

Matassa earned $1,000, for his first-place finish, while Toth took $500.

Friday Afternoon Concerts Feature on Shopping Mall

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—Nobody has ever called Ottawa a swinging city, but once a week on its usually staid three-block shopping mall on Sparks Street a frug-dancing crowd is the city's population swings.

The swinging happenings are a series of Friday afternoon concerts organized by a local music store, The Treble Clef.

Although the store's owner, Harvey Glatt, 32, says he has had different types of music featured in the concerts, he admits that the biggest crowds have come to hear rock 'n' roll and folk music played by local musicians.

"Teen-agers are the best supporters of Canadian talent," says Mr. Glatt. "They're more aware of what's going on in the Canadian music field than any other age group."

The teen-agers who flock to the concerts, staged on an outdoor platform between Queen and Rushford each singled.

The Intelligencer next plays Kingston.

Greta Garbo Still Remains Screen's Greatest Actress

Greta Garbo, the screen's leading legend, turned 60 this week. Today she is almost a phantom, but after 25 years her films still are major attractions. The following article is the first of a three-part series describing Garbo's career and life.

By BOB THOMAS

She is Greta Garbo, born Greta Gustafsson in Stockholm 60 years ago Sunday (Some sources say 61.) She has not acted in films for 26 years. Yet most critics call her the female the screen's greatest actress.

Garbo lives today in New York, much as she has during her 40 years in the United States — alone. Her aloneness has long been a worldwide joke, but she is not amused.

"I never said, 'I want to be alone.' I've been quoted once complained to a friend. "I said, 'I want to be let alone.'" For the most part, she succeeds. Columnists often observe her on Manhattan walks she takes on Manhattan streets, but they respect her privacy.

VISITS EUROPE RARELY

Garbo has lived for many years in a penthouse apartment on 52nd Street overlooking the East River. Her trips have been confined to infrequent. She makes a rare return to Europe usually staying at some secluded place on the Riviera, or on the yacht of Aristotle Onassis. She comes to Hollywood once a year, visiting a few old friends like Katharine Hepburn, hair stylist Sidney Guilaroff and director George Cukor.

But most of the time she leads the solitary life. How did she get that way?

Her biographers have suggested that Garbo was a shy, sensitive girl who was thrust into a film career which she was temperamentally unsuited. The make-believe of being a motion picture actress appealed to her, but the confusion surrounding her status as a movie star proved more than she could endure.

Upon her arrival in Hollywood in 1926, she was immediately placed in the publicity mill at MGM. Press agents posed Garbo in the studio's trademark kiss. She was asked to don a sprinkler's suit for a photograph with the University of Southern California track coach.

She snapped: "When I am beeg like Gish (Lillian was then the queen of MGM), so more publicity like this; no more bandshakes with prize - fighters."

ADVISED SILENCE

Garbo gave only a few interviews before withdrawing into silence. Lon Chaney told her: "Don't talk to anyone; we are in the business of illusion."

The illusion of the "divine Garbo" continued to grow during her 15 years in Hollywood and it remains vivid today. Friends say she is acutely conscious of that illusion and the part it has contributed her 28 films, which can be seen on television and at Garbo festivals in arthouse theatres.

Over the years many producers have announced plans to return Garbo to the screen, and she has not discouraged their overtures. Recently Rose Franken sent her the script of The Heaven Train, in which he wanted her to play a nun. She returned it with the message that she didn't think she could portray a religious figure.

"I don't think she will ever act again," concluded the producer.

Garbo's friends agree. Says one: "If Greta went back to work now, she would be competing with the way she appears in the films of her heyday. She looks marvelous today, but still, she is 60."

MODEL HOME CONTRACTOR — Bill Teron stands in front of the model town he planned and built on a 3,200-acre plot of rugged woods and fields 20 miles west of Ottawa. Mr. Teron, a multi-millionaire, has built several subdivisions and office buildings since he first arrived in Ottawa as a 17-year-old draftsman in a government office. (CP Photo)

Bill Teron Is Lord of Kanata Which Will Be City of 50,000

By MARILYN ARGUE

He planned and built the model town on a 3,200-acre plot of rugged woods and fields 20 miles west of Ottawa.

Eventually Kanata will be a satellite city of 50,000 and everything from the ninth hole on the golf course to the front doorknobs of the houses will have been personally approved by Bill Teron.

"I'm a dictator," says the 35-year - old multi - millionaire. "Some people say 'I won't have you telling me what I can do' I say 'Please, don't come then. You'll be unhappy here and I don't want chaos you can find it elsewhere.' "

Born in an earth-floored farmhouse outside Gardenton, Man., "the tiniest hamlet in Canada," Mr. Teron studied drafting at a Winnipeg high school but didn't finish his junior matriculation.

At 17 he was a $108-a-month draftsman in an Ottawa government office. After five weeks of that, he became the only designer at an Ottawa construction firm.

When he was 22, with $416 in the bank, he built his first house for an official of the Defence Research Board. At 23, he could have retired comfortably for life.

Since then he has built two large subdivisions, several tall office buildings, a Japanese-style motel and a ski development with a circular lodge.

"I won't do a project any more unless it's fun," he said in an interview.

A man of medium height and build, he has thick black hair and brown eyes. He speaks quickly and confidently.

"The philosophy behind Kanata is one of being and becoming—that is, the familiar and the coming age. It expresses the transitional conflict between public and private. It's planned so that, environmentally, people will have the security of knowing what to do."

Everything will be laid on. In Kanata, from ballet classes and tee-ems to riding classes and a lake for canoeing.

The city "with the feeling of a town" will be composed of irregular blocks of similarly-styled houses in the $20,000 range. Streets in a four- or five-block area will have the same name—Lawrence Place, Crescent and Court, for instance.

STAY ALONE OR MIX

A school will serve each neighborhood and a community centre will serve each 20-block area.

"I don't think a general should live next door to a private, but I think there should be somewhere they could meet."

If they choose to. That's the basic philosophy of Kanata's benevolent despot. "Freedom can't exist without choice."

He has provided his people with all the choices he could think of to be social or withdrawn, active or passive, village - centred or metropolis-directed.

Every year now, $7,000,000 worth of Teron buildings go up. When Kanata is finished it will be worth $250,000,000.

"That's a lot, isn't it," he said with surprised delight. "I have to keep pinching myself.

"My grandfather was Ukrainian — he came here in 1896. When I went to school in Winnipeg, I was called a bohunk. If someone had told me I would build a town, I would have said it was out of the question."

Though he thinks about the project "every waking hour," he spends every weekend with his wife Jean, 30, and children Christopher, 8, and Kim, 6. They ski in the winter and during the summer they have a cottage and 22-foot motor boat on Big Rideau Lake.

He reads a great deal—political and "every book ever written about cities and town planning." Other authors consulted recently include Plato, Bertrand Russell and Ian Fleming.

His office is hung with the bright modern paintings the couple collect. In their home in his exclusive subdivision, which they will soon leave for Kanata, they have a Bordusa, a Riopelle, an Emily Carr, a Trottier, a MacDonald and an A. Y. Jackson, among others.

The former draftsman has been to Japan and India for architectural conferences and to inspect new housing developments.

He says he's not in Kanata for the money. "I don't need more money. I would do this whether they paid me or not. You couldn't stop me."

The builder walked to the window of his on-site office. Outside in a driving rain, the nearby group of white-trimmed houses curved along a street planted to keep toddlers safe.

"If I went bankrupt, it would be nothing. I've had all this."

Queensboro

QUEENSBORO — The anniversary services held in the United Church in Queensboro on September 11th were well attended both morning and evening. Rev. F. Lowe Ellerton was guest speaker; also soloist for both services. Other music was provided in the morning by the Cooper quartet and in the evening by Mrs. R. Sager and Mrs. C. Lake.

Rev. William Parker is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Calvin Tanner.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lynn and children of Cobourg spent the weekend with Mrs. W. J. Lynn.

Employment News

By J. R. Staveley,
NES Public Relations Officer

The employment picture in the community during the past week reflected an increased tempo in the economy. Some of this economic activity is of a seasonal nature, such as the temporary labor requirements to process this year's tomato and sweet corn crops. However, there was also a steady labor demand from the industrial, construction and services fields. These factors led to numerous job opportunities covering a wide range of occupations being listed at the National Employment Service Office by local employers.

Commencing this week will be the seasonal labor requirements to harvest the apple crop, which will further strengthen the present labor demands. The apple crop harvesting, which is two weeks later than normal, entails not only the picking but also the packaging and storage aspects. In this field of temporary seasonal employment, the labor requirement can become urgent in order to avoid undue crop wastage and downgrading.

The NES will be assisting in referring suitable workers to meet this labor demand. Anyone seeking employment and interested in, and capable of doing, this type of work is asked to contact the NES office at the earliest possible date. The essential requirement for apple pickers, is of course, the ability to work from the short orchard ladders used in all apple orchards.

JOBS OPEN

The following job opportunities represent only a few of those now available at the local NES office — In the female division locally a mature lady can find interesting work introducing and selling a quality product to customer contacts. Here, use of an automobile is essential. There is a continued demand for experienced cashiers on a part-time basis. It is considered that these jobs would be suitable for married ladies who are looking for part-time work. A fully qualified secretary, proficient in short-hand and typing, and also adept at arithmetic, is required by a manufacturer. The work is of a confidential nature and the position pays an excellent salary, with attractive fringe benefits. Inquiries would be welcomed from university graduates possessing a MSW or BSW degree and experienced in mental health work, as a vacancy is open for a person qualified in this work.

Other female employment opportunities cover apple harvesting work, experienced waitresses housekeepers able to live - in, and urgently required day workers.

In the male division locally, there is a scarcity of qualified tradesmen, particularly in the technical field, such as machinists, metal workers, automobile mechanics and oil burner repair and service men. Difficulty is also being experienced filling positions in the services field, such as openings for cooks, countermen, janitors and clean - up men. In demand also are skilled construction workers, service station attendants. Forthise young men possessing the necessary education there are career opportunities in the retail, banking and consumer credit fields. In addition to several trade apprentice vacancies.

If interested in any of these positions or seeking employment whether locally or elsewhere, contact the National Employment Service Office, 334 Church Street, Belleville.

Engine Needs 'Clean Air' To Operate

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

When air leaks into the engine via loose carburetor or intake manifold mountings, there's a double-trouble threat. Since this air isn't screened or filtered, the dust and grit it carries gets into the engine. Faster wear and contamination eventually result.

Healthy engine operation, however, is affected immediately. Even the slightest air leak can upset the precise fuel-air ratio required for pep and smoothness. The mixture becomes too lean, the engine idles roughly and tends to run hotter than normal at higher speeds. This latter condition may sometimes go unnoticed or unheeded.

But rough idle can't be missed or ignored, and the average motorist will fiddle under the hood to find the cure. Usually, he tries adjustments of the carburetor idle and mixture screws, which — in the case of air leakage — only fouls things up more than ever.

From I. R.: "I just bought a '66 compact, my first new car, and would appreciate your views on obtaining maximum operating economy and long life."

Don't skimp on tune-ups, oil changes, lubrication or other normal maintenance needs.

S. B. asks: "What does rear axle noise sound like?"

It depends on the nature of the trouble. It may be a deep-pitched rumble on acceleration, a gear grind, clash or click when you decelerate, or a growling noise on turns.

L. F. writes: "My '61 wagon now burns a lot of oil. Does this mean new piston rings are needed?"

That's usually the reason. However, excessive oil burning also results when all gets past valve guides and into combustion chambers.

From L.I.: "If one front tire is worn much more than the other, will this have any serious effect on steering?"

It can, because it sets up greater rolling resistance or friction, which will cause the car to bear toward that side. The same holds true when one tire is underinflated.

Red Guards Help Russia Weaken Chinese Influence Among Asian Communists

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet political gains are gradually isolating China's influence in the Asian Communist movement—and Moscow diplomats are saiding if this may contribute eventually to a softer line on the Viet Nam war.

There is no concrete evidence for such a theory, and it remains speculative. But analysts say they believe the Communist balance has been vitally affected by China's cultural revolution, and this may have repercussions on a whole series of situations, including Viet Nam.

Publicly and privately, the Kremlin's position on the Asian war remains consistent—no solution unless the United States stops bombing and agrees to get out, no negotiations except on Hanoi's terms.

There is a strong feeling that anxiety over China's hard-line policies may have been one reason North Viet Nam Premier Pham Van Dong came secretly to Russia early last month for consultations with Leonid Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party's general secretary.

Ordinarily, the Russians could have been expected to publicize such high-level contacts, to back up assertions that they were giving "ever-increasing" and "all-sided" aid to Hanoi.

Thus, diplomats were left feeling that something unusual is or has been going on between Moscow and Hanoi.

North Viet Nam is the only one of China's former staunch Asian allies still publicly on the sidelines in the Sino-Soviet ideological conflict. But Hanoi's relations with Moscow have become much closer since last year.

Of the other formerly pro-Peking Communist parties in Asia, the Indonesians are in disarray, the Japanese are busily shedding their once-strong ties with Peking, and North Korea appears to have switched ideological allegiance to Moscow.

The Peking regime has consistently rejected Kremlin appeals for joint action to aid Viet Nam, and observers feel Hanoi leaders must be apprehensive as the Red Guards dictate an increasingly militant go-it-alone policy for China.

If the Russians eventually concluded that a way out could be found in Viet Nam, they probably would feel less inhibited in risking Peking's inevitable accusation that Moscow is "selling out the revolution."

These considerations, in the view of a seasoned Moscow analysts, combine to suggest that events in China have produced a new fluidity in Communist inter-relations in Asia, and that somehow this could have an impact on the Viet Nam war.

Liberals Win 3 Seats In Byelections

Minister Refuses Demands

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—A nationwide postal strike—possibly at the peak of the Christmas mailing rush—has become a definite possibility.

The 11,000-member Canadian Union of Postal Workers made it known last month it wants pay increases of between 30 and 50 per cent and it wants them soon.

Sunday, the 9,000-member Letter Carriers Union of Canada repeated its position announced in June that it's after an overall average increase of 30 per cent but set a deadline of Nov. 25 when it will take a strike vote.

On Monday, the government spoke.

Revenue Minister Benson, commenting on the letter carriers' demand, said no 30-per-cent increase could be granted by mid-November.

He held out the possibility of an interim increase but mentioned no percentages.

Salaries of some 29,000 postal workers come under review Oct. 1 along with others in the Group D pay grouping that includes some 40,000 federal employees, but five or six months are required for its pay revisions. Increases are retroactive to Oct. 1.

The Liberals edged a seat closer to the majority that the voters denied them last year with an upset victory in a by-election in Quebec and predictable wins in two byelections in Newfoundland.

Don Jamieson, 44 - year - old broadcaster and touted in Ottawa as future cabinet timber, easily won Burin-Burgeo and Andrew Chatwood, 34, mining company accountant, easily retained Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador in Newfoundland.

Thus the Liberals now hold 131 seats in the 265-seat Commons, still outnumbered by 96 Conservatives, 21 New Democrats, eight Creditistes, five Social Credit members and three Independents.

There is one vacancy, in Hull, Que., where Liberal Alexis Caron died three weeks ago. No date has been set for a byelection there.

PM SAID PLEASED

Prime Minister Pearson was reported to be "extremely pleased" with Nicolet-Yamaska outcome and to regard it as "particularly significant" that the victory there had switched since last November's federal election.

In that election, the predominantly farming riding was won by Conservative Clement Vincent by a margin of some 5,600 votes. It was first won for the Tories in 1957 by 813 votes.

While the Liberals were jubilant, the Conservatives put a brave face on their disappointment, vowing to step up their drive for support in Quebec.

National Director James Johnston said the Nicolet-Yamaska results reflect no national issues. He hoped defeated candidate Normand Beaudoin, 28, a high school principal,

Report From Japan
End Discrimination In Immigration Is Marchand's Plan

TOKYO (CP) — Immigration Minister Jean Marchand said today he will submit to the Canadian Parliament "in a few weeks" a white paper that will abolish discrimination in Canada's immigration policy.

Marchand revealed this to correspondents during the opening of the first Canadian government travel bureau in Tokyo. He said the abolition of discrimination was in line with Canada's policy of search for "qualified" workers from all over the world.

The white paper outlines a new policy which completely abolishes any form of religious or racial discrimination in immigration policy.

Under this policy Japanese migrants will receive the same assisted passages as migrants from Europe, Marchand said a "white Canada" policy has never been Canada's law.

Marchand went on: "I don't tell you it never existed, but it will be clear in the white paper that there will be no discrimination, not only in the law, but also in regulations."

Canada recently opened an immigration office in Tokyo to speed up Japanese immigration to Canada.

"We don't want to discriminate against Asian nations" and "that is why an immigration office was opened in Tokyo," the minister said. Marchand also said Canada plans to open an immigration office in Manila "within a year" to import skilled workers form The Philippines.

Migration from Japan to Canada soon will reach 1,000 a year and eventually rise to several thousand annually, Marchand forecast.

He told a press conference at the Canadian Embassy that inquiries from Japanese about migrating to Canada are running at about 6,000 or 7,000 a year, although he expects this figure now to go up.

To date most of the immigrants flowing to Canada are from the United States and European nations, particularly Britain and Italy. Marchand said the number of immigrants to Canada last year totalled 146,000, of which Japan sent 2,000 skilled workers.

Marchand said Canada plans to admit about 200,000 people this year to meet her expanding economy. He said Canada already has issued visas to 400 Japanese that include scientists, technicians and engineers.

The foreign ministry said it has invited 50 Japanese living in Canada, with 1,250 of them immigrating there between 1960 and 1965.

Canadian policy now will be to look for skilled or qualified migrants, Marchand said. However, once the migrant was accepted he had the right to sponsor relatives, who would not necessarily be themselves also qualified.

Marchand said 40 per cent of

Underwater Sub Detection Network Now in Operation

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of the Defence Research Board, says an Atlantic Coast underwater submarine detection - network now is in operation.

He did not disclose the range or other details of the network in an interview but indicated that undersea - detection distances, though greatly improved since the Second World War, still are limited.

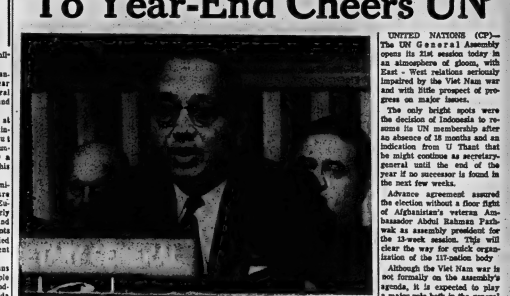
"The submarine threat is far worse today than it was at the start of the Second World War and is the greatest at the present American continent," he said.

"Our work in anti-submarine warfare is very much defence of our own shores."

Dr. Zimmerman also said that if the DEW line is used with construction of an anti-missile defence system it will provide some protection for major Canadian population centres.

The board has fed results of its fundamental research of the upper atmosphere into the U.S. counter-missile program.

Dr. Zimmerman said the U.S. now is in a position to deploy a counter - missile system which could achieve a fair amount of protection for the civilian population.



A system itself—the Americans still have doubts on this—there themselves—but the ranges are so great some Canadian cities would receive some protection from deployment of even a rudimentary anti - missile network within the U.S.

Dr. Zimmerman said that development of over-the-horizon radar in the U.S. may eventually do away with the necessity for the three-level distant early warning radar system in the Canadian Arctic. But this was still years away.

On anti-submarine warfare, he said sea trials of the experimental Canadian hydrofoil Bras d'Or will begin late next spring and last for some two years. A hydrofoil boat attains high speeds by riding out of the water on stilts.

Dr. Zimmerman also said Canadian researchers have been able to detect underwater wakes of submarines by measuring ocean temperature changes with electric thermometers.

Thant's Offer to Stay To Year-End Cheers UN

MIGHT STAY THROUGH THIS YEAR — Secretary-General U Thant of the United Nations tells a news conference that he would consider staying in office if the members can't agree on his successor by Nov. 3 when his term expires. He also declare d that détente is at a very low and also expressed doubts as to the value of an Asian peace conference on Viet Nam. (AP Wirephoto)

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The UN General Assembly opens its 21st session today in an atmosphere of gloom, with East - West relations seriously impaired by the Viet Nam war and with little prospect of progress on major issues.

The only bright spots were the decision of Indonesia to resume its UN membership after an absence of 18 months and an indication from U Thant that he might continue as secretary-general until the end of the year if his successor is found in the next few weeks.

Advance agreement assured the election of a floor fight of Afghanistan's veteran Ambassador Abdul Rahman Pazhwak as assembly president for the 13-week session. This will clear the way for quick organization of the 21-nation body.

Although the Viet Nam war is not formally on the assembly's agenda, it is scheduled to play a major role both in the general debate which begins later this week and in discussions of disarmament, outer space law and other issues coming up later in the session.

In what could be a move to put the war before the assembly, U Thant declared Monday that the assembly debate "the prohibition of the threat or use of force in international relations."

MARTIN ATTENDS

External Affairs Minister Martin will head Canada's delegation. Both he and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko are scheduled to address the assembly Friday.

State Secretary Rusk abroad has arranged to meet with Gromyko Thursday in an effort to improve U.S.-Soviet relations.

Thant told a news conference Monday that East-West relations had dropped to a new low, mainly because of the Viet Nam war, and that there had been "stiffening of the attitudes by all sides.

"To my knowledge, there has not been any meaningful dialogue between Washington and Moscow for a long time," he said.

While some diplomats were encouraged by Thant's indication that he might stay on through the assembly session if no agreement was reached on

Propose 4.50 Cwt. For Milk

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Greene today met with answer an Ontario-Quebec proposal to guarantee dairy farmers an at-the-farm return of $4.50 a hundredweight for their manufacturing milk.

The joint provincial proposal was made Monday during a two-hour meeting between Mr. Greene and his provincial counterparts, William Stewart of Ontario and Clement Vincent of Quebec.

Farmers now receive $4.08—including a 75-cent net federal subsidy—for their 3.5-per-cent whole milk at the barn door, but they pay $4.50 for them up to 25 cents a hundredweight to move the milk to the dairy plant.

Mr. Stewart said after the meeting the proposed "basic average price" of $4.50 should put $4.25 in the farmer's purse for every hundredweight of industrial milk he produces.

Industrial milk is used to make butter, cheese and milk powder.

AGREE ON SUBSIDY

He and Mr. Vincent said their governments had agreed to give their farmers a 35-cent-a-hundredweight temporary subsidy beginning Oct. 1 and ending March 31, 1967—start of the

Klan Leader Threatens To Oust King From Grenada

GRENADA, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi's grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan has vowed to bring Klansmen here if Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. tries "to create more ill will and dissension."

E. L. McDaniel, chief of the Mississippi's United Klans of America, said Monday night: "I will come non-violent, but will not be stepped on or pushed around."

The Klansman issued his statement as King spoke to a rally in a crowded church. After the rally, 600 civil rights demonstrators marched under heavy police guard to the town square.

King came to this racially-troubled north Mississippi town Monday night. Some of his aides said he would leave today after marching with Negro children in integrated classrooms.

More than 900 persons crowded into the New Hope Baptist Church to hear King.

"I am disturbed about the white community," he told them. "There are still all too many white people in our country who will use violence to try to keep us down. There are still white persons who will murder and assassinate Negroes simply because they want to be free."

In Natchez, the Ku Klux Klan leader was asked if he and his

Civil Rights Bill Beaten In Congress

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1966 civil rights bill has been strangled in a Congress which passed civil rights bills in 1964 and 1965. Why was this one killed Monday? There are a number of answers.

Chief executioner was Senator Everett M Dirksen, Illinois Republican. President Johnson can be given some of the blame, even though it was his bill. Negro civil rights leaders are split on what they want and how to get it.

The most extreme, Stokely Carmichael, called the civil rights bill a sham and said early he would not support it.

Negro riots and the angry or shocked white reactions undoubtedly were elements in the defeat. The violence in some of the Negro leadership's extremism, alienated white moderates and liberals and hardened even more the opposition of white segregationists.

The senators who killed the

Eskimo Beats Merchant, Pilot In Election in Eastern Arctic

FROBISHER BAY, N.W.T. (CP)—Simonie Et-Sil, Mount Bay merchant, and Welsy Phipps, a pilot, of Resolute Bay, Mr. Et-Sil's total was 346 while Mr. Phipps trailed with 166.

Although Simonie will be the first Eskimo ever to be elected to the territorial council he is not the first Eskimo ever to sit on the council. An Eskimo, Abe Oakpik, served as an appointed member.

Although eligible to vote in federal elections for a number of years, residents of the Eastern Arctic had no vote in territorial elections until Parliament approved a change in the Northwest Territories Act this year, adding three seats to the council.

The other two seats were won by acclamation: Robert Williamson of Rankin Inlet for Keewatin, and Duncan Pryde of the Cambridge Bay area for the Central Arctic riding.

The territorial council will have seven elected and five appointed members.

Application for Leave to Call Jail Tenders Behind Schedule

Application by Leonore and Addington county to the Ontario Municipal Board for leave to call tenders for the new regional detention centre proposed for construction just north of Napanee is at least four months behind schedule.

This was learned by members of Hastings County Council today as they met for their September session.

Rawdon Reeve Fred Beckett, one of the Hastings County members on the regional detention centre board, said that the delay was exasperating and said the blame on one of the Lennox and Addington board members who was quoted as not wanting to do anything about getting the required approval.

Last year the four counties of Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Prince Edward and Frontenac tentatively approved plans for construction of the regional jail, with Lennox and Addington to be responsible for calling tenders and floating debentures.

"It is now four months past the time when approval should have been received and construction is still to be made," Reeve Beckett said.

Mr. Beckett said that already $100,000 had been spent on the project and he would hate to see the money go down the drain.

PLANS REVISED

Lennox and Addington county later this week would have a motion before it to make application to the OMB for approval to call tenders. Mr. Beckett said plans for the detention centre have been sent back for revision after original cost estimates had been felt too high. The revised plans were now nearly ready, he said.

This week's session of Hastings county council is expected to be but a one-day sitting and shorter but more frequent meetings of the county fathers could become future practice.

County Warden Clayton Hall in his opening address said he felt council would be well informed on county matters if it met every two months, instead of in the present four regular sessions per year.

He said that council might be well advised next year to consider meeting every two months.

During the morning sitting council concurred in a County of Peterborough resolution asking the province to have legislation making it compulsory for all municipalities to have a form of warble fly control program.

Madoc township Reeve Allan Ketcheson said his township had had a warble fly control program for the past 15 years, with considerable success.

Wollaston Reeve didn't think that beef cattle raisers in his municipality would support such a program, stating that it would be difficult to spray the cattle, which in many instances ran wild in the bush.

Reeve Ketcheson said, however, that beef cattle men in his township were the first to ask for warble fly control. He said that liability insurance protected against any cattle being killed by the effects of the program, although there was nothing to prevent any farmers doing their own spraying.

It appears that the county will be asked to call tenders for the spraying by-law may be revised.

Council turned down a North Grenville Conservation Authority resolution asking that the Ontario Government administer and enforce proper cutting and management control of farm woodlots.

Reeve Vera McMurray said he was opposed to any regulations which would prevent a woodlot owner selling timber when he needed the revenue. Anything else would likely result in added welfare costs, he said.

Mr. McMurray said he would rather see legislation which would enforce cutting of overripe timber on properties controlled by large corporations.

He said that millions of acres of over-ripe timber were being cut annually on land standing by large corporations.

Herschel Reeve Frank Peever said the existing county tree bylaw was not effective due to lack of enforcement and it was suggested that an amending bylaw be brought in.

HEALTH UNIT REPORTS

Also, during the morning, council saw officials of the new Hastings county health unit introduced by Unit Chairman Reeve William Shannon. Officials introduced included the Medical Officer of Health, Dr. C. B. Lemke, Mrs. J. Hyatt, director of nursing and Mr. L. A. Ellenton, chief sanitary inspector.

Dr. Lemke said that health units were now offer generally accepted in many parts of the world, as they were best suited for serving the health needs of citizens.

Mrs. Hyatt outlined the nursing staff set-up and told of the pre-natal clinics and visits to new mothers and of the unit schools program.

Mr. Ellenton told council that more sanitary inspectors were needed in his department. He said he was receiving 100 per cent co-operation in septic tank installations and also said it was hoped that school inspections throughout the county would be completed by the end of the year.

Volkswagen's Karmann Ghia coupe for 1967 looks practically the same from the outside as the first one built in 1955, but the resemblance is little more than skin-deep. Down under the hand-finished body are all the improvements made in the "beetle" over the years — plus a few others. New this year is a modified rear suspension with a progressive springing action for a more comfortable ride, a larger and more flex ible engine which gives the car improved highway performance, and a new 12-volt electrical system. Convenience features built into the 1967 Karmann Ghia include retractable seat belts, dual back-up lights, restyled bucket seats and improved safety door locks. The car is available in both hardtop and convertible models.

Jail Sentence Of 14 Days Is Imposed

Being arrested for driving a car while his permit was suspended for the second time in three years cost a Belleville man a sentence of 14 days in the county jail in city magistrate's court proceedings this morning.

John Joseph Kehoe, who gave his address to police as 22 West 2 Street, was stopped by a city police officer on motorcycle patrol on the Canniffon Road September 11.

Kehoe's licence had been suspended for one year on November 17 of last year after being convicted in Peterborough on a charge of impaired driving.

Crown Attorney R. Graham told the court that Kehoe had served nine days in the Hastings County Jail for driving while his licence was under suspension in 1963.

Kehoe pleaded guilty to the charge as well as to one of driving an uninsured vehicle, for which he was fined $50 and costs.

The accused pleaded not guilty to a charge of speeding some thirty miles in excess of the limit on the evening in question. He was also found guilty of this charge and fined $20 and costs.

Cabinet Shuffle Coming Says Newspaper

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree will become Ontario's minister of financial and commercial affairs, a portfolio created in the last session of the legislature.

It says the announcement may be made Friday after Thursday's byelection in Kenora.

Otherwise, the announcement may be made after the Oct. 10 Thanksgiving holiday, the story says.

The Globe says two Progressive Conservative backbenchers, Dalton Bales, member for York Mills, and Robert Welch, member for Lincoln, are the likeliest candidates to succeed Mr. Rowntree in the labor portfolio.

The newspaper also says a cabinet shuffle is expected replacing Welfare Minister Louis Cecil; Provincial Treasurer James Allan, 71; Kelso Roberts, 67, lands and forests minister, and Mines Minister George Wardrope, 67.

Post-Mortem Examination of Baby Refused

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McGee of Guelph, parents of the Siamese twins born dead in a 6½-hour operation Saturday, have refused doctors permission for a post-mortem examination of Sherri Lee, who died eight hours after the operation.

Crystal Ann, the survivor, is in critical condition, but progressing favorably, the Hospital for Sick Children said Monday.

Sherri Lee died of heart failure Saturday, about eight hours after surgeons successfully separated the twins in a 6½-hour operation.

The girls' livers were separate, but fused within a large band of flesh that joined the twins from chest to navel. Their hearts, enclosed in one membraneous sac, lay horizontally instead of vertically.

Council Allows Retail Store In Green Belt

TRENTON — A retired sitman, with 37 years service, and an honorable discharge, John McLean, managed to get his own way with town council last night when he asked to be permitted to carry on a non-conforming use in a green belt area on West Street.

Mr. McLean, who said he had eight children, told council he had bought a former used furniture store at 194 West Street, and had been assured by the real estate agent there would be no reason he couldn't set up a grocery store and lunch counter at the address.

Since council talked last month about sticking strictly to the zoning by-law, Mr. McLean said he felt "like a sheaf in the wind."

"I've got every cent I have in the world tied up in that store," he told council last night.

Council agreed to let the "retail store" operate but Mr. McLean will have to apply for a permit to install two pool tables separately.

Meanwhile, council has decided to send letters out to all real estate agents and solicitors locally ,pointing out that the town does have zoning by-laws and that clients should be made aware of the zoning in the particular area he wishes to locate.

Nick Mika Hired to Write Town History

TRENTON — A "Mosaic of Trenton"

Nick Mika of Belleville will be hired by council to compile a history of the town — similar to "Mosaic of Belleville."

Mr. Mika will get at the job right away and promises to have it completed by June, 1967.

The book will be distributed by the Chamber of Commerce and the town hopes eventually to make it pay for itself by retail sales.

Actual cost to the town will be $7,500; $2,500 right away, $2,500 on completion and $2,500 thirty days after that.

The town may have to handle a $2,500 deficit this year in order to get Mr. Mika his money, as the project had not been included in the 1966 budget.

The "Mosaic of Belleville" has proved to be a best seller in Trenton . . . a stationery store reports it got in two or the books and sold them in two days.

OMB Judge To Hear Case Of Devaluation

TRENTON — An Ontario Municipal Board judge, H. E. Roberts is in town to hear a claim by the Lange and Potter Motor Car Company that the town devalued their Dundas Street East property when it elevated the access to the property by widening the street last year.

Trenton is being represented by Belleville lawyer Donald Templeton and Lange and Potter by Ben Hurley.

The motor firm claims $25,000 for devaluation.

TRAILER CLUB MEETS

Thirty members of the 50-member Quinte Travel Trailer Club of Belleville and Trenton spent the weekend at Little Lake. Campfires and singsongs, sports events and dancing in the pavilion were enjoyed by young and old. An open air service was held on Sunday.

The next meeting of the club is at Lake St. Peter over the Thanksgiving weekend.

LOVE THAT AROMA

Italians spent 800,000,000,000 lire ($1,000,000,00) on espresso coffee in 1965.

Council Briefs

TRENTON — Town council has run into a snag in its desire to install a watermain and a sanitary sewer on Edwards Street; $34,000 had been set aside in the budget for the job but each of three tenders received is in the $50,000 bracket.

The town will sound out the utility commission about installing the watermain itself, and will see about having the public works' department install the sewer . . . with a hope of saving closer to the line price-wise.

CAN HIRE WOMEN

Trenton town council will not brook no discrimination here. Council is perfectly willing to hire women as school guards, provided their husbands aren't the breadwinners.

Applicants would be screened by police. The job brings in around $18 a week.

WILL ADVERTISE TOWN

Councillor Paul Tripp, chairman of the industrial and economic development committee, said last night his committee plans to rent a suite in a Toronto hotel in the near future and invite industrial officers of national organizations to a briefing on what Trenton has to offer to industry.

Members of the Industrial Commission of which Mr. Tripp is a member, will co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce and the Trenton Real Estate Board with a view to developing mutual interests.

Taxi Fares Going Up Says Council

TRENTON — Taxi fares in Trenton are going up.

Council voted last night to permit the increase in the law. The charge will be 50 cents for the first half mile and one-tenth of a mile covered thereafter.

Two will still be able to ride for the price of one, but each additional passenger will pay 25 cents, (adults) the driver will want $4 an hour for waiting time and those transporting large packages in the trunk will face another 25 cent charge.

Five Constables Seek Promotions

TRENTON — The past week was a very quiet one for the Ontario Provincial Police, Brighton Detachment. They investigated four motor vehicle accidents in which three persons were injured and laid two charges in connection.

On September 13, five senior constables wrote examinations in Peterborough for promotion to the rank of corporal and results are expected the first of October. The five men were Constables E. R. Bush, T. E. Coy, J. C. Martin, J. J. Graham and R. F. Dock.

OTTAWA (CP)—Figures released Monday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that 85 per cent of passenger miles travelled between 1953 and 1965 were by car, 5.7 per cent by air, five per cent by bus and 3.2 per cent by train. In 1949 the percentages were 69.5 per cent by car, 1.7 per cent by air, 14.7 per cent by bus and 14.1 per cent by train.

C of C Will Have Charge of Naming Bridge

TRENTON — Town council last night turned the naming of the new bridge over to the Chamber of Commerce. The chamber will probably run a town-wide contest to come up with a name. Various suggestions have been offered, among them that the bridge be named for Trenton's Centennial mayor, James MacDonald.

Councillor C. Y. Graham suggested this, saying that the mayor had done more than anyone to make the bridge a reality.

A special committee will also try to come up with suggestions for a use for the former post office building. To date, the town has agreed to buy the building from Cowen Assets, but no money has changed hands and no agreement signed. Cost to the town was $41,000.

Greens Placed Under Control Of Bowling Club

TRENTON — Since the bowling green in the Community Gardens is nearing completion, town council last night passed a resolution to place the green under the jurisdiction of the lawn bowling club.

If and when the group builds a club house, the building will become the property of the town but will be leased to the club on a 50-year basis. Should the club "fold," the club house will become the property of the Community Gardens' board.

A plan for the club house has been prepared by Tony Lanza and this will be examined by the engineering department and the building inspector.

CNIB Starts Fund Drive

TRENTON — The annual campaign for funds has been launched in the Trenton area by Cdn. National Institute for the Blind units, and will continue until Oct. 5. Nine-ten blind persons are supplied with comforts, recreational outlets and transportation to White Cane meetings.

Good Forgery Of $20 Bill Found Here

What is believed to be the first "bogus 20" to appear in the Belleville area turned up last Thursday at the North Front and College branch of the Bank of Montreal.

Local R.C.M.P. officers confirmed yesterday that a $20 bill found by bank teller Mrs. Ericka Switzer in the deposits of a large Belleville firm is a "good forgery."

Branch manager A. Kroetsch said this morning that the investigating police officers had been unable to positively identify the bill as counterfeit until it was examined by members of their identification branch.

Although similar bills have been found in several other centres throughout the province, there have been no previous confirmed finds of bogus twenties in Belleville. A Toronto couple were arrested in Napanee last week for uttering and possessing counterfeit money.

The bill found at the local bank is described as having a dull, hard finish, with the Queen's eyes on the bill's front being noticably different from those on a regular bill.

Viet Cong Scared to Death Of Korean Marines Says Letter

George "Pip" Casey, formerly of Belleville and now employed by an American construction firm in Viet Nam, describes some of his impressions of that strife-torn country in a recent letter to Belleville friends.

"Tay Hoa, where I am working, is a long beach similar to the Outlet Park, but with no trees. The water is as hot as South China Sea has a temperature of about 80 degrees, just like a warm bath.

"Beyond the beach, about one mile, lies the richest rice growing area in the South East, and beyond that lie the mountains, densely forested, and densely populated with Viet Cong. The area is 95 per cent Viet Cong.

"The main problem around Tay Hoa is that the monsoon season comes in another few weeks and the Viet Cong must get the rice before then or be forced to leave for lack of food. During the day-if they come out of the hills, our helicopter patrols can spot them easily. Thus they usually wait until nightfall. We fire flares all night long and keep our 'copters going steady, but they still seem to keep coming.

"If, however, they get close to our lines, our artillery and tanks can easily pick up their scent.

FEARED KOREAN MARINES

"We are protected by the 101st Airborne and the First American Cavalry Division, as well as by the Korean Army. The Korean Marines just left the area, much to our displeasure, since the Viet Cong were scared to death of them!

"Their discipline was superb! Once when two of their troops raped a girl in town, the Korean commander marched the company into that town, searched out the two men, and executed them in front of the townspeople.

"On another occasion, one of the Korean soldiers was captured and tortured by the Viet Cong. In retaliation, the Koreans sent out a raiding party, captured two Viet Cong, skinned them alive, and dropped their carcasses in a village to warn the people that a similar fate would befall any would-be traitors."

Let Quebec Choose

Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec says that the only alternative to equality for La Belle Province is independence.

Premier Johnson's version of equality involves balancing the other nine provinces of Canada against Quebec and calling it even.

It is a two-nation concept. As he sees it, Quebec has certain interests, beliefs and habits, arising out of its heritage, which are opposed to the interests, beliefs and habits of other parts of the country.

He may know Quebec — but he does not know the rest of Canada. The unity which would be necessary to make it a "nation" in the sense that that word can be applied to Quebec simply does not exist. Aside from their common language the other provinces share no ties which are tighter than those which bind them to Quebec itself and Quebec to them.

These ties have been close enough to unite them, and Quebec, into one nation in the sense that that word is understood by English-speaking people.

To remain a nation in this sense, and not just a loose confederacy of insignificant little states, without a common purpose, without influence and without a destiny, there must be at Ottawa a federal government with certain well defined powers.

These powers ought not to include, and they do not now include, the right to impose conformity upon the nation, to force the citizen of Nova Scotia to adopt the same pattern of life as the citizen of Ontario, of the Prairies or of British Columbia. No reasonable Canadian will object to the people of Quebec, French-speaking or otherwise, clinging to their long-established customs. He will preserve this way of life. The Quebec government feels that there must be certain revisions of existing taxing powers, a change in the division of tax proceeds between the provincial and federal governments, we should not be reluctant to study any reasonable proposal.

But the proposal must be reasonable. It must leave the federal government in undisputed possession of the powers essential to preserve Canada as a country. Such essential powers include the sole right to determine foreign policy, to provide for national defence, to impose the same system of criminal law, to establish a uniform system of civil rights for all Canadians and to manage the country's economic affairs to the extent necessary to maintain its solvency. And they must include the right to levy identical taxes, everywhere, for the discharge of these responsibilities.

There are a host of other things which many will believe desirable — uniformity in welfare measures, in economic opportunity and in educational standards.

But everything which is desirable is not essential. If the a clear-cut and stable majority in Quebec is opposed to uniformity in these matters, the remainder of Canada should yield — as the Federal government has already yielded with respect to Canada Pension Plan.

It is now becoming evident that, if Premier Johnson speaks for Quebec, these concessions will not be enough.

For all practical measures, Johnson is a separatist, because the alternative which he provides to separatism is not an acceptable one.

What, then, is the rest of Canada to do?

We suggest that all the evidence provided by the experience of other countries with similar unsatisfied minority grievances there is nothing to be gained by maintaining the union through force.

If Quebec really wants to set up house by itself, then it should be given the opportunity. It should not have to fight for it.

But before this "right to make its own mistakes is accorded it, we should make certain not only for our own sakes but equally for the sake of the unborn, that those who, like Canadians, that they fully understand the price which will have to be paid, and that they understand they themselves will have to pay a major share of it.

Weak though a Quebec-less Canada might be, a Canada-less Quebec would be weaker. In fairness to ourselves, we ought not to offer an independent Quebec concessions, economic or otherwise, without extracting fair and adequate compensation. Quebec would be a foreign country — and should be treated as such.

If Quebec thinks independence worth this price, then independence it should get.

With the understanding, of course, that If it ever wanted to rejoin Canada, it would have to be on Canada's terms.

Minority Rule

Majority rule is a misnomer which should be re-named minority rule. Not because the majority can not rule, but because complacency rules the roost.

The noisy minority rules. Those who make the most noise cause the thunder.

We sit by idly while the noisy set scream to government officials. Our liquor laws are a prime example. Ten per cent support them. Probably 90 per cent of our adult population object.

The problem is, the 10 per cent make a noise. The 90 per cent do not even rattle a chain.

Grand Canyon Threatened

New York Times

Despite repeated storm warnings of political danger ahead, Arizona and its political allies in the House Interior Committee have pushed ahead with their short-sighted plan to build dams in the Grand Canyon.

These dams would drown nearly half of all the flow in the water of the Colorado River for much deep, silent lakes. Since the depth of these lakes would vary according to the seasonal operations of the dams, the canyon walls rising above this artificial water level would be disfigured by ugly, dead bands of discolored. Side canyons would become blocked by silt because the river would not be flowing freely.

It would be impossible to run the rushing river as hundreds of intrepid travelers do every year; what has been called "the greatest set of all white-river runs" would be no more. Geologists and other scientists would be unable to study long stretches of the river as it now exists in its natural state.

That cannot be allowed to happen. This gigantic piece of logrolling must be defeated now and forever, the principle must be established that the Grand Canyon is inviolable. It is not for sale; it is not open to compromise; it is not available for dam sites or any other exploitation. It does not belong to Arizona or to the states of the Colorado River Basin to haggle over and parcel out; it belongs to all of America and to mankind.

It is regrettable that Arizona and its neighbors have persisted in this irresponsible, destructive nonsense — etcetcharthcdrewthe course against all the deepest feelings of the American people when sound and perfectly feasible alternatives are available. But the advocates of these dams have proved deaf to these alternatives. Apparently, they will have to suffer a clear-cut defeat on this issue before they can rid themselves of the illusion that the Grand Canyon is theirs to despoil. Every member of Congress has a duty to see to it that they receive such defeat when the bill comes to a vote.

"Pardon me—I thought I heard a sharp, piercin' scream."

Strictly Personal

How Much Is a Man Worth?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Our friends were almost an hour late for dinner, and the husband apologized that a "business emergency" had held them up.

It turned out that one of his most valuable employees had suddenly given notice, and it took a two-hour conference to persuade him to stay, at a considerably higher salary.

"He's worth the extra salary," my friend explained, "and I would have given it to him long ago if I had known how he felt — but my chief assistant never told me."

One of the problems that business has not yet successfully worked out is the proper balance between men and money, between short-term profit and long-term planning If big government" is guilty of wastefulness, of business, at the other extreme, is guilty of false economies.

My friend's firm is divided into three departments. E a c h department has a h e a d, and each head is responsible for an annual budget. At the end of the fiscal year a department head feels he has been "successful" if he has kept within his budget and can show a good financial record.

But if this becomes the main objective of an executive, he is eventually going to be forced to sacrifice men of long-term value for gains of short-term worth.

Very often, the owner of a company — as in my friend's case — is unaware that his subordinates are presenting a handsome "paper" record at the expense of personnel. In most instances, he is both more generous and more farsighted than his assistants.

The reason is easy to see. They are bucking for promotion, and it has been drilled into them that the firm's annual statement of position takes a No. 1 priority with the directors and the stockholders. This being the case, they feel compelled to throw overboard any cargo whose weight would burden the statement.

My friend was aghast at the thought of losing a valuable employee, yet he is at least partly to blame for the situation, by selecting as assistant who is long on dollar sense and short on human psychology. For the fundamental value of a company is far greater than the morale of the men and women who work for it.

The rise of the union in modern industrial society is as much a psychological as an economic event. The average employee feels an increasing sense of remoteness from the core of his company; and it has only been in the last dozen years that many firms have wakened to the realization of their deficiencies in human relations.

"Loyalty" is an effective slogan only when an employe is convinced that his welfare takes precedence over the momentary gains of the chain of command.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sept. 20, 1966 . . .

Forces of the Italian state forged their way into Rome 96 years ago today—in 1870 —and Pope Pius IX acknowledged defeat after a token resistance. The Vatican had resisted the unification of Italy since it was itself a political power—but that power dissolved when whether they want to come with us or go with you."

The "majority" the way he sees it, "will decide the issue."

Suppose this "majority" should decide to "participate" as Gilles Gregoire puts it, in the "separate state," will they then vacate their houses in Dorval and New Brunswick to allow their nationalist hearts into "independent Quebec"?

Don't be ridiculous.

"We will not be the execration of those sections of Ontario and New Brunswick where the majority vote has been for participation in the separate state," says Gilles Gregoire. "Is that not fair? Is that not the democratic process at work? Decision by the majority?"

But Gilles Gregoire's "territorial aspiration" aren't limited to those sections of Northern New Brunswick and Northern Ontario where there are concentrations of French-Canadians.

DEDICATED ZEALOT

His independent state of Quebec will make other annexation demands on the basis of majority French-Canadian referendums "ruqring," as he phrases it, "the ceding to us of Eastern Ontario, a section of the National Capital here in Ottawa and all of Labrador."

Is he kidding?

No indeed, he swears. It is more deadly serious to him than anything before in his life.

But this would split Canada, wouldn't it, not just in two, but three.

With Quebec partitioning off the Maritimes from Ontario, and Ontario from Northern Ontario fencing off the Prairies and Pacific?

No problem, amiably explains Gilles Gregoire.

His independent state of Quebec wars already that the operation of two water corridors — one from Ontario through the St. Lawrence to the sea and — the other from Ontario through the Great Lakes and Lake Superior to the West.

No land corridors?

Nothing, says Gilles Gregoire, you give us a land corridor through Ontario and the Prairies to the West Coast linking up all the tiny French-Canadian enclaves there are out there — at St. Boniface, Cobourg, St. Albert and the rest.

Crazy?

Like a fox. For Gilles Gregoire is more than the dedicated zealot he calls himself; he is an outstanding member of the French-Canadian intellectual elite in Parliament, and no man to shrug off with a shrug.

Just think how far "separate statism" has gone already. And with no end in sight.

Girl Glue-Sniffer Asks Facts on Effects

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a 16-year-old girl who sniffed glue steadily for a year and a half. I didn't realize the dangers—and still am not sure of them. The only information I had was from other kids.

My mother took me to our doctor and there is nothing wrong with me. But I am worried about the glue sniffing, which gave me the idea that it can't do much harm.

Since last January I haven't sniffed the stuff. The reason I stopped was that I had two occasions I had a sensation like my throat was melting. It only lasted a couple of minutes, but my boy friend said sniffing glue could make my babies retarded or sick and I couldn't have any.

A few of my friends still sniff glue and I'd like to find out for sure what just how dangerous it is.

People wonder why kids sniff glue. Well, my answer is for the same reason adults drink and drinking affects people in different ways. Some sniffers act like wild juvenile delinquents.—S. D.

I gather from your and other letters on this subject that the real danger of glue sniffing is not well known to young people.

Youngsters can get "high," or the plain dangerous experience a form of intoxication, and you are right. Not all react the same way. If they sniff enough glue, sooner at heart, they'll act like hoodlums. If they are decent, they'll be decent while sniffing.

But the danger lies in what happens to health.

A smell of glue won't harm you, but sniffing it, drawing large quantities of the fumes into your lungs, is dangerous.

I can't say whether it will or won't cause retarded babies. But the solvents in glue, known as hydro-carbons, a type of chemical which, in quantity, has two strategic locations, your doctor dangerous results in particular, can do it.

One is damage to the liver. This cannot be reversed or corrected later. Once it has happened, you have a damaged liver for life.

Another major peril is destruction of some parts of the blood.

Several teen-age deaths have been traced to glue sniffing. No doubt these deaths were severe heavy, habitual sniffers.

Much of the damage of sniffing will not be dangerous at first. Liver function tests are special chemical procedures. Minor changes may not be readily discovered by simple examination.

But 10, 20 or more years from now, when some of these people develope cirrhosis or other liver ailments, how much blame must be attached to glue sniffing damage was done by these solvents earlier?

Just stay away from the habit. Some states have even passed laws to control the sale of airplane glues.

Dear Dr. Molner: When my daughter was about eight, she had such a thirst that our pediatrician made a urinalysis test for diabetes. She was not, but still thirsty. She is getting quite thin, but a recent urinalysis showed no sugar. Is blood test necessary? — Mrs. H. K. E.

By all means have a sugar tolerance (blood) test, because urinalysis, while very useful, doesn't always tell the whole story. She may have diabetes in spidus.

Note to Mrs. B. C. and others: It isn't difficult for your regular doctor to remove moles. If there are a lot of them, and you want to keep scarring at a minimum, go to a plastic surgeon or to a dermatologist (skin specialist) For just occasional moles, not in large numbers, and two strategic locations, your doctor

Stars Still Move in Their Courses

The Economist (London)

Must we start revising our ideas of how the world began? The disconcerting possibility that all current theories might be based on a fallacy arises out of a letter in Nature jointly signed by Professor Fred Hoyle writing from Cambridge and Professor G. R. Burbidge from the University of California.

Up till now, cosmologists have been convinced that reation enabled of great galaxies flying apart at speeds the mind cannot grasp. They have argued cat-and-dog, with the zest of science cheering on the side-lines, over what started the galaxies moving in the first place, but the fact that there was a vast cosmological explosion or series of explosions is generous, no one ever doubted (not, that is, anyone that appeared to m e t e r). And how were they so sure? Because the light, these galaxies generally was all at the red end of the spectrum, the "red shift" that-signified increasing w a v e length that in turn showed the stars were moving away in the same way as the sound of a train tells unmistakably whether it is coming or going.

A few stray voices did weakly suggest that red shift could be due to something else, the light losing its energy, or gravitational effects, but their theories did not get much credence. Astronomy by this generation has been built on the belief that red shift-something moving a way from you That, and all theories about how matter came into existence, by creation at a given moment in time, or by a sort of self-sustaining process of continuous creation and destruction, were tailored to fit the concept of a world made up of hurtling galaxies.

Now the red shift is in doubt, and should it ever be proved that we have genuinely got hold of the wrong end of the stick, these theories collapse. For the two astronomers say quite flatly — and their research is backed by both the American National Science Foundation and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration — that quasars are cases the reds shifts they have observed "have nothing to do with distances."

Admittedly, they have not made their measurements from the trad sort of galaxies but from what are delicately called "quasistellar objects," or quasars, because, beyond knowing that these give off light and radio waves, scientists have it to a clue what they are. All the professors are saying is that when they plotted the quasars located in a segment of sky, they got a jumbled-up scatter pattern evidently so large that nothing useful, from a cosmological point of view can be inferred"

The troublesome letter was having as the accepted laws of red shift said they should. And so some other explanation for their very powerful red shifts will have to be found.

That is'all we have to go on so far. And no cosmologist would be prepared to say-yet that the whole red shift - distance idea is wrong, just on the evidence of something he knows as little about as a quasar.

The troublysome letter was published only late in June, which does not give much time to adjust one's ideas about the origins of creation in a universe in which the stars might after all be moving decorously in their courses and not lodging in the orgy of explosive self-destruction in which we have up till now all believed. But this could conceivably be the case.

Temptation to Laugh at Gregoire Must be Stifled

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Wonder if you caught that little-more-than-passing reference Separatist MP Gilles Gregoire made the other day to what he referred as "consultation" of French-Canadians outside Quebec on their "manifest destiny"

The former Creditiste Deputy Leader, now an avowed Quebec Separatist, was speaking of the manifest destiny of French Canada and after what he quite openly looks forward to as "Independence Day."

He was widely quoted as declaring that foreign policy in Parliament because his $18,000-a-year seat in the Commons was a rewarding and convenient base of operations from which to begin work on founding "an independent regime, economically and politically, in Quebec."

Then he went directly on to say, still Canadian nation as it is published quotation marks, that French-speaking Canadians in Northern Ontario and Northern New Brunswick should be consulted on the possibility of participating in such a separate state.

Well, that could mean several different things.

What precisely did the nationalist Quebec firebrand have in mind?

ANNEXATION

Since, denying there is any violation of his oath of allegiance in his Separatism, he continues making his Centre Block office here on Parliament Hill his base of Independence operations, it wasn't difficult to establish precisely what Gilles Gregoire means by consulting.

There is no hanging back with him, no falsely-modest pose that nobody cares about his views on Quebec grandeur, for he is more than anxious to explain, insisting that not only are you listen, but listening, believe he means every word he says.

What does his "consultation" involve?

A referendum," to use his exact own words, "of French-Canadians in Northern Ontario and Northern New Brunswick on whether they want to come with us or go with you."

The "majority" the way he sees it, "will decide the issue."

Suppose this "majority" should decide to "participate," as Gilles Gregoire puts it, in the "separate state," will they then vacate their houses in Dorval and New Brunswick to allow their nationalist hearts into "independent Quebec"?

Don't be ridiculous.

"We will not be the execration of those sections of Ontario and New Brunswick where the majority vote has been for participation in the separate state," says Gilles Gregoire. "Is that not fair? Is that not the democratic process at work? Decision by the majority?"

But Gilles Gregoire's "territorial aspiration" aren't limited to those sections of Northern New Brunswick and Northern Ontario where there are concentrations of French-Canadians.

DEDICATED ZEALOT

His independent state of Quebec will make other annexation demands on the basis of majority French-Canadian referendums "ruqring," as he phrases it, "the ceding to us of Eastern Ontario, a section of the National Capital here in Ottawa and all of Labrador."

Is he kidding?

No indeed, he swears. It is more deadly serious to him than anything before in his life.

But this would split Canada, wouldn't it, not just in two, but three.

With Quebec partitioning off the Maritimes from Ontario, and Ontario from Northern Ontario fencing off the Prairies and Pacific?

No problem, amiably explains Gilles Gregoire.

His independent state of Quebec wars already that the operation of two water corridors — one from Ontario through the St. Lawrence to the sea and — the other from Ontario through the Great Lakes and Lake Superior to the West.

No land corridors?

Nothing, says Gilles Gregoire, you give us a land corridor through Ontario and the Prairies to the West Coast linking up all the tiny French-Canadian enclaves there are out there — at St. Boniface, Cobourg, St. Albert and the rest.

Crazy?

Like a fox. For Gilles Gregoire is more than the dedicated zealot he calls himself; he is an outstanding member of the French-Canadian intellectual elite in Parliament, and no man to shrug off with a shrug.

Just think how far "separate statism" has gone already. And with no end in sight.

TORONTO STOCKS TODAY

TORONTO (CP) — Prices floundered in heavy morning trading today on the Toronto Stock Exchange with industrials down for the second consecutive session.

Volume by 11 a.m. totalled 1,313,000 shares compared with 1,141,000 at the same time Monday, with speculatives accounting for most of the activity.

In the main list, CPR, bank of Montreal and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce lost ½ each to 56½, 54 and 56¾ respectively. Inco bucked the decline, rising ¼ to 91¼. The company has recently settled a labor dispute.

Western oils advanced for the third consecutive session as investors show interest in the upcoming sale of petroleum and natural gas leases in the Rainbow and Zama Lake region of northwestern Alberta.

The oil index, which jumped 2.30 Monday and 2.66 Friday, moved up .46 to 105.86. Dome rose ¼ to 23¾ and Central Del Rio ¼ to 11.

Area and Frobex, two recent speculative favorites, ran into heavy profit taking for the second consecutive session. The companies are undertaking a joint drilling program in the Gaspe. Frobex slid 14 cents to 2.00 and Area 19 cents to 2.71.

On index, industrials eased .30 to 146.38 and the TSE .12 to 140.52. Golds were up .36 to 171.00 and base metals .24 to 88.33.

Analysts attribute interest in oils to the upcoming Oct. 25 sale of petroleum and natural gas leases in the Rainbow and Zama Lake region of northwestern Alberta. A number of companies are expected to announce the results of their drilling programs after the sales are completed.

Dome paced the advance, rising 1¼ to 24¾. Canadian Superior added ⅛ at 22¼, Hudson's Bay ¾ at 18¾ and Great Plains ⅛ at 12¼.

Industrials retreated .40 on Index to 147.18 on news that Stelco had rolled mill price recent announced price increases. Stelco was down ¼ to 22. Among other steels, Dofasco and Algoma each slipped ⅛ to 20¾ and 26¾.

FORD JUMPS 6¼

Ford of Canada jumped 6¼ to 125½ and Inco 1 to 67¼. Great Lakes Power was down 1¼ to 23¼.

Volume was heavier as 3,358,000 shares were traded compared with 3,581,000 Friday, most of it resulting in an active speculative market.

However, speculative mines ran into heavy profit taking and two recent favorites — Frobex and Area, who are undertaking a joint drilling program in the Gaspe area — suffered sharp losses. Frobex slid 16 cents to 2.74 and Area 15 cents to 2.90 on 166,000 shares.

Declines outnumbered advances 328 to 186 with 220 issues unchanged.

On index, base metals were off .07 to 88.08 and the TSE 300 to 140.97. Golds edged up .12 to 170.04.

Propose

next dairy year—on four conditions:

—That Ottawa, starting Oct. 1, increase its support price for manufacturing milk to $3.50 from the present $3.33.

—That Ottawa, starting next April, take over responsibility for temporary Ontario and Quebec subsidy of 25 cents, either by increasing its own net subsidy to 81 from 75 cents, or by a further raise in its support price to $3.75.

—An increased subsidy will be paid by the taxpayer, an increase in the support price will be passed on to the consumer.

—That Ottawa would consider the resulting $4.50 return to the dairy farmers as "a strict minimum" because of their increasing needs.

—That both Ottawa and Quebec "give special consideration to the special conditions related to the manufacturing of casein and roller skim milk powder and the urgent need for modernization of dairy plants in Quebec".

WOULD END AID

Mr. Vincent said the provincial proposal, if agreed to by Ottawa, would mean an end to Quebec's controversial subsidy of 17.5 cents a hundredweight in the summer and 25 cents in the winter.

No such subsidy exists in Ontario, where farmers have protested that the Quebec subsidy puts them at a disadvantage.

A spokesman for Mr. Greene said following the meeting the minister hoped to be able to answer the provincial proposal today after conferring with department officials.

The Ontario-Quebec proposal is the first official provincial reaction to a federal offer made Sept. 9 when Agriculture Minister Greene raised the support price by two cents to 61 cents a pound.

The decision resulted in an eight-cent increase in $3.33 in the base price per hundredweight of manufacturing milk.

Mr. Greene then promised a further 9.5-cent increase in the base price on condition that Ontario and Quebec agree on an equal provincial subsidy level, and that the provincial governments guarantee the raise would be fully passed on to the farmers.

The immediate eight-cent increase plus the promised 9.5-cent increase would equal Quebec's present summer subsidy of 17.5 cents.

FALLS SHORT

But the resulting support price of $3.42½ a hundredweight still would be 7.5 cents short of the $3.50 base price starting Oct. 1, as was asked by the provinces.

Mr. Vincent said the $8,500,000 in cash which the Quebec government would save would be used to modernize processing plants, to improve the quality of milk, and to bring about an equalization system allowing producers to receive the $4.50 a hundredweight.

Mr. Stewart said the 25-cent provincial subsidy would be an interim measure to give the National Dairy Council time to evolve policy.

He said consumers "won't object" to price increases for dairy products if they "are assured the increases are going to the farmers."

Mr. Greene warned earlier this month that "with the possible exception of butter, all evidence points to there not being significant increase in prices of dairy products would almost certainly . . . result in curtailed markets."

Ottawa Spokesman Denies County Court Judges Asked To End Labor Arbritrations

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the federal justice department has ordered county court judges to cease taking part in labor arbitration and conciliation proceedings.

The newspaper says the justice department has long been displeased by the time judges spend in labor arbitration and conciliation.

It says one criticism of judges accepting outside work is that labors interfered with their regular judicial duties.

The Canadian Manufacturers Association plan is protest the decision, the story says, adding that Ontario Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree also is asking Ottawa to modify the order.

The newspaper says eight of Ontario's 30 county court judges are in high demand by labor and management. It identifies them as Judges R. W. Revelle, J. C. Anderson, Walter Little, Colin E. Bennett, Harold Fuller, Harold D. Lang, W. S. Lane and John R. Robinson.

In Ottawa, a spokesman for Justice Minister Cardin said the minister "never gave" such instructions." He added that such an order would have to come from Mr. Cardin.

The spokesman said he knew of no instructions concerning judges taking part in labor arbitration and conciliation proceedings other than a letter the justice minister sent to all chief justices and provincial attorneys-general "about the beginning of August."

That letter instructed all judges to consult with their chief justice as to whether they could be spared from their normal duties before accepting outside work.

Pauline Jewett Declares More Rule Changes Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Pauline Jewett, a political science professor and a former Liberal MP, says recent changes in Commons rules and procedures have sped up debate so much that the cabinet often is hard pressed to keep pace with new legislation.

But she writes, in a background paper on parliamentary reform prepared for the Liberal party's national policy conference in October, that unless many more changes are made there will be little improvement in the quality of parliamentary debate or work.

Miss Jewett, member for the Ontario riding of Northumberland from 1953 to 1957, now has returned to the political science department at Carleton University in Ottawa.

In her paper she proposes:

—Appointment of an official in the prime minister's office with authority to ensure that cabinet ministers are preparing legislation on time.

—The civil service be given permission to provide MPs with detailed background knowledge the way they now inform ministers.

—Regular adjournments of the Commons to allow Commons committees to sit with increased attendance and more time.

—Appointment of a permanent Speaker, with a suggestion that the incumbent, Lucien Lamoureux, is the man for the job.

Arts and Crafts Club Views Picturesque Home

The Arts and Crafts Club met Wednesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Phillipps Fenelon, 207 Bridge Street, E. A good attendance with many new members joining was most encouraging at the beginning of the season.

The hostess, Mrs. Faulkner, showed and told about this interesting house. She is the granddaughter of the builder and the third generation of her family to live in this home.

It was built by John Philpot Curzon Phillips around 1860. He commissioned a Montreal architect, Thomas Heasley to design "Glamorex", which was done in the French manner. It is the only house of its kind in its original state between Montreal and Toronto. Each point of interest was explained. Attention was drawn to the beautiful staircase, the high ceilings, frescoe and friezes; lions' heads, with different expressions on their faces. Exquisite paintings adorn the walls. Much gold paint was used. Attention was drawn to the drawing room chandeliers which have now been converted to electricity.

She also had exhibition of her own paintings and explained the different types of art. She also showed jewelery made in Mexico, and wire sculpture.

BUSINESS MEETING

There was a short business meeting, the president, Mrs. Wilma Summers presiding. Mrs. Doris Miles gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Isobel Wright the treasurer's. A discussion took place about the appointing of a representative from each of the Arts and Craft sections for forming a provincial committee to draw up rules and regulations for a centennial project. Coffee and cookies were served in charge of the social convener Mrs. Peddie.

Mrs. Faulkner not only paints but is an art teacher and she explained the different types of brush murals and decorative screens.

For ten years she designed window displays for Simpson's and Eaton's and is now planning to continue in this field of art.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The biggest puzzle to a husband is his own wife.

She's the greatest mystery of his lifetime, as much of an enigma on their 50th wedding anniversary — if they live that long — as on the day she married him.

An ordinary wife, as a matter of fact, doesn't seem very mysterious to any man unless he happened to have wed her himself. It is fairly easy to figure out the other fellow's wife. It's only his own wife that obfuscates a man.

How come it is so hard for a husband to understand his soulmate?

An informal poll of a non-descript group of husbands, asked "What puzzles you most about your wife?" produced these answers:

"Why she always has to be the first person to get excited to kick off her shoes."

"Why she hands over and kisses me on the left spot on top of my head while I am reading — when she knows that's where I'm bald."

"Why she always insists that we get home by candlelight so dim a fellow can't even see what's on the plate."

"Why she always has odd tuna fish sandwiches for lunch."

WHAT TYPE CENTRE?

"Why she only bathes the centre of our breakfast toast. I like it buttered all over. I've been telling her that for years."

"Why she thinks I should have to give her four weeks' warning if I'm going to bring anyone home for dinner."

"Why she saves all my old love letters."

"Why she always makes me lick the stamps for our Christmas cards. The Lord knows she's got a big enough tongue — I have — probably bigger."

Why every time I come home with a strange cat on my coat she wonders out loud if I'm keeping another woman in a love nest."

"Why I always have to zipper up the back of her dress when we go out in the evening. Single girls seem able to do this by themselves."

"Why she thinks the gal next door got such a bargain in her husband. Anybody in the neighborhood will tell you the guy's a jerk."

Yes, mysterious are the ways of wives, but every husband agrees on the one thing that puzzles him most about his particular wife:

"Why she married me in the first place — when, she claims, she had so many to choose from!"

Mrs. Ella Jones was convener for the balance of the program consisting of a reading by Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, a piano solo by Mrs. Clarence Thomson, a poem by Mrs. Robert Spencer, a hymn contest with music conducted by Mrs. Ella Jones.

MARMORA U.C.W.

MARMORA — United Church Women in Marmora resumed their monthly meeting on Tuesday evening with a good attendance. Mrs. Leith Stetson and Mrs. Gordon Bell had charge of the opening devotions, after which the president, Mrs. Allan Wells, took charge.

Reports of the secretary and treasurer indicated a busy summer. New choir gowns were made for the junior choir, several weddings catered to, and $11 quilts have been made and quilted, all of which have been sold with orders still to be filled.

It was decided to place an honor roll in the ladies' parlor where the names of all deceased members would be shown.

Plans were made for the big occasion of the year when the Christmas Bene and Parcel Fun Fair will be held in November. This will take the form of a tea and banquet at 6 p.m., a potluck dinner and family fun fair in the evening.

Miss Grace Warren and Mrs. Harold Nayler had charge of a short program and Mrs. John Glover closed with prayer. A social hour was enjoyed with the new minister and his wife Rev. and Mrs. Douglas Miller.

Church Groups

Mrs. Carley, the president, was in the chair. The committee reports were given. Msgr. Carroll's report was read and informative questions and answers from Companion and Messenger magazine. Mrs. Carley outlined the spiritual program for the year. Mrs. Carley also spoke on the new changes of the church and that "we should try to adjust ourselves to them."

Plans were made for a euchre party to be held later, this month.

Furs Designed To Bring Out Animal in Man

NEW YORK (AP)—She could have been a werewolf, this beastly beauty stalking the runway in her leopard while hair from head to paws.

Actually she was all lamb underneath, with one of several cavewoman furs designed by Jacques Kaplan to bring out the animal in man.

Because he thinks women become too sophisticated for their own civilized good, Jacques did his best to bring them closer to nature Monday.

In the same line, he paid respect to the inventiveness of man, namely Edison. Electrified wired with lit up strings of tiny bulbs when the house lights went out, making some coats look like bridges in the night.

Real manes were his idea for a Hollywood, starlet Mongolian manes that tied over hooded fur coats.

Only One Girl Applied For Cruise

VANCOUVER (CP) — When schoolteacher Cliff Hunt decided to sail around the world in his 35-foot ketch, he advertised for an all-girl crew.

He didn't get the response he had hoped for, but when he left here Aug. 9 he had three men and one girl, an attractive 24-year-old Vancouver secretary, aboard.

"I don't expect any trouble from the four men," said Marguerite Beaschemin before departure. "I plan to spend my time—down-to Mexico, at least —studying Spanish."

Mr. Hunt, 36, got two of his male crew from Vancouver, the other from San Francisco. The girl aboard the 25,000 lb.-ma-yacht, is expected to cost each of the five about $50.

"It sure a lot cheaper," said Mr. Hunt, "but I hate conventional work even more."

He took along a year's supply of seasickness pills.

The first part of the trip was to take the adventurers to Victoria, San Francisco, Trinidad, Bermuda, North Africa and England.

Sucessful Living

Offer Non-Smokers Performance Plaques

DEAR DORIS: Your interest in non-smoking has had an enormous influence on people from coast to coast, which is reflected in the heavy mail we get from your readers.

Professional and executive non-smokers (doctors, dentists, educationists, political leaders) have often wondered how to indicate their position without posting up a peremptory "No Smoking" sign on cliché-office-studio walls.

Meeting this need, we have developed a plaque which we expect to become the International symbol for non-smoking, the "Nevertouchem" device which, in button form, has been sent to some 25,000 people on this continent and abroad.

DORIS CLARK

Prototypes of this plaque can be supplied (at cost) to medical, dental, and business offices. —ROBERT LUDWIG, Non-Smokers' Association of Canada.

DEAR DOB: Fine. Our community leaders help best when they show themselves willing to stand up and be counted. Fill pass along my congratulations.

DEAR DORIS: I've been adopted since I was three weeks old, 15 years ago.

You might say I am very unhappy because all of my adoptive parents' relatives make me feel as though I don't belong, I'm not one of them. Take for instance at my cousin's wedding I was introduced to some of the guests by my aunt as "the girl her husband adopted."

Even my own brothers keep saying such things as "you're not really my sister; only the law says so."

What am I to do? Stand there and take it or cry and get back at them? — CRYING INSIDE.

DEAR CRYING: Oh, brother! Your aunt's remark must have made you feel like a sack of potatoes — a blighted one, at that. For narrowness of heart and just plain rudeness it would be hard to beat her.

We can excuse brothers a little; they'll say things they don't mean in a quarrel, but at that I'd guess something has been missing from their upbringing.

No use trying to get back at them, though I don't blame you for wanting to. Try first talking to your parents about it. In this day and age the law, at least, should know better.

DEAR DORIS: We have a problem: Our mother. She tries to act grown-up when people are around and makes a fool of us and herself also.

We thought she was great until we discovered her and her boy friend. We've tried to find out why she does it, but now it's a friend we thought a lot of. Should we tell our Dad and the other party concerned, or should we let it drop?

Please help us. We've tried to work it out ourselves but it bothers us terribly and I'm afraid it will turn to hate. We don't think it's fair to our younger sisters as they'll be called easy and may get hurt, all because of Mother. — WORRIED SISTERS.

DEAR SISTERS: If you can summon the courage, tell Mother. If you can't, then let your own notice anything or care what she does. And she may be thinking her own behavior is harmless.

If it isn't, Dad will find out soon enough . Just don't follow her bad example, your friends will take you at your valuation of yourselves.

DEAR DORIS: I've noticed that my mother bellies my younger brother and is very unpleasant with me. Don't take me wrong; I'm not jealous of him. I like him. But I think I should get a little more respect from my mother, don't you?

Sometimes I think she never cared about me and never will. One day my brother and I were fighting. She hit me and when I said "Ouch!", she hit me again, telling me never to talk back. What am I supposed to do? — ASKING.

DEAR ASKING: Respect? Yes. And love you. And you need to know she does both. But did you show either of them because of virtues so little brother?

Next time he bothers you try doing something nice for him. You might start a chain reaction. Get your mother to explain what I mean.

P.S.: She does love you.

DEAR DORIS:

(1) Is velvet suitable for an August wedding?

(2) Considering it is in the month of August, which is more appropriate, dark green or pale green?

(3) Is it suitable for a man to wear a jacket or can he wear a weskit?

(4) If you are having a flower girl, should she be in the same color as the bridesmaids or should she be in a different color? — CENTENNIAL BRIDE.

DEAR BRIDE:

(1) Yes, lovely.

(2) Either.

(3) He should wear a jacket.

(4) Either the same or complementary color; such as light green with dark green, or beige with brown.

DEAR DORIS: The other night I went to the drive-in with my boy friend. We left half way through the picture. On the way back we stopped at a teen night club and had a few drinks which he brought with him, and danced.

As soon as I got home my mother and my parents were waiting up for me. Tom wanted to go inside with me but I told him it would be better if he didn't.

As soon as I opened the door my father started yelling at me and for the first time in my life he hit me and told me I couldn't go out for a month. I am 17 and Tim is 21 and I really love him.

Do you think my father has a right to do this when I pay board every week? — SUZY.

DEAR SUZY :Paying board doesn't buy a licence to break the law or stay out all night. Tom could be brought up in court for giving you a few drinks.

I'd guess that your father's blow should have been delivered as a spanking some years ago. Get the message and slow down.

DEAR DORIS: Our office is having a birthday party and I'm supposed to play a funny skit to put on. One fellow can play piano by ear and we have several office clowns to choose from for parts. — JOE-GIRL.

DEAR JOE-GIRL: I think I have just the thing for you. Have you heard about those good old days of silent movies when the villain almost got the heroine . . . until at the last moment, the hero intervened to save the situation . . . all to the spirited and sad music of a broken-down piano?

The skit called "You Asked For It!" presents a situation just like that. Calls for a piano player who can ad lib, a boy friend, a girl friend, an usher, an announcer, and probably a couple of pals to help with props and lighting.

I'm sending it to you. (Readers' Note: This skit is available to anyone writing to me in care of this paper and enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Ask for "You Asked For It!")

MR. DONALD GATELEY

MISS DIANE JARVAH

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jarvah of Bramalea, formerly of Belleville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Diane Mary, to Mr. Donald Gateley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gateley of Erin. The wedding will take place on Saturday, October 8th at 12 o'clock noon in Saint John Fisher Church, Bramalea, with reception to follow at North Halton Golf and Country Club, Georgetown.

SWEET AND SOUR ONIONS

A field trip with food editors to onion-growing territory was rewarding. We saw, onions growing by the acre in fields completely free of weeds. We were told they were fertilized and were treated with weed killer and pressed to make them large in clean soil.

Onions are one of Canada's year round economical root vegetables and we Canadian cooks should be trained to serve them often in many different ways.

Sweet and Sour Onions are so good you will come back for a second helping because of the sauce.

SWEET AND SOUR ONIONS

12 small cooking onions (about 1½ pounds); boiling water; ½ teaspoon salt.

SAUCE

¼ cup brown sugar; 2 tablespoons cornstarch; ¾ teaspoon dry mustard; 1 teaspoon salt; ⅛teaspoon ginger; ⅛ to ¾ teaspoon chili powder; 1 cup tomato juice; ½ cup water; 2 tablespoons vinegar.

Cook peeled onions in boiling water ¼ cover, with the ½ tsp. salt and cook until barely tender and still in good shape. Drain and transfer to preheated serving dish.

Make Sauce by mixing together in a saucepan the brown sugar cornstarch, dry mustard, salt, gingar and chili powder. When well mixed stir in tomato juice, water and vinegar and cook stirring until thick. Simmer, stirring occasionally, for five min.

Pour sauce over and around onions in serving dish.

These are especially good with a roast beef dinner or with grilled beef cakes.

My brother's favorite sauce on while cooking onions is made with cheese and cut of loyalty to him I am adding it.

To serve with 2 lbs. while cooking onions, cooked and drained, make a medium white sauce by melting 4 tbsps. butter or margarine, blending in 4 tbsps. flour and ½ tsp. salt and then stirring in 2 cups milk until thick. Add lots of cheese. My sister-in-law Wyn puts in ¼ lb. grated old Cheddar. Stir until cheese is melted and sauce is hot. Pour over cooked white cooking onions in preheated serving dish.

Family Reunion

SAVAGE CLAN

The second annual reunion of the Savage clan was held recently at Milton's Outlet Park with 57 members attending.

After a most enjoyable dinner, the afternoon was spent participating in races, games, swimming and boating. Games were won by the following: Mr. W. J. Savage with the most grandchildren; 2-4 year race — Janis Chaplin; 5-6 years — Dianne Savage; 7-9 years — Nancy Browning; 11-13 years — Billie Smith; junior — Bobby Presland and Larry Jewell; ladies — Thelma Hass; men's — Clifford Smith; ladies' and men's, first prize — Shirley Rapino; second prize — Walter Savage.

A peanut scramble was held and prizes were given to the small children.

Election of officers took place with Mr. Arthur Savage as president; Mrs. Jean Chamberlain as treasurer — and Mrs. Julia Cook as secretary.

At the business portion of the meeting it was decided to hold the third annual picnic at the same time and place.

RETURNS LOST PET

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jim Stockton found a lost dog and tried to trace it by telephoning the Los Angeles veterinarian whose name was on the collar, only to find the owner had moved to Bethpage, N.Y. Calling there, he heard the owner had moved to Plainview, N.Y. On his third long-distance call, Stockton found the dog's owner now lived two blocks away from him.

Want Status of Women Determined by Inquiry

TORONTO (CP) — Organizations representing more than 1,000,000 women have approved in principle a brief to be presented to the federal government asking for the appointment of a royal commission on the status of women in Canada, Mrs. M. J. Sadie of St. Catharines said Saturday.

Spokesmen for two dissenting groups said they would withhold approval partly because the brief seems to suggest the government should study inequalities when the fault lies with women.

The brief was drawn up by the Committee for the Equality of Women in Canada and submitted to 36 national women's organizations and the new Quebec Federation of Women.

Mrs. Sabia said 26 have endorsed the brief in writing, six more tentatively and verbally. The YWCA of Canada and the National Progressive Conservative Women's Association were dissenters.

The brief grew out of meetings in May and June of representatives of women's organizations called together by Mrs. Sabia, national president of the Canadian Federation of University Women. Mrs. Sabia, Margaret Hyndman of Toronto, representing the Business and Professional Women's Clubs and Margaret MacLellan of Ottawa of the National Council of Women were appointed to draft the brief.

It calls for a royal commission to examine:

—"Discriminatory laws and practices and inadequate barriers to the acceptance and employment and promotion of women in areas of federal jurisdiction. . ."

—Outdated legislation re marriage, divorce and the domicile of married women.

—"Taxation as it pertains to married women. . ."

—Education opportunities, automation and immigration.

—United Nations and International Labor Organization conventions not yet ratified by Canada.

The committee of three was appointed to present the brief in Ottawa with several other qualified women whom they will invite to join them. The date of the presentation is not yet set.

U.C.W. Meetings

MOIRA U.C.W.

MOIRA — Moira United Church women held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Clayton Vandervoort. In the absence of the president Mrs. David Mumby, vice-president, took charge.

Mrs. Elmer Thompson led in the worship service and Mrs. C. Vandervoort gave the Scripture commentary. Program convener was Mrs. Jean Thompson; readings were given by Mrs. R. Ketchason; Mrs. W. Farrell; Mrs. Lily Vandervoort and Mrs. Gordon Foster. Mrs. Pauline Thompson sang a solo with autoharp accompaniment and Mrs. Allen Mumby sang with guitar accompaniment.

Church Groups

MARMORA C.W.L.

MARMORA — At the first fall meeting of Marmora Council, C.W.L., attended by 34 members, plans were made for the annual bazaar and the date was set for Tuesday and Wednesday, October 18th-19th. A red and white centennial quilt top made by Mrs. John Clairmont and Mrs. Arthur Sheridan was displayed and members were invited to a quilting bee and potluck dinner at Mrs. Clairmont's home on Monday. Tickets were distributed on this quilt which will be raffled at the bazaar.

In the education convener's report, Mrs. Donald Shannon announced that Anne Brady had won the C.W.L. scholarship of $100 for obtaining the highest marks in grade 13. All grade 13 students were commended for their good year's work.

Mrs. Hugh Brady reported 90 paid-up members to date and said an effort will be made to obtain 100 members.

Mrs. Breen O'Connor, president, thanked members for their summer activities in catering to two weddings, a bake sale in Belleville and a tea held in Madoc, October 20th.

The president gave a report of the executive meeting in Kingston on September 8th. At this meeting the convener of organization and development suggested that psalms be studied and read at monthly meetings. Leagues interested be completed for central compiling. The work of rehabilitating girls from women's prisons was described and it was agreed that the September C.W.L. collection be forwarded to Kingston to help furnish clothing for these women.

A report was also given by the president of the Provincial Convention in Toronto in July at the Inn on the Park. Special stress was put on league work in social action, work in the community by helping neighbors and the work of lay people in the church.

In Father Spence's address he thanked the C.W.L. for their gifts to the rectory and commended them for their successful summer work. He discussed the various ways that study clubs could be conducted in the C.W.L. and in the parish.

SENSATIONAL SOCKS

Cold feet, warm heart?

Not on your life! When my toes are cold the rest of me follows suit.

If you're one of the group, and admit you enjoy being toasting warm from the toes up, all winter long, then you'll be delighted with these slip-on lace-up, après ski, or after curling socks.

But let's not restrict them to the sporting types, because they are so very right with sleep and lounge wear. In fact, from hostess for baby to bed socks for grandma, they fill the bill snugly, all the way up the line.

Straight knitting time for the pair complete is three hours — and because they are so uncomplicated and straight forward, they are absolutely ideal for the young beginner to make.

An oblong block and a knitted lace — that's it. But who can deny the high style result?

As a bonus, you might enjoy our matching headband.

Both patterns gladly forwarded upon request — the word is, gleefully, if a hint is enclosed? — SUSANNA

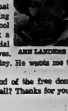
TAKE IT EASY

ANKARA (AP) — American servicemen in Turkey have been told to leave the driving to Turkish chauffeurs and take the wheel only in air force police cars. The order followed an incident Aug. 8 when two airmen knocked down a Turkish woman and had to be rescued from a mob by police.



Ann Landers

Career Plans Change Often in Adolescents

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 11 years old and already I have figured out what the parents in America are up to. The minute a baby is born they start planning out his whole life. If it's a boy they want him to be a doctor, if it's a girl they want her to be a teacher.

My mother has been telling me ever since I was old enough to understand anything that I am going to be a teacher. It so happens that I don't want to be a teacher. Besides, something very strange happened to me. In Sunday School I learned that certain people sometimes get a "call" from above. The good Lord tells special people what they ought to do with their lives. Well, I got a call from the Lord just yesterday. He wants me to be a model.

Since America is supposed to be the land of the free don't you think I should be allowed to follow the call? Thanks for your help. — FUTURE PLANNER.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR PLANNER: Keep listening. I suspect you'll get at least a dozen different "calls" before you have to make up your mind. Write to me again when you are 16, Tootsie. (And send a picture.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Usually the meals at our house are fairly good. I'm a better than average cook and it's a rare day when I throw a dinner together in a haphazard manner.

Sure enough, whenever I do, somebody drops in. My husband always asks them to join us and I'm embarrassed to death. It's pointless to apologize for the boiled chicken gizzards and baked beans and explain that we usually have better meals. In the first place what we eat is our own business and in the second place nobody would believe me.

I think it's perfectly O.K. to ask an unexpected visitor to sit in the living room with the newspaper until we have finished eating. My husband says it's rude not to ask a guest to sit at the table with us. What do you say? — OUTSHOUTED.

DEAR OUT: In my opinion nobody is more rude than the person who pops in unexpectedly at dinner time. You should not feel uncomfortable about seating such a person in another part of the house until you have finished eating. If you wish to have your coffee in the living room and pour a cup for the guest it's better than he deserves.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Yesterday I received a letter in the mail. It contained several pages of advice on how to improve my marriage. The letter was signed "An Objective Friend."

"Objective Friend" did a lot more harm than good. The "helpful" advice was based on wrong information. Unfortunately, the letter fell into my husband's hands and much of the progress I had made went down the drain.

Please tell all "Objective Friends" everywhere to mind their own business. Thank you very much. — MRS. D.S.

DEAR MRS. D.S.: Objective Friends do mind their own business. The person who wrote you the anonymous letter was neither objective — nor a friend. Forget it.

postal union, which represents those engaged in mail sorting, want a $3-an-hour increase for the majority of their members.

Roger Decarie, president of the letter carriers union, said in an interview that Nov. 15 "is the target" at which time a national strike referendum will be called if the government has not met "something like" the pay demand.

He said an informal poll of letter carriers indicates some 85 per cent now would support a strike if one was called.

AWAITING RESULTS

The postal workers union now is awaiting results of a referendum it began two weeks ago. The referendum seeks authority for the national executive to call a strike if pay negotiations break down or do not end in a satisfactory settlement.

William Kay, CUPW president, said in an interview Monday he expects his membership to give the strike authorization.

Letter carriers now earn $4,- 915 to $5,200 yearly (from $2.36 an hour) reaching that top in five years. Their union wants a new scale of $5,200 to $6,000, an increase just under $2,000 a year, Mr. Decarie said the present scale would "make us parity with U.S. letter carriers."

Postal clerks, who make up the bulk of the post office workers union, now earn $4,165 to $5,315 yearly ($1.81 to $2.30 an hour) and their union wants a scale of $6,345-$7,295—a flat boost of $2,080 a year.

Both unions prefer not to talk in percentages. Letter carriers mention parity with the U.S. and Mr. Kay wants the government compare salaries of postliemen, firemen and industrial workers with postal clerks.

Both postal unions are affiliates of the Canadian Labor Congress. Both are unhappy with proposed collective bargaining legislation the government hopes to approve this month.

Mr. Kay and Mr. Decarie and their executives plan to meet this month to consider forming a joint action committee. If this is done, it would face government representatives when pay talks start Oct. 1.

Mr. Benson said he has been assured by the Civil Service Commission that it is prepared to start pay talks at that time. The commission then recommends rates of pay.

Greta Garbo's Leading Men All Had Good Word for Her

In the following story, the second of a series on Greta Garbo, her leading men tell about the famous 46-year-old star who hasn't made a movie in 25 years.

By ROB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Her leading men speak of Greta Garbo:

Ramon Novarro (Mata Hari): "She was like a chameleon, changing all the time from gaiety to being withdrawn. She was very timid, naturally so, but she could be cute and funny, too. She was never temperamental, but she did insist on quitting every day at 5. She never carried a wristwatch; her maid would signal her when the hour had arrived. Once we were in the middle of a scene where she reduces me. Five o'clock came and she walked right off the set."

Lew Ayres (The Kiss): "She was very kind and indulgent to a boy who was just starting out as an actor. She was especially helpful on my first day, when I met her and then had to go right into the scene which had The Kiss."

LIKED HIKING, SCOTCH

Charles Bickford (Anna Christie): "... A delightfully honest and unassuming human being living for many things, such as ... we found we had a mutual hiking, swimming, tennis, scotch whisky and beer thing."

Twenty-five years after her departure from films, Garbo remains an incandescent mystery to her co-workers and to the legion of admirers of her cinematic art.

She reigned throughout the 1930s as the screen's top dramatic actress, remembered particularly for such memorable vehicles as Clark Gable in Susan Lennox, Fredric March in Anna Karenina, Robert Taylor in Camille, Charles Boyer in Conquest.

"She was very practical," recalls George Cukor, who directed her in Camille. "She knew her own' temperament and how she should operate. People distracted her, so she kept the set clear of strangers. As soon as the scene was over, she got offstage, so she could husband her strength. She had only so much to give; that was why she quit at 3 o'clock."

STAGED COMEBACK

Garbo's career began to wane in the late 1930s, but it bounced back in 1939 when she played her first comedy, the brilliant Ninotchka.

In 1941, MGM and Garbo decided to end her contract.

Garbo continued living in Hollywood and became a U.S. citizen in 1951. She had no need to work; she had earned millions—in 1937 her income was $477,242—and had invested in real estate, stocks and bonds. In the early 1950s she moved to the house she lives in now.

Despite her achievements on the screen, she never won an academy award for acting (she was nominated once four times). Hollywood finally made up for the slight by giving her an honorary award in 1955 for her "series of luminous and unforgettable performances."

Then the academy was faced with the problem of how to get the Oscar to her. A friend finally delivered it.

bill were conscious of all these factors. The mail of some of them had been running 40 to 1 against the legislation.

DOUBT LEGALITY

Some members' reluctance to be counted on the housing section in an election year contrasted with doubts about its constitutionality to kill the measure on a 52 to 41 vote.

One thing is clear: The civil rights movement in the United States, because of violence and extremism, has lost momentum and support.

Johnson presented the bill late to Congress, April 28, which some think was much too late. Besides, he did not give the impression, as battle surged around him, that he really was making a vigorous fight for it.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, said when he first saw the bill that its open housing section was unconstitutional. The House of Representatives watered down this section before passing the bill and sending it to the Senate.

Then Dirksen decided he was all for it. Dirksen's switch on it was the flabbling touch since he first met civil rights-hop needed the help in rallying enough Republican Senate support.

BARS DISCRIMINATION

The bill, as passed by the House, would have barred discrimination in the sale or rental of units in large apartment buildings and new housing developments. Religious groups would be nearly all private homes, apartments with four units or less and boarding-house units.

Other major provisions of the bill would have prevented discrimination in selection of juries in federal and state courts, and broadened existing federal laws to bar interference, harassment or personal injury to civil rights workers and to constitutionally-protected activities.

As if to illustrate his lack of interest in the bill, Senator Eastland of the Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee, had told a Negro audience in Jackson in Negro areas rather than moving to "white neighborhoods."

Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the one Negro organization which fought all the way through for this civil rights bill, is the direct opposite of Carmichael in his thinking on how Negroes can achieve full rights and equality.

He repudiates the idea of "black power," calling it the "father of hatred and the mother of violence."

companions would come armed to Greenville.

"Anywhere you see me, I have mine—my life has been threatened," said McDaniel. He said the others "will come as peaceful citizens but they will be prepared to back me up."

The grand dragon said he would be accompanied by "as many as it takes."

Earlier in the day, 169 Negro children quietly began their second week of integrated classes at two Grenada schools. U.S. Army patrolmen kept a close watch.

The first time they attended school on Monday, eight days ago, angry throngs of white adults beat them with lead pipes, chains and ax handles.

The constituency is due to be split up among three others at the next general election under just-completed redistribution of seats.

The turnout of voters was light in all three constituencies and in both those in Newfoundland the losing candidates seemed certain to lose their deposits.

In Nicolet - Yamaska, when vote counting began early last night, Mr. Cote held a 1,059-edge over his Conservative opponent, Jean-Marc Pinsonneault, an independent, was running third with 1,073 votes. Two other candidates, Georges-Etienne Lavallee for the New Democrats and Georges Grenier, representing a party of his own founding, le Droit Vital Personnel (the Vital Right of the Individual), trailed far behind.

The total vote in Grant li White Bay - Labrador was oly about half that of the 1965 election but the relative margins of the candidates were roughly the same as in that election.

NDP TRAILS

Mr. Chatwood polled about three-quarters of the votes cast. When counting ceased for the night, he had about a 2,500-vote lead over Conservative Thomas Pitcher, New Democrat Lorne Snell trailed badly.

The riding became vacant Aug. 1 with the appointment of Charles Granger as Newfoundland minister of Labrador affairs. He had won it handily for the Liberals four times and for the last time by more than 12,- 000 votes.

In Burin - Bay Jamieson swamped Conservative Eric Hiscock, who ran last November as a Social Credit candidate, by a wide margin. The vacancy occurred with the appointment to the Senate of Chesley Carter who held it since Confederation. Mr. Carter won by almost 8,000 votes the last time out.

CACHE DISCOVERED

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Police said Monday they have found a ton of weapons and ammunition in perfect condition concealed near an abandoned mine. They said the cache probably was a depot of illegal arms traders. It included five machine-guns, 100 hand grenades, 60 revolvers and 20,000 rounds of machine-gun ammunition.

Noisy Background Music Spoils Much of Dialogue

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — It is doubtful, but ABC's Rat Patrol Monday night may have had some of the most brilliant dialogue of the year. But whatever the brave fighting men were saying, their words were lost in the noisy background music.

It is equally doubtful, but perhaps ABC's Iron Horse had some of the most offbeat "they went that-a-way" talk of the season. But the show was loaded with the sound of bawling cattle and any human noises were strictly coincidental.

Both series, despite the accompanying uproar, shape up as good durable action shows designed for early evening viewers with a taste for fights, shooting and comeuppance for bad guys.

Iron Horse involved a steer drive which the bad guys tried to halk. The poor beet was subject to greater indignities than humans. They were stampeded recklessly at night, forced to heavies set off dynamite and flares and shot guns.

THE HERD VIEWERS

The herd and viewers were plumb wore out by the time the cattle reached the dusty cowtown and the few surviving villains were arrested, Dale Robertson, star of the new series, must please his tobacco sponsor by constantly smoking a stogey.

In Monday night's show, one of the allied men was wounded and his buddies stole a Nazi ambulance and; disguised as the enemy, carried him to a German field hospital for surgery.

There was a lot of gunplay and hoofbeat of Nielsen cavalry into pursuing tanks as the soldiers escaped to fight in the next episode. But if there was any effort to develop character, it was completely lost in the roar of ear-mooring musical accompaniment.

One of the major, legitimate complaints about many of this season's shows involves the heavy use of extraneous noises to the shows.

He suggested that the UN members should get on with the job of finding his successor.

"Of course," he said, "if it proves impossible to find an agreed man, somebody acceptable to all, in the course of the next few weeks, I may perhaps consider serving until the end of the present session. In my view, two additional months will be quite ample for the members, particularly the members of the security council, to look for a suitable man. I also feel inclined to the view that it would be undesirable to change secretaries-general in the middle of the General Assembly session."

Indonesia's return to the UN was preceded by a telegram to Thant from its ambassador to the United States, L. N. Palar. Informed sources said N would be several days before Indonesia could take its place in the world organization again. They said Thant would have to consult with the big powers and the leaders of regional groups on the procedure for the Indonesian return.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Youngsters under five gulp down more bottled overdoses of aspirin than any other substance in swallowing accidents, the U.S. public health service reported Tuesday. Out of 63,000 swallowing accidents in the U.S. reported to the service, 16,000, or more than 25 per cent, involved aspirin.

Accused Found Fit and Sane To Stand Trial

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Twelve witnesses testified at the opening session of the trial of Edward Wascenuk, 42, charged with the December 1955 murder of Daniel James Mullins, a Melbourne, Ont., farmer.

Wascenuk had twice been declared insane and unfit for trial and had been in the Ontario Hospital for the criminally insane in Penetanguishene. A Sept. 16 hearing this year found him sane and fit to stand trial.

Mr. Mullins, 59, was found shot to death and his body mutilated in his pig sty Dec. 5, 1956. His mother, Mrs. Annie Mullins, had been shot in the neck. She died in Oct. 1961.

At the start of Monday's trial Mr. Justice Campbell Grant advised the 13-man jury that Wascenuk is charged with murder because the charge was laid before an amendment to the criminal code distinguished capital from non-capital murder.

A neighbor, Charles Dunn, said he was on his way home about 8:30 p.m. the night of the killing when "I got run off—just about off the road . . . by Dan's car."

He said the car was travelling away from the Mullins' farm.

COULDN'T SEE DRIVER

He was clerk and he couldn't see the driver but "I really thought it was Dan Mullins himself."

He also indicated he could not be sure it was the Mullins car. He said there was "no other car in the country around there like it . . . I believe it was his car."

Ray Peters, of the Muncey Indian reserve said the prisoner came to his home and asked to buy some drink the night of the slaying.

A former Muncey resident, Miss Audrey Senaca, now of London, said Wascenuk also came to her mother's house that night and wanted to see her mother.

Both witnesses said Wascenuk was driving when he visited them.

The trial is expected to last all week.

Bancroft Boy Among Three Recaptured

BURWASH, Ont. (CP)—Three men who escaped from the Burwash Industrial Farm were all been recaptured.

David Payne, 18, of Niagara Falls, and Donald Taylor, 19, of Bancroft, were taken near the farm Monday. Stanley Cameron, 40, of Sudbury, was arrested Saturday night at Barrie.

Cameron, serving 18 months for attempted breaking and entering, escaped Sept. 14. Payne and Taylor escaped Saturday. Payne was serving three months for parole violation and a car theft sentence, and Taylor was doing six months for car theft.

Jury Describes Girl's Death As "Brutal Murder and Rape"

ST. THOMAS (CP) — A witness at Monday's inquest into the rape-slaying of 20-year-old Aylmer waitress Georgia Jackson testified he saw a man run from the ditch near the spot where the girl's partly-clothed body was found March 16.

The coroner's jury concluded Monday night that the girl died of asphyxia due to suffocation at the hands of a person or persons unknown sometime between 8:30 p.m. Feb. 18 and March 16.

The jury reached its conclusions after two hours of deliberation. It described the case as "brutal murder and rape."

James McKnight, of Malahide Township, told the hearing before Dr. H. B. Cottam, Ontario supervising coroner, that, at March 4, while he was driving with his ex-wife and youngest son, he saw a man run from the ditch, near where the body was discovered almost two weeks later, get into a car and speed off ahead of him.

He described the man as about average weight and height. He said he was wearing a brown uniform-type jacket and had a dark hat on.

URGES EARLY SEARCH

The jury recommended that "in cases of missing persons in a small community, police should start an immediate investigation and search where family and friends are duly concerned."

The recommendation climaxed criticisms during the inquest of the Aylmer police force by members of the Jackson family.

The Jackson family, members of the Jehovah's Witnesses faith, organized private searches in and about Aylmer starting the night of their daughter's disappearance after Aylmer Police Chief Harold Henderson approached it as a routine missing person case.

Chief Henderson testified Monday that about two or three missing persons cases a year are reported to his department.

The police followed in such cases depended upon whether it was a child or adult involved.

"If it's a young person, we usually wait 48 hours, then inform the provincial police, and send out circulars."

The Jackson girl was last seen walking home from her work at a local dairy bar the evening of Feb. 18.

SENT OUT WORD

The police chief said that the night after her parents had reported her missing "we put the information over Telex and checked the town. We didn't take part in any outside search, though."

Georgia's 18-year-old brother, William Jackson, told the jury that "the Aylmer police were very impolite the way they talked to my father when he asked them to search uptown that night."

Sgt. Reg Armstrong, second-in-command of the town police, said the first full-scale search by Aylmer police was carried out Feb. 27 after dead girl's purse was found outside the town.

Alexander Malleso, 17, of Aylmer, said he left the dairy bar behind Georgia on the night of her disappearance and saw her enter a store and again a few minutes later walking toward her home.

Dr. Cottam accused the youth of having "a very convenient memory."

"Some things are very certain and others very vague," he said after hearing his testimony. He asked the youth if he was "hallucinating or making something up," to which the youth replied "No."

The youth's father stood up in court and asked the coroner if he was aware the youth had taken a lie detector test.

Mr. Malleso said later his son took the test two, and the results of both were negative.

"It appeared as if in the opinion of the coroner and the public, my boy's evidence wasn't worth a damn. I just wanted to make sure they knew about the tests."

Mrs. Jackson, Georgia's mother, broke down in court as she asked that rumors circulating "that my youngest child was Georgia's baby" be recalled.

Dr. Frederick Jaffe, regional pathologist from the attorney general's laboratory, Toronto, told the jury that an internal examination indicated the girl was a virgin. He said the examination showed sexual intercourse had occurred either before or immediately after her death.

Dr. Jaffe, who performed the autopsy on the dead girl, said she had died of asphyxia rather than strangulation since her neck was free of any injury due to violence. But there were indications that she had been struck on the back of the head by a blunt object which had stunned her or rendered her unconscious. Also, there were marks on the body indicating she had been dragged after death for some distance along the ground.

He said he was unable to place any time of death—because of low temperatures there was no evidence of decomposition.

Lawrence Kelly, a department of lands and forest employee who found the body, said when he spotted it from his car he first believed it was debris beside the road.

Labor Conference Seen Another Involvement of Canada in Latin America

OTTAWA (CP) — The current conference of the International Labor Organization is being viewed in some quarters as another big step in Canada's long march to greater involvement in Latin America.

With 25 countries from North and South America at the regional ILO conference, it is the largest and most widely-played host to a full-scale inter-American meeting.

It can be viewed as part of a process of increasing communication with Latin America, including the Caribbean, that began seven years ago. In that early period Canada began a program to see that it had proper diplomatic channels to all Latin American countries.

From about the same period Canadian—foreign aid to the Commonwealth Caribbean countries has steadily increased.

In 1964, Canada began a program of easy-credit loans to non - Commonwealth Latin American countries through the Inter - American Development Bank.

Last July, Canada began a conference - table campaign to increase its political and economic role in the Commonwealth Caribbean countries.

Canada's government involvement, some external affairs people suggest, adds an air of inevitability to Canada's eventual membership in the U.S.-dominated Organization of American States or any similar hemispheric groupings that may emerge.

Invitations for Canada to join come at irregular but frequent intervals. With the two-week conference in Ottawa, Canada has become host to a meeting of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council at the ministerial level.

Canada's participation in the ILO conference is little more than token. It has already been invited twice.

If the Canadian government is moving toward membership it would likely have to await the completion of current OAS charter revisions. They may not be completed until next year.

Any decision is bound by many factors. Not the least of the more recent ones is the current row with Cuba over whether Canada should move now to start cutting some of the ties that bind the Canadian economy to that of the U.S.

Any Canadian decision on the OAS certainly would have a considerable influence on the 23 Commonwealth members of the Caribbean.

Because of the tighter relationship already established between them and Canada, they would be under pressure to follow Canada's lead.

The Commonwealth Caribbean countries of the Western Hemisphere to form a sort of independent counterweight. They are already on the way.

Waitresses Go Topless In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Waitresses in the dimly-lit Bunkhouse restaurant in downtown Vancouver went topless Monday.

The move came as city licensing officials warned six cabarets they must cover up their go go girls.

Milt Harrell, chief licence inspector, said, however, that restaurants do not fall under the city licensing bylaw as do cabarets. He referred the matter of the Bunkhouse to police.

Mr. Harrell, two morality squad detectives and a large number of male customers were on hand for the luncheon served by two young waitresses clad normally except for bootless peasant blouses.

Said a customer: "It's so dark in here I can't even see my food, never mind the girls."

Four Charged With Murder In Bombing

MONTREAL (CP) — Charges of non-capital murder were laid against four Montreal men Monday in connection with the bombing of a shoe factory here that killed Mrs. Therese Morin, 64, last May 5.

Sept. 27 was set as the preliminary hearing date for Gerard Laguerre, 24, Serge Demers, 26, Real Mathieau, 19, and Jacques Rose, 19. They did not plead to the charges.

In an earlier appearance, a 17 - year - old juvenile pleaded guilty to the same charge on a charge of non-capital murder in the death of Mrs. Morin.

The four were among eight Montrealers held criminally responsible for the death by a coroner's jury last Friday.

Richard Bouchoux, 27, did not appear Monday. He is reported to have entered a nervous breakdown since his arrest with the others last Wednesday.

SEEK THREE OTHERS

Three others, Charles Gagnon, 26, a sociology teacher, Pierre Vallieres, 27, and a man known only as Gilbert are still being sought by police.

The juvenile has been remanded until Sept. 30 to appear before a juvenile detention centre until a date for his hearing.

Police said three of those in custody will appear as material witnesses Wednesday at the coroner's inquest into the death of Jean Corobo, 16. He died when a time bomb he was carrying apparently exploded prematurely near a Dominion Textile Inc. plant here early in the summer.

SEEK STRIKE INSURANCE

TORONTO (CP) — The local branch of the Canadian Union of Public Employees has asked Lloyds, London insurance underwriters, to insure its local members in the event a strike is called against Ontario or Toronto housing authorities. President Don Roach said Monday the local is willing to pay a premium sufficient to guarantee members a strike pay of $30 a week.

PEACH OF A LEMON — Timmy Semenuk, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Semenuk, 3 Lambert Drive, holds a peach beside a giant lemon growing on a lemon plant in his house. The lemon, nine and one-quarter inches in circumference, blossomed in December and first started to grow in January. Two other lemons are growing on the six-year-old plant. Urgent Appeals to Restrain Troop Buildup Are Presented

WASHINGTON (CP)—On the eve of the 21st session of the General Assembly, President Johnson has been presented with urgent appeals to restrain the American military buildup in Viet Nam.

Pope Paul and UN Secretary-General U Thant have spoken for the world community.

Two domestic voices—significant in their recent association with the president's staff—have combined their harshest criticism yet of the American position with arguments for fighting a holding war.

These coincide with the state department's acknowledgment Monday that American plans may have violated Chinese air space twice this month —the type of possibility regarded as most likely to trigger direct Chinese involvement.

They also coincide with a general assumption that President Johnson, heartened by the recent high civilian vote in South Viet Nam and troubled by signs of public impatience with the war, plans a steady increase in military forces before or after the Nov. 8 congressional elections—or both.

Pope Paul called Monday for prayers during October for peace in Viet Nam and action by governments to "avert the peril of the conflagration and even to extinguish it entirely."

U Thant made another implied attack on the U.S. position in Viet Nam when he said the seen "nothing but danger in the idea, so assiduously fostered outside Viet Nam, that the conflict is a kind of holy war between two powerful political ideologies."

Arthur Schlesinger Jr. gave his most critical appraisal yet of the war. Writing in the current New York Times magazine, he echoes some of the criticisms made in Washington Saturday by Richard Goodwin, like Schlesinger a former special assistant to both President Johnson and President Kennedy.

Schlesinger, author of A Thousand Days which records the Kennedy administration, says:

"Everything in recent weeks in the presidential rhetoric—suggests that President Johnson has made his choice and that his choice is the armed enlargement of the war."

WRECKED PLANS

The war, he writes, has badly harmed East - West relations, made U Thant resign, wrecked Johnson's plans for a Great Society and damaged Allied relations.

Goodwin said in a speech Saturday that bombing North Viet Nam "has been a failure and perhaps a disaster." But he suggested only that it be restrained.

He said there has been some "deliberate lie and distortion" in the official U.S. stand on the war and there is mounting danger of war with China.

Man-in-News

Man to Lead UN Assembly Broke Big-Power Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The man who will lead the UN General Assembly's new 21st annual session is known for the formula that helped break the paralyzing big-power deadlock in the assembly a year ago.

Ambassador Abdul Rahman Pazhwak, 47, of Afghanistan, is unopposed for president of the three-month session opening today. He is the author of "the Pazhwak plan" which he devised in November, 1964, as chairman of an Afro-Asian committee working to head off a U.S.-Soviet showdown over the refusal of Russia, France and 60 other nations to pay General Assembly assessments for peacekeeping.

The United States insisted on depriving the delinquents of their assembly vote. The Russians threatened to walk out.

The Pazhwak plan provided that while a committee negotiated on the dispute, the voting question would not be raised, and the UN deficit would be wiped out by voluntary contributions.

The Soviet Union accepted the plan. The United States agreed to it in August, 1965, and the assembly finally got to work on Sept. 1, 1965.

With the prestige from his work on the dispute, Pazhwak became Asia's official candidate, by precedent of the 1958 assembly. Since all regions agreed that this was Asia's year for the presidency, he was rewarded the office months ago.

Pazhwak is six feet tall, broad - shouldered, deliberate and dignified. He has headed Afghanistan's UN delegation for five years.

Pazhwak is a former newspaper man. He was successively director of foreign publications in the government press department, editor of the Kabul newspaper Islah, director-general of the Bakhtar news agency and director-general of information and press.

He was made cultural and press attache of the London embassy in 1960 and the next year joined the information section of the international Labor Organization, staying with it until 1960. Then he was cultural and press attache of Afghanistan's Washington embassy until 1961.

From Washington he went to the foreign ministry in Kabul as director of the Asian and African affairs section and acting director of the UN section in the political department He became director-general of the department in 1957.

Pazhwak has attended every assembly session since its 1946 session. He has been on the economic and social council and the commission on human rights and in 1963 was president of that commission.

In 1963, he headed a UN mission that investigated President Ngo Dinh Diem's treatment of Buddhists in South Viet Nam. The mission's work became academic when Diem was assassinated.

Now Pazhwak is one of the many persons mentioned for secretary - general in case U Thant of Burma sticks to his decision to retire.

"I do not know if the Russians invented wrestling, writes a three-decade addict of the grunt-and-groan fraternity," but if that bear that pestered here last Friday is a sample then I'm all for substituting bears for the claw of humans that now perform in the arena."

Admittedly Russian-trained bears are the best in the world as any television buff will admit, but the tovarichs had vodka and borscha in the books long before they figured Ivor Bruin could be the first wrestler to work in the nude.

Wrestling was a sport as far back as civilization can be traced. The oldest actual evidence was uncovered in 1936 by researchers who found stamps in a Bagdad ruin depicting wrestlers in action. They were rated as being 5,000 years old.

The prehistoric Flintstones used to grapple with one another just to ease their aches and grips with a hungry dinosaur. Picking their sweethearts called for a different technique. They batted them on the noggin with a stone club then dragged them to the marriage lair by the hair of the head. Even the hairdressers knew that.

The Greeks and Romans brought wrestling to some sort of perfection. The Greeks, before they decided operating restaurants and shipping lines were a much healthier form of existence, had rules of their own.

The Grecian wrestlers of those days carried such spare parts as extra eyeballs, tonsils and fingers. For finger-breaking, gouging and throttling were effective weapons of champions.

This brought about what was called the Pancratium, a sort of rough-and-tumble style in which no holds were barred, and grappling, biting, gouging, clinching, strangling, punching, kicking — do anything you liked — were permitted.

Wrestling matches topped the programs of European royalty at the beginning of the Christian era. At one time King Francis I of France became so incensed at the beefing his wrestlers were taking at the hands of the English he leaped out of his royal box and tackled England's Henry VIII. The bout precipitated a riot which the royal purse was the only time a pair of Kings beat a full house.

England had almost as many different styles of wrestling as it had towns — one a bit more gruelling than the other. The most famous were the Lancashire, Cornish and Devonshire. Annually on St. James Day in Old London there was an elimination contest, the winner receiving a fine hat, coat and breeches.

The Irish had their style of wrestling slightly more brutal than the rest. The Scottish followed the Lancashire style, the roughest in England. The French permitted holds only from the waist up. The Germans did all their wrestling on the floor.

The Japanese were probably the greatest wrestlers the world has ever produced. The gigantic Sumo wrestlers were famous in the Orient for centuries. The sons of Sumoe married the daughters of Sumoe for more than 20 centuries, the idea being the mating would result in more of it-same-sue. The average Sumo male at maturity is 5 feet eight, weight average being between 300 and 400 pounds.

The first American Indians to come grappling with each other long before 1492 when that Spanish queen financed Columbus' first world cruise. The early Spanish settlers had their wrestling, as did the English, the Dutch and the French in Canada.

There is some argument as to whom was the greatest wrestler in the world. Oldtimers will pick Frank Gotch, others George Hackenschmidt. Other greats were Strangler Lewis, Stanislas Zbyszko, Dick Shikat, Jim Londos, Jim Browning, Ray Steele, Rudy Dusek.

Lead Series 3-0

S. Warner Eyes Title

Stewart Warner's seventh consecutive playoff victory, an 8-2 triumph over the Point Anne Cementmen, moved the club to within one win of the Commercial Softball League championship last night.

The Warnermen hold a 3-0 lead in the four-of-seven set. The fourth game is scheduled for Alemite Park, Wednesday evening, at 7.30.

Point Anne, experiencing more trouble in their league playoffs than in the OASA, open the Ontario Junior "C" finals at Bond Whitechurch Saturday. The game is being played at Wingham, at 8.30 p.m. Sunday and back here on the following Saturday.

Stewart Warner got six innings of one - hit, shutout pitching from ace Doug Ellis last night, before he lost his shutout in the seventh.

All the winners' runs came in the fourth frame, aided by a few costly errors and a couple of walks.

Team-sparkplug Claude Carr started the rally when he raced to first after a dropped third strike. A walk, fielder's choice, another missed third strike, Gow's single, an error in the outfield, another walk and Hibman.

by Turner, Bertrim and Wasmaker, plus passed balls, chased the eight runs across.

The losers collected three of their hits, by G. Marsele, Rossbush and Akey, plus a hit batter, to set their pair in the seventh - too late and far too little.

Ellis gave up four hits in all, striking out eight and walking but one.

Both Marsele allowed seven hits and lacked support in defeat. He struck out 13 and passed two. The only plate support he received came from David Akey's two singles and one run scored from Glen Marsele and Rick Rosebush.

Drysdale Hits Form ★★★★★ ★★★★★ "Weenie And Frank"

Bucs Bump Giants; LA Whips Phils

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Green Weenie has the Herman Frank in hot water.

Pittsburgh Pirates, possessor of the rubber Weenie, whipped San Francisco Giants, owner of the synthetic Frank, 4-1 in 14 innings and dropped the third-place Giants four games behind the leading Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League race.

The Pirates, in second place, remained 1½ games back when the Dodgers crushed Philadelphia Phillies 6-1 behind the five-hit pitching of Don Drysdale, who could turn out to be the most potent weapon in the last two weeks of the pennant race.

The Green Weenie is a green-lainted rubber replica of a hot dog which the Giants' fans have been using jokingly to hex the opposition this season. The Herman Frank, named for Giants' manager Herman Franks, was unveiled last week.

In the only other NL game New York Mets edged Houston Astros 1-0 while Baltimore Orioles whipped the California Angels 2-0, reducing their magic number in the American League pennant race to four.

DROPPED ON DESK

Franks was seated in his office before a game when one of his coaches, Charley Fox, dropped an orange-colored, synthetic hot dog on his desk.

"What's this?" Herman asked.

"Read what's on it," Fox replied.

Herman read. The object said, "A Herman Frank."

Explained Fox as he handed more of them to the Giant players:

"That's our secret weapon to counteract the Green Weenie."

Whether Frank, though, has done much counteracting and now if the Dodgers win just seven of their remaining 13 games, San Francisco would have to win 10 of its last 14 to gain a first place tie.

BUCS BETTER OFF

The Pirates are a lot better off than that, but it may not do them any good now that Drysdale apparently has regained the technique that made him a 20-game winner last year. For, his last three starts he's allowed just four runs and 14 hits in 26 innings.

The Pirates' Bob Veale had a one-hitter through eight innings, but Willie Mays' run - scoring single in the ninth tied the game 1-1. Pittsburgh then won in the 14th on Roberto Clemente's leadoff home run and Bob Bailey's grand - slam homer later in the inning. Both homers were off Frank Linzy.

HITS TWO HOMERS -

In gaining his 13th victory against 16 defeats and first complete game since Aug. 16, Drysdale was backed brazenly by Lou Johnson, who drove in three runs with two homers and a single.

The Mets were held to one hit through nine innings by Houston's Curtis Zachary but got a run in the 10th when Ed Kranepool, who singled and reached third on Cleon Jones' double, raced home on a wild pitch by reliever Carroll Sembera. Bob Shaw aloupped the Astros on four hits.

Frank Robinson bit his 46th homer, a two-run shot in the Baltimore fourth inning, then broke an 8-8 deadlock with a two-run double in the sixth.

BRANTFORD (CP) — Kenneth Gratton, 19, of Brantford, voted most valuable player on the 1963 Kitchener Rangers' Junior A team in the Ontario Hockey Association, Monday was convicted of car theft.

Johnny Bower Acting Like Young Colt

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Johnny Bower, oldest player in the Toronto Maple Leafs training camp, is acting like a young chicken.

In four days of scrimmages he has the best goals against record—17—of any of the goalies in camp.

Leafs manager-coach Punch Imlach plans to carry two goalies for the season. It is becoming a battle between Terry Sawchuk and Bruce Gamble as to who will be the backup netminder behind Bower.

Gamble suffered a cut requiring 23 stitches over the right eye Monday when a flying shot from Terry Clancy hit him just above the face mask.

If Gamble does not make the Leafs' regular lineup, he will probably be sent back to Tulsa in the Central Pro League. He was called up from Tulsa last year after both Sawchuk and Bower were injured.

Sinden Not Pressing His Bruins

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League were nursing a half dozen groin injuries and assorted other ailments at this stage of their training camp last year.

The most major ailment incurred after three days of training this season, however, was an ingrown toenail reported by forward Wayne Hicks. He missed the afternoon session Monday but will likely be back this morning.

Centre Ron Buchanan from the Bruins' Central Professional Hockey League farm club at Oklahoma City, reported a slightly bruised knee in Monday morning's workout but showed for the afternoon scrimmage.

"So far so good," remarked trainer Dan Canedy. "We're just keeping our fingers crossed that everything goes as well the next three days as it has the first three."

The absence of injuries to date may be a reflection upon the firm but unpressing manner rookie coach Harry Sinden has conducted his practices.

"I don't like to be a slave driver in the direct sense," Sinden said. "But I intend to be firm. I think the big thing is keeping the players interested in what they're doing. Training camp is not always pleasant. But I want players to feel everybody will benefit that much more if we can keep it interesting while we are so tough if becomes sheer drudgery."

IIHF Asked To Rule On Brewer

EDMONTON (CP)—The International Ice Hockey Federation was asked to rule on Carl Brewer's eligibility for Canada's national team in a telegram sent Monday from professional ranks, a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association official said Monday.

Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask, CAHA secretary-manager, said in a telephone interview that the case of the former Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman was put before the federation to clear up a technicality.

Juckes said international regulations state that any person who has played professionally must be declared eligible by Aug. 31 if he is to play for his country's national team at the coming world tournament.

"The CAHA was merely covering a technical aspect in the case of Mr. Brewer so he could play if he later became available through release by the National Hockey League," Juckes added.

Brewer, suspended for not reporting to training camp last year, has asked for reinstatement as an amateur to play for Canada's national team.

Barons Sell Three Players

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League sold goalie Les Binkley and defenceman Ron Speer and Ted Lanyon to the new Pittsburgh National Hockey League franchise, the Barons announced Monday.

The Pittsburgh NHL franchise, not connected with the Pittsburgh Hornets franchise in the American Hockey League, starts play in the 1967-68 season. It was not known where the three players will play this year.

Peterborough Mann Cup Winners

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — "This has got to be a great Peterborough Petes got a special birthday present Monday night — the Mann Cup.

Peterborough defeated Vancouver 14-8 to win the cup and the best-of-seven Canadian senior lacrosse final 4-1. Allan, participating in his 40th Mann Cup game, celebrated his 52nd birthday Monday night.

Rookie forward John Davis led Peterborough with four goals. Brian Keegan added two and Roy Wood, Bill Castator, Bill Armour, Oy Coombs and Ken Ruttan scored the others.

Wayne Shuttleworth scored twice for Vancouver. The other goals were scored by Don Boyd, Gord Liebscher, Peter Black, Wayne Pecknold, Sid Warick and Bill Robinson.

"This was certainly the biggest day in lacrosse for me and this club," said the jubilant Allan during post - game dressing-room celebrations.

Petes' president Frank Allan said:

"This is the very thing we've been building for since we reorganized this team three years ago."

club," said Jack Gibson, Peterborough manager. "We gave them the first game then won it in four straight."

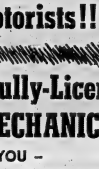
Davis, presented with the Mike Kelly Memorial Award for the most valuable player in the final series between eastern and western champions, was happily pushing team-mates and newsmen out into the showers.

After the players finished in the dressing — room, they were whisked away to a pair of waiting ambulances and a raft of cars and paraded around city streets with sirens howling and horns blaring.

The Vancouver team, which came into the Petes' dressing room to congratulate the winners, were preparing to leave for home today.

"The best team won," said Vancouver coach Bob Marsh. "It's about time the East won the cup for a change."

In the last 30 years, western teams have won the cup nine times. Port Credit Sailors brought it home in 1960.



Last year New Westminster Salmonbellies were the champions while Vancouver won it in 1955 and 1956.

Hall Fails To Show At Hawk Camp

Talking Retirement

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs signed four goaltenders Monday but Chicago Black Hawks opened their training camp without regular netminder Glenn Hall.

Reports said Hall, who threatened to retire two years ago but played all but six of the Hawks' scheduled 1965-66 games, is again toying with the idea of quitting.

The Black Hawks were one of three teams to begin training Monday.

Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers also started drills; the Wings in Detroit Olympia and the Rangers in Kingston, Ont. The Hawks are training at Chicago Stadium.

The three clubs joined Toronto Maple Leafs, who opened camp Thursday in Peterborough, Ont., and Boston Bruins, working out in London, Ont., since the weekend.

HABS START FRIDAY

Hall told general manager Tommy Ivan of the Hawks last spring that he was going to quit.

"But we corresponded and there were a couple of phone calls and he reiected a little and said he'd think it over," said Ivan. But he admitted he hasn't heard from Hall in a week.

"He could be on the way here and maybe that's why we haven't heard from him."

The four goalies signing with the Leafs were Johnny Bower 41 and starting his 23rd season of professional hockey, 36-year-old Terry Sawchuk who is starting his 18th NHL campaign, Bruce Gamble and rookie Al Smith.

NEEDS WEIGHT LOSS

Gamble, called up last season from Tulsa Oilers of the Central Professional League, played 10 games, scored four shutouts and had a 2.33 goals - against average. But he reported to camp 20 pounds overweight this year.

Smith played for Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series last season and got into action with the Leafs for 42 minutes, allowing two goals.

Leafs manager-coach George (Punch) Imlach said he plans to carry only two goalies this season.

Harry Sinden, Boston's new coach, has been firm but refuses to press his players in practice.

"I don't like to be a slave driver in the direct sense," he said. "But I intend to be firm.

"I feel everybody will benefit that much more if we can keep it interesting while yet not so tough it becomes sheer drudgery."

DRAW EQUIPMENT

In Kingston, the Rangers confirmed their activities to drawing equipment, but manager Emile Francis indicated that Cesare Maniago has the inside track to the team's goaltending job. Ed Giacomin, also a netminding candidate, isn't being discounted, Francis added.

Among the Ranger players reporting was Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, who retired from the Canadiens two years ago to coach Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League.

Francis looks to him to soother the Rangers at training camp and to direct the club's power play.

"Even though he's been away from the NHL for two years his weight right now is 180, which is seven pounds less than when he left the Canadiens two years ago," Francis said.

RETIRED EARLY

Geoffrion said only that he thought he retired too soon.

Seventy - five players showed up in Detroit but manager-coach Sid Abel was concerned with two defencemen not there —Bill Gadsby and Doug Barkley. Gadsby retired last spring after 20 seasons in the NHL and Barkley lost the sight of an eye in an accident last season.

"I'm concerned about our defence this year," said Abel. "We definitely need replacements for Bill Gadsby and Doug Barkley. Both of them had experience."

He's looking to Al Lebrun, picked up from Minnesota Rangers of the Central Professional League, Hamilton Junior A graduate Bart Crashley and Edmonton Junior A graduate Bob Falkenburg as possible replacements.

Power Squadrons Hold Joint Rendezvous

The RCAF Power Squadron hosted an invitational rendezvous over the weekend under perfect weather conditions to ring down the official curtain of the boating season.

Special guests were members of the Bay of Quinte Power Squadron under Commander Reg. Edwards.

The RCAF squadron consisting of eleven power boats and two schoonsers sailed down the bay from Bater Island as a flotilla coming through the bay bridge for the two o'clock supper.

It was met by the Quinte squadron of twelve power boats. Both squadrons formed a joint flotilla and forming a pretty nautical sight sailed in V formation to the island.

Winter activities of the squadrons consisting mainly of courses of instruction get under way during the first week of October.

Letter To The Sports Editor

During the last few weeks, I have noticed a great deal of concern in regard to teen-age recreation and a place for holding their dances, etc., of which I agree whole heartedly. In this regard, I would like to put forth a few suggestions.

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association is and has for several years, always been looking for assistance in their program of hockey recreation for the young people of the city.

During the past year, we found that we could use young, interested teen-age girls and boys as score-keepers for our house leagues and by doing this we found that there was a great deal of interest in the game. This requiring young people to learn a certain amount of responsibility and also allows them to become associated with young people from other areas as they become more able to handle these small chores and learn to do tournament games as well as house league games.

I have been requested by our association to try and organize a group of girls and boys to do these things for us and would like to have anyone in this group who would be interested in doing something like this for us, to phone me at 968-9600 and leave their names and phone numbers, so that I would be able to call them and explain some of the features of this program to them.

EDMONTON (CP) — Ottawa coach Frank Clair and Edmonton guard Merv Collins agreed Monday that Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson has never played a better football game.

"You just don't see quarterbacks play any better than that," Clair said after watching Jackson guide the Rough Riders to a 49-21 win over Edmonton Eskimos.

"That's the first time I've ever seen him put two good games back to back," said Collins, a former teammate. "He's never played better."

The win gave Ottawa a sweep in a two-game western swing and marked the first time this season a visiting team has won both games on an interlocking road trip. The Riders defeated British Columbia Lions 35-18 Saturday, and earlier in the season downed Calgary 13-36 in Ottawa for a perfect record against western clubs.

Jackson completed 12 of 28 passes for 252 yards and directed the club to 177 yards along the ground.

MOVED DECISIVELY

He was crisp and decisive in every move. Only once did he back away after coming up behind centre for the snap. He got rid of the ball quickly on pass plays and gained 18 yards himself on three carries.

The Riders struck suddenly, storming the Eskimos and 18,341 fans, by scoring at 2:43 on the first sequence of the game.

They added another touchdown 30 minutes later to lead 14-0 after one quarter. They increased the margin to 21-0 at halftime and held a 35-21 lead after three quarters. They scored two more touchdowns in the final quarter.

Ted Watkins scored two Ottawa touchdowns. Rick Black, Ron Stewart, Jim Dillard, Jay Roberts and Jackson added one each. All were converted by Joe Racine.

Joe Hernandez, Butch Brearley and Trent Walters scored Edmonton's touchdowns. Tommy - Joe Coffey converted one and Randy Kerbow kicked a single. Hernandez was playing his first game with Edmonton after joining the club from Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League.

FUMBLE KILLED IT

Edmonton coach Neil Armstrong said it wasn't Ottawa's fast start that killed the Eskimos' hopes, but a third - quarter fumble by Pressley.

Bob O'Billovich pounced on the loose ball and gave plays later Ottawa had another touchdown.

The win consolidated Ottawa's hold on first place in the Eastern Football Conference. The club now is four points ahead of Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Edmonton remains in second place in the West, two games ahead of Saskatchewan Roughriders and three ahead of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Defeat Salmonbellies 11-6

Gaels Take 3-2 Edge

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Ottawa coach Jim Bishop hopes his Green Gaels wrap up the Canadian junior lacrosse final Wednesday night and take home the Minto Cup.

"I predicted it would take six six games to win the series," he said after Ottawa downed New Westminster Salmonbellies 11-6 Monday night to take a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven final. "And it looks like I'm going to be right."

But New-Westminster coach Keith Jackson thinks his Salmonbellies can win the cup by taking the last two games.

Ottawa moved faster than New Westminster Monday to run a 3-1 first - quarter edge into a 5-4 margin by the third quarter.

New Westminster appeared to make a comeback in the final quarter but was stopped by the goaltending of Ottawa's Merv Marshall. Marshall and Defenceman Jim Higgs, who scored three goals, were singled out for praise by coach Bishop.

Ross Jones also scored three goals, Brian Thompson netted a pair and Don Stinson, Phil Clayton and John Clayton added one each for the winners.

PACES WEST

Yankees Topping Resigns

NEW YORK (AP)—Dan Topping resigned as president of New York Yankees baseball team Monday, sold his stock to Columbia Broadcasting System, and a CBS vice president was named president and chairman of the board of the team.

Michael Burke, who replaces Topping has been a member of the board of the Yankees since 1964 and a vice president of CBS in charge of development since 1965.

With the sale of Topping's 10 per cent of stock in the American League team, CBS gained complete ownership of the team that has compiled the most successful record in baseball history.

Topping, chief officer of the Yankees for the past 19 years, said he made his decision to resign for personal reasons.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Prize Jive, a three-year-old bay filly owned by Gary Garrett of Hornby, Ont., Monday won the $3,000 seventh race at Woodbine race track.

The filly, ridden by Hugo Dittfach, completed the six furlong distance in 1:31 and returned $11.40, $4.40 and $2.10. Prize Jive beat Titled Hero and Bye and Near, two horses considered to be among the best three-year-olds in Canadian racing.

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. AWARD CHAMPIONSHIPS

DORTMUND, Germany (AP)
A Congress of the International Gymnastics Federation awarded the 1970 world championships to Yugoslavia Monday. An official of the Yugoslav delegation, here for the 1966 world gymnastic championships beginning today, said that Ljubljana probably will be the host city.

TRUDY

"Give me one good reason why I should give you a year's allowance in advance."

Volkswagen's sporty Fastback for 1967 offers improved performance under all road and load conditions due to a new transmission ratio in third gear and a modified rear suspension which develops a progressive springing action. Also new for 1967 is a dual braking system which insures that even if one-half of the system becomes inoperative, the other half still functions. The other high-carburetor than premium fuels required by most other dual-carburetor engines. Dual backup lights and self-adjusting, retractable seat belts for front-seat occupants are among special convenience features built in as standard equipment this year. The Fastback is available with a sliding steel sunroof.

Pays $4,000 For Colt

TORONTO (CP) — John J. Mooney of suburban Willowdale paid $4,000 for Mighty Host, the highest price Monday at the annual Canadian Standardbred Horse Society's selected yearling sale.

Armbro Imprint, a son of Sampson Hanover consigned by the Armstrong Brothers of Brampton, Ont., was bought by Dr. B. F. Brennan and Howard Ulp Hoppin, both of Ottawa, for $3,000.

Capetown Candy, consigned by Ivan Fletcher of Georgetown, Ont., also brought $3,000. The colt was bought by Max Rice of Willowdale.

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Jean First, owned by Jacob Geisel of Hanover, won the first race at Garden City Monday night and boosted her lifetime winnings to $20,345.

The nine-year-old pacing mare returned $4.10 to win and clicked with Adios Lobell, owned by Dr. M. E. Forbes of Toronto, in the second race for a $69.50 daily double.

OTTAWA (CP)—Leonard Abbey, driven by Mervin Turcotte, put on a late stretch drive to win the featured $700 trot in 2:09.1 at Rideau Carleton Raceway Monday night.

The eight-year-old bay gelding from the T. and G. Stables, Vankleek Hill, Ont., paid $8.80 to win.

Timber, two drivers, Albert Bourassa of Pointe Gatineau, Que., and Keith St. Pierre of South Mountain, Ont., were taken to hospital for observation after they were hurt in a three-car spill-up in the first race. Bourassa suffered leg injuries; St. Pierre received lacerations to the head. The horses were not injured.

Driven by Grover Governor G to the 2:06 mile. It was the fourth win in the last five starts for Governor G.

SETS RECORD

EDMONTON (CP) — Greg Krause of Calgary set a Canadian record Monday at the Edmonton track and field championship by winning the javelin event's 1,200-metre steeplechase in 4:34 compared with the mark of 4:33.8 set in 1965 by Barry Cunningham of Vancouver.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Dutch team of Fritz Plenninger and Peter Post moved into the lead in the Montreal six-day bicycle race here early today after an hour-long battle with the Belgian and German teams.

Shortly before the fierce chase ended, Plenninger was thrown injured in a spectacular crash but returned to the race after receiving treatment for a first aid team.

The German A and B teams had been in first and second place respectively after the Dutch surge, having replaced the Belgium B team shortly after the first hour.

The Canadian team of Reinhold and Charrau was in 19th place, five hours behind the leaders.

AT ADDRESS, POSITION HANDS FORWARD

A golfer can expect good shot results if his hands are positioned at address in approximately the same position they will be in when his clubhead strikes the ball.

Obviously, if a golfer positions his hands behind the ball at address (Illustration No. 1) and then leads with his hands at impact (Illustration No. 2), some compensation must be made during his swing.

I think it's much better to address the ball as I am in Illustration No. 3. The hands are slightly forward of address, the left arm and clubshaft more or less form a straight line, just as they should during impact.

Announce New Healing Substance: Shrinks Piles

Exclusive healing substance proves to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue. A renowned research institute has announced a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds the healing of the injured inflamed tissue. In many cases, relief is simply relieving pain and actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most important of all — results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at any drug store. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Martin Calls On Thant to Stay in Post

Red Jets Defy Invaders

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada regards U Thant as virtually an indispensable man in the present world situation and hopes a consensus among United Nations members will persuade the secretary-general to stay in his post.

A Canadian diplomat told reporters Tuesday night this is the view External Affairs Minister Paul Martin will express in the General Assembly and to Thant personally.

Martin, who headed Canada's delegation at the opening of the assembly's 1966 session Tuesday, will meet Thant privately Thursday and is scheduled to address the assembly Friday.

Canada has no confidence that any attempt to draft Thant would succeed, the diplomat said. "A clear consensus has to be worked out, without any suggestion of pressure, and U Thant's decision has to be entirely his own."

Indications were, as the assembly moved into the second day of the session, that there will be no public efforts both to achieve a consensus and to draft Thant for a second five-year term. His first term ends Nov. 3, but on Monday he may continue in office until Dec. 31 if no successor is found in the meantime.

President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines, first head of state to address the 1966 session, will speak today and, it believes though no plans have been mentioned earlier, he is expected to launch a Draft Thant movement.

Since Marcos' visit was arranged, however, Thant has made outstandingly critical of a proposal that the Philippines and some other countries afford the United States-backed anti-Asian peace conference on Viet Nam. Thant told a press conference Monday it is unrealistic "for some of the Asian countries that have only a fully subscribed to a particular political ideology to come up with the proposal to mediate or conciliate."

Marcos' speech this afternoon is therefore awaited with considerable interest.

Marcos also was expected to call for a negotiated peace in Viet Nam. "I have always said the UN should intervene in the war in Viet Nam to get them to a dialogue," Marcos told reporters.

He added, however, that he would only "refer to it in passing" in his speech and would propose nothing specific. Marcos said the Philippines, Malaysia and Thailand are still trying to promote an Asian conference to encourage negotiations although North Viet Nam, the Viet Cong and China have Progress is our important problem.

SAIGON (Reuters) — Communist jet fighters rose again to challenge U.S. planes over North Viet Nam, engaging them in two separate air battles Tuesday but no planes were downed by either side, an American military spokesman said here today.

U.S. pilots, pressing their air offensive against the north, flew 80 missions Tuesday. They reported sinking a patrol boat in the Gulf of Tonkin and blasting communications and defence systems.

Tuesday's two air duels over the north both pitted U.S. Air Force F-105 Thunderchief against MIG-21s.

In the other dogfight, 52 miles northeast of the Communist capital, four MIGs homed in on another Thunderchief flight as the American jets were pulling away from a bombing target. As the U.S. planes turned to strike back, the MiGs fled.

U.S. pilots now have reported meeting 30 separate flights of MiGs in the Hanoi region in the last five days.

In South Viet Nam, the Viet Cong today sent 10 to 12 mortar shells crashing into the U.S. marine base at Chu Lai, inflicting light casualties and slight damage to aircraft.

The guerrillas struck early in the morning against the base on the South China Sea, 325 miles northeast of Saigon.

The American command announced that a Navy F-4B Phantom jet was lost over North Viet Nam late Monday night. Its two crew members were listed as missing. It was the 370th U.S. plane reported lost over the north.

Another plane, a Marine A-4 Skyhawk, crashed in South Viet Nam while flying support for ground troops, a spokesman said. Its pilot, too, was missing.

South Vietnamese troops reported killing 27 Viet Cong in 30 minutes of heavy fighting near Saigon today. A military spokesman said a battalion of about 300 infantry hit about 80 guerrillas in close quarter fighting in riverlands 26 miles south of the capital.

They took 12 Viet Cong prisoners and seized weapons, while suffering no casualties themselves, he said.

Viet Nam Issue in U.S. Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Party lines on the issue of the Viet Nam war are beginning to emerge and heavy political battling Republicans and Democrats in the House of Representatives, a principal battleground in the Nov. 8 U.S. general election.

The Republicans are seeking to narrow a 294-139 Democratic majority to the point where they can block "Great Society" legislation such as the present House has approved—frequently by narrow margins. All the House seats and one third of the Senate seats are at stake.

Republicans, insisting that Viet Nam is not a political issue, are hammering away at what they term "deception and lack of credibility" by the Democratic administration. While blaming disagreement among Democrats for North

Hellyer Arrives in Halifax To Address Navy Personnel

HALIFAX (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer inspected a guard of honor outside Rear-Admiral J. C. O'Brien's residence this morning before entering the Stadacona naval base to address navy personnel.

A band from Canadian Forces Base Cornwallis played during the 10-minute inspection.

Mr. Hellyer arrived at CFB Shearwater from Ottawa Tuesday night and went straight to Rear - Admiral O'Brien's residence. The admiral took over as Canada's sea operations chief earlier this summer, following the dismissal of Rear-Admiral William Landymore in a dispute over the minister's unification policies for the armed services.

The defence minister refused to answer reporters questions on his arrival, but a news conference has been scheduled for this afternoon.

It was not known what from exactly the address to navy personnel would take, but it was understood questions would be accepted from the floor. The press was barred from all three sessions.

Mr. Hellyer is scheduled to leave Halifax Thursday for visits to Canadian Forces bases at Greenwood, N.S., and Summerside, P.E.I., before returning to Ottawa Thursday evening.

Minister Meets Smith

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith and Commonwealth Relations Secretary Herbert Bowden had a second meeting this morning—this time at a secret rendezvous — informed sources said today.

Bowden, who had a first meeting with Smith Tuesday, has also begun sounding out Rhodesian opinion.

A spokesman for the visiting British minister said Bowden would be meeting Rhodesians "from different walks of life and representing various opinions."

The spokesmen said a number of people called Tuesday night was Government House — where Bowden and British Attorney-General Sir Elwyn Jones are Guests of Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs.

Ask Revolt Explanation By Sukarno

By JACK GILLON
JAKARTA (Reuters)—The Indonesian Parliament Tuesday night called on President Sukarno to explain the causes of last October's abortive Communist coup.

In the first official step to force an explanation of his policies out of the unwilling president, Parliament adopted a memorandum asking for a full account of the coup and events leading up to it.

The memorandum, adopted after a plenary session, called on the president to report on the coup to the supreme policy-making People's Consultative Congress.

It also demanded that the president condemn the Indonesian Communist party, PKI, calling himself a Marxist and shadow his theory of Nasakom, a loose union of nationalist, religious and Communist groups.

Parliament also urged the government to postpone indefinitely Conefo, the Conference of Newly Emerging Forces and President Sukarno's pet project.

The parliamentary Speaker will personally meet the president to submit the memorandum.

The Sukarno relentless pressure on the head of state for a clear condemnation of the Communists.

Earlier, Parliament passed a motion regretting the president's controversial speech and called on him to consult with the ruling presidium between making policy announcements dealing with policy.

The Indonesian Intellectuals Action Command today challenged Sukarno to answer in an open letter charges that he has gone against the constitution and betrayed the nation.

It said it feared the invitation because the president had asked for proof that he had turned guided democracy into dictatorship during his years as undisputed head of the nation.

Meanwhile, Indonesia's garrison commander, Maj. - Gen. Amir Machmud, said the army would be the firm link between the president "in a corrective and constructive manner."

Mr. Machmud announced that former foreign minister Subandrio would face trial by special military court at midnight Sept. 30, the first anniversary of the abortive coup.

Ideology No Block To Trade

NEW YORK (CP)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin told a predominantly American audience today Canada has never believed ideological differences should block trade with Communist countries, and it now sees lie policy being vindicated by events.

Speaking to the National Industrial Conference Board, a Canadian - American research group sponsored by private business, Martin said new, national approaches to economic planning in Communist countries present opportunities for increased trade—and possibly better relations.

Text of Martin's speech was given to reporters in advance of delivery.

"We shall not promote relations between nations on the best and most harmonious basis, without considerable effort and without a willingness on the part of all to take a long view of world prospects," he said.

Martin said the view long has been popular in many quarters that there should be no trade between private enterprise and Communist countries. "That has, in fact, never been the view of the Canadian government and I am encouraged in the policy we have pursued by the significant evolution which is taking place within the Communist world."

U.S. TRADE LIMITED

Hugs grain deals in recent years, along with some trade of lesser importance, have made Canada a big trading partner of both China and the Soviet Union. Canada also has considerable trade with East European countries, where, in fact, Trade Minister Winters is currently paying calls. The United States has engaged only in limited trade with the Soviet bloc and has none at all with China.

On the question of Canadian-American relations, Martin

Canada Gas in Demand

By ARCH MacKENZIE
WASHINGTON (CP)—An application opening the door to a huge increase in Western Canada natural gas exports to the Pacific Northwest of the United States encountered searching questions today before the federal power commission.

Staff members of the commission set the pace as hearings began on a proposal by the El Paso Natural Gas Co. to add 200,000,000 cubic feet daily to the 200,000,000 feet it now gets from Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd., of Vancouver.

With options and other provisions in the 25-year contract, El Paso imports at Sumas, B.C., eventually would rise to 800,000,000 cubic feet a. This is the equivalent of the current rate of total Canadian gas exports.

Paso Board Chairman Howard Boyd, questioned about alternate American supplies, said the Canadian gas is the cheapest available. He decried any suggestion for channelling southwest American gas to the "greatly accelerated" markets of Washington, Oregon and Idaho as likely to displace the Canadian supply.

The price of 27 cents a thousand cubic feet, in the case, he said, "lost it the Canadian government says that's not enough, we're in another ball game and we would have to review our entire situation."

Hearings before the National Energy Board of Canada are scheduled to start Oct 5 on export permission.

IMPORTS RAISE CONCERN

Questioning at the hearing, expected to last about two weeks, reflected specific orders to the commission to go into all aspects of the issue. There has been rising concern voiced by the Independent Petroleum Association of America, Texas and California producers about the increasing flow of gas from Canada.

Domestic exploration is being damaged in gas and oil, it is argued. Another argument is that each increase in Canadian gas to the Pacific Northwest will in time work out any bargaining power enjoyed by American buyers — because of declined dependence on Canadian supply.

The El Paso-Westcoast contract contains provision for an annual price increase on the 200,000,000-foot addition of .33⅓ cents a foot. In the absence of federal control over such provisions, this is a point that seemed

P.M. Accepts Responsibility For Delaying Medicare Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson offered himself as the focus of blame for criticism of the government's decision to delay federal participation in medical care insurance by one year.

"The decision was made by me, in consultation with Mr. Sharp," he told a press conference.

At the same time, he said he was absent at the Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London when Finance Minister Sharp announced the medicare delay without consulting the views of Liberal MPs.

Mr. Pearson said he sees no possibility of reinstating July 1, 1967, as the starting date for federal payments to provincial medicare plans. Two or a dozen MPs had demanded a special caucus on the issue and he had talked to several on the phone.

They would get the chance to present their case at a caucus called for Oct. 4, the eve of Parliament's resumption. The bill would go ahead as the number two priority behind the Bank Act revision. The only change would make the effective date July 1, 1968...

The result of Mr. Pearson's assumption of personal responsibility for the one-year delay and his declared intention that it will stick may be to confine unrest among his supports to the issue of consultation with the caucus before the cabinet takes major policy steps.

Mr. Pearson also provided sympathetic support for Mr. Sharp's tougher line with the province by sharply rejecting any suggestion that the finance minister had turned his back on the prime minister's cooperative federalism at last week's federal-provincial conference here.

"Not a bit of it." Mr Pearson said. "There can't be any other form of federalism in Canada than co-operative federalism."

He emphasized that the federal government has no intention of letting go control over financial and economic policies in working out tax-sharing arrangements with the provinces.

"Responsibility for the direction of financial and economic policies is in Ottawa's hands, must be in Ottawa's hands and can't be anywhere else," he said.

Since Mr. Sharp's announcement that medicare will be delayed, there has been open criticism from Liberal MPs, meetings of protest and expressions of dismay from such influential members as former finance minister Walter Gordon.

In addition, Health Minister MacEachen was plainly upset at

Motor Failure Casting Doubts On Success of Moon Mission

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The apparent failure of a small rocket motor aboard the Surveyor II spacecraft caused the three-legged lunar photographer to tumble uncontrolled in space, scientists said today.

The tumbling, at a rate of about one revolution a second, casts doubt on the chances for a successful mission, they said, but the craft can be stabilized.

Two attempts at correcting the tumbling — by firing all three small rockets for two seconds—failed, they said, when the No. 3 rocket didn't fire again.

Al Hibbs, staff scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, said the failure of the No. 3 rocket engine was the apparent cause of the tumbling, which began when the rockets were fired for the mid-course maneuver.

"Consequently, engines one and two gave quite a tipping action," said Hibbs.

The mid - course maneuver — gentle roll in space followed by a short shot of rocket power—was meant to slow the craft enough to put it exactly on target on the moon.

After launch Tuesday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., scientists said the craft was on a good course for the moon's Sinus Medii (Bay of the Middle). Its course, they said, was "at least as good as Surveyor I's," well within the capacity of a mid-course correction to bring us to the programmed landing point."

The accuracy of the launch was confirmed by the brief—8.9 seconds — burst of power needed to correct its trajectory. Without the correction, scientists said, Surveyor II would have missed its target by only three degrees.

Sinus Medii, the programmed landing point, is right in the middle of the side of the moon visible to the earth. It is one of nine possible landing sites selected for the first Apollo astronauts when they head for the moon late in this decade. Surveyor II's job is to take pictures of the site to determine if it's safe.

Surveyor I, first of seven craft designed to land softly on the moon, touched down gently last June 1), about 800 miles west and slightly south of Sinus Medii. It returned more than 11,000 excellent - quality pictures of the rough lunar surface.

Surveyor II's 63-hour journey to the moon was scheduled to end with a gentle landing at 12:43.58 a.m. Friday. At that time, spokesman said, the moon will be 241,097 miles from the earth.

Industrial Commission Members Defend, Clarify Policies at Club Meeting

Belleville's Industrial Commission was put on the spot again last night, but this time some of its more prominent members were on hand to defend and clarify its policies.

Last evening's first regularly scheduled Belleville Sales and Ad Club meeting for this season was billed as "Industrial Night" featuring speakers Ernst Kreisel, City Industrial Commissioner, Mayor Jack Ellis, and J. C. "Pat" Houston, Chairman of the Industrial Commission, and also Manager of Deloro Stellite Ltd.

An audience of over 100 members and their guests, including a healthy quorum of city councillors, were on hand for the event, and the questions which were levelled at the panel of three indicated that spades were going to be called spades.

"Why doesn't industry locate in Belleville" was an inevitable query, and each of the guest speakers endeavored to offer an explanation.

The biggest factor, in Mayor Jack Ellis' opinion, is the "designated area" program of the federal government.

DIFFICULTY TO COMPETE

Mayor Ellis said that it was difficult for Belleville to compete with designated municipalities such as Brantford and Cornwall, which received federal tax concessions which could subsequently be used to attract new industry.

"We don't have the percentage of unemployment to warrant our being declared a designated area," said the Mayor. "Our problem in this regard is that we have a lot of city residents employed, but many of them are employed outside of the city. Belleville is what is normally called a 'dormitory' city."

Consequently this city is the bottom of the line industrially, and the top of the line residentially, with regard to provincial assessment averages.

The mayor's feeling as to why the city spends more than it takes in "to provide a broader tax base for the financing of the facilities demanded by Belleville residents."

"Don't expect a new industry coming into Belleville in all of a sudden lower the taxes — but it will definitely assist in creating a broader tax base," he said.

WORK FORCE GETS OLDER

Industrial Commissioner Ernst Kreisel said the problem of attracting industry to Belleville should be studied in terms of what other municipalities have to offer industry that we in Belleville don't have.

"A major consideration," he said, "is the fact that "our work force is getting older, and we're sending our young people out of the area to look for suitable employment."

"The work force is declining as a proportion of Belleville's population," he said, citing figures showing that the percentage of the city's population between the ages of 20 and 59, the core of the labor force, has dropped to 49 percent from the 1950 figure of 57 percent.

"If we don't get new industry," said Mr. Kreisel, "we could simply stagnate and go downhill. Our problem could conceivably become that of retaining what industry is already here, rather than of attracting more."

"Pat" Houston, Chairman of the Commission, agreed that the lack of a sufficient pool of trained and skilled labor as a result of young persons leaving the area is of vital concern.

MUST ANSWER QUESTIONS

In reply to a question as to whether the Commission has been working with city educationists to help develop the groundwork for a skilled labor pool, Mr. Houston said that the problem of the chicken and the egg: you have to have people before you can develop industry, but on the other hand, you have to have industry before you can employ people."

Mr. Houston said that a lengthy list of questions concerning every aspect of the city and its population must be answered by the Industrial Commission to the satisfaction of any prospective industry before they will even consider locating here.

"Questions about the geography of the city, its labor picture, and its residents come at a stage in discussions when such factors as the actual industrial site and its facilities are not even yet in view," he said.

The three industry - seeking panelists were in unison on this point: that the lack of adequate building space for the housing of potential industries is hurting Belleville's chances in luring new industry to the city.

They agreed that if industrially suitable buildings were constructed and made available at a reasonable rental, the industrial Commission could find an industry to occupy it.

The possibilities of forming a corporate development association, whereby private individuals provide the funds at a nominal interest rate to finance the building of an industrially suitable structure was put before the audience by Mr. Kreisel. "A similar arrangement in the town of Campbellford met with great success," he said.

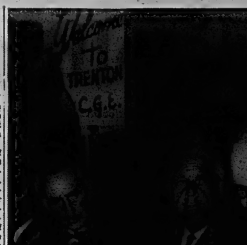
"The problem is," said the Industrial Commissioner, "if we attempted to initiate such a program, most of our support would be of the moral variety."

RCAF Pipe Band to Play In Pittsburg

TRENTON — The RCAF pipe band at the Canadian Forces Base here has been charged with a very important assignment for the Canadian Centennial Commission.

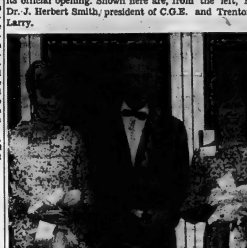
On Saturday 10 members of the band will be ready at 4.30 a.m. to catch a bus for Toronto's International airport. There they will board a commercial aircraft bound for Pittsburgh to play and perform for a week against a backdrop similar to the exhibit of EXPO of displayed at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto this year. The exhibit, a site plan of the proposed world's fair marking Canada's 100th anniversary of Confederation, has been moved to a large department store in the steel city where the band will be appearing four and five times a day. On the opening day of the presentation a host of Pittsburg's civic officials will be on hand to welcome the pipe band in support of the Canadian centennial promotion.

An area 30 feet square has been set aside in the department store especially for the daily presentation which features the Canadian pipers with a detachment of the 2nd battalion Canadian Guards dressed in Scottish caps in a drill routine which includes the colorful changing of the guard ceremony. Incidentally, the Guard's drill team will take their own sentry box with them.



In a side trip on Tuesday, September 27 the pipe band will make an appearance at Philadelphia for the day.

Adjourn Case For Hearing of Legal Argument



TRENTON — An Ontario Municipal Board hearing into a claim of $125,000 issued against the Town of Trenton by Lange and Fetter Motors, was adjourned here yesterday. Legal arguments will be heard at a later date. Judge H. E. Robins presided.

Lange and Fetter Motors is claiming damages for loss of business and devaluation of property brought about by a change in elevation of the access to the company's property during widening of Dundas St. last year.

J. D. Templeman is representing the Town of Trenton while Bernard W. Hanley is the legal advisor for Lange and Fetter Motors.

DINNER AT TRENTON COUNTRY CLUB was part of the program as the Canadian General Electric Company, Limited's Trenton plant yesterday made its official opening ceremony here and was officially declared open by Mayor Jack MacDonald, Dr. J. Herbert Smith, president of C.G.E. and Trenton clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry.

CGE Company Settles Into Town's Community Life as New Plant Officially Opened

TRENTON — Described by Mayor James MacDonald as "one of the shining jewels in Trenton's Crown of Industry," Canadian General Electric settled into the town's community life yesterday.

Officially opening the West Street plant which has been the actual operation for two months, Mayor MacDonald snipped a satin ribbon with (fittingly) an electric carving knife.

CGE's Trenton manager, Roy Rogers, welcomed the assembled guests at the opening and the mayor was introduced by Charles Fraser, president of CGE's small motors division, who "let the cat out of the bag" when he said the mayor had been born in Belleville.

Dr. J. Herbert Smith, Canadian - born president of CGE, paid tribute to Mr. Rogers and his staff who have turned an empty building, (formerly occupied by the OMC Boat Division of Outboard Marine) into a going concern in four months. The Trenton plant, now employing 150 persons, is the largest department of washing equipment motors in Canada, already.

Dr. Smith remarked particularly on the "healthy civic environment in Trenton."

"We plan to grow with Trenton," Dr. Smith said.

Guests were taken on a conducted tour of the plant and in a cavalcade to view the town first hand, following the opening.

Later, at the Trenton Country Club, the town entertained CGE personnel, industrialists and local and out-of-town dignitaries.

At the head table, were Lee Grills, MP for Hastings South, Russell Rowe, MLA for Northumberland, CGE personnel and heads of local boards as well as RCAF personnel.

TRACES TOWN HISTORY

Chairman for the evening was Trenton's clerk-comptroller, O. W. Larry.

Mr. Larry traced briefly the town's industrial history. He said the town had lost a number of industries over the years but had always managed to "bounce back" and acquire another industry. Mr. Larry also paid tribute to CGE's knowhability to "fit in" whatever community it settled in.

"I'm sure CGE will be with us for a long time," he said. Mr. Harold Clark, president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce welcomed CGE on behalf of 175 members of the chamber.

George Kempf, introduced by Mr. Larry as a former U.S. citizen, was said by Mr. Larry to be a "real leader in the community." Mr. Kempf is president and general manager of Erie Technological Products of Canada, and a former president of the Chamber of Commerce, a member of the town's industrial commission and this year is president of the Electric Industry Association of Canada.

In bi long-time association with CGE, Mr. Kempf said, he had found that co-operation was not a word in the dictionary with the company but an economic necessity.

Councillor Paul Tripp, president of the Trenton Industrial Commission and chairman of the economic and industrial development committee with council, was "enjoying his hour of glory," according to the clerk comptroller, introduced Dr. Smith as guest speaker.

Dr. Smith touched briefly on the history of his firm and its philosophy in business.

EXPLAINS PURCHASE

CGE was founded in 1892, just 12 years after Trenton became a town.

Commenting on the fact that CGE had bought the empty OMC Boats' plant, Dr. Smith said this was company policy.

"The Trenton plant is an example of starting up a major business in a new location with creating revolutionary pressures by building."

"In just over four months the plant has been turned from an empty shell into one of the largest plants manufacturing home laundry motors in Canada. I should like to personally congratulate the men in Peterborough and in Trenton, who have been responsible for putting the plant into operation. They have told me that their work has been made infinitely easier by the wholehearted cooperative of civic and business leaders in Trenton and by recently hired employees who have so enthusiastically tackled new and unfamiliar job assignments."

Before the close of the evening, Mr. Larry praised the efforts of Chamber of Commerce manager, Jack Wilson, who arranged the dinner and Thomas Hetherington, manager at the Trenton Country Club.

CGE employees at the Trenton plant will be entertained by management in the plant tonight.

County Fathers Want Ban On New Bottles

Hastings county council feels that non - returnable soft drink bottles should be banned.

Yesterday at a one - day sitting of council, the county fathers concurred in a county of Victoria resolution asking the Ontario Government to ban the making of such bottles. The primary reason for the resolution is the fact that the non returnable bottles are being discarded at the roadside on highways with the broken glass being a hazard to motorists.

Council took no action on resolutions from the counties of Bruce and Huron asking that the Minister of Highways reconsider his directive calling for the minimum wage (fair wage) to be paid on highway work contract is to be eligible for subsidy.

Huron and Bruce counties wanted payment of fair wages optional at the discretion of the road authority.

Warden Clayton Hall said that wages paid to road employees in Hastings county were very close to the fair wage requirement.

Neither did council take any action on a resolution asking that the department of highways remove stumps from all trees cut along provincial highways. It was claimed such stumps were causing loss of life in motor accidents.

Councillors felt the cost of such stump removal would be prohibitive with Tudor Reeve Vern McIntyre stating that if all stumps were removed the highways department would have no money left to build roads.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

CRYDON — In memory of my dearly beloved husband, Thomas, who passed away Sept. 21, 1955.

Ever in my thoughts, Sally.

MARSHALL — In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Winnifred Marshall, who passed away Sept. 21, 1955.

I think lower when I woke that morn
The sorrow the day would bring.
The call was sudden, the shock severe,
To part from one I loved so dear,
Her memory is sweet and sacred,
Why some things have to be.
In His wisdom God has planned,
Beyond my power to see.
Sadly missed and never by daughter Dale, David and granddaughter, Heather.

Kiwanians Hear Life Story Of Teacher in Sarawak

Former Civil Servants May Form Assoc.

Federal superannuates in Belleville and district will probably organize an association here this Thursday afternoon at the Corby Public Library. Forty-four ex-Civil Servants have joined this National Association, and it is expected that many more will soon be enrolled. If it is decided at this meeting to form an association at Belleville, the election of officers for the local branch will take place.

Mr. Fred Whitehouse, National Secretary Treasurer and Mrs. Whitehouse of Victoria, B.C., will be at the meeting. Mr. Whitehouse will address the meeting and will conduct the election, if it is decided to form a local branch.

All branches of the Federal Civil Service have enrolled in this Canada wide organization whose membership takes in all of Canada and other parts of the world.

All ex-Civil Servants who have not enrolled in this organization are invited to attend this meeting, along with any widows of former members of Federal Civil Service.

A young Canadian University graduate who spent two years teaching English to Chinese children in Sarawak, one of the Borneo states of Malaysia, Bruce Bailey yesterday, addressed members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club. Bruce and his wife became Canadian University Service Overseas volunteers about two years ago and he is now working for CUSO at its head office in Ottawa.

In his opinion, the most important aspect of CUSO is not what each volunteer contributes but rather that service with the organization helps create a awareness of the type and magnitude of the problems that face developing countries.

He said yesterday, "The world is becoming very small and we need people who are aware, not just in government but in the professions and in business."

When the Baileys volunteered for CUSO there were 149 members going to 22 different countries. Most of the 149 volunteers were university graduates and most were teachers. In two years, CUSO has changed and there are now 1,000 volunteers going to more than 30 countries. Many are teachers but there are also engineers, surveyors, agriculturists and technicians. Thirty percent of the group do not have a university degree.

"CUSO is not just for the university graduate," noted Mr. Bailey. "Many different kinds of people are needed".

While teaching in Sarawak, the Baileys lived in a small village about one hour from the nearest town. The villagers were all Foochow Chinese, who earned their living tapping rubber, growing pepper or working in the sawmill. The husband and wife teaching team was paid $100 (Canadian) each, per month.

NO ROAD FOR TRAVEL

There were no roads and travel was mostly by river. Electricity was available for only two and one-half hours each evening and there were no telephones. There were no police, because there is "almost no crime."

Observed Mr. Bailey, "The students were very good about coming to school and attendance was as good or better than in most Canadian schools. In fact, sometimes it was too good and pupils would come to school, cheeks swollen with mumps or faces dotted with measles—and no one seemed to mind.

"Discipline was generally good although we did find some problems. The main cause of the problem was the frustration of an English academic curriculum is as Asian agriculturist environment."

The Baileys found the people very friendly but because of the language barrier and the difference in culture, attempts to really get to know the people generally failed.

Following the address, club members viewed colored slides of the part of Sarawak in which the Baileys lived and worked.

It was announced at yesterday's meeting that J. J. Trafford has been elected president of the club for 1967. R. G. Horwood, introduced to the local Kiwanians by L. A. Kells, was inducted into the club by past president O. F. Bradley. Also taking part in the ceremony were club president F. D. Bellsmidt and secretary W. McFatt.

Stolen Car Is Recovered, Escapee Held

Around 4.30 this morning Cornwall police recovered a car stolen sometime yesterday from a Belleville resident and were rewarded with an unexpected bonus.

The driver of the stolen car, 19-year-old Serge Rose, was identified as an escapee from the Brampton Training Centre. He has been at large since the first week of August.

Belleville city police were notified of the theft this morning. The owner of the car, Lawrence Percy Hyde, 34 Bridge Street East, had not been aware that the vehicle was stolen from the Hotel Quinte parking lot where he left it.

Six New Members Join Engineers Body

A total of 418 new members were registered by the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario at a recent meeting. The 23,000-member Association serves as the licensing body for the engineering profession throughout the province and also seeks to inform the general public regarding the role played by the professional engineer in Canada's development.

New members from the Belleville area include: Gerald Boguslaw, John Sydney Buchan, Peter Albert Cassidy, Veikko Elmer Hoemila, Yatsuo Sakamoto and Sherman Lee Wright.

Department Of Lands And Forests Seeks Solution To Fishing Problems

The remedies for changes in fish populations and water conditions in Ontario fisheries are yet to be found, the Belleville and District Game and Fish Association was told at its first fall and winter meeting last night.

Chief Forester N. D. Patrick of the Tweed District Department of Lands and Forests said in spite of departmental research activities the answers to what actually has happened are not yet known.

Lake Ontario's population of lake trout, white fish and herring has declined to a point where it is almost non-existent.

Lake Erie during the past 20 years has changed, its fish population from the cisco to mainly perch and smelt, Walter Grange is given as the reason.

Pickerel in the Bay of Quinte waters have declined sharply in the past eight years, Mr. Patrick said.

"What is left in the bay waters" he added, "are matured fish unable to reproduce as they did before."

Departmental research teams are now in various parts of the world trying to find types of fish suitable to Ontario waters. They hope to find types which will adapt themselves to present water conditions.

"These conditions are being studied" Mr. Patrick said, "with the hope that we will get the answers to problems that will bring fish to our former highly productive waters."

INTRODUCE BC SALMON

British Columbia salmon, the sockeye, has been successfully introduced into small waters here as well as Lake Ontario, he said.

"This fish" he added, "has red flesh, grows to a maximum of 14 inches and turns a brilliant red orange color when spawning. It dies after its first reproduction."

The chief forester said it had been successfully introduced in a small lake in North Hastings. They have been caught by nets but not as yet by anglers.

He asked anglers if they catch a fish looking like a small trout to report it and send it to his department. "The problem for anglers now," he said, "is the matter of learning how to catch them."

"Another problem of his department," he said, "is the conflict that exists in some places between anglers and commercial fishermen. Few fish caught by anglers as compared to the commercial catches are better for the economy."

"It is a matter of economics" he said and "the department gives anglers the precedence where conflict exists. But we must have definite proof there is interference."

"The disappearance of pickerel in Bay of Quinte waters is not the fault of the commercial fisherman," he pointed out. "We ask you to be careful of commercial fishing criticism. As I said before the pickerel situation in the bay waters is because only matured fish unable to reproduce in former quantities remain."

He said that commercial fishermen had been using monofilament nylon nets below efficient as the former types. This was good business but the fishermen, against department's legal advice have restricted the use of monofilament for the next two years.

FISHERMEN AWARE

"Commercial fishermen," he said, "are keenly aware of the situation and would not increase their efforts until they had some idea of what is going on in the fishery business."

"His department", Mr. Patrick said, "has set up a Bay of Quinte Advisory Committee which will set up a plan where fishing can be done on a quota basis. It will also extirpate the catches made by fishermen and anglers."

"It is not a happy situation," Mr. Patrick said, "and it will remain that way until we find the solutions to the problems confronting us."

Speaking to hunters the chief forester said those who prefer Hungarian partridge will find a good population in Ontario with the best near Prescott.

"We have a 1,000-acre area near Casanoque being managed for pheasant. The hunting is excellent and 100 hunters per day are allowed to shoot. I suggest, you try it during the middle of the weekday weekends see many hunters turned away."

He corrected an error in a department report regarding moose hunting. "There is no open season for moose in Frontenac, Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties. Only in parts of Renfrew county.

The meeting was well attended with president Fred Fisher in the chair. Excellent hunting and fishing films were shown.

Treasurer Fred Clarke gave the financial report.

A. V. Smith, 5 Carman Ave., Belleville, won the main prize, a handsome shotgun.

Tax Arrears Alarm Treasurer, Urges Penalties Be Increased

In a period of relatively low unemployment and at a time when wages are at the highest level in history, tax arrears in the County of Hastings have reached alarming proportions, members of county council were told yesterday.

County Clerk-Treasurer Carl Bateman, in a report to council said that as of December 31st, 1965, tax arrears in the county amounted to $800,000 with arrears in some municipalities amounting to a large percentage of their current levy.

Mr. Bateman said politicall leaders have hinted that unless credit can be restricted and inflation curbed, the country could be on the brink of a recession. If a recession did occur the chance of collecting tax arrears would be slim and the burden on those willing and able to pay would be increased.

He said that county officials in allowing tax delinquents to use the credit of the municipality to incur up to four years tax arrears, were doing these people a disservice.

"I am certain that many businesses could not survive if their credit situation was as grim as that in some of our municipalities," he said.

Mr. Bateman said he saw no single solution and improving the tax arrears situation but mentioned several points which might be considered collectively.

COULD RAISE PENALTY

These included increasing the penalty to the maximum allowed four per cent and raising the interest charged on arrears from the present one half of one per cent to two thirds of one per cent. This would amount to a first year's interest charge of 12 per cent on arrears.

Also recommended was a more aggressive attitude on the part of the local tax collector and a more positive and systematic return to the county for those municipalities participating in the county tax sale.

Mr. Bateman also suggested that interim payment of taxes could help the tax arrears problem.

Arrears of taxes show the higher percentage in the northern townships with percentage of taxes collected ranging down to 63 per cent. In the township tax arrears amount to 54 per cent of the current levy.

In closing Mr. Bateman urged for the support of all committees in trying to keep within their budgets.

Unless this was done the county would be fortunate to declare a surplus at the year end. Borrowings for the year were up compared with other years and this despite the fact the reserve for working capital has been increased this year.

More County Council News on Page 2, 13

Main reason for the increased borrowing was the amount of county work being done, it was stated.

Grant Is Made For Repairs to Lingham Dam

The Ontario government through its department of Energy and Resources, headed by Hon. J. R. Simonett, has approved a grant of $9,000 to the Moira River Conservation Authority for repair of the Lingham Lake dam north of Marlon. The announcement of the grant was made today by Clarke T. Rollins, MLA for Hastings East.

The planned work is for the repair of one of the wing walls at the Lingham Lake dam and also for increasing height of the dam to provide a larger water storage capacity at the reservoir.

A Realizable Goal

The United Appeal Campaign opened in Belleville this week and announced an objective of $108,750, down some $20,000 from last year's objective, but about $7,000 more than was collected in 1959.

Belleville has had a poor record in the past, having never come close to achieving the goal. Last year, for the first time, over $100,000 was collected.

Each person living in or working in Belleville has a responsibility towards this community. Part of this responsibility is helping the less fortunate, the handicapped, the sick and the aged.

If every wage earner in Belleville contributed 25 cents each week towards United Appeal, the objective would be reached easily.

Think of it, 25 cents! Not very much to give, but when everyone gives it does the job.

The problem in this city's appeals in the past has not been that those giving do not give enough, but that there were simply not enough people who give anything.

One out of three Belleville families used a United Appeal service directly, and everyone benefits from them.

When your fellow worker asks you to give your fair share and you give, you make Belleville a better place to live in.

Give till it helps!

World's Uneasy Conscience

Pope Paul has proclaimed October a month of world-wide prayer for the end of the horrible war in Viet Nam.

Those who are not truly religious, which means the majority of the world's two billion people, will probably reflect sadly there is little reason to hope this "peace feeler" will prove more effective than the secular appeals of the past.

Yet most of us will hope.

Why will this hope be so universal?

Because this war, unlike some of those in the past, sickens what even the irreligious can only call the soul of man.

Why? Is this true? Partly, and, oh, most hopefully, because in spite of the cynics, human nature does change. Partly, and, oh, most sadly, because this is war of a type which we believed abandoned centuries ago.

This is a war which has gone on for two decades, a war in which a whole generation has been born and grown to maturity without knowing a single day of peace. There is something especially terrible about this unbroken continuity of devastation death. Nothing has changed since those earlier eras of even lengthier, but not unbroken, strife, the Thirty Years' War and the Hundred Years' War.

But over and above this, and particularly disquieting to those of us reared in the belief that might does not make right, is the fact that all the armory of science is being emplied against a foe who, in large measure, opposes science with nothing more deadly than courage. That this courage is based on one thing that is behind the under-gunned Viet Cong there stand two mighty shadows, one the most populous nation in earth and the other the equal in military science of any power, dead or alive since Genesis.

Like Kipling, who admired the pore benighted 'eathen Fuzzy-Wuzzies as fust-class fighting men, we have an uneasy feeling that what is happening isn't 'ardly fair.

And, pored and shorn this entirely and much more disturbing, is the fact that the sickness of torture, which was exorcised from the Western world with extreme difficulty after the wounds of the Reformation healed and which was dragged back into it by the unspeakable bestiality of the Nazis — torture rides as the Fifth Horseman. That the Viet Cong are guilty of it we need not question. But can there be any doubt, from news reports and pictures, that the Americans are sometimes necessary before the fact? In Viet Nam, as in Korea before it, torture man has accepted the cruelty of an Oriental ally as irremediable.

That does not sit well on our reformed souls.

But if we hope to be shriven easily by merely praying for peace, then we are doomed to bitter disappointment. For, as the Pope has pointed out, a peace settlement "must rest on justice and the liberty of mankind." Such a settlement will be most difficult to win, for, despite all our unease, it is still true that the Americans are trying to preserve in Viet Nam the right of the Vietnamese to a free choice of their way of life. We must be sure we are being that also — while at the same time making certain we are not insisting on the Vietnamese choosing our way of life, or some unrealistic facsimile of it.

Today in History

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sept. 21, 1906 . . .

The British House of Commons passed the Great Reform Bill 70 years ago today — 1831—and it was for a second time thrown out by the House of Lords. The Whig governorest recessed Parliament and prepared a new version of the bill while unrest spread throughout the country. For example, pro - reform rioters sacked the port of Bristol and held it for two days. Under threat of creating hundreds of new Whig peers, the government forced passage of the bill in 1832, extending the vote to townsmen and employers and abolishing "pocket boroughs."

1782—The French assembly voted to abolish the monarchy.

1830—The first American automobile, built by Frank and Charles Duryea, was successfully tested.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—1915 — Romanians entered Szekely Udvarkely, 40 miles from Kraratadt, Transylvania; New Zealand troops in France withstood a German attack south of the Ancre River.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—1935 — 34 German and 13 British aircraft were shot down over northern France; Russians counterattacked on the Polish front but lost ground in the Ukraine; Marshal Petain urged Frenchmen to give up resistance to the Germans.

Boost for U.S. Wheat

Miami Herald

Wheat farmers have been given the word from Washington that they can grow 15 percent more . . . to help feed a hungry world.

This should produce a harvest of 1.8 billion bushels, by far the largest ever for the United States, which has dwindled below the margin of safety, may be exploited.

It may be, that is, if the demands for United States wheat do not continue to rise.

Increasing the purchases for the undeveloped countries, the United States shipped 850 million bushels all over last year. Most of last year's crop, to fight starvation abroad.

Few of the recipients were able to pay for it. The wheat was either given away under the Food for Peace program, or sold for local currencies. These were either loaned back to the countries for their own development or left idle in the banks.

The United States holds 1.3 billion in Indian rupees alone.

American taxpayers pay twice for donated wheat — once as subsidized prices guaranteed the farmers and again to send it overseas.

Feeding the hungry makes good sense and the rich farmlands of our Midwest keep millions alive in impoverished lands. Yet as their numbers increase some way must be found to help these countries grow more food. Half the world cannot depend on a perpetual handout.

Strictly Personal
Shakespearean Mystery

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

We commonly speak of a "vested interest" in a material, or an economic sense. But it is much more than this: a "vested interest" can just as easily be emotional, a matter of pride as much as of property.

The accredited Shakespearean scholars are a case in point. They have a vested interest in Shakespeare, both the man and his works. They are proud of their scholarship, of their mountainous research into his "life" and his "sources."

When doubt arises, in any quarter, that the man named William Shakespeare actually wrote the plays attributed to him, the vested interests of the academics draw up their forces and attack these rebels with such cries as "Crackpot", "Fraud," "Sensationalist" and "Fool."

Yet, for the last century and a half, more and more men of brains and reputation have expressed increasing doubts that a Shakespeare was the true author of the greatest literature the world has ever known. These dissenters cannot agree on the identity of the "real" author; but they are firm in their belief that it was not the man from Stratford.

In a literary sense, it doesn't matter who wrote the plays; but as a puzzle in biography, it is the most fascinating mystery in all the annals of literature.

Who were some of the "crackpots" and "fools" who either suspected, Shakespeare's authorship or were firmly convinced that another man wrote the plays?

Nathaniel Hawthorne. Lord Palmerston. Walt Whitman. Mark Twain. Oliver Wendell Holmes. Ralph Waldo Emerson. John Greenleaf Whittier. Swinburne. Goethe. Henry James. And the latest important convert, in the 1930's, was Sigmund Freud, who believed it was psychologically impossible for the brash, ignorant stage manager named Shakespeare to have given the world its loftiest poetry.

An impressive list — but not to the vested interests of Shakespeareans, Inc. A change in ideology would mean the loss of their books, their reputations as experts, their carefully prepared notes and lectures and annotations, and the whole top-heavy structure of scholarship.

No man liked to be made to look like a fool. But what distinguishes the true scientific and scholarly approach from the pompous pronouncements of English professors is a burning desire to investigate all the evidence possible, on both sides of the fence. Darwin was just as eager to find evidence that disproved his theory, and kept a special notebook of such material.

It is impossible to trust or respect an "expert" who looks only for the evidence he wants to find. His interest is vested in self-approval.

Poor No Help To Society

Windsor Star

Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith, born at Iona Station, Ontario, is a man in advance of his times — but perhaps not very far at that. He was one of the first, certainly among prominent economist, to advocate a minimum personal income for everybody. He re iterates that it is the one effective solution to poverty.

This idea was also recommended by the Senate Committee headed by Senator David A. Croll. And, indeed, it is being enacted as far as the elderly are concerned, by the new promise of $30 supplementary old age pensions to ensure a minimum income for the old folks.

If the principle is valid for the elderly, it doesn't require much extension of thought to apply it to everybody. And, of course, the simple answer to poverty is to see, by one way or another, that the impoverished have enough money at least to exist decently.

Mr. Galbraith, however, isn't thinking only in terms of individuals and their needs. He recognizes that poverty is a dead weight upon an economy. The very poor, by the very reason of their poverty, can't contribute to a buoyant society.

Cargoes are ever fascinating, for their very names evoke adventure, mystery, romance. Naturally one does not speak here of sand and gravel nor yet of petroleum products, but rather of coyra and ginseng, silk and ebony, teak, mahogany and jade amber, macawa and myrrh.

An ideal freight mix, as we say in the transportation business, is in our mind the one John Masefield ascribed to that "quisquirme of Nineveh from distant Ophir" in his poem "Cargoes," bearing "ivory and apes and peacocks, sandalwood cedarwood and sweet white wine." There, airs and measures, is the music of poetry and the mystery of music, enticingly concocted and garnished with a dream.

It comes accordingly as a rude awakening to the rigors of the twentieth century to learn that United States airlines have adopted a standard numerical code to identify all freight commodities to permit electronic data processing. Much of the drab agony confined up by certain words may never be the same again," the Air Transportation Association of America announces with a very pesty balance between nostalgia and pride of accomplishment.

Diamonds, caviar and ostrich feathers, to mention but a few, by few will hereinafter be known as 666.2, 032.01 and 291.96 respectively.

All Nations Must Farm

The Times, London

It would be much more sensible, one school of economists has argued, to concentrate the world's food growing in those temperate climates where advanced methods and regular rainfall already win from a acre several times as much as can the Indian cultivator. Let the undeveloped areas on with their industry. They can be fed meanwhile, from the world's granaries. This argument has been finally knocked down by the Food and Agriculture Organization in Rome.

It reveals that the embarrassing surpluses of ten years ago have now all been run down, not least by-the million tons of grain going to India every month last year and this. Forecasts over the next decade show that the rich producers cannot hope to go on meeting the demand of the kind they have been getting from India and China of late. Interdependence, and the priorities of aid, are reminded once again, must go towards increasing the food supplies more than anything else.

To Your Good Health
Vitamins by Themselves Cannot Raise Weight

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a person gain weight by having shots of Vitamin B12 or by taking liver tablets? Or does weight increase depend entirely on the type and quantity of food? Can any medication increase weight? — M.P.

Vitamins contain no calories, and thus cannot, directly, increase weight. They are, all the same, important for the utilization of the food we eat.

The B. vitamin may perk up your appetite and thus help increase weight. Fundamentally, however, gaining is a matter of getting more calories from your food than you use up in activity.

Just taking iron tablets arbitrarily is not wise. Let your doctor decide whether your system really needs them.

The commonest cause of giving iron is to correct certain forms of anemia. If anemia is causing listlessness, iron may do it. It will make you feel stronger — and again can spur the appetite in that way. But unless you need your blood, anemia does not necessarily appear only in thin individuals. Fat cases can be anemic, too.

The reasons for being thin, or fat, or in-between, are complex. Bone structure, heredity, eating patterns, appetite and even more subtle factors all play a part. Some folks are intended to be slender, and must rely on themselves to what Nature decrees.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes ear noises? What can I do to stop them? — Mrs. F. M.

That's too big a question for a simple answer, because there are a lot of causes, and quite different causes and, frankly, sometimes no detectable ones.

Urges Pearson End Assistance to U.S.

Editor,
Intelligencer.

Mr. Pearson is distressed that U Thant is quitting his post at the United Nations. U Thant claims as his reasons: "that the cruelty of his war and the suffering it has caused the people of Viet Nam are a constant reproach to the conscience of humanity . . . and that peace can be obtained only by the withdrawal for the Geneva Agreements and for the Charter of the UN." (Globe and Mail, Sept. 6, 1960).

Mr. Pearson intends asking U Thant to re-consider, but others have asked him to resign. Mr. P. should offer something cogerete; for instance:

1. That he (Mr. P.) is going instantly to implement his several-years-old election pledge to withdraw Canada from certain nuclear weapons now stored on Canadian soil out!

2. That he is going at once to stop the manufacture of helicopters, parts, and other war-weapons which are made in Canada and exported to the U.S. (How was peace-loving Mr. P. to know that the U.S. would trans-ship them to Viet Nam?)

3. That he is going at once to end the sales of the factory in Suffield, Sask., that is operating with the University of Pennsylvania in preparing germ warfare against the peasants of Viet Nam.

U Thant may appreciate acts more than words. Mr. Pearson will appreciate a Declaration of Independence.

Visitor From Arden Annoyed About Fine

Editor,
Intelligencer.

Would you be kind enough to allow me space in your paper I would like to air a grievance.

On September 1, 1960, at 3.30 p.m. I parked my car in your City on the north side of Bridge St. On going back to my car at 4.20, the police had a ticket on for illegal parking. On enquiring at the Police Station as to why, I was told there were signs "No Parking 3 to 6 p.m." at this point. On checking further I saw the sign up in the sky at least 20 feet above the top of my head! I wonder if the City Fathers know these signs are illegal.

If the City Council want it that bad why don't they furnish their police with guns to hold up motorists who stop to deal in their City and take their money, as in my opinion one steal is no worse than another.

Yours truly,
A. E. Hughes,
Arden, Ont.

It's not that much of a surprise to learn that a few people address other people is a revealing measurement oft the kind pecking order.

Still, it's comforting to know that someone — someone being this American social critic Mrs. Margaret Frisbey — has tidied up the lower fifty yours and reduced the whole misery business to a science.

It's not that we so comforting. Not, anyway, for the likes of us who consider life's work rewarding. Mrs. Frisbey, of course, says Mrs. Frisbey, this means we must be very ordinary and naturally great we will be called by our full names without the Mr. — George Washington is the example Mrs. Frisbey gives. And if we're the tops — an Einstein, Napoleon, Michelangelo, Caesar — the last name will do just dandy.

But she's established, we'd like to know the status of people whose names others can never get straight at all.

Modern Justice

Philadelphia Bulletin

In England, too, the courts are beginning to show more tolerance, they say, with changing times and new standards.

Margaret Rose Jones, a man 30 years of comunbial bliss with Frederick P., ran off with a wealthy and presentable tycoon. Frederick sued for alienation of affections, and a jover court awarded him $21,000 by way of balm for his bruised ego.

On appeal,the sum was reduced to $5,600, Lord Justice Diplock, sneaking for the bench, pointed out these are egalitarian and materialistic days. Far from receiving mere monetary solace from an opulent, attractive rival the injured husband should get more.

Had Mrs. P. eloped with a destitute rapscliter, the hurt to her husband's pride would probably have been far greater and he would have deserved a much larger amount of healing money.

The fact that he couldn't collect a farthing from the rapsicher, does not, of course, affect the justice of the award.

Let justice be done, even though Mr. Pritchard's heaven is burning a price tag of $21,000, and now she finds herself marked down to $5,600, a devaluation of some 73 percent. How about her feelings? She can't even sue anybody for depreciation of net worth.

Thursday's decline of 100 left brokers worried that the exchange is headed for a period of declining prices.

The industrial index Tuesday fell .74 to 146.39, its second consecutive daily drop.

B.C. Suffering Slowdown in Lumber Industry

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some men employed in the British Columbia lumber industry are being laid off and some small allied companies are closing because of a slowdown in the industry, officials said Tuesday.

Sales of B.C. lumber have slumped sharply in Canada and the United States because of a drop in housing starts and other factors. Prices for B.C. logs here have dropped between $5 and $7.50 per thousand.

The International Woodworkers of America, whose 30,000 members are employed in the industry, said at least 600 men had been laid off in the past two weeks and another 250 men would be out of work soon.

Meanwhile, the Truck Loggers' Association of B.C. called a news conference Tuesday to announce it was going to ask the provincial gogernment to cut its stumpage and royalty rates in an effort to ease a "serious situation."

President Bruce Welsh said at least nine member trucking firms had been forced to close down because of the glut of unsold B.C. logs.

He said his group also will ask Victoria for a moratorium on quota quilling requirements.

'CAUGHT IN SQUEEZE'

Peter Bentley, president of Canadian Forest Products Ltd., said his company is "caught in the price squeeze. Costs here continue to go up and prices—if you can sell—are going down. I'm not optimistic about an early solution."

He announced his company would close the sawmill at its nearby Eburne division because of a lack of lumber sales. About 250 men would be laid off, he said.

Meanwhile, Welwood of Canada Ltd., also announced it had laid off 100 men at two of its plants.

Canada Manpower Centres New Name of NES Offices

National Employment Service offices across Canada have changed their name and as of today become known as Canada Manpower Centres.

The new name arises from the fact that the federal employment service is now part of a new Department of Manpower and Immigration and accommodates the new image of an expanded and improved employment service.

Government officials say the new name more accurately reflects involvement with manpower programs that go far beyond the basic labor market activity of matching jobs and workers.

Plans call for increased emphasis on such labor market activities as counselling, training, labor force mobility, regrading, research and labor market information.

Must Appraise Leadership Says Camp

TORONTO (CP) — Dalton K. Camp, national president of the Progressive Conservative party, said Tuesday night the time has come for an appraisal of the party leadership.

Mr. Camp told the Toronto Junior Board of Trade there is "no more cogent or urgent a time" than now for an appraisal of the leadership being offered.

He said some political leaders feel "called to office by some supreme power rather than the voters." They considered their tenure "a matter between the leader and his maker, not between the leader and his supporters."

John Diefenbaker is the Conservative party's leader.

Mr. Camp said Canada faces a serious leadership crisis and there are strong doubts about whether either of the leaders of the two major parties have a mandate from party members, able.

Mr. Camp said his speech would be interpreted as "a malicious course" in some circles. However, he said, he bore no malice.

Mr. Camp starts a cross-Canada tour in Montreal today. His term expires in November but he declined to say whether he planned to seek another term.

QUINTE W.I.

2ND THURLOW — About 25 members and visitors of the Quinte W.I. met at the W.I. Hall on Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. J. Parroll in the chair.

Mrs. Douglas Atkins, convener of Canadian industries, arranged a tour of Mead John's son in Belleville, conducted by Mr. Lawless and Mr. Young.

Later all gathered at the hall where arrangements were made for transportation to the area convention at Peterborough, September 29 to 30. Lunch was served by Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Dorgee, Mrs. Parroll and Mrs. E. Vivian.

Store Manager Honored at Surprise Dinner

Recently a company dinner was held in honor of Mr. A. F. McCarthy, manager of the S. S. Kresge Company, Belleville on the occasion of his 40th anniversary with Kresge's.

Mr. McCarthy joined the staff of Kresge's in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1928 and since that time has been associated with the company in many cities both in Canada and the United States. Previous to his coming to Belleville over three years ago, the honored guest was manager of the Guelph store for 11 years.

The members of the Belleville staff and their families attended the surprise event held at the Maple Inn, Bloomfield.

During the course of the evening Mr. McCarthy was presented with an appropriately engraved silver tray by Mrs. Queenie Lancaster, a former employee now retired, who was assisted in the presentation by assistant manager Mr. M. Chisholm. Mrs. McCarthy was presented with a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. McCarthy expressed sincere appreciation for the party and gift; also thanked everyone for the kindness shown them since coming to Belleville.

Successful Living
Teenager Pleads for Responsible Parents

DEAR DORIS: I am a member of the Younger Generation and feel the same way as M.Y.G. My parents (namely my father) feel I am still the little seven year old and I'm now 18. I do go out for dates but they are kept completely under the supervision of my parents.

DORIS CLARE

I know that they only want the best for us so-called kids, but why won't they give us a chance to at least prove our own sense of what is right or wrong! As far as worrying about fresh drivers who are ready with a whistle — my mother even gets whistled at and nothing happens or comes of it.

Why are parents (in general) always ready to classify us with the rest of the group instead of trying to give us a little bit of grown-up responsibility? — WAITING FOR A CHANGE.

DEAR WAITING: Don't you think parents might turn the tables and ask why teens are always ready to classify all of them with the rest of the group?"

The very best parents know that raising a family means giving increasing responsibility — encouraging, trusting, praising. But also being there when the M.Y.G. stumbles — to pick her up!

DEAR DORIS: About the 15-year-old would-be baby sitter who likes to look after babies under one year: "Inexperienced" is the type of baby sitter I would have given my right arm for when I brought home my first child.

I think perhaps your reply, although basically right, could have been a little more positive. If "Inexperienced" were to place an ad in her local newspaper she would be swamped.

I do not feel 15 is too young to baby-sit, and the training courses she has taken show good sense and maturity. Also I don't think there are many young mothers who would just call up a baby sitter and leave the child. Mother and baby sitter should spend some time together.

"Inexperienced": Forget your cousin, get out and get your own business. Believe me, it is there just waiting for you. — WORKING MOTHER.

DEAR WORKING: Thank you. Certainly she shows serious interest by reading and taking instruction. Perhaps the cousin still sees her as the little girl she knew as a baby.

"Inexperienced" — are you taking heed?

DEAR LONESOME: It's an old, old refrain! At 16 Suzy exchanges heart-free romancing for the adult job of marriage and babies. Only to find out later what she is missing.

Other times it's Pappy who wants to gad. But your "Pappy" is six years readier to settle down than you are. Don't be scared stiff — or do something! Since you have a built-in baby sitter, try what a hobby can do.

There's a Y.W.C.A. where you are, with groups who are playing bridge, making fall hats, singing their way to good spirits. Get hold of their new program folder. Or make a big effort and catch up on the schooling you deserted in favor of a husband. Break away to a new world of interest and you'll enjoy your home more — believe it or not!

Honor Couple On 40th Anniversary

FRANKFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Farrar of Frankford, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary recently at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Farrar.

Home decorations included an attractive arrangement of white streamers and bells with lovely table arrangements of ruby and golden fall flowers with gladioli; red and white mums and green candles.

Mrs. Harold Mosier of Whitby and Mrs. Ada Patrick of Frankford poured tea. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Wayne Wyatt, Mrs. Vernon Wannamaker, Mrs. William Bruner, Mrs. Ronald Cooley, Mrs. Albert Enfield, Miss Vicki Wyatt and Miss Rhonda Farrar, granddaughter of the honored guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrar were married in Trenton, Sept. 8, 1926. Mrs. Edith Hardy, of Trenton, sister of the bride, and Mr. Joseph Potts, friend of the bridegroom and now living in Hamilton attended the couple. Unfortunately because of illness, neither attendant could be present.

Mr. Farrar's mother, Mrs. A. A. Farrar, now living in Frankford and Mrs. Farrar's mother, Mrs. Herbert Allison of Trenton were both present.

About 100 relatives and friends attended from Niagara Falls, Whitby, Brighton, Trenton, Stirling, Belleville, Kingston, Frankford and district.

Among the numerous beautiful gifts received were a chime clock, a ship wall plaque from the staff of Farrar's store, and a Bible from the Anglican Church.

Mr. Farrar presented his wife with a ruby and gold necklace and an earring set.

They also received many beautiful cards of congratulations.

WEDDING

COTTEN — CHAMBERS

Myra Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Chambers, R.R. 3, Madoc and James David Cotten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cotten, R.R. 3, Madoc, were united in marriage by Rev. David Potter in Trinity United Church, Madoc, recently. Mrs. Fred Bailey played the wedding music and the soloist was Mr. Harold Brintnall.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over peau d'ange, with a round neckline and elbow-length sleeves. A wide band of imported Swiss organza encircled the Empire waist and sleeves.

The bell skirt featured a detachable chapel train caught at the back of the waist. A circular headdress of organza petals enclosed with orange blossom buds held her four-tier silk organza scalloped veil worn over the face. She carried a crescent bouquet of red roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Douglas McGowan, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of seafoam silk organza over peau de faille with lace appliques at the rounded neckline and sleeves. The A-line skirt was emphasized with a detachable train centred at the back of the Empire waist. She carried a bouquet of wedding ring of matching material and she carried a bouquet of spun-gold and white daisies.

Miss Joy Cotten, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Lorna Fitzgerald, the bridesmaids, were dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Mr. Douglas McGowan attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Mr. Vincent Kehoe and Mr. Ross Chambers, brother of the bride. The bride's cousin, Carl Charsbers, was ring-bearer.

At the reception at the Oddfellows Hall, Mrs. Chambers received the guests, wearing a jade green dress of French crepe trimmed with Guipure lace, black accessories and a corsage of white cymbidium orchids. To assist, Mrs. Cotten chose a beige knitted suit trimmed with Swiss lace with black accessories and a corsage of bronze mums and autumn leaves. Aide in attendance was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. William Irwin of Eldorado, who wore a blue crepe dress with black accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

For her wedding trip to the United States, the bride donned a shimmy, tolce and grey oriental tweed suit with black and white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

On their return, the couple will live at 1279 Princess Street, Kingston.

TEST UNBORN BABIES

BROWN — BURKITT

St. George's Anglican Church, Hastings was the setting on Saturday, September 17th at 11 a.m., when darlene Blanche Burkitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Burkitt, Bonarlaw was united in marriage to Barry Frederick Brown son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Brown of Hastings. Rev. Robert Wilson performed the ceremony and wedding music was rendered by Mrs. D. Rutherford. Miss Sandra Bowles soloists Rev and Brenda Oliver.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length ivory satin gown with chapel bodice featuring a scooped neckline enhanced with lace appliques, and long fily-point sleeves. Tiny satin roses highlighted the full skirt and a flowing train accented the back of the dress. A tulle veil billowed from satin and organza rose headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of "Better Time" red roses.

The matron of honor Mrs. James McComb of Cameron Falls and the bridesmaids Mrs. Paul D'Eon, Toronto and Miss Veronica Dwyer of Peterborough were dressed in attendant shades of green and gold peau de soie A-line dresses with matching head bows. The little flower girl Miss Heather Walker of Campbellford wore a gold peau de soie Empire styled dress with matching bow headdress

Mr. Reg. Walker was groomsman, while the bride's brother, Mr. Brian Burkitt of Bonarlaw was the usher. The bride's nephew Master Randy McComb was ring-bearer and carried the rings on a heart shaped cushion.

At the reception in the Hastings Legion Hall, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a powder blue lace over silk dress with matching three-quarter length coat, and a corsage of pink tea roses. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a deep turquoise rib weave dress with matching jacket, feather hat, black accessories and a corsage of pink tea roses.

For the wedding trip by air from Toronto to Cleveland, Ohio, the bride chose a deep gold brocade dress and coat ensemble, black accessories and a lime green cymbidium orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside in Havelock.

Women's Institutes

MARMORA — Marmora branch of the Women's Institute resumed their meeting on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Sweet.

Mrs. J. E. Bisnger chaired the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. P. J. O'Neill. The secretary's report showed $10. had been donated to the centennial fund. A letter from the department confirming a short course in copper tooling was read. Former 4-H Club leaders' fee for period required for each 4-H unit was too long and many students lost interest.

Mrs. William Tinsdill, convener of Education and Health gave a paper which dealt with the training of the underprivileged and retarded. Two contests were played. One determining skill was won by Mrs. H. F. Naylor and a memory test game was won by Mrs. P. Gordon.

Mrs. Percy Gordon and Mrs. J. E. Belanger were appointed visitors to shut-ins with Mrs. Ida Nichol, a 92-year-old life member being especially mentioned for calls.

Bringing Up Baby
HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

I suppose almost every mother worries about thumb-sucking at one time or another.
But most experts agree that if not overdone, it's perfectly normal, rarely harmful. Things that may cut down excessive thumbsucking:
If a young baby sucks his thumb lustily, it should be that he needs more time at breast or bottle.
Teethers who suck their thumbs to soothe tender gums will get biting satisfaction from Gerber Teething Biscuits.
Toddlers can often be distracted from daydreaming with 2-way games or do-something toys.
Babyhood basic. All-age babies benefit from specially prepared cereals for the added food value they supply. Gerber Baby Cereals have added iron ... plus important B-vitamins—thiamine (B1), riboflavin (B2) and niacin. Gerber Cereals are also prepared with your baby's eating pleasure in mind. Flavors are pleasantly mild, the way babies prefer them . . . the texture extra-nice to the tongue. And they stir to smooth perfection in seconds . . . no way that way right down to the last satisfying spoonful.
Regulating idea. When your baby is ready to go on a 3-meals-a-day schedule, you'll find a change of scene or a bit of attention will help him wait out a half hour or so to meet his new schedule.
Babies are adaptable and will usually settle for attention if the wait isn't too long.
Growing ideas. Your baby gains more in height and weight the first year than the next two put together. That's why it's important to see that he gets plenty of protein foods . . . and the great protein-rich goodness of growth. Gerber Strained and Junior Meats are an excellent source of protein, extra-low in fat, easy as can be to digest. Made from selected, government-inspected cuts, they're packed in sparkling, slope-shouldered jars for easy spooning and convenient refrigeration of unused portions of the food. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

RICE AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

This rice dish is a pleasant surprise. It will be a change from your favorite macaroni and cheese for it calls for both cottage cheese and a Cheddar cheese topping with fresh tomatoes added for color and zip. It would be a centre of attraction on your buffet table when you start your Fall entertaining.

SAVORY RICE AND CHEESE CASSEROLE (serves 6):

¾ cup long grain raw rice
1½ cups boiling water
½ tsp. salt
¼ cup chopped green onion including green tops
½ cup creamy cottage cheese
¼ tsp. salt (second amount)
¼ cup milk
1 cup grated old Cheddar cheese or equivalent in paper thin slices
1 large tomato peeled and cut into 12 uniform wedges

Put the rice on to cook in a large saucepan with a snug-fitting cover, with the boiling water and first ½ tsp. salt. Bring to boil and without removing cover turn off heat for 5 min., then turn on heat to simmer and cook 25 min. longer or until rice is tender and all water is absorbed. With a fork gently stir into the rice the chopped onion, cottage cheese, salt and milk. Turn into large casserole. Arrange tomato wedgis in a long overlapping row down the centre or as an overlapping border around edge. Cover evenly with either grated or thinly sliced Cheddar cheese.

Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for one hour.

VARIATIONS:

1. If desired ¼ cup chopped raw or canned pimiento or chopped green pepper may be added when the green onions are added.

2. If you plan to serve this dish at a buffet supper for twelve people double the recipe and bake it in a very large shallow casserole or in two medium-sized casseroles. I recommend this dish highly and hope you will clip and add this recipe to your rice file.

REVIEWS OWN SUCCESS

WOLLATON, England (CP)—Cub reporter Daphne Oxland, 16, was sent by her newspaper to cover a Nottinghamshire village fete and ended up as gala beauty queen. "I enjoyed the thrill of being chosen," said Daphne, "but I found it embarrassing to write a report of my investiture as Miss Wollaton 1966."

A new savory rice dish is reminiscent of lasagna and macaroni and cheese for it calls for two kinds of cheese — one in and one on top. Make it now while tomatoes are plentiful to provide the colorful, flavorful topping.

Ann Landers

Coast to Coast Spelling Is Abominable

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the letter from the aunt who complained because her nephew's thank-you note contained many misspelled words. That child was only 10 years old, so there's some excuse for him, but you should see what I am running into!

I am an English teacher who moved to the west coast from the east coast. I am at once shocked and distressed to discover that the 10th graders in California cannot spell as well as the eighth graders I taught back in Massachusetts.

You, Ann Landers, receive letters from teen-agers from every state in the union. Will you please be good enough to tell me if you have noticed that the eastern teens spell much better than the western teens? Thank you. — MISS B.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR MISS B: I have noticed that the spelling of teen-agers and adults alike is frightful. And geography has nothing to do with it.

In today's mail a Boston University student wrote to complain that her boy friend "is taking her for granite." She is very upset because she just learned she is "pregnate." The very next letter was from a Santa Barbara high school freshman who was "fifteeh" years old. He was "greatful" for my advice.

So don't talk to me about spelling, Doll — Eastern or western.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed a letter from a woman who complained that whenever she got behind the wheel of the car her husband criticized her driving and made her feel like an idiot.

I recognize myself as the husband. Ever since the day I saw our children covered with blood amid the broken glass and twisted steel I have hated careless drivers. Consequently, I have a compulsion to call such drivers to the attention of whoever happens to be at the wheel. The moron who bit us on that unforgettable day said he didn't see the stop sign.

Driving on a freeway today is as hazardous as fighting in Viet Nam. Anyone who remains silent because he doesn't want to hurt the driver's feelings is not courteous — he's crazy. Thank you for letting me have my say! — T.C.

DEAR T.C.: I would not for a moment deny that your argument is a good one, but you are off a little on Viet Nam. The statisticians tell us that by 1970, 14,450 young adults will die in cars each year. This is four times the number of young lives we have lost so far in Viet Nam.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are two 15-year-old girls who went to ask you some questions on a very vital subject.

Do you know how bad your ears pierced is this true? How old were you when you had it done? Did you do it yourself? Did it hurt? What do you think of pierced ears for teen-agers? — S.N. and E.A.

DEAR S.N. and E.A.: It is true. My ears are pierced. I was 46 when I had it done — two years ago. No, I did not do it myself. I went to a physician. It did not hurt because I asked him to use novacaine. I think pierced ears are fine if you use your mother's approval — next year. Sixteen is just about right in my opinion.

Soviet Union Efficiency Has Quality All Its Own

MOSCOW (CP)—Efficiency is the Soviet Union has a quality all its own. It really means accomplishing the impossible.

Western residents here are constantly amazed at the agility and resourcefulness of various civil servants trying to do a job under adverse circumstances.

Take the girls at the U.S.S.R. foreign trade bank where most foreigners deal. Anytime you walk in there, you see a great amorphous crowd of people on the floor, representing most of the races and a good many of the nationalities under the sun.

The girls behind the counter seem literally swamped with work. Yet they manage, incredibly, to get it done—and with commendable dispatch.

Every transaction involves a frightening amount of paper work, done on the spot by the girl concerned. Papers fly back and forth from one teller to another. Each is carefully filled with documents of various descriptions, all in different stages of processing.

The customers, to a man, wear a look of apprehension, as though they might never see daylight again. Some actually look as though they have been sitting or standing in the bank for years, though appearances in this situation can be misleading.

There are no organized queues. If you're not used to pushing and shoving, you may find that a later arrival gets waited on ahead of you.

Customers argue with the girls, and sometimes the girls argue among themselves. But somehow they keep that fluid, faceless non-lineup of nervous people moving.

There's one girl there — a blonde of perhaps about 35— who must rank among the smoothest human machines that communism or any other system ever turned out. She handles two or three customers at a time, together with all the formidable paper chores connected with each, yet never misses a detail or loses her good humor.

A broadly similar situation obtains at the visa control office, where foreigners register and where both they and Russians have to be cleared for leaving the country. It is the place where foreigners go for permission to travel within the Soviet Union.

The handsome, blonde woman of about 40 who deals with foreigners is besieged by applicants of various kinds who come into her tiny office from two different doorways. She is also besieged by unending telephone calls, and by all manner of special problems, interruptions, appeals, pleas and arguments. Sometimes, during the busiest hours, passports are stacked in front of her.

Yet she maintains her equilibrium, and even her civility, and the anxious lineup outside her door steadily dwindles.

They wore sapphire blue floor-length peau de soie gowns trimmed with sapphire blue velvet, matching headpieces and they carried nosegays of yellow and white 'mums. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Candy Lohnes of Brighton, wore a white peau de soie floor-length gown trimmed with sapphire blue and a white headpiece. She carried a nosegay of yellow and white 'mums.

Mr. Larry McGee attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Mr. Terry Lohnes, Mr. Steven Urch and Mr. David Asselstine, all of Belleville.

At the reception at Club Canara, the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a sapphire blue and gold brocade sheath with matching hat, black accessories and a corsage of yellow 'mums. To assist the bridegroom's mother chose an antique gold brocade sheath with matching hat, black accessories and a corsage of white 'mums.

For her wedding trip to northern Ontario, the bride donned a cranberry red suit and matching hat, grey accessories and a corsage of white and red carnations.

On their return, the couple will live at 431 Bridge Street East, Belleville.

The Experts Say
People in East Canada Prefer Cider Vinegar

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Most of the vinegar sold in Canada is white, but in the East people like cider vinegar, possibly because their grandfathers did. In areas such as Victoria where the taste for things British is strong, malt vinegar is a favorite.

The Eastern preference for cider may be hand-me-down from pioneer days, when it was the easiest type of vinegar to come by.

When apples were pressed in the fall, at least one barrel of hard cider was left to ferment to become cider vinegar. That's what wine and cider vinegars are, a product of natural fermentation. They can be made from any kind of fruit that ferments.

All three varieties of vinegar begin with alcohol. The name vinegar is derived from the Latin words vin and aigre —wine and sour.

The sour is acetic acid, which is what makes vinegar useful as a food preservative and as a cleaning agent and which once gave it its reputation as a home remedy and preventive.

Jack Pirie, manager of public relations for H. J. Heinz, says the standard in Canada for acid content for household vinegar is five per cent.

There is a lingering belief that one type of vinegar is a better preserving agent than another, but for such purposes, the only real differences are in taste and in appearance when the vinegar is produced in controlled circumstances.

Malt vinegar is a dark, reddish brown in color. It begins with barley and malt and retains the flavor of malt through fermenting and aging processes.

White spirit vinegar is distilled from the fermenting mash of corn, rye and barley.

You can add to the number of vinegar flavors on your shelf by making herb vinegar at home.

Fill a quart mason jar two-thirds full of whatever herb you want to use. Press the herbs down. Boil a quart of either cider or malt vinegar and pour the hot vinegar over the herbs in the jar, leaving an inch at the top. Seal it tight. Let it stand in the sun for two weeks, shaking the jar once every day. Then put it in a cool place for a month. After the month, taste the vinegar. If it isn't strong enough, leave the herbs in the solution longer. If it tastes the way you want it, strain the herbs out and you have herb vinegar.

You can use vinegar and water for washing windows and for similar household chores. Wherever a mild acid solution would be an effective cleaner, you can probably use vinegar.

Devaluation Of Pound to Be Discussed

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters)—Britain's majority Liberal party today was set to begin its annual conference, which will deal with an unprecedented resolution calling for phased devaluation of the pound.

This will be the first time in modern political history that any of the country's three chief parties have openly discussed devaluation.

Some Liberals fear the debate, which comes up Friday, could be seen as harmful to the national interest and so hurt the party at the polls.

Other items expected to turn up during the four - day conference are NATO and another British action over white - ruled Rhodesia, possibly including the use of force.

Jo Grimonds' party, which has 12 members in the 630-member House of Commons, also is expected to call for cuts in government spending east of Suez.

ARRANGED NEW CREDITS

The debate on the pound will come a week after the Labor government arranged massive new international credits to back its determination to maintain the pound.

Christopher Layton, a leading Liberal economic expert who will move the resolution, expressed a conviction that the devaluation issue should not be "swept under the carpet."

Other Liberals, however, are known to doubt whether the issue should be raised at the conference. They believe the move could be tactically unwise at a time when party hopes are high for a fresh electoral revival.

In face of strong pressure from the ruling Labor and opposition Conservative parties, the Liberals were able to increase their representation in the Commons by two seats in the last general election.

Collective Farm Methods In Russia Strike Westerners As Primitive, Questionable

POLTAVA, Ukraine (AP)—You rub the soles of our shoes across a roller, soaked in disinfectant when you enter the Chotovo state farm here in the Ukraine.

The wheels of your car are doused with disinfectant.

You have to wear a white doctor's gown when you look at the pigs and cows.

This is a Soviet way of hindering the spread of foot and mouth disease, which has been plaguing the Soviet Union. It strikes Western experts as primitive and of questionable effectiveness, and in this it typifies many things in Soviet agriculture.

At the Chotovo state farm stands a statuy of Lenin. He was mainly interested in industry, and that in part explains the past neglect of agriculture in this country.

The director of the state farm, Semyon Pasechnikov, presents all kinds of statistics about the farm, which raises pigs, grows corn and serves as a cattle breeding station. It has 980 workers in two villages, covers 1,500 acres and made a profit last year of more than $200,000.

"Ninety-five per cent of our farm is mechanized," Paseschnikov says. He mentions 20 tractors and some 2 s milter pieces of equipment, parked in a compound.

What the 95 per cent figure means is not clear. It does not mean the intensive mechanization found on North American farms. Because of lack of mechanization, production on per farmer is low.

Total production also is low, relative to the people working in agriculture. About half the Soviet population is still on the farm, while in North America and Western Europe it's five to 25 per cent. It takes four Soviet farmers to do the work of one North American farmer.

You can drive for hours in the farm region around Poltava and not see a tractor or other piece of modern equipment. The state farm, for these parts, is truly highly mechanized.

This all goes back to Stalin, who concentrated on building up industry. Malenkov, Khrushchev and Brezhnev have tried to make up, but postwar reconstruction, armaments, cosmonauts and other things go; priority.

The farmer's turn is supposed to be coming under the new five-year plan which started this year. More tractors, more pay, along with organizational changes are meant to improve efficiency.

A state farm like Chotovo is the kind the government likes best. It is on the internal and theoretically will become the only kind of farm one far-off day.

But the collective farm is still found on more than half the land. On this the farmers get paid according to the income of their enterprise and like to work their private plots.

Brewery Union Now Seeking New Contract

TORONTO (CP)—The brewery union has asked Ontario breweries to negotiate a new and higher wage schedule more than a year before their current contract expires.

The request was made by the International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America, which represents 3,000 employees in breweries in southern Ontario.

The current agreement, which expires in December, 1967, gives employees an increase of 14 cents an hour Jan. 1, 1967, the last of three increases totaling 36 cents.

Other unions report pressure from the membership for wage increases in advance of the regular contract negotiations.

Members of the United Electrical Workers Union employed at Canada Wire and Cable Co. Ltd. in Toronto recently received increases of 20 and 30 cents an hour in excess of the five cents called for in their collective agreement.

A union official said the company was faced with departure of many employees to more highly paid jobs and agitation in the plant, including work to rule.

CITY'S DEAD AT NIGHT

The population of the City of London increases 8,210 per cent in the daytime to 400,200 from 3,000 permanent residents.

Mrs. Pearson Said Exerting Little Pressure

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson laughingly acknowledged Tuesday a little bit of wifely pressure for him to retire.

But he side-stepped questions at a press conference about his plans by referring reporters to Mrs. Pearson.

A reporter remarked that there'd been some talk about retirement while Mr. Pearson was in London for the Commonwealth prime ministers conference.

"You mean my wife has been speculating," Mr. Pearson said with a chuckle. He was referring to a London interview in which Mrs. Pearson expressed hopes that she and Mr. Pearson will travel when he retires. The prime minister turns 70 next April.

"I'll try to get Mrs. Pearson to have a press conference," Mr. Pearson added. "She has some very good ideas and at last she is beginning to talk so you'd better look out."

Mohole Becomes Nohole as Congress Shelves Drilling Project

WASHINGTON (CP) — Operation Mohole, the United States' plan to drill for the first time into the mysteries of the earth's core, has become "Operation Nohole."

Congress has shelved the proposed budget of $18,700,000 for the next phase—and apparently killed the whole project.

The red cause as the U.S. pushed on with its multi-billion-dollar space program which could land men on the moon as early as 1968. It was in effect another victory for the space addicts in the perpetual struggle here for federal funds.

It was another setback, too, for the view mockingly put a few years ago by a Professor Athelstan Spilhaus of the University of Minnesota that "the ocean's bottom is certainly as attractive as the moon's back side."

The U.S. is moving ahead under the ocean—for defence and future economic benefits—with research into its continental shelf. Growth of such work under a newly-established national council on marine resources and engineering development parallels that conducted in recent years at the west flank of the Canadian Arctic islands.

But Operation Mohole, conceived first in 1957, was aimed at the foundations of the soil from which men are preparing to advance ever farther into space.

From a huge platform stabilized by six motors, 120 miles northeast of Honolulu, drilling equipment was to have been lowered into nearly 15,000 feet of ocean to start a 13-inch hole through the earth's crust.

After 16,000 feet of drilling, it was hoped, the first evidence of the earth's core would have been brought to the human eye, as well as important new evidence of the rocks forming the crust around the earth's inner mantle.

But no actual drilling on the site ever started. In fact the drilling platform itself didn't get out of the planning stage.

Comrades Very Distrustful, All Russians Covet Locks

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP) — If there were such a thing as a private-enterprise lock salesman in the Soviet Union, he could make himself a bagful of money.

Locks are possibly the best-selling durable goods in the whole Soviet economy. Many Russians seem to have an obsession about them.

It's not uncommon to see three locks on a single apartment door and sometimes you see four.

The only possible conclusion to be drawn from this phenomenon is that Russians—at least the urban component of the population—tend to be distrustful of other Russians.

One of the most vivid recollections I have of my first days in Moscow, two years ago, is of stepping into a hardware store one day for a look around and noticing the brisk trade in locks.

It almost seemed as though there were a run on them.

I remember idly speculating that, in some vague way, that probably reflected a preoccupation with privacy among a citizenry only just starting to enjoy reasonably tolerable housing accommodation.

Now I know that the cause goes much deeper than that.

The Russians are noted for their inordinate suspicion of foreigners. Not so well known is the fact that they are also inordinately suspicious of one another.

FEAR BURGLARY

The vast amount of publicity given in the daily press to the problem of "hooliganism" only serves to intensify this built-in characteristic, of which the lock is a symbol.

Many Russians, rightly or wrongly, are scared to death of what would happen if they left their doors unlocked, even during the daytime when they are in their apartments.

When a Russian moves into a new apartment, he is handed the key to the door lock. The trouble is that every other apartment in the same block—and in any number of other blocks—has the same lock, which can be opened with the same key.

The potential for burglary is practically unlimited.

So the first thing the new tenant will do is rush out and buy another lock, or possibly two or three. The variety is limited, otherwise he might buy more.

He will proceed to have these extra locks installed on the door to augment the original one.

If at some time the man changes apartments, he will go through the same process all over again—on the theory that the previous tenant could come back with his key some night and rob the place.

As in most lines of goods, a foreign-made lock is held in much higher esteem than a Russian one. The owner of such a lock can sleep content knowing that nobody else has a key to fit it.

Salvage Crews Raise Sunken Submarine

HAMBURG (AP) — Salvage crews raised the sunken West German submarine Hai today and began to tow it under water to the Helgoland Island naval base.

A navy spokesman said the submarine was raised 30 feet from the Dogger Bank in the North Sea, where it sank last Wednesday in a violent storm. Only one of the 20 crew members survived.

The Hai was suspended 88 feet below the surface by two cables from a floating crane. The 130-mile tow to Helgoland was expected to take until Saturday.

'Bomber-Smugglers' Maintain U.S. Backed Sale to Portugal

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Jurors in a case involving a Canadian, an American and a Frenchman accused of conspiring to illegally export B-26 bombers to Portugal say they could not find the defendants guilty even if it meant admitting the United States might have two foreign policies, one public and one secret.

A lawyer for one of the defendants, John R. Hawke, 29, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., asked persons selected for the jury Tuesday if they could accept under these circumstances. They said they could.

The question was prompted by published reports quoting Hawke as saying he was arrested by U.S. treasury agents who were unaware that he was engaged in an operation backed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Hawke charged that the U.S. was unwilling to be revealed as aiding Portugal in the suppression of rebellious colonists in Angola and Mozambique, two African territories. The government has denied this.

A jury of 10 men and two women was selected after five hours of quizzing by lawyers for the defence and the government.

CHARGE WINNIPEG MAN

Besides Hawke, others charged are Woodrow Roderick, 47, a businessman from Winnipeg, and Henri de Motmarin, 58, a French importer now of New York City.

"We are not going to make Viet Nam a political issue," Representative Charles E. Goodell of New York told a press conference Tuesday. A Republican leaders commented on a white paper they issued Monday night, severely criticizing President Johnson's conduct of the Viet Nam war.

SET RECORD RIGHT

Goodell, who heads the House Republican committee on research and planning, said the white paper was an effort "to set the record straight" by putting together "factual information" for use during the campaign.

Later, in the midst of Democratic criticism on the house floor, Representative Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican conference, said "we have put our party before country."

He added that division among Democrats "has prolonged the war."

Democrats were quick to come to President Johnson's support.

The white paper, said Representative Ed Edmondson of Oklahoma, is "a piece of very obvious campaign political propaganda which offers nothing."

DISMISS SUIT

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A Supreme Court judge has dismissed a suit totalling close to $120,000 brought by four persons against the Ontario department of highways because a tree branch fell on a car along the main street of nearby Lambeth during a wind storm in May, 1964. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rarvicker of London were injured and Dale Judicker, also of London, suffered shock when the 55-foot limb struck the car.

Doctor Faces Tax Lien of $1,065,038

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A Buffalo doctor found asleep last July in an automobile with more than $100,000 in a sack and some weapons faces a $1,065,038 income-tax lien.

The Internal Revenue Service said Tuesday it filed the lien against Dr. Eric Pretas for income taxes for 1958 through 1965.

The federal agency also filed a precautionary lien July 19 for $101,870, the amount that was in the sack. That lien was for 1966 taxes, the agency said.

noted that the international corporation has become the characteristic business organization of our time. But although it has stepped across political boundaries to operate in numerous countries, "wherever free enterprise is welcome," there remains in every case a parent corporation, subject to the laws, policies and public opinion of the country in which it is incorporated.

The central problem, sometimes illustrated in the case of Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. companies, is "that foreign control leaves subsidiaries open to external influences which may not always be consistent with their own best interests or with those of the nation in which they operate."

DIFFICULTIES ARISE

The most serious difficulties could arise from conflicts of national law, as when a subsidiary company "is inhibited, or perhaps prevented," from making export sales permissible under Canadian law that are forbidden by U.S. law.

Martin said any such application "of the law of another country in Canada is unacceptable, as a violation of national sovereignty and as inconsistent with national integrity."

Boy Found Dead Beneath Water Tower

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — The body of 14-year-old Anthony Mitchell, son of a General Motors Corp. vice-president, was found Tuesday beneath a water tower in the Detroit suburb of Bloomfield Township.

Police said the youth, son of William Mitchell, GM vice-president in charge of styling, was found near his bicycle beneath the 50-foot tower.

A coroner's report indicated the boy died from a possible fall while climbing the tower.

Johnson Seeks 'Equality' For All French-Canadians

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Johnson called Tuesday for "equality" for the French-Canadian "nation" which he said is being restricted by geography and extends beyond Quebec province.

Addressing a news conference before a cabinet se lon, the premier said that when he speaks of "equality or independence" he seeks this for all French-speaking Canadians and not merely for Quebec.

Asked, however, whether he had the authority to speak for French-speaking Canadians outside the province, Mr. Johnson replied:

"It is true we do not have a mandate to speak in the name of the minorities. It is, however, necessary to create a new dynamism which will speak of the problems of French-Canadians and the French-Canadian minorities living outside Quebec are this dimension."

The premier did not explain how he intends to overcome the geographic problems of granting statehood or independence to French-speaking Canadians outside of Quebec.

Arriving at Laval University for a fund-raising dinner, the premier told students the French-Canadian nation has outgrown its inferiority complex..."It is for the coming generation that the government is now is fulfilling its responsibilities."

In two taped interviews to be broadcast by CFCF-TV in Montreal, the premier said he will continue to press for a new Canadian constitution and more tax money for the provinces. But he denied that this is a step toward an independent Quebec. Upset by some of the news reports during last week's federal-provincial fiscal conference in Ottawa, Mr. Johnson said there never was any intention of having a referendum on the issue of Quebec independence.

"I simply said that if there was to be such a referendum, probably 80 per cent of the population would vote in favor."

The premier said that if his Union Nationale government were given control over direct taxes and the joint programs to which it now contributes, such as family allowances and old-age pensions, the province would have a lever with which to negotiate a new constitution which would recognize the concept of two equal nations.

Mr. Johnson, defining this "equality," said that, for example, the French-Canadian nation should have "equality of decision" in the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

rejected the proposal.

The Viet Nam war and uncertainty as to what Thant will do cast long shadows over a smooth, harmonious opening of the assembly Tuesday.

The assembly elected as president Afghanistan's ambassador, Abdul Rahman Pazhwak, 57, by 112 votes to one, with four abstentions. He succeeds Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani of Italy

Pazhwak, a veteran diplomat and gun collector who has been a member of his country's UN delegation since 1948 and ambassador since 1958, made a strong statement of faith in the United Nations in his acceptance speech.

"Above all, the United Nations is a moral force, pressing home hourly its message of the new world order," he said. "It alone represents the aspirations of all the peoples of the world.

But he said he wanted to call the attention of the delegates, who included many foreign ministers, to the current war clouds that hang over "any gathering of nations concerned with the peace and security of the world."

Pazhwak said Thant has placed himself at the service of all peace moves and "I must humbly suggest that all the members of the assembly and the reasonable leaders of all nations leave their doors no less open."

Without dissent, the assembly admitted Guyana, the former colony of British Guiana in South America, as the 118th member country of the United Nations.

Guyana was sponsored by all the Commonwealth countries. Martin, speaking in support of the resolution, said Canada has "a special relationship with Guyana and the other Commonwealth countries and territories in the Caribbean" and is confident that "We can count on Guyana's representatives to make a positive and effective contribution to the deliberations of this international body."

New styling, improved ride and a long list of safety features are incorporated n the 1967 Ford which will be introduced to the public at Ford dealerships across Canada on Friday, Sept. 30. Taking direct aim at the medium-price car field, the 1967 Ford 4-door LTD Hardtop (shown here) features a vinyl covered roof and a host of new options that make it the most luxurious Ford ever offered. Three inches longer for 1967, sculptured side panels give the Ford a crisp, clean appearance. Engineering developments will make the new Ford even quieter and smoother riding.

Ford Raises Prices on 1967 Cars

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. said Tuesday its 1967 cars will carry higher price tags with new safety features accounting for much of the increase.

The Ford price boost averaged $25 or about one per cent, the company said.

General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors were expected to fall in line soon with similar boosts.

The Ford price announcement was a complicated one. The company made various items, optional on last year's cars, standard this time. To add to the confusion, some of 1966's standard items were made optional in 1967.

That made it a bit complicated for the average buyer to figure out the exact price tag on his new car but the simple truth appeared to be that he will pay more for a comparable car this year.

Ford said the price increases "are not sufficient to recover the continuing labor and material cost increase it has been experiencing."

TORONTO (CP) — Karl K. Brewarrige, president of American Motors (Canada), said Tuesday Canadians likely will have to pay between $50 and $100 more for 1967 cars than 1966 models.

At a press preview of new Rambler models, he said in his opinion new safety measures would necessitate the increases. He did not think there would be any narrowing of the differential between Canadian and United States cars.

Trenton Firm Will Build Addition to Hastings Manor

Hastings county council yesterday accepted the Trenton firm's tender for the addition at $422,197, the lowest of three tenders submitted. It is understood the successful bidder is prepared to commence work within a few days.

Total cost of the new addition, including $30,000 in architect's fees and $34,000 for furnishings, will be $486,186 of which the provincial government will pay 50 per cent, leaving $233,093 as the net cost to the county.

Of this amount the city of Belleville will pay $120,000 leaving a net cost to the county of $113,000.

PROCEED WITH PLANS

Council was told that plans were proceeding for the proposed new county home to be built in the north end of the county at Bancroft, and it was expected tenders would be called some time during December or early in the new year.

The county home committee headed by Dungannon reeve, Calvin White, will decide on the most advantageous time to call tenders, taking into consideration the amount of work in progress in the area and the possibility of market conditions improving with respect to financing.

County home superintendent Kenneth Yorke told councillors that the addition to Hastings Manor could not be completed too soon as the Manor waiting

285 NOW AT MANOR

At the present time there are 285 residents at the Manor of which 56 are from the city of Belleville. The city was said to have an extensive waiting list and the county's female section is full with applicants waiting admission.

Former Carlow Reeve, Gerald Caldwell, has been appointed assistant superintendent at Hastings Manor and when the Bancroft county home is completed will have charge of that building.

Mr. Caldwell's position as Carlow reeve is being filled by Mack Douglas, who yesterday attended his first session of County Council.

Extensive Road Work Being Done Says Report To County Council

Hastings Asphalt Ltd. of Belleville will do the hot mix paving for the Glen Miller development road running between 401 highway and the village of Frankford. The bid price for the contract was $49,385.

Grading for this stretch of development road was completed this summer and when the paving is finished the final stage of reconstruction will have been completed.

The award of the paving contract was made known to county council yesterday in its roads and bridges committee report read by Elzevir Reeve, Clayton McMurray.

The report also noted that the reconstruction of County Road No. 7 (the Shannonville Gravel) has now been completed with the exception of the north end where the reinstallation of some buildings is required.

Re - construction of Road No. 8 from Sprucedale westerly was said to have progressed rapidly and should be completed within two weeks' time.

Replacement of Parks' Creek Bridge is also well underway and it is expected the concrete deck will soon be poured.

Tenders have been called for the re - construction of 7.3 miles of Road No. 12 north of Madoc with bids to close September 28th. Construction is expected to commence shortly after the tender award, but because of the size of the project the work is not likely to be completed until well into next year.

The remaining three development roads The Cordova Road, Moulton Lane from Foxboro to Highway 37 and the Crookston Road, are all under design with surveyors engaged to prepare expropriation plans.

The county will request that roads 13 and 7-A from Marlbank to the Lennox and Addington boundary be designated as a development road.

At the request of the township of Thurlow, county council yesterday passed a speed limit by-law establishing a 35 mph limit on the section of county suburban road from Highway 14 to Canniton.

Since the last session of council, Mr. David Couch has been retained as assistant to the county engineer. Mr. Couch has had previous experience in the county engineer's office and also with consulting engineers.

Mr. Clarke P. Rollins, MLA for Hastings - East, spoke briefly to council, noting that a contract for grading, drainage and granular base for 5.02 miles on Highway 62 from Purdy to Combermere, the amount of the contract awarded to Smiuk Construction of Arnprior was for $620,945, with work scheduled to start on October 1st.

Born and educated in Birmingham, England, Col. Fisher joined the Canadian Red Cross Society in 1957 as assistant commissioner for the Quebec provincial division.

Col. Fisher served in the United Kingdom and in northwest Europe from 1941 to 1945. On his return to Canada in 1945 he served in Halifax in the Anti - Aircraft and Coast Artillery and in 1946 he was posted to Picton, Ont., to command the Royal Canadian School of Artillery.

He retired as commander of the Anti - Aircraft Command in St. Hubert, Que., in 1956 prior to joining the Red Cross Society.

Three Sought After Girl Kidnapped

MONTREAL (CP) — Police intensified a province - wide search Tuesday night for three men who kidnapped a 15-year-old girl on a downtown street Monday night, assaulted her and then abandoned her in the Quebec City suburb of Ste. Foy early Tuesday.

Chamber of Commerce Devises Job Opportunities Yardstick

MONTREAL (CP) — R. H. Keefler of Montreal, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, announced today that an economic program designed to measure job opportunities in Canadian communities will be made available to members of Boards of Trade and the chamber at the chamber's 37th annual meeting in Edmonton Oct. 2-5.

The program has been tested in three communities of varying size, nature and geographical location — Magog, Que.; St. Catharines, Ont.; and Watrous, Sask.

Mr. Keefler said representatives of the chamber in these pilot communities will report on the results of their job opportunity surveys and their plans for action programs at the opening session of the Edmonton meeting.

The program provides a formula for Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce to find out in their own communities job opportunities, educational needs and community services requirements and calls for specific action programs based on the data to spur growth and to meet the resulting challenges.

A manual describing the program emphasizes a forecast by the Economic Council of Canada which has stated that Canada will have to find 1,500,000 new jobs by 1970.

HALT MOBILE BROTHEL

LINZ, Austria (Reuters)—Austrian police said Wednesday they have closed down a mobile brothel they found operating in front of the provincial court building here. They said a man and his 24-year-old girl-friend had installed a couch in a small bus and toured several Austrian provincial capitals before being put out of business.

Liberal Head Defends U.S. In Viet Nam

By GEOFFREY WHITEHEAD

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters)—Shoots of "rubbish" and "nonsense" broke out at the opening session of the minority Liberal party's annual conference here today when its new president, Lord Hanley, defended American efforts for a Viet Nam ceasefire and attacked the Chinese.

The outburst came when Lord Hanley, in a keynote speech warning of the dangers of anti-Americanism, said: "All the efforts for a ceasefire in Viet Nam have come from the Americans and all have been frustrated, for their own reasons, by the Chinese."

If the U.S. were to withdraw from Viet Nam under circumstances of military or moral defeat, he warned, it would mean the whole of Asia was being abandoned to tyranny.

Speaking before one of the major debates of the four-day conference, on a resolution urging reform of NATO to give non-American allies more influence, Lord Hanley said: "Draw up a new NATO to fit new circumstances—but do not let us call heedlessly for its demolition in a fit of nihilism or anti-Americanism."

He added: "Can we continue to co-operate with America instead of doing what can only drive her in despair into isolation?"

'CABINET IS DIVIDED'

Lord Hanley claimed Prime Minister Wilson's cabinet was seriously divided over Viet Nam, the British role east of Suez, and Rhodesia.

He cautioned there was still the danger of a "sell-out" to Premier Ian Smith's breakaway Rhodesia regime, and said Britain's two chief parties—the ruling Labor party and opposition Conservatives—must not be allowed to promote a "disengagement in Africa."

Thinks He Saw Murder Suspect

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP)—Authorities investigating the slaying of Valerie Percy discloused today a possible lead volunteered by a Chicago cab driver.

Police said the driver, Lee Yancey, 44, told them a fare in his cab Sunday morning resembled a man in a published picture of a suspect sought for an attack on a young woman in Evanston. The man in the picture also is regarded by authorities as a possible suspect in the Percy case.

Valerie, 21, daughter of Republican Leader Charles H. Percy, was found stabbed and beaten to death in the bedroom of the family home in Kenilworth Sunday morning. Evanston, like Kenilworth, is a north shore suburb of Chicago.

Yancey told police he drove the man to Glencoe, also a north shore suburb.

Kenilworth police planned to drag Lake Michigan near the Percy home today to find possible clues. The murder weapon has not been found.

Meanwhile, a threat to murder Percy and other top Republicans came to light as investigators pressed their hunt for the killer.

The existence of the letter containing the threat to Percy and other politicians was revealed by Illinois State Senator W. Russell Arrington, of Evanston, Republican leader of the Senate.

The letter, mailed in May, threatened Percy and other political figures with a "one way ride."

Daley said he will question persons who applied for work in Percy's campaign to unseat Democratic Senator Paul Douglas; and who were not accepted. Daley said Pdrcy had rejected reports that he had barred several former campaign aides from the family home.

The Percy family and 300 relatives and friends attended a memorial service Tuesday for Valerie. Her body was cremated.

Cambodian Post Attacked By U.S. Claim

PNOM PENH (AP) — Cambodia charged today that two "American - Vietnamese" helicopters attacked a Cambodian provincial guard post Monday killing one person and wounding several others.

The alleged attack also caused heavy material damage, officials said. The reported incident occured in Kratie province, about 125 miles from Pnom Penh.

Hees Urges Tight Control of Stock Marts

KITCHENER (CP) — Federal initiative to tighten controls on the operation of stock exchanges was advocated Tuesday night by George Hees, Conservative MP for Northumberland and a former president of the Montreal Stock Exchange.

His said it would increase public confidence in the stock market and lead to increased investment in Canadian development projects.

"Discussions between the federal minister of finance and the provincial ministers responsible for security matters should start no later than this fall to decide what form of regulation is the most desirable," Mr. Hees said in a service club speech.

It could either be a federal commission, patterned on the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, or some federal agency that would work out uniform regulations for the provinces to administer.

Mr. Hees' said events of the last two years show that a uniform set of regulations is needed to ensure, among other things:

—Fuller and more frequent disclosure of the affairs of public companies;

—Elimination of "insider" trading;

—Elimination of "wash" sales which create a false impression of trading activity in a stock;

"Personally, I believe a Canadian securities and exchange commission, based on the American SEC, would be the most effective way of bringing in uniform regulations to eliminate weakness which recent events have shown to exist."

This would develop great public investment and make it unnecessary for the government to establish its proposed Canada Development Corp.

Surviving Siamese Twin Still in Critical Condition

TORONTO (CP) — Siamese twin Crystal Ann McGee remained in critical condition in the Hospital for Sick Children today following a 5½-hour operation Saturday.

The hospital said, however, that Crystal Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McGee of Guelph was "progressing satisfactorily."

Sherri Lee, her sister, died eight hours after the operation as a result of heart failure.

Doctors have described Crystal Ann as "constitutionally inadequate" based on a series of tests.

Crystal Ann is in an intensive care unit tended by a specially trained nurse. The temperature inside the incubator is warmed by radiated heat controlled automatically by a control tached to the baby's arm.

WATCH TEMPERATURE

Her internal temperature is watched constantly and another automatic machine counts the drops of glucose, salt and water going into the baby's body intravenously.

Her heartbeat is monitored by an electro - cardiograph which traces the beat on a chart.

The surviving nurse can be in instant touch with a team of intensive care specialists by a loudspeaker system.

The medical team, which performed the operation separating the girls, has been invited to tell a medical symposium on Siamese twins in Washington this winter of their experiences.

Hospital administrator John T. Law said the cost of the operation was probably between $50,000 and $75,000.

All work and preparations were done free by the hospital with no charge to the parents.

BRAMPTON (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McGee Sr., grandparents of the McGee Siamese twins, Tuesday thanked the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children on behalf of the infants' parents.

They said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McGee of Guelph, are too upset by the death of one twin after Saturday's separating operation "to say these things that need to be said."

A private funeral service for Sherri Lee will be held in Guelph today.

Wartime French Premier Dies

PARIS (CP)—Paul Reynaud, 87, premier of France in the early part of the Second World War, died at the American hospital here today.

His death followed an attack of appendicitis, hospital sources said.

Reynaud was a minister in several governments before and after the war but he was always remembered as the man who headed the government at the fall of France. He was a deputy in the National Assembly almost continuously from 1913 until 1962.

Reynaud, who brought Gen. Charles de Gaulle into his government as under-secretary of state for war in 1940, also helped shape the constitution of the present Fifth Republic.

But in recent years he became an outspoken critic of President de Gaulle's foreign policy, particularly his Atlantic Alliance policies.

Reynaud favored the return of de Gaulle to power in 1958.

Reynaud later charged that de Gaulle had violated his own constitution and broke with him. In the 1962 legislative elections, Reynaud was defeated by a Gaullist candidate.

In recent years he had written articles and books critigizing de Gaulle's foreign policy, especially his effort to draw closer of American influence.

Reynaud played a major role in the dramatic days of June, 1940, which saw France collapse under the German onslaught and culminated in Marshal Henri Philippe Petain's assumption of power.

the delay since he had repeatedly endorsed a 1967 start, even though some provinces raised objections.

Mr. Pearson said he hadn't talked with Mr. MacEachen since the delay was announced. The minister was on a previously-planned holiday but he would talk to him about it on his return. Mr. MacEachen had been reported on the verge of resignation at one point.

Mr. Pearson not only took some of the heat off Mr. Sharp, a top leadership contender to succeed the prime minister, over medicare and federal-provincial relations. He praised the finance minister for personally stepping in on a proposed steel-price increase.

Mr. Pearson said he was glad Mr. Sharp acted when he did—the prime minister was in London—and was successful in convincing the Steel Company of Canada to rescind the increases.

If circumstances again warranted, he would be ready to take "any necessary action that a head of government should take."

Mr. Pearson's press conference ranged over these subjects:

1. He expected to receive later this week the report of Mr. Justice Wishart Spence on the Gerda Munsinger sex and security inquiry. It would be made public without delay.

2. The federal government and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. officials were discussing possible changes in the company's proposal to build a gas pipeline to Eastern Canada via the United States. The cabinet previously vetoed U.S. routing of the line.

3. He he expects no cabinet changes before Parliament resumes.

4. He was pleased with by-election victories in Burin-Burgeo and Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador in Newfoundland and Nicolet-Yamaska in Quebec Monday.

He said he hopes soon to say something about a byelection to fill the remaining Commons vacancy in Hull, Que., where Liberal MP Alexis Caron died three weeks ago.

Canada

Power Commission staff Tuesday.

Boyd was asked also about the initial contract for Canadian gas which resulted in Americans paying less for the gas than Canadians did—or do. The contract still has some years to go and it helped lead to the formation in 1960 of the national energy board as a regulatory agent.

The price is 32 cents a thousand cubic feet and Boyd said if the same conditions had persisted, there would be no exports authorized by Canada. However, he suggested Canada will be governed in its evaluation of a fair selling price by what the federal power commission here judges to be in the American public interest.

'NOT AIMED AT EXPORTS'

He and commissioner examiner Harry Frazee also speculated that the recent surprise Canadian cabinet decision, rejecting Trans-Canada Pipe Line Co.'s plans for the U.S., were not aimed at restricting Canadian exports.

Trans-Canada had applied to build a second major supply line to Eastern Canada, via the U.S., expanding exports on route.

Frazee said it appears the Canadian government's primary concern is retaining authority over any major supply route to Eastern Canada. It wanted the line in Canada but there was an implied invitation in his mind for further exports

Boyd said he couldn't see the contention that El Paso gained in bargaining power just because the Trans-Canada application was rejected. There was no sudden surplus of Canadian gas consequently available.

Jack McGrath, perennial voice at these hearings for the coal industry, said El Paso dependence on Canadian supplies would lead to a situation in which three or more states suddenly were at Canada's mercy.

Boyd said he agreed to the extent that in 25 years El Paso will have to sit down to negotiate renewed Canadian supplies or else find alternate supplies. Now it makes more economic sense to back off Trans-Canada gas for use in expanding California markets by using Canadian gas to the north, he said.

MINE KILLS THREE

SAIGON (Reuters) — Three boys on their way to school were killed when one of them stepped on a Viet Cong mine Tuesday in Thua Thien province, about 400 m. northeast of Saigon, a government spokesman said.

Technician in Agricultural Dept. Proves Arctic Garden Is Possible

By JANE BECKER

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP)—On a three-quarter-acre hillside plot on the edge of town, P. H. Wills, a technician from the department of agriculture experimental station at Beaverlodge, Alta., expects to harvest a bushel of potatoes from a 60-foot row.

Cabbages are flourishing, and three crops of broccoli have already been cut. Tomatoes in a polyethylene greenhouse are turning red, while outside the tomatoes are growing on hot Mr. Wills has trouble keeping them down.

In a small square at the corner of the garden an array of petunias and pinks, African daisies and California poppies are blooming brightly.

The remarkable thing about this early August garden report is that the garden is 200 miles north of the Arctic Circle, dug into the permafrost which loses the soil around this Arctic community on the Mackenzie River delta.

Until now most people have been so skeptical of her northern growth possibilities — although natural growth is heavy, much like that of northern Alberta—that they haven't even tried to grow window boxes. Rev. Joseph Adern, the Roman Catholic parish priest, has the only other vegetable garden, in soil brought from 50 miles away.

But if the department of agriculture's three - year program works out, crops for commercial growing by native northerners will be developed for the first time. Northern living conditions, and perhaps the Mackenzie region's whole economic base, will be transformed.

Years ago agriculturists surveying the 1,000-mile-long Mackenzie River valley, which stretches from Fort Providence, at the western end of Great Slave Lake, to the Arctic Ocean, mapped 4,000,000 arable acres. In the 1820s and '30s many of the missions had gardens large enough to feed much of the surrounding community. Some kept cows and chickens.

But war, high-paying DEW Line jobs and an influx of salaried federal employees helped turn the post-war North into a cash-based region—with plenty of cash. With money available to pay for fresh products flown in from the south, agriculture in the North languished.

In the Hudson's Bay Co. store at Inuvik lettuce sells for 25 cents a head, potatoes are 22 cents a pound and milk concentrate is 40 cents a quart.

Some people can afford it. Most native northerners can't.

When Mr. Wills took his first pea crop to a school hostel at Inuvik in June the children didn't know how to get the peas from the pod.

"They thought all peas came in cans."

This year, the first of the agriculture project, Mr. Wills planted 35 varieties of vegetables, as well as grasses, grain and legumes. He used only a spade, rake and hoe, digging the vegetable garden by hand.

By August all but the carrots and onions were doing well. The onions had wilted from too much heat. With 24-hour sun, light, Arctic summers can be torrid. For a week this summer the temperature at Inuvik stayed above 70 degrees, difficult conditions for plants used to some shade and darkness.

"Until now no one thought a garden here would grow anything but cabbage and lettuce, potatoes and a few radishes," Mr. Wills said.

"That's the way people thought about northern Alberta in the '20s. Nearly everything is grown there today. If the same varieties were brought north in stages over about the next 10 years I think the same thing would happen in the Arctic.

"I don't think we've scratched the surface of what can be grown here."

If oats can be successfully grown for fodder, for instance—and Mr. Wills' outpatch was in bloom in August—it could lead to large - scale stock - raising, putting the Mackenzie area on a sound agricultural footing.

Eventually, Mr. Wills says he hopes to ask the northern affairs department to help the Eskimos get started on gardens.

It may not take long. After a notable lack of interest by most Inuvik residents this summer, Mr. Wills looked up from his rows one August afternoon to find two teen - age Eskimos. They asked him how they could start a garden.

"It made everything we've done worth while," he said.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

The stock-in-trade argument of anti-Yankees buffs is that the end of a brilliant Bronx Bombers era was brought about by the greater percentage (circa 1963-64) looking on the wine when it was rosy and the lights at their peak of brilliancy.

Be that as it may. If you walked into Jack Dempsey's Broadway restaurant any time after 11 p.m. these days you will see a glittering array of sports luminaries but few, if any, actively participating in athletics.

Consistent habitues of the night spots belonging to top baseball, football and basketball squads, have been weeded out — or changed their style of after-dark living.

True, high-spirited athletes of the modern era sometimes take time out to indulge in a few high jinks such as that pre-football player who on a wager playfully nipped the tender part of a waitress anatomy with his teeth. He may get sued, but after all, as one wag puts it "Every football player is supposed to go into action when he sees a high behind in motion."

Compared to baseball's present crop some of the oldtimers as far as hell-raising is concerned, would make King Arthur's Round Table charter members, as ruddy a gaggle of wimps and weaklings as ever swung a mace, look like a coterie of little white ribboners.

Take pint-size Rabbit Marsnville who would stand tipsily on Times Square arguing at midnight with a six-foot-four cabbie before the fight started.

Germany Schaefer once took his bat with him after clouting a homer, punctuating his round of the bases by raising the club to his shoulder, pointing it at the pitcher and shouting "Bang, bang, bang."

The famous Mike (Slide Kelly Slide) still celebrating after a night out once rode on the field astride a donkey and blowing a bugle.

A Washington coach once kept the convivial Babe Ruth out all night with a view to inspiring his batting eye. The Bambino was good for six hits which knocked the Senators plum out of the pennant race.

A reporter of the period once wrote about Kelly, "His inner love is ruby every minute of his life. In his style of free spending he took as thought of the morrow, His wealth, his strength, his stomach, his breath or his blarney he used each day as if they would be restored brand new in the morning."

Iron Man Joe McGinnity, the records say, liked to pitch both ends of a double-header. In one month he hurled three, drinking a pint of whisky between games. Rube Waddell and Oxy Freckenhost, his battery mate, were "boonin'" pals. Once Oxsy pulled the Rube out of a Jacksonville barber when Rube jumped in moaning an unrequited love.

One night the Rube returned to his hotel the worse for wear, and saw Connie Mack who told him to go to bed. Waddell approached the desk for his key pulled a handkerchief out of his pocket and a revolver fell out. It discharged and the bullet went into the wall over the desk clerk's head.

Another with a penchant for the grape was Bugs Raymond of McGraw's Giants. McGraw put a detective on Bugs' trail. Later the pair arrived at the park both stoned. Bugs went out and found a three hitter. Raymond once ran across Eighth Avenue to trade the bullpen ball for a pint of whisky.

On another occasion Raymond was confined to his hotel surrounded by McGraw guards to keep him sober. They finally caught him lowering an empty bucket out of the window to a confederate who filled it with beer.

But the playboys have passed. Today's baseball stars are more serious-minded. Fines and warnings are seldom necessary. Night games have played an important part in the after-dark lives of players. Then there is the pension plan. Not many want to risk losing later security by breaking training, getting management sore and having a lucrative career cut short.

But the old boys had their fun, played the game and few died broke. Babe Ruth acted lost a bankroll of $18,000, the proceeds of an exhibition performance. His comment, "So what, it's only money." Ty Cobb, one of the best, invested in a soft drink company and died worth between seven and eight million.

$100,000 Harriman Trot

Canadian Colts Entered

TONKERS, N.Y. (CP)—Three Canadian - owned two-year-old trotters face the best U.S.-owned colts and fillies in the $100,000 Harriman Trot Thursday night.

A 14-horse field was named at entry time and Canadian colts Hallifax Hanover, Harwood Boy and Drummond B.C. drew No. 8, 3 and 6 post positions.

Hallifax Hanover, owned by Armstrong brothers of Brampton, last week whipped some of the top colts he'll face Thursday in the Sep Falls Trot at Detroit's Hazel Park. The yearling has earned just under $45,000 this season and is bidding to become the Armstrong brothers' third successive two-year-old trotter to win more than $100,000 as a freshman harness horse.

Victory in the Harriman is worth $55,000 to the winner.

Harwood Boy, owned by Bill Ellerington and Sheridan Remington of Lucan, Ont., was third in a recent $25,000 freshman trot in New York and more recently was second in a feature event at St. Catharines.

Keith Waples of Victoria Harbour, Ont., the winning driver a 1963 in a $100,000 trot in New

Koufax Wins 25th; No-Hitter Elusive

★★★★★ Bucs Blank Giants

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sandy Koufax won his 25th game of the season Tuesday night and kept Los Angeles Dodgers 1½ games in front of Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League pennant race. But time is running out on him.

SANDY KOUFAX

He's gunning for a no-hitter to keep his one-a-year streak going.

Koufax allowed five hits Tuesday as the Dodgers swamped Philadelphia Phillies 14-1. The Pirates kept pace by downing San Francisco Giants 6-0, dumpling them five games behind the Dodgers and just about out of the running.

Koufax, who has lost eight games this year, tossed no-hitters against New York Mets in 1962, San Francisco in 1963 and Philadelphia in 1964 and a perfect game against Chicago Cubs last year.

He's scheduled to start no more than three more games before the Dodgers close out their schedule Oct. 2 at Philadelphia.

"I go out to pitch a no-hitter every game," Koufax said. "Of course that can't be, but after I allow one hit, then I shoot for a shutout."

The 30-year-old ace leads the majors in victories, in earned run average with a 1.76 mark, in complete games with 24 and in strikeouts with 320.

SLIP INTO FOURTH

In other games, Atlanta Braves slipped into fourth place by defeating St. Louis Cardinals 6-1, Cincinnati Reds topped Chicago 8-3 in 13 innings and New York blanked Houston Astros 3-0.

The Dodgers backed Koufax with a 16-hit attack led by Wes Parker, who drove in four runs with two singles and a grounder. Ron Fairly knocked in three runs with a bases-loaded double in a six-run outburst in the fifth inning.

Vernon Law scattered eight hits for the Pirates. Willie Stargell drove in two runs with a pair of singles while Donn Clendenon and Jesse Gonder also homered.

Eddie Mathews backed Tony Cloninger's fifteenth victory by driving in two runs with a single and a double. Mack Jones added two more for Atlanta's attack. The victory was the Braves' fourth in a row and 11th in the last 12 games.

Cincinnati defeated Chicago with three runs in the 13th inning. Leo Cardenas snapped a 3-3 tie with a run-scoring double and Gordy Coleman added a two-run single. The Cubs scored their three runs in the fifth, two on Ron Santo's bases - loaded single.

Ferguson Jenkins, a native of Chatham, Ont., started for the Cubs and was the hard-luck loser. Bob Shaw blanked the Astros on four hits the night before. But Harrelson garnered Fisher the only run he needed when he led off the game with a single, stole second and came home as Ed Bressoud singled.

Clobber Bobcats 16-9

Picton Had A "Soft Ball"

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Picton Kinamen at least had an excuse.

But the Bobcats didn't have a thing.

Picton outscored the 'Cats 16-9 in a comedy of errors at the Alemite last night in what was booked as the opening game of the Belleville and District Softball League Championship series.

The clubs have another go at it in Picton tonight and back at the Alemite Saturday in a home-and-home set. All games start at 8:00 p.m.

The Kinamen hadn't had a ball in their hands in a month while the Bobcats have been busy with OSAA and league playoffs. Some fans at the game might not believe it.

Picton scored in all but two innings while building a 16-2 lead going into the bottom of the ninth. They hammered the 'Cat pitchers for 16 hits, including four home runs, while Eldon Gray was stopping the losers on two singles.

Gray left his stuff on the bench in the bottom of the ninth, however, and the losers had their fans roaring for more by scoring seven runs off a walk and the final pair of the game's dozen bobbles.

Gray struck out nine to go with his eight - hit win. He walked but one and was in complete control, despite his club's seven errors, until the final frame.

The Bobcats' Clair Leahy started and gave way to Joe Barrons with the score 9-2 in the fifth inning. Barrons struck out seven and walked two, allowing exactly half of Picton's 16 assorted hits.

The losers were charged with five errors but mislodged two of the home runs and committed a half dozen mental misdues to aid the Picton cause.

Ron Weese slammed two home runs and Bob Gratz, driving in four runs, to pace the Picton slugfest. Warren Geisbrecht hit a homer and triple, Marve Stacey a home run and single, Leo St. Denis, Keith MacDonald, Frank Fowler and Eldon Gray two singles each. Forster drive home three runs, boosting his two for-four total. Picton 202 433 011 16-16-7

Not Eligible For Series

Birds' Rookie Tosses 2nd Shutout

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

As manager Hank Bauer leads Baltimore Orioles toward their first American League pennant, it becomes increasingly evident that he won't be able to use his most effective pitcher in the World Series.

That would be rookie Tom Phoebus, 24, the right - hander who pitched his second straight shutout in as many big league starts, blanking Kansas City Athletics Tuesday night.

The victory reduced the Orioles' magic number for clinching the pennant to three. Any combination of three Baltimore victories or losses by second place Detroit Tigers wraps it up for the Orioles.

Phoebus tied a major league record with the consecutive shutouts. He was called up from Rochester of the International League, but the lefty is ineligible for the World Series.

Phoebus helped Rochester to the IL pennant by striking out 207 batters in 200 innings. Rochester was eliminated in the playoffs.

In the only other American League game Tuesday, Cleveland Indians downed Minnesota Twins 4-3; Chicago at New York, Boston at Washington and California at Detroit were all rained out.

STRUCK OUT SEVEN

Phoebus pitched a five-hitter, striking out seven. The Orioles pitching staff has managed only four complete games since Aug. 1 and the youngster has two of them. Dave McNally, ace of the staff, has the other two.

Phoebus was brought up after the rosters went to a 40-man limit Sept. 1. He is ineligible to pitch in the Series because he was not on the Orioles' 36-man roster Aug. 31.

Frank Robinson gave Phoebus all the support he needed with his 47th home run, a perfect setup for a double play. Robinson also had a double and took over the lead in the batting race, breaking a tie with Minnesota's Tony Oliva.

Robinson, trying for the triple crown, leads Oliva by a single point, 312 to 311. The Orioles' outfielder has a wide lead in the home run and runs batted in races. He has 47 homers to Harmon Killebrew's 36 and has 104 RBI to Boog Powell's 100.

Lolo Tiant delivered a bases-loaded single, driving in two runs, and limited Minnesota to six hits as the Indians beat the Twins.

The Indians nicked Jim Perry for two runs without a hit in the first inning and Tiant went the distance for his 10th victory against as many losses.

Hall Still Out

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Money can't buy everything but Chicago Black Hawks are hoping to get goaltender Glenn Hall's signature on a contract in time for the approaching National Hockey League season.

Hall is still absent from the Black Hawk training camp which opened Monday in Chicago and manager Tommy Ivan said Tuesday a salary increase may induce the 11-year-old NHL veteran to change his mind about retiring.

EDDIE SHACK

Hall wrote a retirement letter to Ivan last spring and now owns a 16-acre farm just west of Edmonton.

"We have pretty well decided that if enough money was offered, Glenn might come back," said the goalie's wife Tuesday. "It's pretty expensive getting a farm started and the extra money would make it a lot easier."

But Hall was quoted by the Edmonton Journal Tuesday as saying he has made up his mind to retire because he is "just tired of hockey."

Hall, who will be 35 Oct. 3 turned professional with Detroit Red Wings in 1951 and six years later went to Chicago in a six - player trade. He has been a first or second-team all-star the last nine years.

In Peterborough, where Toronto Maple Leafs have been drifting since last Thursday, manager - coach Punch Imlach said Eddie Shack is back in his good books and will open the season with Toronto.

Imlach announced last month that Shack, a 26-goal man last season with the Leafs, was being shipped to the club's Victoria affiliate in the Western Hockey League.

"Everything is settled," said Imlach Tuesday after a 45-minute session with Shack. He said the left - winger will train with Tulsa Oilers of the Central Professional League and join the Leafs Oct. 12. Tulsa is also training in Peterborough.

Leaf defenceman Kent Douglas, who crashed into a goal post Monday, learned he has a partial separation of the shoulder with a bone chip floating loose.

Three of the remaining four NHL clubs continued training Tuesday. The Red Wings are working out in Detroit, New York Rangers in Kingston, Ont., and Boston Bruins in London, Ont., The Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, open workouts Friday in Montreal.

Sixty - one players were in the Ranger camp but Bob Plager was not present and Emile Francis, the club's general manager and coach, said the defenceman will be fined $100 a day until he reports. He said Plager was detained at home in Kapuskasing, Ont.

Right winger Bernie Geoffrion, out of retirement after two years as coach of Quebec Aces, and Rod Gilbert, playing with a brace on his back after undergoing a serious operation last season, starred in Tuesday's drills.

"The back feels real good," Gilbert said. "There is no pain at all."

Also on hand was Jean Ratelle who also underwent a back operation last winter and won't be on skates until November.

Bobby Orr, 18, a Bruin rookie from Parry Sound, Ont., drew praise during Tuesday workouts in London from Boston manager Milt Schmidt.

The 18 - year - old defenceman is up from Oshawa Generals of the Junior A Ontario Hockey Association.

Details of Orr's contract were not disclosed but reports placed it as high as $50,000 over two seasons.

Floyd Flops "Enery"

LONDON (AP) — Floyd Patterson says he is on his way back to another title fight with Cassius Clay, but first he wants a crack at Karl Mildenberger.

Patterson knocked out British champion Henry Cooper in the fourth round in London's Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

The former champion floored Cooper for a three count in the third round and then dropped him for a count of nine in the fourth before finishing off the Briton with a left-right combination.

"Every fight I have now I regard as one step towards another clash with Clay," Patterson said.

"I am now looking forward to a fight with Mildenberger. I think the winner of that one should have another title chance."

Clay stopped Mildenberger in the 12th round of their world title fight at Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 10.

Patterson said he is anxious to meet Clay again.

"Obviously I think I could beat him, or I wouldn't be carrying on like this," Patterson said.

Argos Meet Winnipeg Tonight

There'll Come A Day; Bombers All Set

WINNIPEG (CP) — Eagle Day, victim of what he describes as a "most mysterious situation," thinks he's as good as ever.

The Toronto quarterback will be out to prove it when the Argonauts face Winnipeg Blue Bombers in a Canadian Football League game tonight.

In five western conference seasons Day captured fifth place in the CFL's all time yards gained passing list. But Calgary Stampeders set him adrift last month.

Day's passing, good for 13,323 yards in six WFC seasons, promptly brought Toronto its first victory—34-14 over Edmonton Eskimos. However, the Argos lost 23-7 to Saskatchewan Roughriders, first in the WFC Sunday.

Day thinks people may be underestimating Argos, last in the Eastern Conference. "We're trying hard and we won't stay in last place. This team is going to surprise a lot of people."

Said Day of his Calgary departure:

"I knew there was an anti-Day faction but I thought as long as I was winning there was no way to get me out.

LIKE IS BETTER?

"Let's face it: was I beaten out of a job by Lisky?" (Former Argo quarterback Peter Liske, now Calgary's first-string signal - caller).

Day said he would like the Calgary club to explain after the season what was behind his departure.

"It was the most mysterious situation any football player was ever in, and I want the people to know. If said when I was sold to Toronto that it was a personal thing, and that's it." He didn't elaborate.

Seven Argos were hurt in Regina and most are on the doubtful list for tonight's kickoff.

Pullback Bob Swift is out for the season with a knee injury. Defensive halfback Dick Aldridge hurt his shoulder; Mike Wadsworth and John Vilmas banged up their ankles; Mario Marikul suffered a bad chest bruise, Billy Martin, Argos' eighth halfback this season, pulled a leg muscle and end Al Irwin got whacked on the knee.

Coach Bud Grant said he plans to strengthen the Winnipeg offensive line, primarily through harder practice.

The line blocked poorly, backs lost 37 yards rushing and the Bombers, third in the WFC, were set back 11-8 by Calgary Saturday night.

Brewer Looking For Job

TORONTO (CP) — Carl Brewer, former defenceman with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League said Tuesday night he has discussed job possibilities with The Albertan, a Calgary newspaper.

But the 27-year-old Brewer, seeking reinstatement as an amateur to play for Canada in the world hockey championships next March in Vienna, refused to indicate the type of job involved.

"I've been thinking about jobs in about 15 fields for the last two weeks," he said in an interview.

He said the Albertan job is indefinite.

Brewer recently completed a bachelor of arts degree at the University of Toronto. He also indicated he might continue his education.

Brewer said he still wants to play for Canada's national team.

A veteran of eight seasons in the NHL with the Leafs, Brewer was suspended last year when he walked out of Toronto's training camp.

In Calgary, Max Bell, owner of The Albertan, said he met Brewer about a month ago and discussed the possibility of Brewer "learning something about journalism."

Mr. Bell said no offer was made to Brewer and the player did not request such an opportunity.

Mike Burke Yankees Boss Man

NEW YORK (AP)—Dressed in a pinstripe suit and armed with Madison Ave. phrases, Mike Burke made his official debut as president of New York Yankees Tuesday and said the American League baseball club would not be sold or moved out of Yankee Stadium.

Burke, who will keep his eye on the Yankees for the Columbia Broadcasting System, also gave manager Ralph Houk a vote of confidence and said the club was considering three or four men for the general manager's job

But he said that "as a new kid on the block" he couldn't yet announce any concrete plans to return the last-place Yankees to the head of the class in the league.

Burke became top man in the Yankee organization Monday when Dan Topping resigned and sold his remaining 19 per cent holding in the club to CBS, giving the communications giant sole control of the team.

Women's Senior Golf

Two Top Tied In Opener

MONTEBELLO, Que (CP)—Mrs. J. Seawright of Toronto and Helen Rugh of Montreal each shot two under par 36 holes in the nine-hole opening round of the annual tournament of the Canadian Women's Senior Golf Association.

Tied with the leaders were Ada Mackenzie of Toronto and Mrs. H. Giles of Montreal, the latter being broken by retrogreen after both had completed the match.

Mrs. H. Garland of Toronto and Frances Sharpe of Ottawa recorded low net with 38 after grossing 47. Half the players' combined handicaps determined net scores.

Opening-day competition drew so many participants that tournament officials split the match into two sections with half the women teeing off from the 10th hole.

Twenty-four foursomes participated in the opening round, first of the three-day gathering of senior women players from Quebec, Ontario and New Brunswick.

The first round of the 36-hole medal play competition starts today. The final round of an 18-hole match is also expected to get a start today.

The second and final rounds of both tournaments will be played Thursday.

England's Surtees

Urges Safety Measure

TORONTO (CP)—One of the world's top drivers said Tuesday motor racing circuits could be made safer for competitors if angled roadside banks were reset into vertical walls—at least on tough corners.

John Surtees of England, only man ever to hold world championships in motorcycles and cars, is in Toronto for Saturday's Canadian Grand Prix at Mosport track, the event which nearly killed him last year.

"Don't iron out the bumps," he said at a press conference.

"Make the banks vertical to keep cars from projecting themselves farther when they do go off."

Practising for the 1965 Canadian Grand Prix, Surtees's Lola barrled from the track with a blown hub-carrier. It roared up the angled embankment and turned over. He was out of racing with injuries from last fall until May, 1966.

KNOWS THE BUMPS

Surtees said he knows the bumps in the track at St. Jovite, outside Montreal, where, two weeks ago, two cars became airborne and crashed, flipping over when they hit the bank.

"You can't slow down there because it's a critical point and governs your speed down the entire straight."

Surtees will be one of more than 40 top international drivers trying to qualify for the 30 starting positions in Saturday's race at Mosport, the track north of Toronto midway between Peterborough and Oshawa.

At stake is $30,000 in prize money plus points toward the Canadian - American Challenge Cup, a six-race competition for a total of $300,000 in awards.

Orioles Prefer Dodgers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Baltimore Orioles, three games away from their first American League pennant, have an obvious footing interest in the tight National League race.

The Orioles hope Los Angeles Dodgers prevail over San Francisco Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates. The reason is obvious: The Los Angeles park would be a larger share of World Series loot for the players to divide.

But Frank Robinson and Jim Miller, veteran Orioles and former National Leaguers, go one step further. They believe the Dodgers would be easier to beat despite pitching ace Sandy Koufax and their demoralizing speed.

"I'd rather take my chances with Los Angeles," Robinson said after the Orioles defeated Kansas City Athletics 4-0 Tuesday night and reduced to three their magic number for clinching the pennant.

"I feel our pitchers have a better chance of holding the Dodgers than either the Pirates or Giants," Robinson said, "and our hitters should be able to score enough runs to overcome their offense."

Miller, Baltimore's relief specialist, figures the Orioles could win a close game against the Dodgers with extra batting power.

"They have the edge in speed and base running," Miller said, "but a two-run homer more than offsets two stolen bases."

A Canadian At The Games

Jamaica, A Jewel Of The Carribean

By KEN CARR-BRAIDT

(Ed note: Mr. Carr-Braidt owner and coach of the Belleville Apollo Barbell Club is right as one of Canada's outstanding weightlifting coaches. He was selected to head the national team which took part in the Commonwealth Games held in Kingston, Jamaica last week. Following is the story of his experiences.)

KEN CARR-BRAINT

There was an air of excitement at the Skyline Hotel near Malton Airport, all through the day of July 29th as members of the British Empire Games team began to assemble there. From all over Canada they came from Vancouver Island to Nova Scotia.

We were issued with our uniforms and clothes that evening and given all our various instructions.

The next morning we were taken by buses to the airport. We were scheduled to leave at 10 a.m., but because of the time photographs were taken and goodbyes said it was 10.30 a.m. before we were on the runway in a DC8 Jet. There were 130 people aboard, athletes and officials that completed Canada's entry to the British Empire Games.

We had a beautiful flight, and the sky was so clear that we could see Cuba below us as clear as a photograph, plus innumerable small islands in the Caribbean. The sea was green like a jewel and quite calm for — you could see the sand bottom for miles.

Finally Jamaica was in sight. It is a very mountainous country surrounded by coastal plains and beautiful white beaches.

Our descent was very s l o w and we flew the last 100 miles or more on the lee side of the island getting so close to it, I thought we wouldn't make the mountains. Then all of a sudden we landed on a narrow strip of land jutting out to sea to form the runway of Petiaken airport.

The temperature in the plane was 70 — very comfortable, but as we stepped out into the Jamaican sunshine it was like stepping into a steam bath with all your clothes on. The thermometer showed 110 in the sun and the humidity was 91 percent.

We were taken by three buses loads to the games village about 600 feet above sea level. The village was situated at the University of the West Indies six miles from downtown Kingston and 5½ miles from the National Stadium where most of the events took place.

The Canadian team was given the Taylor Hall, one of the blocks of buildings in the campus which was a three storey building, very shady and nice, with two beds to each room. It was hall that held 200 people at a sitting took care of about 300 of the athletes. There was also a nursery in the hall, and it was all very highly spiced. For drinking, we had our choice of orange, apple and pineapple juice which was available 24 hours a day in steel pots on each of the floors. There was delicious.

The opening ceremony t o o k place on August 4th at nine in the evening. It took 30 buses to transport the more than 1,200 athletes to the stadium.

I've never seen a more monstrous traffic jam than occurred that evening. We left at 6 p.m., and it took us 2 hours to go 3½ miles. We spread out in a big field outside the stadium and then grouped as a countries behind the flag bearer ready for the parade. Finally they started, each country in alphabetical order, down a ramp and into the stadium. The roar of the crowd was almost deafening, 30,000 people filled the stadium to capacity. Around the track we marched with applause and cheers all the way.

About half way round on a raised dais, Prince Philip was taking the salute, the flag was lowered to half way as we passed him, and all heads turned right. It's a poignant moment when bright a lump in your throat. We carry on around and line up on the green grass beside the team from British Honduras and still the teams are coming into the stadium. What a magnificent sight. The English navy blue and white, the Nigerian in gold colored robes, the Indians and Pakistans in turbans and robes of pale blue and gold, and the Australians in green and beige — a kaleidescope of color; we are all lined up then — silence.

The Duke gives us his message of greeting on behalf of the Queen, and then the national flags high up in the stands, s i n g s a song of welcome, the Commonwealth Games Flag is raised and the games are officially o p e n.

We march out of the stadium and back to the waiting buses.

Almost immediately the next day the competitions begin. Because of the complexity of the games it is almost impossible for an official to keep track of what is happening each day, and even if you are a tourist you want to watch the events you have to pick the events you want to watch from the time table, as so much is going on at once. In the stadium all of the track and field events are held, also cycling and boxing. Across the road from the stadium the s w i m m i n g and diving takes place, next door in Convention Hall is wrestling and fencing.

And in downtown Kingston in a very antiquated old opera house, the type with three tiers of balconies, the weightlifting competitions are conducted. The weightlifting was held over a period of five days with two bodyweight classes most days. We were told the temperature was a high of about 85 at best, but on checking I found it to be in the theatre which was air conditioned. I never sweat so much in my life and I'm only coaching, not competing. That one thing that is pretty consistent in all sports in games such as these is the tension. You want very badly to win for your country, yet you have to be very careful not to get carried away and attempt the impossible. And a lot of the smaller countries without enough officials to watch them, do just that, and pass up a chance of being in the first three.

Our bantam weight lifter Chun Hun Chun placed third for a bronze medal, our lightweight, Marcel Bedard placed fifth with very slim lifting. The middleweight class was the big one for us. Our lifter, Pierre St. Jean from Montreal started a very cautiously in the Press with 220 lbs. and finally succeeded with 270 lbs. and Horace Johnson from Wales did 281 lbs.

So going into the Snatch lift, Horace was 11 pounds behind, but Pierre's wonderful ability in this lift brought him out ahead.

The clean and jerk saw us taking a careful 320 lbs. which is easy for him, then 340 lbs. to win the gold medal. His total was 382 lbs. and we knew nobody could catch him.

It was a proud moment to see Pierre step up on the victory platform to receive the g o l d medal, and hear Canada's national anthem played for the first time.

In the lightheavy and h e a v y classes our lifters placed fifth and fourth respectively and couldn't quite make it to third place. Whenever we had time and the competitions still going on at the stadium, we would go and give our verbal support to our men and women athletes.

We watched Dave Steen win a gold medal in shotputting, Abigail Hoffman win the 220 yds. sprint, and Harry Jerome the 100 yds. dash by the skin of his teeth; we also witnessed some of the disappointments when our favorites lost.

We saw a little of Jamaica on the buses, such as the Blue Mountains where they grow the finest coffee beans in the world, the beach at Ocho Rios that has nothing but black sand for miles, and the straw market in Kingston where you can buy almost any conceivable object made of straw.

The closing ceremony in which I took part as a spectator, was very impressive.

A parade was formed, headed by the Jamaican militia, precision marching in beautiful linen, and behind them all the medalists from all the countries.

There were songs by men and womens choirs which ended with Harry Belafonte singing the Jamaican Farewell, which we know better as Kingston Town sung by Harry Belafonte.

The scoreboard was lit up and said, "Farewell, see you in Scotland in 1970, we hope you enjoyed your stay in Jamaica."

And I must say we did. I'll carry the memory with me for the rest of my life.

Letter to the Sports Editor

Seeing as registration time is not so far away for the Belleville Minor Hockey Association for another season, this might be a good time to make everyone aware of our program.

Due to the city's continued expansion, and the fact that we graduate approximately 75 Tykes each year, we feel that this year's registration will be pretty close to 1,000 boys.

Two changes that were made to the constitution last spring, we feel the parents should be made aware of:

(1) To prevent dental injury, mouth guards which attach to the helmet are now compulsory.

(2) No team except in the case of emergency will consist of more than eighteen (18) players.

Hockey, as we all know, is a competitive sport, and to be competitive, all players must be relatively equal. To this end, last season we issued a rating system whereby at the end of the season, each coach would rate his players.

This year season, each of the novice, peewee and bantam leagues will be divided into two divisions, and after some, depending on number of teams 8-10-12. Every fourth, fifth or sixth game will be classified as an instructional period, where the boys will be taught the fundamentals. We don't feel it is enough any longer just to provide time for the boys to play hockey, and it wasn't possible for the coaches to try to teach a large number of boys anymore in the space of 50 minutes.

It has to be appreciated that to conduct such a program, it will be necessary for us to recruit as many adult coaches as players as possible, both to act as full time coaches or part time monthly instructors. Not everybody has the fact that skating is the basic fundamental of hockey, skating instructors too will have to be found.

When considering our ice requirements for this season, we have been somewhat at a loss as to how many teams there will be

Greta Garbo Films Attract Large Crowds at Festival

In the following story, the last of a three-part series, movie columnist Bob Thomas tells of the success of Garbo's films in art houses today.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Garbo revisited—

The thing you notice first is the voice, surprisingly unaccented despite the longtime caricatures of "ay tank ay go home" and "ay vant to be alone." The range is remarkable, from a throaty laugh to a shrill cry.

Then there is the face. It has amazing elasticity as well as loveliness; the expressions are ever changing to reveal the darting emotions of a woman in love.

This is Greta Garbo in Camille, the film that most critics consider her best. She made it in 1936 and was nominated for an academy award but it went to Luise Rainer of The Great Ziegfeld.

The Garbo art is currently available to fans not merely on television sets, but on the theatre screen, which is the best way to see her—only in the enormous closeups can you capture her real magic.

ELATED AT SHOWINGS

"The last three weeks have been the best in the history of the theatre," reports Bob Laemmle, member of the family that owns two California theatres which have been showing a Garbo festival.

"Not only have the Garbo films been attracting the regular film buffs who come out to see foreign films; we are also getting a smattering of older people who want to see Garbo for nostalgic reasons."

The series is offering Mata Hari (1932), Ninotchka (1939), Anna Karenina (1935), and Garbo's first talkie, Anna Christie (1930).

How can a star remain box office 25 years after she made her last movie (Two - Faced Woman)? The answer can be found only by watching her performance on the screen — the big screen.

Her appeal lies not only in her beauty — Marlene Dietrich was also beautiful, but never impressive as an actress. Nor was acting alone Garbo's major asset. Rather it was that faintly indefinable quality of which stars are made.

TRAINED IN SILENTS

Garbo was trained in the silents, an art form that required performers to interpret emotions with their faces, without the aid of audible words and sound.

Her face is ever alive. Her eyes express her feelings before she speaks the dialogue.

Viewing Garbo on the screen gives rise to the question: If she were now at the peak of her beauty and dramatic power, could she succeed in today's movie world?

Probably not. She belonged to another gentler era in films, when producers fashioned romantic vehicles for the top female stars. Today it's a man's world, and movies probably would find no place for the fragile, enduring talent of Greta Garbo.

ABC's 'Combat' in Color Still Good TV Viewing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — That weary combat infantryman, Sgt. Saunders, is starting his fifth year of fighting the Germans, apparently without a change of uniform or helmet. But despite wars and families by, ABC's Combat remains the best television series of its genre.

This season the show has moved into color, which does not really add much of a new dimension, but its change of locale has. Combat has moved to a new studio and the location shots—including the rubble of city buildings — are a change from the back - lot locations which were getting to be as familiar as Gunsmoke's main street.

The story Tuesday night was typical of the series—the carrying out of a night assignment. The job was to blow up a bridge, and the episode was filmed with attention to detail, with considerable realism, but most of the emphasis on the characters and relationships of the men.

In this case it was Saunders, so well played by Vic Morrow, having trouble handling four soldiers who were on their way behind the lines to face courts martial.

ONE IN FAVORITE

After constant exposure to so many new shows during the last few weeks, it was a relief to tune in on an old favorite. The reaction was the same to CBS' Red Skelton Show, firmly established in viewers' affections after 13 seasons.

Skelton is a funny, engaging man, even when his material is pretty thin as it was Tuesday night during a sketch with Mickey Rooney. One thing often overlooked in the hour are the delightful singing and dancing numbers and the handsome, imaginative sets.

Skelton's show was probably taped early in August, since the comedian's monologue had a string of wisecracks about the Johnson - Nugent White House Wedding. Comedians weeks ago fished the last laughs out of that subject.

STYLISH WINS ROLE

Sylvia Feigel, blonde star of Eric Nicol's Like Father, Like Fun, will play a leading role in the CBC's TV series Hatch's Mill.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for 1 oz ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of ugly fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried the plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More vim, youthful appearing and active.

Confederation Pageant Thoroughly Enjoyed

PICTON (Staff) — Well over five-hundred attended the "Lanies of the Provinces Confederation Parade" at the collegiate auditorium last night to witness one of the finest pageants seen in this area in some time. Even the many men, who were present appeared to enjoy this historic fashion show. It was like stepping back into the past, one man was heard to say. The show which lasted well over one hour included the most authentic costumes of the confederation period and each province was represented. One of the most amusing highlights was the "Cousin" Lennox poem depicting the dances hall girls of the Yukon. Shown by Miss Margaret Collings, who read her part admirably, she nearly brought the house down with her impression of the Gold Rush girls.

The group of ladies arrived late in the afternoon and were guests at a tea provided at Picton's Royal Hotel, by Mayor H. J. McFarland. Those who on hand to greet them and officially welcome them to Picton. Their first performance of the tour was in Ottawa on Monday where they played to a packed house which included the Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker and other prominent Ottawa people. Picton feels fortunate to have been the only town of its size in the area to host this show and the group goes on from here to Peterborough) and the sponsoring ladies of the Picton Chapter of the IODE did a fine job in providing such a fine evening.

County Fair Ready to Open On Thursday

PICTON (Staff) — Picton's big event of the year swings open the gates for the "County Fair" Thursday night and continues until Saturday night at midnight. On Friday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. the opening parade will move off from the market square with the Sidney Street RCAF band. The Odd Fellows' band and the RCAF pipers will also parade in the fair grounds where Warden Harold Boster will officially open the fair.

Many fine attractions will be seen this year and the days will be jammed packed with events for everyone, young and old. March midway will supply the rides for the enjoyment of those who prefer to spend time in some of the fair's excitement. Others will see, in front of the grandstand, a daredevil car show. The annual event will wind up on Saturday night with a variety show featuring with Doc Williams and group from Wheeling, West Virginia. This show has drawn thousands to Picton fair for each of their performances during the past three years.

New Building To House OPP Under Way

PICTON (STAFF) — On Picton's West end near Sharpe Motors on the outskirts of the town a new home for Picton's Ontario Provincial Police is under way.

The new building, being constructed by Picton businessman, Sam Genilie, will be a welcome addition to the Town's and the county's facilities.

The building will be leased to the OPP, who have for some time occupied cramped quarters in the County Building.

The building, with white roof, will be constructed of red brick with stone pillars. It will be 82 feet long by 32.7 wide and will contain a two - car garage, three offices, reception room, general business office, two washrooms, lunch room and receiving and storage rooms for goods delivered. Steel cells are being installed and the building will be sound proof and electrically heated.

Adjacent to the highway the new building will be well landscaped and will have to parklike effect. Plans for the construction work on the building is being done locally according to the owner Mr. Sam Genilie.

Judge Orders Court Of Existence

BRANTFORD (CP)—The Ontario Supreme Court, after a brief, uncontested trial Tuesday, fined the Brant County Dump Truck Owners and Operators Association $1,000 and ordered the organization out of existence on a charge of conspiring to fix sand and gravel hauling prices.

In a similar action earlier in the day, a jury acquitted Cecil Shaver of Brantford and David Falls of Galt on charges of conspiring to prevent or lessen competition and under the federal Combines Investigation Act.

Following the acquittal, William Z. Estey, special Crown prosecutor, indicated he would not present evidence against four other truckers originally charged with similar offences. Mr. Justice W. D. Parker then ordered the charges against Horace Frend, alias James Hamelin of Toronto; Earl Maguire of Scotland, Ont.; George McMillan and George Brennan, both of Brantford.

The charges against the truckers' association was heard by Mr. Justice Parker alone following a jury trial. The association offered no defence and was not represented in court.

Size of Lots and Houses In Designated Residential Areas Chief Objections

AMELIASBURG — The township Planning Board meeting here during the weekend studied 14 current objections to the proposed zoning bylaw. The members acknowledged the complaints in each case and forwarded their opinions pertaining to the objections to the Ontario Municipal Board. The OMB is considering the Amelasburg's council's application for approval of a zoning bylaw pursuant to Section 30 of the Planning Act.

Objections in the main were directed against the planning consultant's recommendation for the size of lots and houses in areas designated "residential". Township clerk William Nightingale, said one objector appealed for planners to reconsider zoning of the township around the hamlet of Gardenville. The board was asked to reverse its accord with the consultant's recommendation in this connection. The letter from this dissatisfied property owner pointed out the land would be "sorely missed since it was already staked". board was asked to reverse its Zoning affecting the residential areas as proposed by planners calls for lots 15,000 square feet in size in R-1 zones established in and adjacent to the various township villages. There are some exceptions to the rule covering property on both sides of the Redmersville Road between Rossmore and Carrying Place well outside the confines of municipal boundaries. In the R-2 areas lot sizes have been set at 30,000 square feet a proposal that has generated controversy since zoning was introduced.

AREAS CRITICIZED

Perhaps opponents of zoning voice strongest criticism to the proposal for residential development in areas designated agricultural. Minimum lot frontages of 125 feet with a minimum lot area of one acre. The argument against holds that residential is residential regardless of the location of the land. In the R-1 and R-2 areas minimum lot frontages have been set at 100 feet.

Another regulation that has been questioned is the minimum requirement for ground floor area in residential building. In Agricultural and R-2 areas, 1,200 square feet is the minimum laid down for a one storey building. On the other hand the ground floor area specified for one storey construction in the R-1 area is 900 square feet—one third less. Lot area requirements are somewhat smaller than in the other two residential categories.

As it stands now the OMB considers council's application and the objections to it before deciding the next course or action. If a hearing is ordered persons who have filed an objection will be notified well in advance.

Five Arrested For Burning Bowery Drifter

NEW YORK (AP) — Five boys, all under 16, were under arrest today in connection with the burning of a Bowery drifter Monday.

The five, including one 12-year-old and another 14, were charged with juvenile delinquency with the specification of felonious assault. Their names were not disclosed.

Leonard Benton, 51, was found lying in a doorway on Mercer Street in lower Manhattan Monday, his body severely burned. He told police teen-age boys had doused him with kerosene and set him aflame.

The incident took place only three days after Frank Cassidy, 67, was turned into a human torch in the same area. Both men were reported in critical condition in hospital.

A third man, William Clark, told police boys poured a flammable liquid on him Friday and set him afire. He was not seriously injured, police said.

Vigilantes Patrol Village

PORT CHICAGO, Conn. (AP) Gun-slinging vigilantes are on nightly patrol in the small community of Clyde where they say they must protect themselves against anti-Viet Nam war demonstrators who picket the Port Chicago naval weapons depot. Sixty peace demonstrators have been arrested.

Newspaper and television reporters have been attacked by the vigilantes, it was reported.

The vigilantes carry rifles and shotguns and some wear handguns on their hips, police said Tuesday.

The demonstrators rented a house in Clyde as a headquarters for their protests at Port Chicago, northeast of San Francisco, a shipping point for Viet Nam munitions.

Sheriff's Capt. H. E. Hobert of Contra Costa County said the vigilante patrols have numbered up to 10 men and he added: "We don't like the situation at all. Somebody might get hurt. We've tried to discourage them."

LONDON (Reuters)—Former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, victorious in the ring Tuesday night, suffered his second no-knockout loss in eight days at about the same time. Last week, burglars were reported to have stolen a jewelled crown valued at $35,000 belonging to Patterson from his brother Raymond's home in New York State.

Rusk Claims Growing Support by Asian Nations for U.S. Policy in Viet Nam

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—With general debate about to begin at the United Nations General Assembly's 1966 session today, the United States was once again on record as intending to pursue its present policy in Viet Nam.

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk, in New York for the first few days of the assembly to hold talks with key delegates from other countries, told a meeting outside the UN Wednesday night that the United States is pursuing that policy with considerable Asian support.

"Those who say that what we are doing in South Viet Nam is the result of isolation and support in the Western Pacific and East Asia are poorly informed," Rusk told the National Industrial Conference Board, a research organization sponsored by private U.S. and Canadian business.

"Those who predicted that it would cost us the friendship of other Asian nations were wrong. The new sense of confidence in that part of the world is mainly due to the conviction that the United States has the means and the will to meet its commitments and that aggression will not be allowed to succeed."

Rusk welcomed an initiative taken by President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines, who told the General Assembly Wednesday there should be an Asian peace conference on Viet Nam and a permanent Asian political organization that "would take the form of a political forum to which urgent issues like the Viet Nam crisis could be referred."

Marcos specifically suggested the participation of the Soviet Union, which he praised for its successful mediation of last year's conflict between India and Pakistan.

Canada's external affairs minister, Paul Martin, told reporters Wednesday night he doesn't see much future in these proposals. "The reaction of China obviously doesn't encourage them."

Martin said he still believes the ultimate solution of the Viet Nam conflict will have to be found within the framework of the 1954 Geneva agreements, which transformed French Indochina into the four sovereign states of North and South Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia, with what were intended to be internationally guaranteed frontiers.

Marcos made no mention in his UN speech of U.S. participation in an Asian conference on Viet Nam, but Rusk left no doubt that the United States has no thought of standing aside.

"We have a vast stake in the security and progress of the free nations of East Asia and the Western Pacific," he said. "The protective shield we are helping to provide for these countries is already yielding important results."

U.S. to Ignore Soviet Protest Against Blasts

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials indicated today that the United States will go ahead with plans for 36 non-nuclear underwater test explosions off the Russian-held Kurile Islands despite a Soviet protest.

Authorities described the program as a major seismological experiment to determine how fast sound waves travel through the earth in a vast earthquake-prone area of the north Pacific, 500 miles long and 90 miles wide.

This information is essential to the accurate locating of earthquakes and other phenomenon, it was explained.

Sources said the series of one five-ton TNT blasts will begin in October under the direction of the defence department.

The program is designed to study the feasibility of distinguishing between underground nuclear explosions and earthquakes through the detecting, locating and identifying of seismic disturbances.

RUSSIANS PROTEST

The Russians have protested that the blasts may damage their seismic equipment in the area as well as disrupt fishing and the migration of fur-bearing seals. More than 300 Russian fishing trawlers operate against damaging fishing resources.

It said representatives of the Soviet Union and Japan have been invited to observe the blasts, which would not be made within five miles of fishing vessels on the high seas. Two chartered commercial ships will undertake the experiment and all results will be made available to the international scientific community, the state department said.

The tests will work this way, officials said:

A temporary network of 13 ocean-bottom seismographs will be set up along the island, boundary being placed within 20 miles

Commonwealth Finance Experts Find Have-Not Lands Impatient

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian officials at the Commonwealth finance ministers' meeting noted a feeling of impatience Wednesday among delegates from the have-not nations over slowness in boosting economic and financial help.

They said the two-day conference of the economic consultative council began with surprisingly little fireworks—but with well - argued reasons why the more prosperous nations should be increasing aid in a period when they are enjoying economic expansion.

Main spokesman for the developing countries was D. B. Soogster, acting prime minister and finance minister of Jamaica, who said these countries are losing the battle to improve economic conditions.

Several reasons were cited for this—booming economies in the industrialized world, inflation leading to tight money and tougher borrowing conditions for the poorer nations and large population growths in these same poorer nations.

Informants said representatives of the needy countries did not ignore the fact that industrialized countries must take measures to combat inflation.

Two-Day Strike Paralyzes Calcutta and Dozen Cities

FROM AP-Reuters

CALCUTTA (CP)—A 48-hour general strike called by leftist fronts today paralyzed Calcutta and the remainder of West Bengal State, capping a week of violence and civil unrest which plagued a dozen cities throughout India.

The strike was called by the Alliance of Leftist Opposition Parties in protest against rising prices and food shortages.

In Calcutta, India's largest city with more than 7,000,000 people, traffic was at a standstill. Local trains and streetcars were halted by city officials to prevent their destruction by mobs.

A few interstate trains arrived in the early morning without interference from strikers but passengers were stranded at the station by lack of local transportation.

Most of Calcutta's stores and bazaars remained closed.

Only one aircraft of 13 scheduled flights left Calcutta's Dumdum Airport by mid-morning.

Indian Airlines suspended flights to Calcutta.

Two MiGs Shot Down In Air War

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. jet pilots shot down two Communist MiGs over North Viet Nam Wednesday and damaged three others in the biggest day of air combat of the war.

No American planes were lost in eight dogfights between U.S. Air Force F-105 Thunderchiefs and Communist jets in the "MiG Alley" area northeast of Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital, a U.S. spokesman said.

Two U.S. planes were shot down by ground fire Wednesday during raids over the north. This brought the total of American planes reported lost over North Viet Nam to 376.

The North Viet Nam news agency claimed four U.S. aircraft were shot down over the north Wednesday, bringing the Canadian Stand Said 'Insulting'

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP) — A homemade bomb made up of anti-tank missiles splintered windows and ripped up sidewalk and turf in front of the Cuban Embassy here today.

No one was injured in the blast, apparently the work of persons opposed to the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba, that punched out windows in neighboring houses and sent up a cloud of smoke over the quiet east-end residential areas of Sandy Hill.

Investigators said the device, two bazooka-type military antitank rockets with a timer rigged from a clock, may have exploded before it could be placed in position close to the embassy building.

One of the rockets was found unexploded on the lawn in front of the building and was disarmed by army bomb experts.

The metal sleeve - like container for the unexploded bazooka shell bore this Spanish inscription: "Association Nationalist Cubana."

Piecing the evidence together, police said the bomb squad must said one bazooka shell went off, striking into the sidewalk and lawn in front of the three-storey brick building housing the embassy.

The other did not explode but remained lying on the street beside the scattered pieces of a suitcase and a carrop carrying rack.

A newspaper carrier boy told police he spotted a car with a suitcase in a cartop rack parked near the building entrance on Chapel Street about 7:30 a.m. The blast occurred shortly before 8 a.m.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Felipe Rivero Diaz, head of the Christian Nationalist Movement, said today his anti-Castro group set off the explosion at the Cuban Embassy in Ottawa.

"Secret cells of the movement which I direct told me this morning of the success of the action which they carried out," Diaz said in an announcement.

"Canada," he said, "has been chosen for the initiation of the war against communism, because of the insulting and provocative attitude maintained by the Canadian government with respect to the tragedy of the Cuban people enslaved by international communism."

Erhard To Visit Johnson

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Ludwig Erhard flies Saturday to see President Johnson and get for some promises on Atlantic defence to bolster his political position at home in West Germany.

He seeks reassurance that any agreement with the Soviets to halt the spread of nuclear weapons will not single out West Germany as the object of a special ban. West German politicians feel strongly that their country should be considered as

Status of PC National Leader Occupying Attention of Party

OTTAWA (CP) — The Conservative party has begun its familiar pre-convention preoccupation with the status of national leader John Diefenbaker.

The openly dump-Dief campaigns of former years have changed. In their place is a proposal by Dalton Camp, national president, that the party examine the leadership and either confirm the 79-year-old chief or replace him.

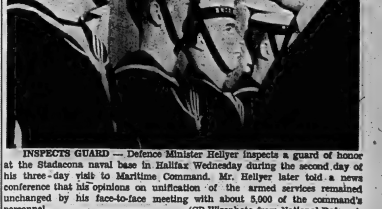
Mr. Camp's proposal is to be aired from platforms across the country in preparation for the Progressive Conservatives' annual meeting Nov. 13-15.

The Diefenbaker supporters struck back Wednesday demanding Mr. Camp's resignation in a telegram over the signature of Gordon Churchill, a former Diefenbaker, cabinet minister and probably the leader's closest political ally.

Mr. Churchill, MP for Winnipeg South Centre, said Mr. Camp "flagrantly abused the privileges of your position in making a public attack on your leader."

Mr. Camp had said in a Toronto speech Tuesday night that Liberals and Conservatives should reappraise their leaders and the leaders reappraise their positions. Their jobs weren't "a lifetime contract."

Commented Mr. Churchill: "For a national president to attempt to undermine and disrupt his party, under the specious guise of attacking the leadership of the Liberal party as well, is too obvious a subterfuge."



But Mr. Camp commanded support from a number of Conservatives.

National Vice-President Finlay MacDonald of Halifax said he agrees with Mr. Camp's sentiments and philosophy. He was ready to resign if a majority of Atlantic provinces Conservatives agree with Mr. Churchill that elected party men have no right to express their views.

Georges Valade, MP for Montreal Ste. Marie, also expressed agreement with Mr. Camp, adding that Mr. Churchill's statement illustrates what top men in the party do to members seeking party renewal.

Heath Macquarrie, MP for Queens, P.E.I., called Mr. Camp's suggestion "very sen-

Fail to Halt Surveyor Spin

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Scientists, unable to halt the spinning of the Surveyor II moon - bound spacecraft, said early today that the mission has ended in failure.

A spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said:

"We kept firing the third rocket attempting to stabilize the spacecraft but the rocket wouldn't fire, and the tumbling increased.

"We dumped the helium, turned on the radar adapter system and ran a few experiments before firing the 10,000-pound thrust retro engine. It burned for about 30 seconds before we lost radio contact with the craft."

to the East Coast since Rear-Admiral William Loedymore was fired as sea operation chief earlier this summer.

There were conflicting reports on exactly how much opposition Mr. Hellyer ran into in describing the government's integration and unification policies to some 5,000 servicemen, but most officers and men questioned agreed he had received a cool reception.

Several leading seamen said there had been booing at Interval while Mr. Hellyer was addressed the lower decks and then answered questions from the floor. Another seaman said there had been mutterings during the session.

Sailors said following the meeting the only cheer the defence minister got was when he granted a "make and mend"—navy parlance for a holiday.

DENIED RECKLING

Mr. Hellyer, however, told a news conference he had run into any vocal opposition during the three sessions, divided between leading seamen and lower ranks, chief and petty officers and sailors.

Sailors reported after the first two meetings the minister announced any increase in the armed forces to go into effect Oct. 1. They quoted him as saying the increase would satisfy most men.

The sailors said the wage boosts would not affect all the same rates as married men, and technical skills would command higher scales. Mr. Hellyer declined to comment at the news conference except to say an announcement "would be made within 10 days.

Reporters were barred from the meetings and the Canadian base during the visit except for the news conference in the warehouse.

Petty officers and officers attending the later two sessions said Mr. Hellyer's reception had been courteous but cool.

SAYS INSULTED OFFICERS

One officer, however, said that during the address to the officers "it was only the good offices of the admiral which restored order when the defence minister, literally-speaking, insulted the officers."

Admiral O'Brien attended the three sessions with Mr. Hellyer.

The defence minister told the news conference that the first two phases of integration were almost completed and the government "now requires further permissive legislation to continue the process."

He said teams will be leaving for independence Monday. Talks this weekend to brief servicemen across the country on unification and the White Paper, added that on Sept. 30 he hopes to "spell out to the public the unification process."

He said that the meeting Wednesday had given him no reason to change his mind on unification policies.

Questioned about the proposal for a single uniform, Mr. Hellyer said he is sure "all forces will accept gracefully whatever decisions are made by the duly constituted authority."

TURNS DOWN VOTE

He rejected a proposal for a secret ballot to allow sergeant-major to express their opinions on the single uniform. "I don't think you can run a country or the armed forces on the basis of a referendum."

If Pelletier refused to pass legislation to further unification, Mr. Hellyer said he will resign, but he added he thinks this extremely unlikely.

He said that in his view any future defence minister or government would continue with the policies of unification of the forces.

In answer to a question concerning shifting of personnel from one branch of the forces to another, Mr. Hellyer said men and women already in the services will not be required in "so so unless they volunteer. However, persons entering a new single service would be switched around depending on where they were needed.

Erhard

equal in the Atlantic Alliance, with a right to a share in nuclear policy. It would hurt Erhard if his government yielded anything on this point.

He also wants West Germany relieved of its agreement to spend $675,000,000 a year buying U.S. arms to make up for the dollar outflow caused by the stationing of American troops in West Germany. But he would like to keep as many as possible of those 225,000 U.S. troops.

In his talks with President Johnson Monday and Tuesday Erhard faces serious difficulties. The president and many influential Americans set great store on an accord—to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. Some are convinced that the Soviets will agree to a treaty if the West Germans are barred from any voice in nuclear policy.

Erhard can draw some hope from statements by State Secretary Dean Rusk and other U.S. officials that they insist that in any nuclear force created by the Atlantic Alliance—there is none yet—the United States will have the last word about pulling the trigger.

RUSSIANS DISAGREE

So, they argue, any arrangement made within the alliance does not really spread nuclear arms even though the West Germans take part. The Russians disagree with this argument.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sine of Belleville and her son, Ordinary Seaman Paul Sine, are shown on the occasion of the latter's graduation from the 15-week Naval Basic Training Course at CFB Cornwallis, Nova Scotia.

Escapee Said Very Dangerous If Cornered

MONTREAL (CP) — Police and prison officials say so far no trace has been found of Roy Colligan, a dangerous prisoner serving a life sentence for manslaughter who escaped custody Wednesday.

Colligan is described by Michel Lecorre, warden of St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary where he was serving his sentence, as a "wise guy who likely will lie low and not cause trouble" but who would be "very dangerous" if cornered.

Colligan, who has used crutches for years after suffering a displaced left knee and discal hernia of the spine, made his escape from Queen Mary's Veterans' hospital where he had been taken to undergo medical treatment.

He left without his crutches which had been taken from him when he entered the hospital.

Colligan was sentenced to life imprisonment in June 1955 after being found guilty of manslaughter in the death of restaurant owner B. J. MacCabe.

Dec. Carl Norden of city police, in charge of the investigation, finally was allowed in at 9:35 a.m.

ONLY GLASS BROKEN

He said damage inside was limited to broken glass. He understood that only a caretaker, his wife and child and a maid, were inside when the bomb went off. Other embassy staff had not yet arrived for work.

Dec. Norden said Dr. Amerio Cruz, the Cuban ambassador, "is going to speak to the external affairs personnel officer before he tells me anything." The external affairs department sent a man to the scene shortly after hearing about the blast.

of the shoreline. The explosions will be set off at 300- to 600-foot depths in an water 1,000 fathoms or deeper.

The ultimate goal is to assure that any blasts or earthquakes near the islands could be charted accurately by the 120 stations of the worldwide seismological network operated by the U.S coast and geodetic survey.

Officials said such tests have been going on since 1961.

"We're trying to make a geological roadmap of the world," one source said. "If we don't have an accurate map, we can't actually locate where an underground or underwater event occurs."

This was demonstrated last year, a source said, when the United States set off an 80-kiloton nuclear device in the Aleutian Islands off Alaska. Although the weapons was four times as powerful as the Hiroshima nuclear blast, the world-wide network was as much as 25 kilometres off in determining its location.

Officials said some U.S. scientists worry that unless they can narrow such gaps, an on-site go-clear test-ban treaty with Russia would have drawbacks.

Given Time By Magistrate To Pay Fine

NAPANEE—Franklin James Stinson of Napanee led the Napanee police a merry chase just after midnight August 14, and as a result has until Oct. 1 to acquire money for the fine which he could not pay Tuesday.

Constables Warren Richardson and Thomas McCrae saw him go through a red light on Bridge Street and gave chase. When he turned to go up the Camden Road he evidently realized that he was being pursued, and accelerated his speed up to 85 miles an hour within the town limits. Before he was finally stopped near Strathcona, close to six miles beyond the town limits, he was travelling with over 100 miles an hour and had twice forced the police cruiser off the road.

Stinson, who is in his early 20's, pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving when he appeared before Magistrate R. C. Jackson Tuesday. He was remanded for sentence when he stated that he could not then pay the fine.

Pleading guilty to a charge of impaired driving, Charles Schonauer of Kingston was fined $100 and costs and his licence was suspended for three months.

Charge B. Johnston With Public Mischief

NAPANEE — The Napanee police have charged Bernard Johnston, 17, with public mischief in connection with one occurrence, September 12.

Sergeant McTaggart has been acting chief of the Napanee police force since the resignation of former Police Chief Harry Senn.

Attacks on the Johnston home, 111 Bridge St. East, were reported August 19 when damage was done to the car of Miss Shirley Johnston, older sister of the accused. Three other incidents reported concerned damage or damage attempted damage to the car. Altogether the police were called to the home on at least 15 occasions.

The summonses against Bernard Johnston has not been served as he is reported to be in a Kingston Hospital.

Drunk Driving Charge Brings 10 Days in Jail

A 56-year-old Desoronto man pleaded guilty to a charge of drunk driving in court in Napanee this morning and was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail.

David G. Maracle was charged with the offence September 17 after he was found asleep behind the wheel of a 1956 model car that had gone into a ditch along the York Road, about a mile west of Highway 2 in Tyendinaga Township.

Belleville O.P.P. investigated the incident, which occurred around 11.30 p.m. on the night in question.

Demand for Colored TV Parts Causing Amplifone Canada Ltd. To Greatly Increase Plant Space

An accelerated demand for color television in the United States and in this country has forced expansion for a Belleville firm supplying TV components.

Amplifone Canada Ltd., local manufacturers of transformers, yokes and coils are literally swamped with orders for new color TV components and this week announced plans to build a new 5,500 square foot addition to their Dundas Street plant.

In the meantime the firm has rented approximately 8,000 square feet of space in the former Houston building on St. Paul Street, and while the main requirement was for warehouse space but present plant personnel would also be slightly increased.

SPACE CHIEF DRAWBACK

Among other TV components the Belleville firm turns out TV transformers for export to the United States, in addition the plant supplies the bulk of TV transformers for the Canadian domestic market.

Mr. Handing says he would like to double his present export trade from Belleville, but this has been impossible due to cramped quarters at the local plant.

But even without increased unit production, Amplifone would still be forced to expand. The reason is that color TV transformers are three times larger than conventional black and white units so additional bench space and warehouse space would be required just to maintain production at the present unit level.

Yesterday the Chicago head of the local plant was high in praise of the co-operation of local city officials in assisting to quickly locate additional space.

CITY OFFICIALS HELP

Mr. Handing said that Industrial Commissioner Ernie Kenisel, Mayor Jack Ellis and Jack Vanover had been very helpful.

"I have been sold all over again on Belleville," Mr. Handing said.

The present owner of the Houston building is Stephens Insulation Company of this city and Mr. Handing said company officials G. A. Freeman and Mr. Lewis had been especially co-operative in making the building available at short notice.

Carpenters are already at work at the St. Paul Street building and expectations are that Amplifone will be able to move in within three weeks. The building will be used mainly for warehouse space but some assembly work will also be carried on at the site.

The new addition of approximately 5500 square feet at the Dundas Street plant will be to the north and east of the present building.

EXPERTS IN YEARS AGO

Amplifone came to Belleville about 12 years ago setting up operations in the Storck building on Water Street. About six years ago the firm moved into the large building which it had constructed on Dundas Street.

But according to Mr. Handing, no matter how large a plant it never seems to be big enough.

Since moving to its Dundas Street plant, Amplifone production requirements have forced the firm to rent another building in the same area.

But quarters are badly cramped and space originally intended as cafeteria and office is now being used for production lines.

Manager of the local Amplifone plant is Mr. Eugene Mundorff. Director of purchasing is Ernie Summers, for many years with Stewart Warner in Belleville.

SIZE COMPARISON of black and white and color TV transformers indicates main reason for expansion of Amplifone plant in Belleville. Color transformer is three times the size of black and white unit.

"The ranging structure of the armed services is too complex to think of integrating jobs," Mr. Hees said. "You can't tell a sailor he an airman and expect him to have the skill to carry out the airman's job. And then there's the question of morale integration brings up. I expect there'll be a real discussion in the house before integration becomes a reality."

Around a dozen party supporters were at the meeting in the chamber. Mr. Hees was the guest of Reeve Douglas McMaster of Murray Township during his stay here.

Sidney Schools Are Crowded Parents Charge

TRENTON — Parents in the Trenton area have charged children in Sidney Township are being crowded into dilapidated, hazardous and unsanitary schools. A group of 40 parents from Bayside made the complaint yesterday to the school board.

The parents said school buses arrive too late and leave too early to allow enough time for teaching. They cited intolerable conditions in the township schools, one of them built in 1876. They complained that plaster is falling from the walls of Harder School while only every fourth student is permitted to flush toilets because of a water shortage at Quinte School. They also pointed out that rotted window sill gaps are filled with newspapers at Johnstown School.

Leafs Agree To Release Carl Brewer

TORONTO (CP) — Management of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League has agreed to free defencemen Carl Brewer so he can play amateur with Canada's national team.

Club Chairman John Bassett said today that Brewer — who quit the Leafs a year ago and who up to now has been denied a release — will not be stopped from playing for Canada provided he returns to Leafs if he returns to pro hockey.

He said agreement has been reached between himself, President Stafford Smythe and Executive Vice - President Harold Ballard and a letter will go to NHL President Clarence Campbell in a few days.

IMSACH OVERRULED

The executive here apparently overrules General Manager Georgs (Punch) Imlach who has been making it clear that he will not lift a suspension imposed on Brewer or put him up for waivers to allow him out of the league.

Brewer was on the college inactive list last year, a manoeuvre Imlach devised to keep strings on the all-star defenceman.

Imlach had "no comment" today on the owners' action.

If Brewer is cleared, complete release from pro hockey, all pro clubs will have to agree to his reinstatement to the amateurs.

Corby Firm Completes Park Project Payment

The local firm of H. Corby Distilleries has now completed payment of the $5,000 offered to the Belleville Parks Board, as a contribution toward the refurbishing of the East Hill city park which bears the Corby name.

Parks Board chairman Alderman Don Williams said today that the final payment of $2,000 had been received this week and the appreciation of the local board had gone out by return mail. An initial cheque for $3,000 was received by the parks board earlier this year.

The cost of revamping the East Hill Corby Park is expected to exceed the $5,000 but the contribution of the Corbyville firm will pay the lion's share, according to Ald. Williams.

This year an extensive program of beautification has been being carried out at the Corby Park. New flower beds are being put in, roses and shrubbery planted and also a system of walkways laid.

Alderman Williams says the beautified park will be officially opened in 1967 — centennial year.

Next year will be a big year for the city parks board. In addition to Corby Park, it will see the official opening of the new Zwick's Island Park, while Fry Park on Canniffon Road will also be put in use and in the east end of the city, along Highway 2, a program of park development is to be carried on in conjunction with the township of Thurlow.

Many Mishaps Caused by Slippery Roads

The Belleville detachment of the O.P.P. yesterday investigated six accidents of a similar nature, most if them involving only one vehicle, and all thought to be results of wet and slippery road conditions.

Typical of these was a mishap which occurred around six p.m. last evening on Highway 2 just west of Shannonville.

A car driven by Clayton Bowers, 46, of 24 William Street in Belleville failed to negotiate a bend on the slick road surface and left the highway.

Mr. Bowers was taken by City Ambulance Service to Belleville General Hospital where he was treated for scalp lacerations and released.

Let the Government Prepare

Napoleon is reported to have said that nothing is impossible.

George Bernard Shaw disagreed with him and, in "An Intelligent Woman's Guide to Socialism," declared that it was impossible to arrive at an evaluation of the relative worth of various jobs with which everybody would agree.

Shaw, we think, was right and it is, therefore, useless to attempt to decide whether $80 a week is enough pay for the work done by a postman.

Most of us though, will probably agree that $119 a week is well above the average starting wage for most jobs, particularly jobs which do not demand any lengthy period of formal study and training.

Most of us, therefore, are opposed to the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada, which wants a $1 an hour increase for all its members.

There is certainly room enough, between $80 a week and $119 a week, for negotiation.

Because any wage will be uniform throughout the country, we have to be prepared to give the postmen in some areas a wage in excess of what might be thought reasonable, having regard to the wages for many jobs in that area. It would not be fair to average wage rates throughout the country in arriving at a settlement, for then postmen in bigger centres would be receiving considerably less than they deserve.

But even in the biggest cities, that $119 a week looks excessive.

The Letter Carriers' Union says that it will strike if the requested $2,000 increase has not been granted by Nov. 15. That is over seven weeks away — lots of time for an energetic government to make adequate preparations for the maintenance of the postal service.

Courageous Stand

It takes courage to ignore personal gains and speak out against a situation that could do great harm to the nation.

Jeno F. Paulucci, president of the Chun King Corporation, recently asked housewives not to buy his product. He said it is not worth the price.

Chun King has refused to sell wild rice products at the present market price of five dollars a pound. Paulucci also called upon the industry to join his company's 12-month moratorium to assure a future for Indians.

He charges the potential multi-million dollar crop is being literally torn out by the roots "by exploitation."

The rich grain, almost exclusive to Manitoba, Northwestern Ontario and Minnesota, is in jeopardy because speculation on both sides of the border has upped the price to a serious level. Speculation has driven the price from 35 cents a pound for green rice to $1.25.

Wild rice grows in shallow lakes and depends on natural propagations. Careful hand harvesting allows a large percentage of the kernels to fall into the water for reseeding. But under present incentives, decimation has been rapid.

Mr. Paulucci is supported in Canada by wild rice king Peter Lazarenko, president of Northland Wild Rice.

These gentlemen, though in a position to exploit rising prices and make high returns, are to be commended for their decision to stand firm in order to protect the buying public.

More of this type of action would be useful in the face of Canada's ever-growing inflation.

Russia Copies West

Russia, that proletarian heaven, is about to institute a well-tested capitalistic device, the five-day week in industry.

John Best, the Associated Press correspondent in Moscow, reports that Russian experts are endowing this working schedule with an assortment of virtues, depicting it as a highroad to individual health, national wealth and social virtue.

Reading between the lines, one can guess that Mr. Best is somewhat amused by the extravagance of the claims.

It just so happens, however, that we recall similar scepticism when the five-day week was an innovation in Canadian industry. The proposal had been made that the staff of a public utilities commission have its work week cut to five days. There were objections, but a manufacturer who was a member of the commission related his experience at his own plant. When his workers requested a five-day week, he told them he would give it a trial, but expected production in five days to equal that formerly achieved in five and a half days. At the end of the first month, production far exceeded that of earlier months. "I knew that was too good to last," he said. "Since then it has fallen off, but it still equals that previously obtained in five and a half days."

The Russians may be similarly surprised to discover that some of the promised advantages of the five-day week actually materialize.

"Quick, get that stuff out of the way"

Strictly Personal
Confessions of An Addict

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It is said that the alcoholic cannot quit drinking until he comes to see in alcoholic. So long as he calls himself anything else he will continue to be an alcoholic.

The same is true of smoking. I am not a cigaret smoker. I am an addict. Addict. Addict. Addict.

I take my first cigarette in the morning because it gives me pleasure. But the pleasure steadily diminishes. By the fifth cigarette, it is a need I cannot control.

I smoke when I don't want one. I smoke when it tastes bad. I smoke without knowing I am smoking. I sometimes smoke two cigarettes at a time.

My reason is dominated by my will, and my will is dominated by my addiction. That "appetite," that universal wolf, at last devours itself," as Shakespeare warns us.

I have tried quitting cigarettes before, but always for the wrong reasons. Because they make me cough. Because they make my heart flutter. Because they may give me lung cancer. These are not effective reasons.

The only effective reason for quitting is that I am controlled by the appetite. I am a slave. A weakling. A coward.

I may not quit smoking right away, but I am determined to quit kidding myself. Harris is an addict. A worm. A limp, feeble creature.

What right do I have to look down with pity at the alcoholic or the dope addict? Their habits may be physically and socially more dangerous, but they are not at all in the same boat. Without oars.

And they, at least, have a tenuous excuse which I do not have. The liquor and the dope give them pleasure, of a perverted sort. They obtain a release. I obtain nothing but a sore throat, a dry mouth, a headache. My "morning after" begins the night before.

Young people, do not believe the smooth propaganda about "smoking in moderation." Some people cannot indulge in anything moderately. Find out early if you are one of those people — and then shun the habit as you would the Devil.

Samuel Johnson said that "abstinence is easier for me than temperance." He knew himself well: knew that if he began drinking a little, he would end by drinking a lot.

I admire and envy people who can smoke 10 cigarettes a day, enjoy them, and desire to smoke no more. I am not one of them. I do not smoke the cigarette. It smokes me. This is my abject confession of utter weakness. Cigarets are lighting this fool the way to dusty death.

Inflation in Sweden

Scandinavian Times, Copenhagen

Scandinavians are talking off on their summer holidays with more spending money in their wallets than ever before. Wherever they go, to Germany, Italy or Spain they will find that they need the extra cash.

But the thoughtful among them may reflect that they have not always had so much as they had stayed at home.

Inflation, in other words, is world wide and universal; only Norway has more or less managed to keep it in check.

The situation is causing Sweden, especially, no end of concern this summer.

The Swedes continue to be better off than anyone else in Europe, perhaps with the exception of the lucky Swiss, who are trusted to spend more of their own money before the tax collector comes along to claim his due. But, they are now wondering, are they living too well for their own good?

The question was thrown into sharp relief this spring when, to avoid the first serious strike in 20 years, Sweden's employers agreed to new across-the-board wage increases. Since then the labor costs soaring by more than eight percent, annually for the next three years, getting as much as 10 per cent. because of a continued labor shortage. And the three years' hourly earnings have already risen 53 per cent. since 1950, twice as fast as productivity, pushing living costs up more than 25 percent.

Add an ominous trade deficit last year and the fact that Sweden's foreign - exchange reserves have declined by 800 million since 1956, and the North's dominant economic power is in a state fit to worry a sound banker.

One such who is indeed worried very much, is Jacob Wallenberg, President of Stockholm's Enskilda Bank and seion of Scandinavia's most influential industrial and banking family.

"Need things really have gone this far?" he asked, at a meeting of the Association of Swedish Economists. "A weakened competitive position, record foreign-trade deficits, an 8 per cent. rise in consumer prices within a year, wage increases amounting to 30 per cent. over three years, more acute inflationary trends than in the rest of the world — all this calls for a clear reassessment of where we are headed."

Marc Wallenberg placed a great deal of blame on the Government.

"The most urgent need is for a drastic slowing down of the rise in public expenditures.

"Experience from many countries shows that higher taxes do not suffice to create economic bases for soaring public spending. They merely help to make wage costs rise faster than they would have without tax boosts.

"And it is a political fact of life that government expenditures increase as the Government takes in more taxes, though tax hikes might have been meant to 'deaden' demand."

"Things do not look exactly hopeful," warned Wallenberg with what obviously was meant to be understatement. "Our inflation is home - made. That makes it the more infuriating."

Wallenberg spoke not for bankers and industrialists alone. A public-opinion poll has established that a majority of Swedes would rather see an end put to inflation than have higher wages — only they seem to have come to consider inflation almost as inevitable as death and taxes.

This is clearly the serious item of business in Scandinavia now, even more so than in most of the rest of the world — and the more worrisome because Scandinavia depends on sales abroad of its inflation-threatened products for a quarter of its income.

Today in History

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sept. 22, 1906 . . .

The Russian government and armies abandoned Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, 25 years ago today—in 1941—and the Germans began setting up the satellite state proclaimed three months before. Virtually occupied by Poland, Lithuania, Russia and Turkey in its history, the Ukraine had claimed independence after the First World War and entered the U.S.S.R. under treaty in 1922. Under Stalin's rule Ukrainian nationalism was purged and its leaders "purged" down. Some nationalists hoped for help from the Nazi regime but the majority of their leaders were arrested.

1809—The last executions of a majority of Swedes would rather see an end put to inflation than have higher wages — only they seem to have come to consider inflation almost as inevitable as death and taxes.

1776—The first French republic was proclaimed.

First World War —

Fifty years ago today—in 1916—French units entered Combles, on the Somme front, in a surprise attack; Russia captured German forts outside Halich, Galicia; the French Chamber of Deputies voted 9,000,000,000 francs for the war.

Tourists Spoiled?

Regina Leader-Post

Under the heading of "things we can do without" comes a new, newly - published book designed to teach tourists how to deliver insults in five different languages. The book is published in London and covers phonetical pronunciation of suitable insults in English, French, German, Italian and Spanish. To be fair, the book is presumably not intended to be taken too seriously, but there are always plenty of humorless, pseudo-intellectuals among us who just might take the advice to heart and practise it. If enough of them do just that, understanding and public relations between countries is apt to seriously deteriorate.

The book, good or bad, brings up the thought that the tourist is becoming a thoroughly spoiled segment of our population. Every known kind of guide book has been compiled for his education, edification. Staffs and individuals are continually exerting effort to put their best foot forward on his behalf and seminars are held to put the point across. One such seminar was conducted in Regina recently, with films, lectures, and panel discussions on the subject of hospitality to our annual army of summer tourist. The same thing is happening everywhere in the world, with the red carpet treatment extended to the tourist.

One would suspect that this VIP treatment would bring you the best in tourists and that you would not only be glad to get but would show their appreciation. Unfortunately, as hosts in many different categories of countries have discovered, no one can be as rude and unappreciative of good service and hospitality as an ill-mannered tourist. It's a poor rule that doesn't work both ways, and perhaps it's about time the tourist began to undertake a little self-education and self-appraisal of his own.

Speedy Trains

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Japan National Railways has announced that its New Tokaido Line, the world's fastest railroad, will travel more than 90 million passengers since service began 20 and a half months ago. Use of the 32 car streamliners has risen rapidly since last November when the railway, convinced the early operating problems had been solved, cut the running time for its superexpress on the Tokyo-Osaka run (320 miles) from four hours to three hours and 10 minutes. The line has been so successful it will be extended 100 miles beyond Osaka. Increase service has cut deeply into airline business along the route This is a piece of transportation pioneering by the Japanese; maybe a little Western information would be in order.

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1941—the king of Greece arrived in England; Lord Linlithgow was reappointed viceroy of India; British and U.S. war and diplomatic officials arrived in Moscow; the RAF bombed Tripoli and Benghazi.

Ottawa Offbeat
Pearson Told to Mend Own Fences First

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Something is happening to Prime Minister Pearson's other image —

— that once-so-glittering image of the great international statesman, the former United Nations General Assembly President, the Nobel prizeman, the savior at Suez.

This was the "other" Lester Pearson.

Admired. Honored.

Perhaps, even by some, revered.

Certainly far, far above criticism.

So far above that he was out of reach even of those who he has calls "The Great Rejector," his super-critic, Conservative Leader Diefenbaker.

The best John Diefenbaker could do to puncture the image of Lester Pearson the World Statesman was to speak sarcastically of "diplomacy," and of "The Great Diplomatist."

But there was so often just a touch of envy in his voice, and the Global Diplomat remained next thing to sacrosanct.

This year-weariness in many quarters of Pearson the International Statesman for years installed Pearson the Unassailable Politician from much of the punishment that makes a Canadian Prime Minister one of the world's least-envied jobs.

GLOVES OFF

It simply was not supposed to be politically sporting to hammer him too hard.

Nor exactly smart, either, for it invariably seemed some sympathy for him and criticism of his tormentors.

The general idea seemed to be that he was just so tremendous on the world stage that it was understandable and usually forgivable that he was not all that immense on the home front.

Well, the years suddenly have brought a change of thinking.

The Global Statesman, the world Statesman, finally has become vulnerable.

Perhaps because of two, the International Diplomat and the National Politician turn out too be really inseparable.

It was left to two hard-nosed, tough-minded Tories to put the question squarely: Prime Minister in political perspective.

One was young (38) Robert Stanfield, Premier of Nova Scotia's Cumberland. The other the old (70) Senator Grattan O'Leary of Ottawa.

The Prime Minister had flown to London and the Commonwealth Conference, briefly the Capital and the nation itself as jittery as they ever had been in the last 30 years.

The railway strike was settled, but right then nobody could be sure that meant the trains would be running — it took a week, a week in which the Prime Minister was aboard.

Inflation was running up prices — still is — as never before.

ZAMBIA FIRSTY

Finance Minister Sharp was working on his coming Baby Budget with its new and higher taxes, and the Prime Minister had had his confrontation with Allen MacEachen over Medicare's shelving, and couldn't be sure that the young Health Minister was not resigning and splitting the Cabinet.

But away went the International Statesman to Zambia, and days before there was any kind of clue whether the Commonwealth Conference would succeed or fail, young Robert Coates rose in the Commons to ask:

"In view of the financial crisis the Finance Minister says we are facing, the possible breakup of the Cabinet (over Medicare), should not the Prime Minister be back in Canada facing up to these domestic difficulties rather than worrying about the affairs of Zambia?"

A good solidly bard, if tough question that, and deserving of a serious answer — which it has not got.

The cabinet in the Senate, obviously speaking of the Prime Minister, Senator O'Leary from Carleton (part of Ottawa experience answered:

"Our public men have become so obsessed with international affairs, so bemoused by strutting the world stage, they are forgetting why they were elected to office — to govern Canada, not to set the whole world in order."

Which is true.

"Canada shall make a small contribution towards setting the world's house in order unless we can first show a capacity to set in order our own — and events have shown this we are failing in a most melancholy way"

But who cares as long as there is a Zambia to worry about?

To Your Good Health
Drugs Can Eliminate Heart Block Delayed

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain a heart block. Can anything be done to prevent blackouts from it?—Mrs. R. S.

A heart block is some interference with the impulses causing the heart to beat. The result is that the heart slows down. If, in consequence, blood circulation to the brain is impaired, a block can result

Such a blockout is caused by insufficient circulation to the brain, and there are causes, other than heart defects, which can bring about this momentary fainting spell, sometimes from an emotional upset, in an excessively hot, close place, or when the lies down circulation to the head is quickly restored and then stands up suddenly.

When, as in your case, it is a heart block, drugs and other medications are effective in treatment. They are prescription drugs, however, so you must see your doctor.

In more stubborn cases, in which the heart action is at a very slow rate, the use of a pacemaker is the answer in an emergency, or for a period of time. There has been steady improvement in the design of these battery-operated devices in recent years, and I have no doubt that they will be still better in the future.

Another type of heart block is known as "bundle branch block," but it is not a problem in understanding what ataxia is; it is having the underlying cause diagnosed in this particular case.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do you have any suggestions to help break the habit of sucking thumb or fingers when a child becomes tired and sleepy?—Mrs. J. D.

No, because I'm not sure from your letter that anything should be done. The habitual sucking of thumb or fingers should be curbed before the age of change in alignment of teeth and jaw.

Because it begins so occasionally, a child usually sheds the habit by himself long before any harm is done. A tired, sleepy, daytime thumb-sucker, I'd give Nature a chance to correct it.

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother is 55. The doctor says she has ataxia and that she is too worried about home affairs. Our problem is we don't understand what she has.—Mrs. J. S.

And I can't explain with out knowing more. Ataxia is a lack of coordination which can cause instability in speech or movement, or in rare cases inverted emotional response — for movement, crying instead of laughing and the reverse.

Causes include degenerative diseases, heredity, emotional tensions. That covers a lot of territory, so your problem isn't in understanding what ataxia is; it is having the underlying cause diagnosed in this particular case.

LEAVING FOR BRANTFORD — Mayor Jack Ellis and United Appeal president, Gerald Cunningham, enter a bus for Brantford today. Russians Await Start Of Five-day Work Week

MOSCOW (CP)—The five-day work week is coming to Russia. To judge by the advance buildup, it is an institution that falls just short of possessing miraculous powers.

"The five-day working week makes it possible to make broader use of the salubrious forces of nature for an active overcoming of fatigue, for accumulating energy and vitality," wrote an eminent medical scientist recently.

Such unrestrained testimonials reflect the unbounded enthusiasm of those who are preparing the way for the new arrangement, scheduled to take general effect next year.

The five-day week doesn't mean a cut in the number of hours worked. This will remain at 41, the same as in the present six-day week. Instead of working five days for seven hours and one day for six, as the general rule now is, a man probably will work four days at eight hours and one day at nine.

Most Soviet factories are scheduled to be operating under the new plan by November, 1967, the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Indications are that it will be widely publicized as a landmark in the development of the viet society under the revolution.

GIVEN CLOSE SCRUTINY

Characteristically, the five-day week did not come about as a result of open agitation by organized labor, as would have been the case under capitalism, but as a result of ivory-tower intellectual debate and experiments approved by the Communist party.

Communist party boss Leonid Brushnev finally approved adoption of the five-day week as official policy earlier this year. Transition to the new scheme would be gradual.

In good Marxist fashion, the changeover has been directed and examined from every conceivable viewpoint by learned scholars and analysts.

These investigations turned up some attributes of the five-day week that workers in the West, who have enjoyed it since not long after the Second World War, probably never dreamed it possessed.

For instance, a poll carried out at a cotton factory and a worsted mill in the Moscow region—plants where the five-day week has been in effect for about three years now—indicated that it has a positive effect on workers' general disposition.

Two days off a week are "an important health factor," said one report. "As a result such a schedule leads to reduced sickness rates and heightened labor productivity."

HELPS BEAT FATIGUE

Dealing with the problems of construction workers, it said: "Crane operators and welders are supposed to show prompt reflexes and intense concentration.

"These qualities of the nervous system manifest themselves much better in a five-day week than in a six-day week. After two days off the builders get down to work, without any residual fatigue phenomena, as a rule."

"After all, the cells of the brain cortex require more time for their restoration than any other cells."

Another study indicated that women, particularly, stand to benefit from the switch to a five-day week. With only one day off from their jobs, women spent most of it working around the house.

With two days off, they could devote the second one chiefly to rest and relaxation.

That is important in the Soviet Union, where a high proportion of married women work outside the home.

The same study found that, with two days off instead of one, workers can save up to 150 hours a year in time spent travelling to and from their jobs.

Must Honor Contract Says Union Official

TORONTO (CP) — The Civil Service Association of Ontario has called a meeting for Sunday of its hospital branch leaders to discuss a one-day walkout by Ontario Hospital attendants Monday at North Bay and a threatened walkout at Aurora, Ont.

John J. Wolfe, secretary-treasurer of the association, said here Wednesday he didn't think the presidents and their training unit chairmen of the 22 hospital branches would support demands from association members for more walkouts.

"I don't see how we can. We have an agreement with the province until April, 1967, and we must honor it."

Meanwhile, a delegation of nurses' aides and attendants who reported sick and did not work Monday at North Bay presented copies of a brief to provincial cabinet ministers inquiring the northern part of the province. The brief requested salary increases of $1,500 a year.

The North Bay nursing aids' has also scheduled a meeting for tonight to discuss further action.

About 100 attendants and nurses' aides in Aurora voted Tuesday night to book off sick next Tuesday in support of wage demands.

eral aid to the provinces for education.

The teachers' exchange project was outlined in a brief submitted by the CEA to the ministers' standing committee on education.

"The exchange of teachers between the two principal ethnic groups is bound to promote a certain cultural unity," the CEA said in its brief.

"We believe that a teacher with a French cultural background could benefit by and add back from—an English environment knowledge and personal impressions that would foster respect, understanding and cooperation between the two groups.

"This would apply equally to teachers with an English cultural background who spend a year or two in a French school."

The brief recommended:

—Appointment of a permanent exchange co - ordination officer by the CEA to work out details with provincial and local school board officials.

—Recognition of teaching certificates issued by one province as valid in another.

—That the exchange program would be primarily aimed at language teachers, although teachers of other subjects should also be investigated.

—Continuation of a special fund to support the project to be maintained by grants from the provincial governments and with possible financial participation from the federal department of citizenship.

—Payment of a cost of living allowance of up to $500 annually to teachers depending on varying standards of living, and payment of travel expenses.

The CEA estimated it would cost approximately $45,000 to exchange 50 teachers between Quebec and an English-speaking province.

School boards would continue to pay the salary of a teacher exchanged, but the board to which the teacher went would return a teacher of equal calibre on the same basis.

The CEA proposals were to be discussed further during the three-day conference by the 800 educationists, teachers, school board officials and administrators attending.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson of British Columbia will turn over his duties as chairman of the ministers' standing committee to Education Minister George J. Trapp of Saskatchewan Next year's CEA convention and coinciding ministerial meeting will be held at Regina.

The resolution proposing formation of a co-operation study committee drew unanimous approval from the 10 ministers.

It was introduced by Mr. Peterson and Mr. Trapp, members of the committee will be education ministers of the provinces, but did not make any references to specific projects or week areas.

Five Inches of Rain Fall In New York on Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP)—New York winds brought with it the heaviest 24-hour rainfall since Oct. 8, 9, 1903, when 11.17 inches fell.

Wednesday's downpour of 6.63 inches—5.54 inches. It played havoc with transportation.

Underground, sections of the city's vast subway system ground to a halt for as much as two hours because of flooding, which also shut down the Hudson tubes, a train service to New Jersey, for 36 minutes. Some 10,000 tubes commuters were affected as rain and water from high tides covered the tracks between Newark and Jersey City.

Some flights into and out of Kennedy and La Guardia airports were cancelled, delayed or diverted to other airports. Trans World Airlines diverted four of its overseas flights from Kennedy Airport to Montreal.

Rain and traffic arteries such as the Belt Parkway in Brooklyn and the Harlem and East River drives in Manhattan were closed in parts due to flooding.

High winds that knocked down power lines caused electric failures in Queens, Staten Island and suburban Westchester and Nassau counties.

Two deaths were weather-connected: A woman who slipped on wet pavement and fell under a bus in Manhattan, and a woodan driver whose car overturned and caught fire on the rain-slicked Long Island Expressway.

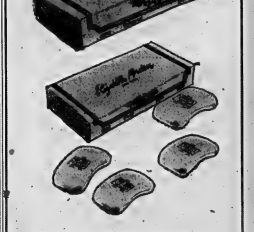
A total of 10,792 lares cheese, along with 10,016 squares and 2,823 specials were offered on the Belleville Cheese Exchange this week.

Of the total registar cheese, 8,094 were first grade white and 1,710 first grade colored. There were 6,150 first grade white square cheese and 2,823 first grade colored.



In both regular and square cheese categories, a small number of below third grade cheese were offered, possibly reflecting the effect of the virus which several weeks ago was reported to be affecting cheese grades.

First grade cheese sold at 42 cents for white and 42.3 cents for colored. Second grade cheese sold at 37 cents, third grade 24 and below third grade 20 cents per pound.

Ma-In-Law Problems No Joke to Mix Up

DEAR DORIS: My mother-in-law is the domineering type who tries to tell you in a nice way who can visit your home — not my relatives but hers are all right. She swears in every sentence she speaks, continually yells at my son.

DORIS CLARE

When we spend a week at the lake with her daughter and children, she had everything against my son. He was the one who was always bawled out and was told to smarten up when he didn't do anything. My son has difficulty in school and she told me: "There is no reason for that; after all, his mother is a teacher."

I am mixed up. I try and take it until I just can't any longer and break down crying. (I know crying won't help and why should I move out when I love my husband?) She tries to tell me teaching is too hard on my nerves when she's the one who is causing my trouble.

I tell my husband but he never seems to want to discuss it.— MIXED UP.

* * *

DEAR MIXED UP: Maybe this ma-in-law would take it out on anyone who presumed to marry her son. Giving up the front seat is tough on the best of mothers; for the domineering kind, well nigh impossible.

Bear in mind that her bluster is her attempt to smother her own failings. If she were really adequate, she could make friendly room for you and make her son happy.

Firmly run your own home; firmly assert that your son must not hear swear words; instead of crying work off your emotions in a well-timed spurt of righteous indignation. If won't kill you.

It might even shame your husband into sticking up for you.

I'm sending you my printed talk called "Why Suffer in Silence?"

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I'm quite slim except for the tops of my legs. From the knees up my legs are huge. I've tried dieting but this does not help very much. I've tried exercising but seldom have the time. — DESPERATE.

* * *

DEAR DESPERATE: There's no Abracadabra that can do it. If you are too busy to exercise and too unbelieving to diet, I give up.

Take another look at your schedule. Write me again when you are willing to give some time and effort to improving your figure.

DEAR DORIS: I have no problems. I'm going with the most wonderful guy in the world, I have great parents and I'm now in grade 13.

But I have something that may be helpful to some people. A homemade blackboard! I got a sheet of brisol board and painted it with India ink. Now it can be used as a blackboard and the chalk comes off easily with a piece of flannelette from some old pyjamas.

What good is a blackboard? Students may use it for studying and even grown-ups need one to write little reminders on, from day to day. The best thing about it is its uses are endless and it is still economical (something rare today.) — JES FINE.

DEAR JES: Good idea. Instead of posing a problem, your idea will solve another's. Thank you.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full - length gown of ivory matelasse brocade styled with Empire waistline and the bodice featuring a sand - up rolled collar and long fitted lily - point sleeves. The dress was highlighted at the back with a flowing train. A two - tier cathedral veil was caught by an ivory silk illusion headdress. She carried a colonial bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. David Daunter of Belleville as matron of honor and the bridesmaids Mrs. Wayne Stratton of Toronto, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Myrna Mather of Belleville were identically attired in floor - length gowns of French blue crepe featuring cowl back necklines and long fitted sleeves. Dear Susanna: A delicate solution to a delicate problem.

Group of PEI Women Tour Ont. in Pageant Written by Themselves

OTTAWA (CP) — Actors say stardom results from being in the right place at the right time.

For a group of Prince Edward Island women now touring Ontario in a historical pageant they produced and wrote themselves, the right place was Charlottetown and the right time was 1964, the island's centennial.

The group, members of a hospital auxiliary, decided to replace their annual fashion show that year with a pageant of the wives of the Fathers of Confederation to coincide authentic to the year their province or territory joined the country.

The P.E.I. centennial committee footed the $5,000 cost of gowns custom-fitted by a Toronto theatrical costumer.

The show—it is in Peterborough, Ont., today—was a hit at centennial banquets and festivals in P.E.I. and at one performance was spotted by members of the national centennial committee. They sponsored a western tour last fall and the current Ontario tour and arranged a two-week engagement next summer at Expo 67 in Montreal.

SUBJECT IS NEW

"I think they were interested because it's a subject which hadn't been touched before," says Mrs. Frank MacKinnon. A grey-haired green - eyed Dubliner who came to Canada at 18, she plays P.E.I.'s Mrs. John Hamilton Gray in the show.").

"Lots of research has been done on the Fathers of Confederation, but little is known about their wives."

The women spent two years researching the pageant, using local libraries and the Dominion and provincial archives for information on their subjects, and gleaning old recipes, hair styles and period accessories.

The group is a seasoned troupe now, to the point of constantly changing into costumes before telling each character's background in a documentary on the show.

"I've worn this dress more than any party dress I've ever owned," says Mrs. Charles F. Bently, a fragile blue - eyed blonde who plays Mrs. George Etienne Cartier.

She's been corseted and hooped into her scarlet velvet and white satin 1867 ball gown about 50 times from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

GOWN REFLECTS UNION

Mrs. Tom D. DeBlois, who models a white satin and lace wedding dress as the second Mrs. John A. Macdonald, says that besides giving the traditional fashion show finale, her gown symbolized the marriage of the provinces. Sir John A. took his second bride the January before the Confederation conference.

"We think we're lucky he didn't wait till 1868 to be married," Mrs. DeBlois says.

The two youngest members of the company are Anne Irwin, 18, playing Miss Charlottetown Confederation Conference, and Barbara Morreale, 17, a blonde 1966 Miss Loretta.

Ontario IODE chapters are handing tickets and publicity for the Matrimaxes as a pre-centennial project.

The show opened in Ottawa Monday night and moved to Picton Tuesday. The rest of the itinerary after Peterborough: Tweed, Sept. 22; Hamilton, Sept. 23; Niagara Falls, Sept. 26; London, Sept. 27; Chatham, Sept. 28; Windsor, Sept. 29.

Kinette Club Installs New Officers

TWEED — The regular monthly meeting of Tweed Kinette Club was held at Hotel Tweedmuir on Monday evening. After dinner President Mrs. Shirley Smith welcomed one new member, Mrs. Edna Blake.

The installation of the 1966-67 officers followed with past president, Mrs. Marlene Spencer officiating, and are as follows: past president, Mrs. Shirley Smith; president, Mrs. Doris Paquette; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Marian Little; secretary, Mrs. Marian Cope; treasurer, Mrs. Phyllis Thurston; social and sunshine, Mrs. Eileen Monaghan and Bonnie Stiles, Mrs. Eileen Hunter.

A letter was read by Mrs. Eileen Hunter from The Canadian Save the Children organization in regards to the adoption of a Korean child. The history of the child was given and a snapshot shown. It was agreed to adopt this little girl and a cheque was sent along with a letter for a christmas gift.

Mrs. Kathy Moffatt gave the treasurer's report and to date a total of 339 books have been sold. There will be a fall rammage sale with Mrs. Marian Little as convener.

Mrs. Daisy Rosevear, convener of the Town Club gave a talk on the future of the club and it was decided if more interest wasn't shown than the Town Club would be disbanded.

Perfect attendance pins were presented to the following: five years' perfect attendance, Mrs. Kathy Moffatt; four years; Mrs. Phyllis Thurston; three years, Mrs. Shirley Smith; two years, Mrs. Doris Paquette and one year, Mrs. Marian Little.

A uniform for the Tweed Club was discussed and further discussion will take place at the next meeting.

A donation was made to the C.N.I.B. The draw prizes were won by Mrs. Carola Bleeker and Mrs. Daisy Rosevear.

KINSMEN MEET

Tweed Kinsmen Club held their regular meeting at Stoco Lake Hotel. President John Thompson presided over the meeting.

Guests present were the Deputy-governor Mr. Fred Russell from Belleville and Mr. Roland Belanger, also of Belleville, the expansion chairman of the district.

The Kinsmen will have their annual canteen at Tweed Fall Fair, also a float in the parade.

Group of PEI Women Tour Ont. in Pageant Written by Themselves

OTTAWA (CP) — Actors say Mardon results from being in the right place at the right time.

For a group of Prince Edward Island women now touring Ontario in a historical pageant they produced and wrote themselves, the right place was Charlottetown and the right time was 1964, the island's centennial.

The group, members of a hospital auxiliary, decided to replace their annual fashion show that year with a pageant of the wives of the Fathers of Confederation in costumes authentic to the year their province or territory joined the country.

The P.E.I. centennial committee footed the $3,000 cost of gowns custom-fitted by a Toronto theatrical costumer.

The show—it is in Peterborough, Ont., today—was a hit at centennial banquets and festivals in P.E.I. and at one performance was spotted by members of the national centennial committee. They sponsored a western tour last fall and the current Ontario tour and arranged a two-week engagement next summer at Expo 67 in Montreal.

SUBJECT IS NEW

"I think they were interested because it's a subject which hadn't been touched before," says Mrs. Frank MacKinnon. A grey-haired green - eyed Dublin - who came to Canada at 16, she plays P.E.I.'s Mrs. John Hamilton Gray in the show.

"Lots of research has been done on the Fathers of Confederation, but little is known about their wives."

The women spent two years researching the pageant, using local libraries and the Dominion and provincial archives for information on their subjects, and pictures of dress, hair styles and period accessories.

The group is a seasoned troupe now, to the point of easily changing into costumes before milling cameramen shooting backstage footage for a documentary on the show.

"I've worn this dress more times any party dress I've ever owned," says Mrs. Charles F. Benily, a fragile blue - eyed blonde who plays Mrs. George Etienne Cartier.

She's been corseted and hooped into her scarlet velvet and white satin 1867 ball gown about 30 times from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

GOWN REFLECTS UNION

Mrs. Tom D. DeBlois, who models a white satin and lace wedding dress as the second Mrs. John A. Macdonald, says that besides giving the traditional fashion show finale, her gown symbolizes the marriage of the provinces. Sir John A. took his second bride the January before the Confederation conference.

"We think we're lucky he didn't wait till 1868 to be married," Mrs. DeBlois says.

The two youngest members of the company are Anne Irwin, 16, playing Miss Charlottetown Confederation Conference and Barbara Murrside, 17, a bloodi, 1966 majorette.

Ontario IODE chapters are handling tickets and publicity for the Martimaers as a pre-centennial project.

The show opened in Ottawa Monday night and moved to Picton Tuesday. The rest of the itinerary after Peterborough: Toronto, Sept. 22; Hamilton, Sept. 23; Niagara Falls, Sept. 26; London, Sept. 27; Chatham, Sept. 28; Windsor, Sept. 29.

Mrs. R. Blair 80th Birthday

Mrs. Robert H. Blair, 7 Albion Street, Belleville, celebrated her 80th birthday recently, and to mark the occasion was surprised with a party given by her family.

She received a gift from the family, many cards and flowers and a corsage of sweetheart roses from her great-granddaughter, Miss Linda Smith of Ajax.

A decorated birthday cake centred the buffet table during the serving of the birthday lunch.

BARBECUED PORK CUTTINGS

As I was leaning over the meat counter trying to make a decision, another customer came along, promptly picked up a package of "pork cuttings" then just before turning away said quietly to me, "The best buy in the store," and walked on. With this tip I picked up a package of them and found it to contain "pork from rib and rib tail" at 49c per lb. I decided to barbecue it.

BARBECUED PORK CUTTINGS (serves 4 greedily):

NOTE:

This method could be used for pork chops or spareribs. 2½ lbs. fresh pork cuttings or pork chops or spareribs.

Barbecue Sauce:

½ cup catsup
2 tsps. honey
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1½ tsps. vinegar
½ tsp. chili powder
¼ tsp. dry mustard
⅛ tsp. garlic salt

½ cup chopped green onions
½ medium-large eggplant peeled and sliced and slices cut into 1½" squares
2 summer apples pared and sliced fairly
1 large tomato peeled and sliced thickly
½ cup boiling water
½ cup fine breadcrumbs
½ tsp. salt
2 tbsps. melted butter

Arrange vegetables and apple in alternate layers in buttered baking dish. Sprinkle sparingly with salt on each layer. Pour boiling water over. Blend together crumbs, salt and melted butter and sprinkle over top. Bake at 350 deg. F.for about 1 hour until vegetables are tender and crumbs are golden.

WESLEYAN METHODIST W.M.S.

The Belleville Women's Missionary Society of the Wesleyan Methodist Church met for their September meeting in the church with Mrs. Lyla Votsary in charge.

After a time of prayer, Mrs. Joyce Lolley gave a resume of the devotional talks given at the annual conference by Rev. James Bidgway from Australia on the subject of "Peace." Peace is the heritage of the Christian, but if disturbed it will show in the attitude toward others.

The secretary, Mrs. Vivian Trotter read the secretary's report and the president conducted the business. It was announced that there will participate in the annual Hastings Manor bazaar. The third Tuesday of each month was selected as the regular WMS service night. Projects for the year include a Chapel fund for Silver Lake and Church Extension at Oshawa is to receive hymnals and a communion set from the Conference WMS.

WMS members were urged to remember the personal needs of missionary's children who are at college.

An interesting report was given on the business of the annual conference by the delegate Mrs. Joyce LeRoy who mentioned there were 37 missionaries being sent out this year.

The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Nora Elliott.

Metis Children Helped by New Method

EAST PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP)—Teacher Marion Loring says her experience in teaching Metis children English with a 44-letter phonetic alphabet has convinced her of its value.

The method is known as ITA—Initial Teaching Alphabet—which was devised by Sir James Pitman, the English educationist.

Last September, few of the Metis children here could speak, read or write English. By the end of the school year, Miss Loring says, a number had become fairly fluent with the help of ITA.

One boy who at first could do nothing more than string together a meaningless jumble of words was able to write a coherent story after two months. Another who had never been to school and couldn't read or write was producing 300-word stories by the end of the year.

ITA, in which each sound has its own symbol, has been used experimentally in some Vancouver schools in the last few years. Proponents say it helps the children through the first stages of learning English, after which they can switch easily to the normal alphabet.

In Nigeria, where Miss Loring taught for two years before coming to Alberta, the native children taught by the ITA method did far better, she says, than those using traditional methods.

Because of the success with the Metis — 90 per cent white - Indian parentage—she suggests it would be useful for teaching all children for whom English is not the first language.

Ann Landers

Father of Eleven Has Earned Pleasure Trip

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Try your oracular powers on this one:

A man, 70, still handsome and vigorous, is retired and loves to travel. His means are modest — a pension and social security. He has eleven children, all self-supporting. He could work but he won't. The old boy puts it this way: "I've worked my guts out for 50 years — put them all through college. Now my job is done and I'm going to have as much fun as I can in the years that are left to me."

ANN LANDERS

The man wants to take a long trip — maybe two months. His wife is too frail to travel, but she is encouraging him to go and enjoy himself. She wants to stay one month with one daughter, then one month with another daughter.

The children are up in arms. They say their father is a selfish old man, that he should stay at home with his wife and forget about living it up in his second childhood.

What do you say? — INTERESTED PARTY.

DEAR PARTY: So he could work but he won't? Well, a 75-year-old man who has put 11 kids through college shouldn't have to work if he doesn't want to.

I think those 11 college graduates ough to pitch in and make a gift of the trip to their dad. And welcome mother into their homes.

Mother sounds like a great person and I hope he writes her lots and lots of postcards from along the way. And if he goes abroad I hope he gets to Greece. It's the greatest.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 15-year-old girl who is very much attracted to a boy who is 17. The funny part of it is, I don't know this boy very well but I find myself dreaming about him four times a week. In my dreams I am very relaxed with Ron (pretend name.) and he is very relaxed with me.

When I see Ron in person I can't help but be real friendly, which surprises him a little. He doesn't realize that I have gotten to know him quite well through my dreams.

Don't tell me I'm wacky. Just tell me how I can get Ron to ask me out. — NIGHT ROMANCE.

DEAR NIGHT: One-way dreaming doesn't do much for a relationship. Now if you could get Ron to dream about you, that would help.

One advantage of being a girl is that you have to wait until a fellow asks you out. So don't crowd him, Honey. Remember there is strength in indifference.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our wonderful 24-year-old son returned from 13 months overseas duty to find his wife six months pregnant.

We knew about it but didn't write to him, figuring that when he came home he would throw her out and that would be the end of it. Well, he forgave her and now they are moving to another city "to start over."

Am I wrong to feel that our son has forsaken his father and me and rejected his religious training as well as his respect for decency? — HEARTBROKEN MOTHER.

* * *

DEAR MOTHER: I certainly do not condone the woman's behavior, but I admire your son's forgiving heart. You deserve credit for raising a remarkably charitable young man. I wish them well — and I wish you could.

Music Teachers' Association Holds Workshop

On Monday a workshop for the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association of the Belleville District, was conducted by Mr. Boris Berlin at the Albert College Manor. Mr. Berlin is the well known teacher, Royal Conservatory of Music Examiner and Composer.

The workshop consisted of a morning and afternoon session and around 30 teachers took advantage of this opportunity.

At the morning session, Mrs. G. H. Rennie, president of the local Branch of the O.R.M.T.A. welcomed the teachers and Miss Marjorie Woodard introduced the guest speaker. This session was devoted exclusively to Sight and Ear Training, these two subjects to have far more prominence in the future than heretofore. In the afternoon, Mr. Berlin dealt with technique, the basis of all good playing.

This workshop was sponsored by the Gordon V. Thompson Co. of Toronto and the material was supplied by Mr. Charlie Eastman. The books studied had been compiled by Mr. Berlin.

At the close of the afternoon session, Mrs. T. F. Townsend thanked Mr. Berlin for his leadership and all felt they had spent a most profitable and worthwhile day.

Pregnant Women Warned Against Using Certain Drug

TORONTO (CP) — The oral anti-diabetic drug chlorpropamide should not be taken by pregnant women because it has been associated with malformations of babies born birth, a medical seminar was told Wednesday.

Dr. W. T. Clarke, professor of therapeutics at the University of Toronto, said the drug, marketed under the trade name Diabanase, is reported in South Africa to have been taken by some women whose infants were severely malformed.

Dr. Clarke was speaking to physicians at the first of seven seminars arranged by Scarborough General Hospital's department of medicine.

He said one of the most commonly used oral anti-diabetic drugs, tolbutamide (Orinase), appears to be safe.

PREFERS INSULIN

But he said later that he prefers diabetic women to take insulin during pregnancy. Many patients are unwilling to switch to insulin, however, because it must be injected, he said.

Dr. Clarke said maternal mortality need to be no greater among diabetic mothers than among non-diabetic women and the risk that the woman's diabetes will be aggravated is small.

Dr. John R. Evans, dean and professor of medicine at McMaster University, Hamilton, told the seminar that heart disease in pregnant women is rare and can usually be handled successfully.

The great majority of women who complain of palpitations or shortness of breath during pregnancy do not have heart disease, he said. Heart murmurs are common in later stages of pregnancy.

Centennial Administration Director Getting Things Done

OTTAWA (CP) — Marianne Linnell, the only woman among 13 centennial administration directors, is the kind of person who gets things done—whether she has to do them herself or enlist the co-operation of others.

For example, on one cross-country air trip she had the cabin crew and passengers rolling out pink satin rosebuds and black lace for a gown she designed for a centennial ball.

The Vancouver native feels right at home on planes these days. In the last pushbtn Centennial Year, the directors meet every two weeks by plane as far apart as Ottawa, Charlottetown and Yellowknife.

"I have the typical feminist problems with hair styles and clothes but other than that the travelling is wonderful," the tall 51-year-old widow said after a board meeting in Ottawa.

A former Vancouver alderman, Mrs. Linnell is also one of three women partners in a real estate firm. "It started out as an all-girl operation, but we had so many applications from men we decided to stop discriminating."

A distinguished looking woman with greying chestnut hair in a Mme. Vanier upsweep, she was born in Calgary, the daughter of a prominent member of the Alberta legislature. She herself was an unsuccessful Social Credit candidate in Vancouver-Burrard in the last federal election.

A home economics graduate of the University of Alberta, she was married in 1942 to Lloyd Linnell, an RCAF squadron leader. Two years later he was shot down over Berlin, where he is buried. Her only child Robert, 22, works on documentary films at the National Film Board in Montreal.

Mrs. Linnell's favorite among the centennial programs is the youth travel project.

"One girl I know from Vancouver was disappointed because her trip was only to Weyburn, Sask. Naturally she would have liked to come all the way east, but after she came home she admitted she was delighted with the Prairies and the hospitality of a small town. For a city child, who had never seen the wheat fields, it was a wonderful experience."

She is also enthusiastic about Festival Canada, which will see drama and opera companies and orchestras from Canada and abroad touring the country. "It will include all kinds of arts — I'm not a highbrow and I think folk singers and Don Messer are just as much a part of our culture."

She keeps a housewifely eye on the centennial budget. "We try to make one dollar do the work of 30." The whole blast will cost more than $20,000,000 but she says that's quite in the scale. It costs $60,000,000 to run Vancouver for a year.

During 1967 Mrs. Linnell will be busy making speeches. She addresses a different group every week on her present schedule. Once she spoke to a luncheon in Charlottetown and another in Vancouver on the same day.

After the year is over she may go back to the comparatively small world of civic politics, or perhaps join another run at the House of Commons.

Psychiatrists Don't Talk Same Tongue

OTTAWA (CP) — Psychiatrists don't talk the same language as their lower - class patients, says a Winnipeg sociologist.

And therapists are sometimes hindered in their attempts to help these patients because of disgust or impatience with lower-class attitudes.

Writing in Canadian Nurse, Kenneth Davidson, a professor at United College, says lower-class patients do not seek psychiatric aid soon enough and tend to stay in hospital longer with less benefit.

He quotes an American study as showing that many therapists were repelled by the crude, vulgar language and outbursts of violence displayed by lower-class patients.

"They complained about the lower-class patient's immaturity and the dullness of these patients."

As a result there was no rapport between patient and therapist, reducing the effectiveness of treatment.

Another study showed that lower-class persons were slow to recognize signs of mental illness. The disease thus became firmly entrenched before treatment was undertaken, requiring a longer time to effect a cure.

Some lower - class patients were forced to remain in hospital because their families didn't want them back. They could not be released when partially cured because they could not afford private psychiatric help.

AFRAID TO LEAVE

Other patients didn't want to leave hospital because "the reality situation of the lower classes is threatening, harsh and in many ways hopeless."

Making the mental hospital a pleasant middle-class situation might not be in the best interests of the lower-class patient, Prof. Davidson says.

"It may engender attitudes of retreat and dependence. Moreover, to force middle-class norms would be to increase the burden of guilt that psychiatrists are trying to remove."

Prof. Davidson says mental health treatment should be related to the patient's social background.

"Primary emphasis should be given to ways in which the patient can understand and solve the realities that frustrated him in his environment."

Then, on discharge, he would be able "to deal more effectively with the problems he will have to face as a result of his lower-class position."

Dr. Ross Burtt, president, chaired the meeting. Mrs. Kitchener was the pianist.

Mrs. R. D. Armott presented a past president's pin to Mrs. J. Demeza, last year's president. Mrs. Armott stated that by her efforts, Mrs. Demeza had greatly increased the prestige and strength of the Belleville Club.

Dr. Burtt introduced The Honorable Robert N. Thompson, M.P., National Leader of the Social Credit Party, the guest speaker of the evening. Mr. Thompson is an outstanding Canadian, interested in many fields. He is member of parliament for Red Deer, Alta.

Mr. Thompson brought greetings from the Canadian Club of Calgary to the Belleville Club. He said that, though many politicians become lost in the false atmosphere of Parliament Hill, he prefers to make many speeches, thereby keeping in touch with the problems of the people.

His timely topic was, "Canada, One to One Hundred." As centennial nears, the speaker suggested that it is high time all Canadians, individually and collectively, take stock to make sure where they are going from here.

DIFFICULT TIME

"This is a difficult time to be a good Canadian," he said, "and yet, through study, I have learned that the problems of today are not far different or more difficult than those faced by the Fathers of Confederation 100 years ago. Twelve years after Confederation "The London Truth" condemned those who were trying to put a railway across Canada. They talked of crossing the prairies, and the impassable mountains and said it was a waste of time and robbery of the people's money. Only because of vision and determination the railway was built."

When the United Empire Loyalists first settled in the Eastern townships they had left everything behind to carve for themselves a better way of life in a wilderness. It would have been easier at that time, by economic and communication standards, for British Columbia to unite with those below the 49th parallel. A political unity could have been established. It would have been easier for Ontario to join with the State of New York and the Maritimes with New England, but, due to the convictions of the stalwarts of those years, this did not happen. It was their unwavering intention to establish a nation in order to guarantee a way of life that was more important to them than anything else."

POLITICAL DIFFERENCES

"The differences between the political parties of 100 years ago were much more intense than today and political debates were much more intense. There has always been the Quebec problem but Upper and Lower Canada did get together and were able to draft the finest document ever composed by man, "The British North America Act." We do not need a new constitution today. We need to live up to the one we have."

"One of the reasons that we are in trouble today is that there are too many Canadians who do not care whether there is a Canada or not. Many are so concerned with the flag that they do not realize that flags do not make a nation. It is the history of the country that makes it. At the beginning the French knew that they did not want to return to the way of life in France; the British did not want to return to Britain or the United States. They wanted to mold their own way of life in Canada."

"The Confederating Fathers were convinced that a democracy based on the British system of government, could only be vitally active if the right of the minorities was protected. In this way majority rule would be strong, guaranteeing the rights of the people to freedom of worship, speech, assembly and the right to own property. These rights belonged to the minority and the country could not be strong unless these rights were present. Because the men who wrote our Constitution believed this, they established it in such a way that it has filtered down to us."

Mr. Thompson mentioned that Canada's motto, "From Sea to Sea," is a quotation from the Psalms, "And He shall have dominion from sea to sea." "Canada can only survive if it is a nation under God."

"I believe," he said, that we are the most over-governed nation in the free world. We need a new approach. I would suggest a consultative government. All governments must be brought together, municipal, provincial and federal, before legislation is drafted that are working against each other. During the railroad strike some R.T.'s encouraged the men not to return to work. Labor, industry and governments must work together. Management that does not recognize the problems of its employees is stupid."

"We must not expect the government to do everything for us. We have been the attitude 100 years ago Canada could not have survived. We must hold fast on government expenditures for they must not exceed the productivity growth of the nation. We must set priorities and abide by them." Mr. Thompson suggested that the three top priorities should be education, then health and thirdly pensions. "We must pay in reserve," he said. Let us not rob the goose that lays the golden egg. If we do it will be charged to the yet unborn generations. Governmental expenditures and growth must be restricted."

"The underlying premise is this," he concluded. "We are a nation only because our forefathers were determined there would be a nation. They planned and their own personal needs were secondary."

"Canada has a destiny in the world. People respect Canada. We are a nation and a people under God, with responsibility to our nation, our government and ourselves. If we do not keep working at being good Canadians we will fall apart. This is our challenge in this year of Centennial."

Dr. Burtt threw the meeting open to a short question period and Mr. D. McKinnon thanked the speaker.

Lunch and a social time followed the closing of the meeting.

Most Apartment Dwellers Pay Higher Rents; Vacancies Fewer

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If you're an apartment dweller who has signed a new lease in the last six months, chances are you had your rent raised.

If you moved from one building to another this year, it's possible you're paying as much as 25 per cent more than the previous tenant.

If you live in a city and the landlord didn't raise the rent when he had a chance, you're in a minority.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that rent stability for apartments has prevailed in only a few cities during the last year.

Examples are St. John's, Nfld., Charlottetown, Saint John, N.B., Ottawa, Winnipeg and Regina, where increases on the average have been moderate.

But this doesn't mean rents are necessarily lower in these cities than in those where there have been sharper increases in the last 12 months.

Without climbing into the luxury class, you can pay $125 a month for an average one-bedroom apartment in St. John's. In Sarnia, Ont., where some rents are up as much as 26 per cent and new buildings are not keeping pace with demand, you'll pay $85 to $120 for similar accommodation.

The spread is about $80 to $90 in Saint John and Charlottetown, $85 to $90 in Regina, around $100 in Ottawa.

OLD AREAS CHEAPER

The pattern of rent increases is not necessarily uniform for all parts of a specific city. In Quebec City, for example, rents in older areas have remained stable because of government controls.

But allowing for such regional economic variations, rents are fairly general, with most cities reporting increases in the five-to-15-per-cent range for the last year.

The reasons are varied. In some areas tight money has curbed apartment construction, leaving growing population to vie for dwindling vacancies.

Landlords report costs rising. They may have to pay higher municipal taxes or bigger salaries to janitors and more for other maintenance.

And if the building is a new one, it cost more to construct than one built several years ago, with the result that recovery of the investment prompts higher rents.

Tenants are grumbling, of course, but in the absence of a wide choice of simpler apartments—some areas report the vacancy rate as low as two per cent—there isn't much they can do except sign a lease for the higher rent figure.

Several agents suggested that the absence of any real protest reflects a conditioning brought about by higher prices generally.

It is possible to get a bargain on rent if you happen to live in the right place. For example, some large buildings on the outskirts of Ottawa have had difficulty renting. Some have dropped rents below cost in order to fill the apartments. But even there increases are likely before the end of 2000.

HOUSES SCARCE

While the right apartment is usually available if you are willing to pay the asking price, it's not that easy with rental housing. A spokesman for the Halifax - Dartmouth real estate board says land values are so high it's not profitable to build rental homes.

This is apparently the situation in other cities as well. The result is that a three-bedroom rental house in a reasonably good neighborhood is difficult to find. If you get one, you can figure on paying anything from $130 to $200 a month.

One city where rents have remained fairly steady during the last year is Montreal (where you can get a one-bedroom apartment in a middle-class building for from $120) but this doesn't apply to new buildings.

They're putting in such extras as saunas, party rooms and swimming pools and they're offering maid service, with the result that they must go at substantially higher rents.

With rental houses hard to find, some Torontonians are turning to the increasingly popular townhouses and row dwellings. But they aren't always cheap. The average rent is $295 to $295 and this is 10 to 25 per cent higher than last year.

Winnipeg, where one agency estimates rents are going up 2.5 to five per cent annually, is an example of a city with a low vacancy rate—4.3 per cent in the downtown area and two per cent elsewhere.

Another is Calgary where 20 months ago there was a 16-to-18-per-cent vacancy rate. Now it's less than four.

BUILDING SLOWS DOWN

The slowdown of construction is evident in Edmonton where 32 apartment buildings containing 597 units were under building built in the first seven months of this year compared with 44 buildings and 1,262 units in the same period of 1965. An average one-bedroom apartment rents for $100 to $120, up about $5 from last year.

Vancouver reports a rise of about five per cent in rents in the last year—more for an average one-bedroom apartment which now is about $120 a month compared with $115. And in May of this year vacancies were down to 1.6 per cent from 4.4 a year earlier. What's more, the 2,000 units expected to be completed this year are about half the number built a year ago.

The pattern holds for many smaller cities as well. Victoria, where you can get an average one-bedroom apartment for $80, reports a five-per-cent increase, and Saskatoon residents must pay about $95 for a similar building.

One indication of change in the rent picture is provided by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics rent index. Taking the level of rents in August, 1950, as a quantity of 100, there a rise in the last year of 4.6— from 257.4 to 262.2 in Toronto; 2.1—from 148.4 to 148.7 in Halifax, and 2.6—from 147.3 to 149.2 in Calgary.

Montreal was up 1.7 to 264.8, Saint John, N.B., 1.5 to 257.5, Vancouver 1.4 to 243.7, St. John's, Nfld., 1.4 to 236.2, Edmonton 1.0 to 239, Saskatoon 0.8 to 230.2, Ottawa 0.7 to 255.1, Regina 0.7 to 232.3 and Winnipeg 0.6 to 241.2.

However, the DBS index covers only accommodation that rented for $200 a month or less. In 1965, And rental agents in several cities say the inclusion of higher-priced accommodation would significantly alter the index of increases.

Rent increases in Ontario cities have varied, ranging from such communities as Barrie, where rents haven't risen in the last year, to Niagara Falls, where they have gone up 25 to 35 per cent.

A sampling of rents in a dozen or so cities shows you can get a one-bedroom apartment in a middle-class building for from $120 to $180. But this doesn't apply to new buildings.

A sampling of rents in a dozen or so cities shows you can get a one-bedroom apartment in a fairly good neighborhood for anywhere from $95 to $150.

As in the rest of Canada, there is an extreme shortage of houses for rent, with practically none available in such cities as Sarnia, North Bay and St. Catharines. And you can pay $120 and three-bedroom house for rent, you can expect to pay from $90 to $175 a month depending on age and condition.

Cities where rents are estimated to have risen 20 to 25 per cent for apartments include Peterborough, Welland, and North Bay. Brantford has experienced a five-to-15-per-cent rise.

Joining Niagara Falls in the 20-to-25-per-cent range is Sarnia, while St. Catharines reports a rise of about 25 per cent.

Conditions are better in some other cities. Fort William reports a rise of about seven per cent, Cornwall and Sarnia did as per cent, Kingston five and Sudbury three to 10 per cent.

Churchill and Beaverbrook Had Stormy Friendship

By JIM ANDERSON

LONDON (CP) — They met in 1911.

Max Aitken, later Lord Beaverbrook, was 32, a self - made Canadian millionaire newly arrived in Britain, hungry for a role at the centre of political power and already a Conservative member of the British Parliament.

Winston Churchill, born to lands and power, at 36 was home secretary in the Liberal government, a popular hero of the left, a scourge of the moneylords and a successful writer.

The friendship, fallings out, fittings and makings of the two from then until they died within six months of each other in the mid - 1960s, is documented in Churchill and Beaverbrook by Kenneth Young, just published.

The book is based on the Beaverbrook archives to which the author has access, and includes many letters between the two and notes and letters by Beaverbrook about Churchill.

Neither man made close friends easily and their intimacy did not really develop until the First World War, when Aitken stood by Churchill when political fortune turned against him.

By that time the young Canadian had already established himself as a political kingmaker, helping another Canadian, Andrew Bonar Law, to the leadership of the Conservative party.

SERVES IN CABINET

By the end of the war they were serving together in the coalition cabinet — Beaverbrook, as minister of information and Churchill as minister of munitions.

It was during that war that Beaverbrook became a peer and found his calling as publisher of the mass - circulation Daily Express.

But the friendship soon cooled. Beaverbrook opposed the intervention in the Russian civil war and Churchill's willingness to go to war with Turkey in 1922.

Soon the press lord was urging Prime Minister David Lloyd George to manoeuvre Churchill into the political wilderness, and later Beaverbrook helped break up the coalition government — a development which cost Churchill his seat in Parliament.

They patched things up and fell out again and on during the next 20 years.

Some of the fallings out were political and the two remained friends. But in one exchange in 1925 Churchill said their relationship was like that of a wolf and a lamb — with Beaverbrook the wolf and "made repeated and extremely spiteful attacks upon the lamb, and has repeatedly compassed his destruction."

Beaverbrook's reply ended frostily: "I've not bother to answer this letter."

TWO QUARREL

During the general strike of 1926 they had a quarrel of which Beaverbrook wrote:

"If any other living man had used such outrageous language to me as he did on that occasion, I should never have forgiven him. Churchill on the top of the war was in the stuff of which tyrants are made."

By 1929 Beaverbrook — like most of Britain — had turned against Churchill and thought him "utterly unreliable" although they had a brief alliance on the same side in the crisis over the abdication of King Edward VIII.

The Second World War brought them together again and Beaverbrook served in Churchill's war cabinet. After that, close friendship always remained despite political disagreements.

China Giving No Evidence Of Seeking U.S. Showdown

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The march of events tends to destroy widely - held theories, such as the one that China is waiting for the excuse to tangle with the United States and suck it into destruction in Southeast Asia.

If excuse is required, the war in Viet Nam provides plenty of opportunity, including the American air attack acknowledgment—for the first time—that it may have breached Chinese air space with combat planes.

But while China gives strong support to the Viet Cong and children the Americans with words, it shows no evidence of seeking a direct showdown.

Underneath internal political commotion and the rise of the Red Guards is sweep our every last particle of foreign influence are taking up much of Mao Tse-Tung's time and energy.

The next great event in China may be a change of guard, a change of direction with the successor as militant as ever, struggling to retain support in the world's greatest human mass, much of it poorly fed and hungry.

The need for food led to the theory that the Viet Nam war was a exasperate for China's real interest in Asia. But most of the great rice bowl of the peninsula. Sheer progress of population would force this China to seek to surge over their borders and sweep neighboring regions offering the least resistance.

But now the latest theory heard in British quarters is that the great showdown will not be between China and the U.S. over the rice bowl of Southeast Asia but between China and the Soviet Union over the sparsely - populated land mass of Mongolia and Siberia.

In one man's view—and this man asked not to be identified—the great struggle would develop over the decades in two stages: First over Mongolia and then over Siberia.

Mongolia is about one-half the size of Europe with a population of only about 1,000,000. It once belonged to China but has been independent since 1921 and gets protection from Russia.

Last June China publicly complained of Sino-Mongolian frontier incidents, entered charges that the Russians have abducted Chinese citizens and that the Russians are carrying out border manoeuvres with the Chinese as the hypothetical enemies.

There is evidence that these borders are getting greater attention on both sides. But whether China would risk military entanglement is another matter.

Brezhnev On Visit To Tito

BELGRADE (Reuters) —Leonid Brezhnev, leader of the Soviet Communist party, was due here today for a three-day private visit to Yugoslavia and talks with President Tito on the situation in the Communist world and other major international issues.

Brezhnev was due from Sofia, where he has had secretary-shrouded talks with Bulgarian Communist leaders during the last few days.

Brezhnev's arrival here coincided with another step taken by Yugoslavia in purging its state security service.

A government commission announced Wednesday night the security service will have considerably reduced executive powers and preliminary investigations would be carried out by the courts only.

The commission, headed by Premier Petar Stambolic, was formed late July to reorganize the security service after a fiery sharp criticism of the secret police for abuse of power.

In another development, Mihajlo Mihajlov, outspoken anti-Communist intellectual, went on trial at Zadar today on charges arising from articles he recently published abroad criticizing Tito's one-party state.

Mihajlov, 32, is charged with spreading false information abroad about the country's internal political and social situation.

24 Aboard Aussie Plane Die in Crash

BRISBANE (Reuters) — A four - engined Viscount airliner crashed in flames today near Winton in northwestern Queensland State, killing all 24 persons aboard.

First rescue teams on the scene found five bodies. Wreckage of the aircraft was scattered over half a mile.

It was Australia's first major commercial airline crash since November, 1960.

The aircraft was on a scheduled flight from Mount Isa, Queensland, to Brisbane when the pilot reported an engine on fire.

Civil aviation officials gave him immediate clearance for an emergency landing at Winton, about 800 miles north of Brisbane.

The Viscount crashed 12 miles from Winton.

Report on Use of Icefields As Airports in High Arctic

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department has long been concerned about the possible need for conducting military operations in the high Arctic where permanent aircraft landing strips are few.

Consequently, it has been investigating the possibility of using ocean and lake ice as airfields and commissioned a McGill University research group at Montreal to undertake such studies.

E. R. Founder and M. P. Langleben of McGill report on the subject in a paper made public today by the council.

"Large-scale ground warfare in the Canadian Arctic regions is very improbable, on logistic grounds alone. Small-scale field operations are considerable, however, for such purposes as defence against subversive intrusion," the report says.

In the Arctic Archipelago, sea transportation is limited to brief periods of the year — two or three months in Hudson Strait and Greenlandic Gulf to as little as two or three weeks in Lancaster Sound.

Most of the area north and west of Lancaster Sound, which lies between Baffin and Devon Islands, is inaccessible to surface vessels other than ice-breakers, which have limited cargo space.

Aircraft provided the only answer to the transportation problem in the Far North, ice could provide natural airstrips as well as routes for movement of men and vehicles for distances up to 50 miles after being landed from the air.

Mr. Founder and Mr. Langleben say ski-equipped planes of the 13-ton, two-engine Dakota type can land safely on ice that will not have helped others, hasn't been used long enough" to have become thick enough".

Missile System For Canadian Navy Approved

HALIFAX (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer announced Wednesday that government approval has been given for the development and purchase of all-weather, close range, surface-to-air missile system for the Canadian Navy.

He told a press conference that the system—called the Canadian Sea Sparrow—will be fitted in four new helicopter destroyers and two new support ships to provide an effective defence against air attack.

Total cost for design, prototype construction, system production and initial system procurement would be $25,700,000.

The minister said the system will use the Sparrow missiles employed by the United States Navy, coupled with a fire control system designed in the Netherlands and a launcher developed in Canada.

BAN BEATLE CUTS

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) Beatle-type haircuts have been banned in the Brazilian air force by Air Minister Eduardo Gomes. The minister's order has also ruled out beards and moustaches for all ranks.

No Pressure For Autopsy Says Official

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McGee say they were "pressured" at the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children to allow an autopsy on their daughter, Sherri Lee, who died Saturday shortly after being separated by doctors from her Siamese twin sister, Crystal Ann.

The hospital promptly denied that it brought pressure. The twins' parents had refused permission for an autopsy.

Crystal Ann remained in critical condition in the hospital, but officials said she was progressing satisfactorily.

In a statement Wednesday the parents said the pressure did not come from Dr. James Simpson or the medical team involved in the operation, but from others.

John T. Law, hospital administrator, denied that the hospital had used pressure and said Wednesday he had asked staff member other than Dr. Simpson and Dr. Paul Swyer, in charge of the medical team where the babies were tended to, to discuss the matter. He then discussed an autopsy with the McGees.

PRESSURE

"The last thing we would want to do would be to bring pressure to bear on them at a time like this," he said.

"The hospital's feeling is that this post-mortem examination is a right of the parents. There is no resentment among doctors that the autopsy was not permitted."

He said he was concerned that the parents were approached during a time made to feel guilty for refusing to give permission for an autopsy.

Mr. and Mrs. McGee, who live in Guelph, said in a statement: "Dr. Simpson has explained to us that the cause of death was almost certainly known and they (the surgeons) have already received much knowledge.

"We would have been quite willing to have an autopsy if it would help other people and children like ours. But as it would not have helped others, hasn't been used long enough" to have become thick enough".

Warns Against Special Favors For the Queen

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Bourgault, leader of le Rassemblement pour l'Independance national, said Wednesday that if the Queen receives special treatment during her visit to this world's fair city, "I do not know what will happen "but it could be possible."

Mr. Bourgault said in an interview the position of his separatist party on the subject of the Queen's visit is clear.

"If she comes to Expo as Queen of England and she is received in the same way as other foreign sovereigns who come to Expo with visits during Expo, nothing will happen. There won't be a stir. But if she is received as Queen of Canada, she enjoys special treatment, I don't know what will happen, but anything is possible."

In the last issue of l'Independance, the party's bi-monthly publication, Mr. Bourgault openly suggested the possibility of the Queen's assassination when she visits Montreal.

MENTION MARKSMEN

It said Prime Minister Pearson would be endangering his own life when he strolled with the Queen, because "... not all marksmen are called Oswald. The local throwers of bricks may try to draw attention to their political ideas, those of Belfast, but with less—or more—luck."

Mr. Bourgault said that those who produce the publication are allowed great freedom and for the party—"whose member he is" he also ruled out beards and moustaches for all ranks.

Comrade, We Hate You

MOSCOW (Reuters) — China's militant young Red Guards have told Soviet diplomats in Peking that they will "tear the skin from you and rip out your guts," it was reported today.

The threat, on a hand - painted poster outside the Soviet embassy, was reported by Russian youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda.

Red Guards from Peking's Institute of People's Medicine hung the poster by the embassy gates, it said, presumably during last month's two - day demonstration against Soviet "revisionism."

"All the old and new hatred is gathered on our hearts," the poster said. "We won't forget is in a hundred, a thousand or ten thousand years."

"When the moment comes, we will tear the skin from you, rip out your guts, burn your bodies and throw the ashes to the winds."

Seven Held Responsible For Girl's Death

MONTREAL (CP) — Seven young men were held criminally responsible Wednesday by a coroner's jury for the death of Jean Corbo, a 15-year-old Montreal girl, who died when a bomb he was carrying apparently exploded prematurely.

The explosion occurred near a Dominion Textile Co. Ltd. plant in the Ville St. Laurent area of west - end Montreal. At the time a strike, marred by violence, was in progress at four other Dominion Textile plants in the province.

Held criminally responsible for Corbo's death were Serge Demers, 21, Pierre Vallerie, 27, Real Lapierre, 21, Gerard Laquerre, 24, Charles Gagnon, 26, Marcel Faulkner, 21, and Claude Durand, 19.

POLICE SEEK TWO

Vallerie and Gagnon are still being sought by police.

The seven testified under protection of the court that he and the other seven members of the Front de Liberation Quebecois.

He testified that all took part in a meeting last June when it was decided to bomb the plant as a demonstration of support for the strikers.

Demers said all of the group except Durand met on Sunday of the FLQ's central committee.

The witness testified that Corbo had expressed willingness to take some action and was supposed to carry out the bomb mission.

MONTREAL (CP) — Richard Bouchoux, 27, was arraigned Wednesday on a charge of non-capital murder in the death of Mrs. Theresa Morin, 64, who died in hospital at a north-end Montreal shoe factory fire.

Bouchoux was held criminally responsible with seven others last Friday for the time bomb blast that killed Miss Corbo, one hand, be more discreet and more discriminating about drawing state police's attention to matters, which in our opinion need attention, and about the way people prejudged us, on the other hand, we could be considerably more open-minded about making personal contributions of time and effort to matters political, social, economic or otherwise, which we believe need attention and improvement."

He said we have to learn to put up or shut up.

Mr. Pearson said the world is changing and it is not going to adjust to suit us. "Our power to help is large, however, to adapt ourselves to a changing environment and in so doing, perhaps exercise some constructive influence on the nature of the society in which we live."

He said society is composed of many groups of people, "who because of their separate functions, interests or activities stand at different vantage points in the social fabric and possess identical situations from substantially different points of view.

"It is the interaction of these diverse points of view which constitutes the strength, and at the same time, the weakness of our society. Strength, because the diversity provides the light and shadow, the healthy differences of opinion, even the conflicts, which keep our society vital and progressive. Weakness, because each group tends, only too readily, to assume its viewpoint is the only acceptable or accurate one and that all others are false, or mistaken or biased."

WELL ATTENDED

"The truth is, of course, that our society is a synthesis, a kaleidoscope of many colors and shades of thought and all are needed to give the whole picture. Danger comes when any group begins to think that it, and it alone, holds the key to the salvation of the society."

The meeting at the Hotel Quinte was attended by over 100 Chamber members and their wives. President Fred Deacon said the major project now under way by the Chamber is the beautification of the downtown area. "This is a question which has been on everybody's mind and we sent out questionnaires to all Front Street merchants and property owners and are pleased with the results so far.

He said the Chamber plans to hold a meeting in October to show a film and have a speaker on the Norwich Plan that was used to beautify the downtown area of Niagara Falls.

Mr. Deacon said he was glad that Belleville and District Labour Council president, George Danaird attended the meeting. "George and I are working together on the United Appeal," he said, "and I think it is a healthy thing when labor and businessmen are working together in a community to make the community a better place in which to live."

Mayor Jack Ellis brought greetings from the city. "The staff of Northern have always been civic-minded individuals," he said. "And of course, the employment of city people on the staff of Northern is appreciated by the city."

Must Think for Ourselves Northern Electric Officials Tell C of C Members, Guests

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce was told last night that we are all dealers in sell and - hand ideas and too often lacking in originality of thought and action.

Speaking at the fall meeting of the Chamber, V. O. Marquez, vice president and executive vice president of Northern Electric Co., Montreal, said: "We have an almost pathological urge to seize other people's solutions and patch them up to fit our problems.

"Pickingother people's brains may seem to be a useful exercise, and businessmen often resort to it on the basis of economics, but there really is no substitute for originality, creativity or self - reliance."

"If we always let others do our thinking for us, we lose the ability to think for ourselves — and we never even have the satisfaction of making our own mistakes."

He said problems are creative opportunities in disguise and it is essential to us our own creativity before we look to others for help.

"If we insist on using secondhand ideas we shall find that, like second - hand clothes, they may be adequate to cover the present but ideal never quite fit."

Mr. Marquez said we often register complaint without accepting responsibility . . . "our effortless contribution to the cause of virtue, without committing ourselves to personal involvement. We want to swim without getting wet.

WORLD CHANGING

"We can't, all of us, try personally to fix everything we think should be improved. But I rather think we could, on the one hand, be more discreet and more discriminating about drawing state police's attention to matters, which in our opinion need attention, and about the way people prejudged us, on the other hand, we could be considerably more open-minded about making personal contributions of time and effort to matters political, social, economic or otherwise, which we believe need attention and improvement."

U.S. Senator Urges Greater Unification of Transport On the Great Lakes

WASHINGTON (CP)—Greater unification of Canadian-United States water transport on the Great Lakes was urged Wednesday by Michigan Senator Philip Hart.

He also called on the U.S. government to head off high Canadian "lockage" fees on the Welland Canal by proposing to participate in Canadian plans for expanding the all-Canadian canal.

"There are those who insist that we employ reciprocal action by tolling the locks at Sault Ste. Marie," Hart told a Senate subcommittee. "For the moment I would rather see us meet with Canada than enter a toll war."

The Democrat testified as the committee concluded a two-day hearing of a bill supported by 34 other senators and 40 members of the House of Representatives.

The bill's purpose is to prevent the toll increase favored by Canada and American governments—at least as the U.S. action is concerned—by the Soo Canal and repayment burdens of the American seaway agency.

Vice-President Philip A. Hollar of the Association of American Railroads said in opposing the bill it would perpetuate the "already - inadequate" Seaway Corp. payments on a government loan of $140,000,000.

This financed the American portion of the Seaway and the St. Lawrence Seaway as a whole.

Hart said seaway business is expanding at a fantastic pace. But rules and requirements were such that it would take a "Houdini, a sorcerer, a medium and a voodooist to exorcise the debt."

He added concern about anticipated financing for Canadian plans to add another canal at Welland and perhaps also proceed with twinning locks in the St. Lawrence Seaway as well.

At his request, the U.S. Corps of Army Engineers has been authorized to study duplicating the Canadian seaway - lock plans, he said, so that in the future the American facilities would not form bottlenecks.

"It is my belief that Canada is insisting on high (Welland) lockage fees amounting to $1,000 a round trip per ship in five years to support the cost of this enormous undertaking." This indicated on one hand Canadian expectations of brisk seaway growth and on the other the prospect of stifling such growth with high user fees, he said Welland fees would be more onerous than increased seaway tolls.

Hart said the Welland Canal should be considered part of the seaway, as the Sault locks tend to be regarded, and the U.S. should "initiate discussions with the Canadian government to explore the possibility of our participation in the new Welland."

Strikers Will Hold Meet to Air Grievances

BRAMPTON (CP) — Without workers who closed down the American Motors (Canada) Ltd. plant Wednesday were to hold a meeting today to air grievances.

The strikers, members of Local 1285 of the United Auto Workers union, say they are protesting a company practice of placing outside workers for new jobs.

The unrest flared into the open Tuesday when about 250 workers walked off their jobs and set up picket lines outside the assembly and engine plants. The remainder of the staff stayed on the job and production continued until the end of the shift.

At 2 a.m. the picket line was strengthened by other workers leaving at the end of the night shift. They remained outside the plant and joined the morning shift.

Most of the plant's big assembly lines were re-started during the unveiling of the 1967 Rambler cars at the time.

There was one incident Wednesday when a taxi attempting to cross the picket line was pounded and kicked by the strikers.

Ernest Middleton, plant personnel manager, said the strike was illegal and the company would not meet the men to discuss grievances until the workers were back at their jobs.

The walkout was down by a strange coincidence that the company's parent plant in Milwaukee was shut down by a wildcat strike at exactly the same time the Brampton plant was struck.

James Petere, union president, said he could not comment on the strike and that the meeting was today to determine what the strikers' grievances were.

Attendants Will Book Sick Next Tuesday to Support Wage Demands

AURORA, Ont. (CP)—Attendants at the Ontario Hospital here voted Tuesday night to book off sick next Tuesday in support of wage demands.

A spokesman said the protest would be for one day but might be repeated later if there is no response to the demands.

A similar protest was staged Monday by attendants and nurses' aides at the Ontario Hospital in North Bay. A spokesman said Tuesday the action may be repeated if workers are not satisfied with the outcome of attempts to see Premier John Robarts this week.

The Aurora spokesman said the vote by the 53 attendants at the hospital there was unanimously in favor of the protest but said not all of the attendants would book off sick at once.

"We still have a skeleton staff on duty," he said.

A spokesman for the North Bay workers said aides and attendants at the Ontario Hospital in London, Ont., are to book off sick within the next two days. Earlier he had said nine Ontario Hospitals across the province would support the North Bay workers but a spokesman for the Civil Service Association of Ontario, which bargains for the workers, discounted this.

The CSAO contract covering the workers expires April 1, 1967, and the association's directorate is dissociated itself from the protests, which it says violate the contract. The association wants to begin bargaining in January but the attendants' spokesmen are demanding immediate $1,500 across-the-board increases.

Gordon Cravenhurst, head of the association's Orillia-Edgar branch which employs 1,035 workers, said today no similar action is contemplated at hospitals in his area. He said 285 people in the Cravenhurst also plan no protest.

"There is definite unrest here but there is no more afoot to stage any demonstration or strike."

Earlier, the spokesman for the North Bay workers, said one-day protest action had been planned at hospitals in Orillia and Edgar.

"I don't think we should violate our present contract which has another six months to go," said Mr. Burton.

Separatists Called Vocal, Noisy Group

HAMILTON (CP) — French-speaking Canadians should not be considered as being foreigners in the United States, Montreal businessman Paul Vaillancourt told the Canadian Club of Hamilton Wednesday.

The people of Quebec are interested in playing an equal role in Canadian affairs from "coast to coast," Mr. Vaillancourt said.

"We are surely willing to stay in the Canadian Confederation, but at our price," he said.

At the same time, he urged English Canada to ignore the call of the separatists, who are a "vocal and noisy group." He stressed that French Canada wants equality, not separation.

"Quebec cannot live without the other provinces and, mind, the provinces could not survive from Confederation would constitute a fatal blow to Canada."

Seek Ways to Improve Safety Record

TORONTO (CP) — Ways to improve the safety record of Canada's railways will be discussed at a meeting of the Canadian Railway Safety Association here Thursday.

Delegates will be told that the number of accidents on railways in Canada has been reduced by 50 per cent in the last 10 years.

Speakers will include Transport Minister Pickersgill, Canadian Pacific Railway president N. R. Crump and Canadian National Railways president Donald Gordon.

He said we have to learn to put up or shut up.

Mr. Pearson said the world is changing and it is not going to adjust to suit us. "Our power to help is large, however, to adapt ourselves to a changing environment and in so doing, perhaps exercise some constructive influence on the nature of the society in which we live."

He said society is composed of many groups of people, "who because of their separate functions, interests or activities stand at different vantage points in the social fabric and possess identical situations from substantially different points of view.

"It is the interaction of these diverse points of view which constitutes the strength, and at the same time, the weakness of our society. Strength, because the diversity provides the light and shadow, the healthy differences of opinion, even the conflicts, which keep our society vital and progressive. Weakness, because each group tends, only too readily, to assume its viewpoint is the only acceptable or accurate one and that all others are false, or mistaken or biased."

WELL ATTENDED

"The truth is, of course, that our society is a synthesis, a kaleidoscope of many colors and shades of thought and all are needed to give the whole picture. Danger comes when any group begins to think that it, and it alone,

Belleville's red-jerseyed Mo-Hawks, this city's first entry in senior "A" hockey since the turn of the decade will open its training camp in the Trenton Community Gardens next Monday, September 26, playing coach Floyd Crawford announced yesterday.

Incidentally the jerseys will bear the insignia "Centennial" superimposed on two crossed flags above the club name.

As of now some forty players have announced their intention of attending the camp including Minnie Menard, former McFarland who has reached a verbal agreement with the management. He is expected to sign within a day or so, Crawford said.

Players attending the camp include six from Peterborough, a like number from Toronto as well as others from Ottawa, Belleville, Picton, Tweed, Napanee, Trenton and Stirling.

The first session of the training camp will be held from seven until nine o'clock with skating and physical exercises.

"The first week of training will be held behind closed doors," Coach Crawford said. "After that the general public will be allowed to watch the club in pre-play action."

Lou Smrke and "Weiner" Brown, two other ex-Macs will turn out with the club. Both should be in good hockey shape. Brown played senior hockey the past few years while Lou has maintained his fine abilities by coaching and training minor teams of the city.

Digressing for the moment, Smrke has successfully coached a midget club here for some time and Pie had the idea of his protegee. A big factor in the success of any coach is having the confidence and trust of his players, and Smrke has that to the umpteenth degree.

Rumor has it that Lou will not be appointed coach of the city's entry in the national Centennial midget tournament.

This is sheer folly and poor judgment on the part of whoever is sponsoring the club, its management and other officialdom. Lou is the logical choice — and if anyone doubts that ask the midget players he has coached. They'll give every thing they've got for Lou and that is all any coach can expect. A newcomer will have to prove himself to the youngsters.

Back to the Mo-Hawks, Crawford says that four goalkeepers or more will turn out for the club, which will go through an intensive training program before engaging in two exhibition games at Trenton.

These include tilts with the Tulsa Oilers managed by Ray Miron, now with the Leaf chain and formerly of the Cornwall Colts. This game will be played in Trenton, October 7th and a week later the Mo-Hawks will take on Jacksonville, which will also train at Trenton.

The Mo-Hawks open the regular schedule season at Woodstock on October 14th and make their first home appearance here against Barrie on October 21st.

Tomorrow night the general manager and playing manager-coach, Lloyd Maxfield of the Port Huron Flags will be in the city to talk with the Mo-Hawk management. They have promised player help from training camp cut-offs.

Business manager Ron Fralick says the club will hold a "Miss Mo-Hawk" contest open to young ladies between the ages of 16 and 20. The winner will receive a prize of $100 with her picture appearing on all programs. "Miss Mo-Hawk" will be selected on October 14th at a site to be named later.

Fralick said that certain home nights of the club will be a special one with prizes given away. Some will be "fathers' night," others, "mothers' night." Pucks and popcorn will be given to the kiddies.

Incidentally, I am informed that Gordon Roblin has been named president of the senior hockey club with Ken Soden its secretary-treasurer. General manager Bob Temple is expected back from Europe over the weekend.

Brewer Job Story Premature

TORONTO (CP) — Carl Brewer, former defensive star with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, Wednesday night labelled as "premature" an announcement that he had been appointed an Ontario government Indian development recreation officer in the Kenora-Rainy River area.

The announcement was made Wednesday by Welfare Minister Louis Cecile, campaigning in Kenora, where a provincial by-election is held today.

Brewer said he had "tentatively agreed" during discussions with Deputy Welfare Minister James Read to work in Indian development, adding that it hadn't seemed like a full-time job and one he might handle while working out in Winnipeg with Canada's national hockey team.

Brewer has been trying for some time to obtain his release from the Maple Leafs and his reinstatement as an amateur so he can join the nationals.

Frank Robinson's Bat Boosts Birds

By HAL ROCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

This could be THE day for Baltimore Orioles, poised on the threshold of their first American League pennant.

The Orioles went into today's game at Kansas City against the Athletics need only a combination of two victories or Detroit Tiger defeats to clinch their first American League pennant.

With the Tigers hosting California Angels in a doubleheader, Baltimore could wrap up the flag without even winning.

The Orioles set the stage for the clincher with a some-from-behind 10-3 victory over the Athletics Wednesday night on two home runs by Frank Robinson.

For 6½ innings, the Orioles looked like anything but a club about to win the flag. They made five errors, three by first baseman Boog Powell, and helped Kansas City to a 6-1 lead.

Then Robinson went to work. With two out in the seventh and Russ Snyder on base, the lanky slugger hammered his 49th homer of the year, putting the Orioles within striking distance at 6-3.

TIED IT UP

In the next inning, Powell opened with a walk, Curt Blefary singled and an infield out advanced the runners. Pinch-hitter Charley Lau then doubled to right, scoring Powell. Another pinch - hitter, Vic Romonsky, singled the tying run home.

Baltimore got two more runs before Robinson walloped his second home run of the game and No. 49 this season.

In the only other League games Wednesday, Detroit got a two-out ninth-inning homer by Wellie Horton to beat California 3-1 and Cleveland Indians downed Minnesota Twins 6-2. Chicago White Sox at New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox at Washington Senators were rained out as was the second game of the Tigers - Angels scheduled doubleheader.

FRANK ROBINSON

Robinson's heroics gave the star outfielder a firmer grip on his lead in all three Triple Crown categories with a .313 batting average, his 49 homers and 118 runs batted in.

Dean Chance had the Tiger shut out on two hits with two out in the ninth when Horton's 27th home run of the season beat California.

Home runs by Max Alvis, Leon Wagner and Rocky Varra Fuller paced Cleveland, Jim Kaat, seeking his 21th victory, was tagged with the loss.

Fuller's shot snapped a 2-2 tie and was the infielder's first home run in the major leagues. Winning pitcher Steve Hargan also drove in a pair of runs with a single.

Key Witness Sought In Race Probe

NEW YORK (CP) — The Brooklyn district attorney's office is seeking a wealthy garment manufacturer as a possible key witness in its investigation of alleged harness-racing fixing by racketeers.

A source in the district attorney's office is quoted as saying Wednesday there is information that hoodlums may have "invited" the manufacturer to disappear until the wrinkles of the investigation of possible underworld operations at the Yonkers, Monticello and Roosevelt tracks.

District Attorney Aaron Koota wants to ask the manufacturer what he knows about a beating administered last summer at Roosevelt Raceway to William (Buddy) Gilmour, a native of Lucan, Ont., one of the top U.S. harness drivers.

Gilmour said the beating stemmed from an argument he had with a drunk.

Koota's office is checking a report that Gilmour was roughed up because he refused to go along with a mobster-gambler syndicate when it sought to fix a race.

The Brooklyn grand jury investigating the race-fixing allegations questioned 12 witnesses Wednesday, including the racing secretaries of the three tracks. It is scheduled to hear testimony from Brooklyn Coss Nostra underworld figures next week.

Japanese Overwhelm Soviets

From AP-Reuters

DORTMUND, West Germany (CP)—Japan rolled to a big lead over the Soviet Union Wednesday in compulsory exercises of the men's division of the world gymnastics championships and appeared headed toward its second consecutive men's team title.

The Japanese overwhelmed the Soviets, their toughest rivals, by outscoring them in four of the six disciplines and tying them in a fifth.

The Canadian men's team could do no better than 18th with 243.80 points. Only Austria, Mexico and New Zealand trailed Canada.

Glen Hall Retires: Shack Happy

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eddie Shack, from whom the unexpected has gradually become the expected, more than lived up to his name Wednesday by reporting a day early for training with Tulsa Oilers of the Central Professional Hockey League.

GLENN HALL

So, instead of working out with Tulsa, where he's been banished until Oct. 15 by Toronto Maple Leaf manager-coach Punch Imlach, Shack was right where he wanted to be all along, on the ice with the Leafs. Training camps for both teams are being held at Peterborough, Ont.

But one of the Leafs Imlach would have preferred on the ice, centre Bob Pulford, was recuperating from a blow to the left knee after a check on the boards dished out by defenceman Bob Baun.

Pulford will be out for about a week and losing him has made necessary a line change for the team's first exhibition game of the year, Friday night against Boston Bruins at London, Ont.

Red Kelly, normally a left-winger, will go between Ron Ellis and rookie Don Blackburn.

Also missing from the Friday affair will be defencemen Kent Douglas and goalie Terry Sawchuk.

Douglas signed his contract Wednesday, but is nursing a bruised shoulder picked up Sunday when he crashed into a goal post. Sawchuk will be sitting out in favor of veteran John Bower and alternate Bruce Gamble.

Meanwhile, Chicago Black Hawks got confirmation from Edmonton to goalie Glenn Hall's retirement in favor of running the farm he owns west of Edmonton.

The 34 - year - old native of Humboldt, Sask., said he retirement is official and he won't consider returning to hockey in any capacity.

On the other hand, Montreal Canadiens, who start training at home Friday, had their hopes of retaining the Stanley Cup for another year brightened when goalie Lorne Worsley, and forwards Jim Roberts, Yvan Cournoyer and Gilles Tremblay signed contracts Wednesday.

Of the other teams, the Bruins are training at Hamilton, Ont., New York Rangers are at Kingston, Ont. and Chicago and Detroit Red Wings are working out at home.

In Kingston, defencemen Bob Plager reported Sept. 19th and general manager Emile Francis nicked him $100 a day, fine. Plager had been tied up as a court witness in his home town of Kapuskasing.

PLAN RACE

QUEBEC (CP)—A grand prix auto race, one of the feature sports events of the Quebec Winter Carnival, will be staged on the Plains of Abraham Feb. 5.

Rain Halts Softball Playoffs

Yesterday's day-long rainfall caused postponement of two district softball league finals games last night.

The Bobcats were scheduled to play Picton Klosmen, in Picton, in the second game of the Belleville and District League titular set. Picton leads the four-of-seven series 1-0.

Last night's game has been re-scheduled for Picton tomorrow (Friday) night, at 8:00. The third game will be played at Belleville's Alemite Park, Saturday, at 8:00 p.m.

Also rained out last night was the Commercial League's finals tilt between the Point Anne Cementmen and Stewart Warner.

Stewart Warner leads that series 3-0 and last night's tilt has been re-scheduled for tonight, at the Alemite, at 7:30.

High-Flying Bombers Blast Argos

Score Was 43-9

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers, reputed to be coming apart at the seams after three wobbly losses, are back in a second - place tie in the Western Football Conference.

Toronto Argonauts were beaten 43-9 by the Bombers Wednesday in a Canadian football League game before 17,112 fans.

Referring to newspaper reports of dissention within the ranks because of a pounding taken of late by the offensive backfielders, coach Bud Grant cracked:

"If that's dissention, we could use more of it."

Said his Toronto counterpart, Bob Shaw:

"They should beat anybody in the country — anybody."

The Bombers, tied with Edmonton Eskimos but with a game in hand, now have a 2-and-4 record for 10 points, four behind the high - flying Saskatchewan Roughriders. Toronto remains in the Eastern Conference basement with one win in eight games.

MEET CALGARY NEXT

Winnipeg's next outing is against fourth - place Calgary Stampeders here Monday.

A game in which the Bombers could do nothing wrong—except collect 107 yards in penalties—saw Ken Nielsen catch three touchdown passes from Kenny Ploen and jump to fourth place in the WFC scoring race. He now has 6 points, only one less than Larry Robinson of Calgary, on seven touchdowns.

Ex - Rouie is a 6-yard scoring offence, Ed Ulmer scored two touchdowns and Ploen One. Norm Winton added the two converts and a single on a wide field-goal attempt.

Ex - Stampeder Eagle Day, playing his second game as Toronto quarterback, managed only one mutilated drive and it ended with a 24-yard touchdown pass to Bobby Taylor in the fourth quarter. John Volunas converted it, added a single on a wide field - goal attempt and Dave Mann punted a 53-yard single.

Day, forced to go to the air when his runners could get nowhere, faced a fierce rush and an unorthodox defence. Wally Gabler, who appeared only briefly, got the same treatment and threw an interception to Ulmer. He ran it 53 yards for a touchdown.

COVERS 72 YARDS

Nielsen's first touchdown also was a long one, covering 72 yards, while Ulmer got his second on a five-yard sweep during a brief stint on offence.

Winnipeg's best crowd-pleasing score came early in the fourth quarter when defensive half Dick Thornton, who also had some turns at quarterback, came in at offensive halfback.

Thornton bobbled a handoff as he moved to his left and threw the ball into the air when he went down under a swarm of tacklers. Whether it was aimed for him or not, Ploen was there to gather it in and make the 31 yards to the goal line.

The Bombers ground out 334 yards rushing and 267 passing in rolling up 32 first downs, dominating the play so thoroughly that Ulmer punted only once in each half. Dave Ramsey recorded 110 yards on 21 carries and Art Perkins 108 yards in 12. Ploen and Thornton were good on 18 of 29 passes for 267 yards, giving up three interceptions.

Day and Gabler completed eight of 21 throws for 140 yards while the Toronto ground attack was good for only 20 and a total of nine first downs. Ulmer's touchdown was the only interception.

Marichal's Homer Won It

Giants Nip Bucs; Phils Edge Dodgers

BY DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rick Wise and Tony Taylor have muzzled in on Los Angeles Dodgers' pitch - and - putt concession in the National League and Juan Marichal is making a play for San Francisco Giants' clean-up job.

Wise pitched an overpowering six - hitter and Taylor delivered the tie - breaking run with a sixth - inning squeeze bunt Wednesday night as Philadelphia Phillies nipped league - leading Los Angeles at its own game, 3-2. It was the Dodgers' sixth loss in 32 one-run games at home this year.

Marichal, meanwhile, attested for a mediocre pitching effort with a ninth - inning homer—his first of the season—to lift San Francisco past second - place Pittsburgh Pirates 6-5 and keep the Giants' faint pennant hopes alive.

The Giants' come-from-behind victory bounty boosted them up four games of the Dodgers, who retained their 1½-game spread over Pittsburgh.

Philadelphia managed only five hits against Claude Osteen and relievers Phil Regan and Bill Wise, who celebrated his 21st birthday last week, made the one-run margin stand up by blanking the Dodgers over the last seven innings for his fifth victory in 11 decisions.

Taylor pushed the lead run across with his sacrifice bunt after a single by Dick Groat and a throwing error by third baseman Dick Schofield set the stage in the sixth.

Marichal homered off reliever Roy Face in the ninth after his batty - mate, Tom Haller, pulled the Giants even with a two-run shot off Face. The Pirates had touched Marichal, now 25-6, for two runs in the top of the ninth and a 5-3 lead.

Elsewhere Atlanta Braves rolled to their 18th victory in 20 games, blanking St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 on two homers by Denis Menke and rookie Dick Kelley's three - hit pitching, while homers by Billy Williams and Adolpho Phillips powered Chicago Cubs past Cincinnati Reds 9-3.

Rich Allen hit his 30th homer for the Phils in the second but the Dodgers countered with two runs in the bottom of the inning, before the Phils tied it in the fourth.

MARICHAL WINS HIS OWN — Hands upraised, San Francisco pitcher Juan Marichal crosses the plate after blasting the Giants' game winning home run against the Pittsburgh Pirates in San Francisco. Marichal's homer came in the ninth for the 6-5 win. At left is Giants' first baseman Willie McCovey and at right is Jim Davenport (12). (AP Wirephoto)

Takes Series 4-2

Oshawa Wins Minto Cup

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Oshawa Green Gaels return home today and the Minto Cup, emblematic of Canadian junior lacrosse supremacy, goes with them.

The Gaels overpowered New Westminster Salmonbellies 16-6 Wednesday night to win the best-of-seven championship series 4-2, just as Oshawa coach Jim Bishop predicted at the beginning of the series.

"We had the best team, but we had no doubt that New Westminster has the second best team in Canada," he said.

It was the fourth consecutive championship for the eastern team, and three of their victories have been over New Westminster.

New Westminster coach Keith Jackson said: "We didn't have the depth and we couldn't cope with the rough eastern style of play.

"Our boys wanted to retaliate when they were roughed up by the Oshawa players, and we wound up getting the penalties.

TAKE IT EASY

"I told the boys to take it easy, but I don't really blame a player for being impulsive when things get rough. This went on all through the series and we were the losers."

Gaylord Fowless, burly, full-blooded Indian centre, was the big scorer for Oshawa, getting four goals and adding four assists. He also managed to grab the majority of faceoffs.

Brian Thompson scored three goals and added one assist for Oshawa. John Clayton, Ross Jones and Dwight Davies scored two each and defenceman Jim Hilgo contributed four assists. Neil Armstrong, Phil Clayton and Joe Krasna shared the others.

Little Brown Jug

Romeo Hanover Favorite

By HAL PARIS

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — A break in the weather enhanced chances today for a possible record in the 31st renewal of the Little Brown Jug.

Week - long rains, which have bettered Delaware Fairgrounds' half-mile oval, gave way to sunshine Wednesday.

Track superintendent Wayne Smart predicted that barring further rains, conditions for the $73,000 Jug would be perfect.

Romeo Hanover, owned by Lucky Star Stables and Morton Finder of New York City, remained the solid favorite to capture the pacing classic for three-year-olds.

The big bay colt scored in the Cane Futurity earlier so a victory here and in the Messenger Stake in November would lock up pacing's Triple Crown for the swift sophomore sidewheeler.

TRYING FOR RECORD

Romeo may find it a bit tougher breaking Bret Hanover's two-year record mile of 1:57, set in last year's Jug. But the favorite already owns a 1:58 1-4 clocking this year over a five-eighths mile track.

Best challenger in the field of 12 appears to be Bonjour Hanover, a full sister of Bret. Bonjour is bidding to become the first filly ever to win the Jug.

She has won 15 times in 17 starts, boasts a 1:57 clocking at DuQuoin, Ill., Sept. 1 and has earnings in excess of $67,000.

Romeo has 18 straight triumphs and earnings of $177,185. The only blot on his record is a third place finish last May 5, in his initial start.

Others in the field are Silent Byrd, Niagara Byrd, The Big Bear, Chris Time, Mr. Lucifer, Overcall, Meadow Lesco, Clay, Good Time Boy and Bank Time.

WINS CUP

ZARAGOZA, Spain (AP) — Barcelona inside - left Pujol scored in the last minute of overtime Wednesday night to give his team the Fairs Cities Cup on a two - game combined 4-3 score over Real Zaragoza. The first game of the all-Spanish final was won by Zaragoza 1-0.

'PACKAGE' BACKSWING . . .
THE IDEAL TAKEAWAY

Early in the backswing, your hands, arms, shoulders and hips should all move as a one-piece unit.

A common takeaway error occurs if your wrists are loose and sloppy. Note, in illustration No. 1, how sloppy wrists have caused the golfer to start his backswing solely with his hands and arms.

Such a takeaway will never produce consistently accurate shots.

Instead, start your backswing with your wrists firm, as I am doing in illustration No. 2. Your left arm and clubshaft should move or less form a continuous line. This is the ideal takeaway position to produce a compact, powerful swing.

How They're Biting

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Kenora district, way off in northwestern Ontario, reels with action for the angler.

The lands and forests department's weekly report on fishing in Ontario shows that for the second successive week angling there has been excellent for pickerel, northern pike and muskellunge.

Many anglers at Eagle Lake, Lake of the Woods, Stormy Lake and the English River caught full limits of fish in the last week with minnows the popular bait.

Elsewhere in Northern Ontario, angling was fair to good with a 13-pound pickerel caught in the Pointe au Baril area of Georgian Bay in the Parry Sound district.

There was good lake trout angling in the Kemptville, Lindsay and Tweed areas of eastern Ontario and good muskellunge and bass fishing in the Lake Erie region of western Ontario.

SOUTH

Kemptville—Lake St. Francis still a hot spot with all species good. Several eight and nine-pound pickerel caught on minnows and lures.

Lindsay — Muskellunge, bass and pickerel fair, panfish good in Kawartha Lakes. Pike good, pickerel, bass and muskellunge fair in Trent River. Panfish good in Lake Scugog, trout spotty.

Lake Simcoe — Pickerel fair, perch poor. Lake trout good.

Parry Sound — Smallmouth bass, pickerel and muskellunge fair in Haliburton, Apsley and Minden areas.

Tweed—Lake trout fair in district, but good at Long Schooner Lake where top catch weighed 17 pounds. Bass good to fair in district. Pickerel good in May Bay, fair in remainder of district. Muskellunge fair and panfish good.

WEST

Lake Erie—Muskellunge good in Lake St. Clair. Pickerel good in Detroit and St. Clair rivers and in Lake St. Clair. Perch and panfish good throughout district. Smallmouth bass good in Lake Erie fronting Essex and Welland counties.

Lake Huron—Perch excellent at Mexford in Nottawasaga Bay and good at Arran Lake. Bass good along Lake Huron shoreline and at Arran Lake.

SOLDIERS IN RACE?

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Officials of a military uniform supply company here said Wednesday lack of decision on a standardized uniform for Canadian forces may leave defence personnel in "rags." The Dartmouth firm of Claude W. Vincent Ltd. said orders for existing uniform styles in all three forces have dropped as much as 50 per cent.

Frazier Verdicts Bonavena

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier, the unbeaten 1964 Olympic champion, bounced back from two second-round knockdowns and won his 12th straight Wednesday night in a 10-round split decision over Oscar Bonavena of Argentina in heavyweight boxing.

The only knockdowns came in the second round when Bonavena, boxing's answer to the right in the jaw. The former Beatles, dropped Frazier with a Olympic champ got up at about six but took the automatic eight. He went down again from a left and a right, plus a shove. This time Frazier was up at two or three but once again took the mandatory eight.

Frazier, a 3-1 favorite, came back with a rush and swept the rounds from three through six on most of the official cards.

Oscar, with his long hair curling down his neck, put on a strong surge, winning the last round on all cards.

It was the third defeat for the South American champ who now has a 21-3 record for 24 pro starts.

Women's Senior Tourney

MONTEBELLO, Que. (CP)—Mrs. Ian W. Adair of Royal Montreal posted a 13-over-par 97 Wednesday to take a three-stroke lead in the first round of the annual tournament of the Canadian Women's Senior Golf Association.

In second place with a 90 was Mrs J. B. Seawright of Toronto.

The final 18-hole round will be played today on the Seigniory Club course, where par is 36-36—74. Mrs. Adair shot 40-47.

Ada MacKenzie of Toronto is the defending champion, and Mrs. A. B. Darling of Montreal each had 91s.

HATTON REHIRED

HOUSTON (AP)—Grady Hatton was rehired Wednesday as manager of Houston Astros of baseball's National League.

NHL Schedule

Opening Whistles Shrill October 19

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League's 50th anniversary season gets under way Wednesday, Oct. 19, with the four United States entries swinging into action—three days ahead of their Canadian counterparts.

The 210-game schedule, which ends April 2, has Chicago Black Hawks visiting New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings playing the Bruins in Boston in the opening games.

Montreal Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, and Toronto Maple Leafs open their seasons at home on Saturday, Oct. 22, against Boston and New York respectively.

Hometown fans in Detroit get their first look at the Wings on the same date when the Black Hawks swing into the Olympia. The teams return in Chicago on Sunday for that club's home debut.

This season's schedule spans 25 weeks, which includes 24 weekends.

BY WEDNESDAY GAMES

There are 47 Wednesday clashes, 28 Thursday and seven Tuesday games listed. No games will be played on either Monday or Friday.

The Maple Leafs play all their home games on Wednesdays and Saturdays this season, ending in 13 mid-week contests and 22 on Saturdays.

For the first time in the club's history, it is not scheduled to play at home on two Saturday nights. Toronto visits Detroit Saturday, Nov. 12 and are idle Feb. 4. On each occasion there is an ice show at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Canadiens will also be at home for 22 Saturday night games, but have their mid-week scheduling revamped. In previous years the Montrealers played the majority of their week-night games on Thursdays, but this season they will be at home for 10 Wednesdays and only three Thursdays.

Christmas Eve sees only two games scheduled, but all teams swing back into action for Christmas night. All teams play on both New Year's Eve and New Year's night.

This season will mark the first time the annual all-star game will be played in mid-season. Montreal Canadiens tackle the assembled stars at the Forum Wednesday, Jan. 18.

Sporty new styling is a highlight of the longer, wider American Motors 'Rebel' series for 1967 — formerly the Classic series. Wheelbase of Rebel models has been increased from 112 to 114 inches. Sedans, hardtops and convertibles are two inches longer, and station wagons three inches longer than their 1966 counterparts. Width of all models has been increased nearly four inches. The top-of-the-line Rebel SST hardtop (shown above) and convertible are set apart from other Rebel models by a full-length pin stripe along the side of the body by simulated air scoops just forward of the rear wheels and by a black-finished grille centre.

THREE GRIPS AND WHO SHOULD USE THEM

The "overlap" grip in illustration No. 1 is by far the most widely used and is the one that I employ. Illustration No. 2 shows the "interlock" grip, while the "full-finger" grip is given in illustration No. 3.

In all three illustrations, the fingers which actually touch the club are shaded. In the overlap grip, seven fingers are on the shaft; the interlock grip finds six fingers on the shaft; the full-finger grip, eight fingers. In all three grips, both thumbs touch the shaft.

I find the overlap grip best for the average player because it effectively unifies the two hands while still supplying sufficient club control. The interlock grip might be the best for people with short stubby fingers. The full-finger may be best for women and men with weak hands; because it puts all fingers in contact with the club.

Soviet Govt. Keeps Resort For Foreigners in Russia

ZAVIDOVO, U.S.S.R. (CP)— One of the delights of living in Moscow is being able to get away now and then to Zavidovo.

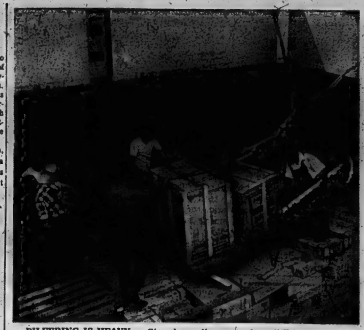
The lure is not Zavidovo itself. It's much like thousands of other villages. The attraction is a large compound a few miles outside town on the Volga River, 80 miles north of Moscow.

Foreigners, mainly diplomats and newspaper men, escape the tensions of living and working in Moscow with occasional trips to the bazz (base) or dip dache, as the spot is called.

It is maintained year round by the Soviet government and is much appreciated by foreigners living in the U.S.S.R.

It consists of a small hotel and nine or 10 dachas (cot-tages) costing 70 rubles (12) a night during the week and 15 rubles on weekends. The dachas, cozy bungalows that come equipped with bedding and kitchen utensils, have all been refurnished with East European furniture.

The resort is comfortable enough to accommodate Premier Kosygin and Communist party chief Brezhnev who sometimes come here with state visitors to hunt.



In winter, besides hunting, you can go ice-fishing, snowshoeing or cross-country skiing or, if you're not the outdoor type, you can sit in your warm dacha and read or play chess and perhaps sip a thimbleful of vodka.

You can also wander over to the hotel and have a game of billiards if you don't mind playing on a table in poor condition.

In summer there are all sorts of things to do—swim, waterski, play tennis, tramp through the nearby wilderness, go boating or just sit and watch the vessels plying the Volga.

But the biggest attraction, especially if you're from a country the size of Canada, is the joy of relaxing in the great outdoors.

PILFERING IS HEAVY — Stevedores sling cargo from the hold of a ship in Montreal harbor, where the cost of pilfering — the disappearance of goods in transit — runs to about $1,000,000 a year. Company officials, afraid they would jeopardize their competitive position, are reluctant to admit to problems with cargo thieves. (CP Photo)

Montreal Docks Tough World, Goods Worth Million Vanish

By ROSEMARY SPEIRS

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal docks are a tough world where stevedores sweat out their shifts on heavy, often - dangerous jobs and where, some shipping officials say, about $1,000,000 worth of goods disappears each year.

Along the waterfront, the disappearance of goods is referred to as pilfering—a word shipping officials and harbor authorities generally use in whispers.

With about 150 steamship agencies operating in the big St. Lawrence River port, company officials afraid to jeopardize their competitive position are reluctant to admit difficulties with cargo thieves.

But when a check, white Norwegian freighter, fresh from ports in Europe and South Africa, snugged into berth here one balmy evening this summer, her agents knew what to expect.

By morning several dozen empty bottles that once held South African wine lay in the dust outside warehouse windows. And in the shed harassed officials were busy trying to estimate the losses from some 40 boxes with torn covers and leaking contents.

Most of the thefts were petty. One rifled crate lacked a pair of children's running shoes; six toy cars and doll were lifted from another.

But there was also the more expensive loot: two cases of wine, a box of transistor radios, a bolt of imported silk.

NOT ENOUGH GUARDS

The vast, ill-lit warehouse and dock security men hired by the shipping agent. Five men to watch about 225 longshoremen, freight handlers, railway employees, truckers and steamship company personnel, all of whom had access to the piles of goods and to trucks working in and out of the shed.

Against such odds, the shipping agents, who hold responsibility for dock losses, can do little but shrug and absorb the extra cost.

The harbor police chief has just 33 officers to patrol a crowded 10-mile stretch of grain elevators and warehouses. The 33 make arrests daily during the shipping season but calculate they catch only a small fraction of the offenders.

In court, judges faced with men tempted to pilfer by easy opportunity remember they are also family men and hand out what one shipping agent calls "ridiculously small penalties you wouldn't give to a school boy."

Suspended sentences and fines as low as $50 are common.

"It's impossible to tell the point of view that these goods belong to someone," said the shipping agent, who declined as did most dock officials, to be identified by name.

"These men wouldn't steal their neighbor's watch but when they take something from a ship's crate, no one actually seems hurt."

PROMPTS HIGHER RATES

But the hurt comes when insurance companies raise rates to shipping agencies who have acute pilferage problems in their sheds.

And this year shipping officials began to complain that Montreal harbor is losing business because of its bad reputation for theft.

Last March the Canadian Import Association reported that a survey of 55 firms disclosed about $500,000 worth of goods had been stolen in Canadian ports in the previous two years—more than half of it in Montreal.

But that figure dealt with only 25 of the thousands of import-export firms from sea to sea.

More recently, independent estimates from three different shipping officials placed the loss in Montreal's harbor alone at close to $1,000,000 a year.

It is an estimate that Paul Asselin, president of Montreal's largest longshoremen's local with 2,870 members, dismisses with a laugh.

"I wouldn't believe it too much," he says. "The shipping companies always go around saying they are losing their shirts, but each year I notice they have nice new shirts on their backs."

He claims pilfering on the waterfront is slight and mainly blamed truckers or freight handlers, who are not in his union, for what does take place.

A harbors board spokesman blamed waterfront unions for not punishing convicted thieves by expelling them from union ranks.

The harbors board says that when a check was made last year of 30 dock employees it was found 25 per cent had police records.

To this kind of criticism Mr. Asselin replies:

"The union can't act for the employer nor for the policeman. The employer chooses who he hires and the policeman arrests men he suspects now can't do these things for them."

He claims most port pilfering could easily be ended "if the employers were not too cheap to hire more watchmen."

But while both sides refuse to accept the blame, it seems likely the problem of finding a solution will soon be lifted out of their hands.

Judge Rene Lippe, federal mediator during the June waterfront strike, has recommended that a commission of inquiry look into all causes of unrest in the harbor—including pilferage.

There is also a possibility that waterfront theft will be attacked out of existence.

Huge steel cargo crates handled by machinery are gradually becoming a popular replacement for the traditional cardboard - and - slat crates. The steel cases so far have proved pilfer-proof and they have a bonus advantage—fewer men are required to handle them.

Cross-Canada Survey

Everyone, Everywhere Expects Still Higher Prices for Living Essentials in the Near Future

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

If you're in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Regina or Calgary, you can live more cheaply today than a year ago, despite all that talk about rising prices—BUT . . .

You'd better be ready to do without clothes.

You can forget about shelter and you'll be giving up cigarettes and liquor.

And you'll have to limit your diet to potatoes or frozen orange juice.

Furthermore, you'll have to hurry to take advantage of even these few benefits. A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that everyone, everywhere, expects still higher prices for living essentials in the immediate future.

ANNOUNCE INCREASE

Already, the Men's Clothing Manufacturers' Association in Ontario has promised a $5 to $10 increase in the price of suits across Canada this fall. This will come on top of rises of $5 to $15 reported during the last year by major cities across the country.

One national grocery chain says its prices will have to edge up to help cover the addition of $2,000,000 to its total labor bill during the last year, as well as climbing wholesale, service and material costs.

Scarcity of mortgage money and labor costs have been blamed for rental and housing prices that range as much as 20 to 15 per cent higher than last year—and that shortly are expected in some areas to jump that much again.

Gasoline prices generally are up one or two cents a gallon across the country compared with a year ago, but anyone planning on walking to beat that increase had better take a look at the cost of shoes. They're up, too, by $2 to $5 a pair and manufacturers predict more to come.

Even in the few areas where little price change has been reported—clothing in Victoria, for example—the survey found suggestions that the cost line had been held by cutting quality.

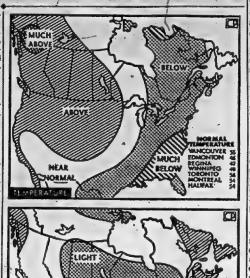
CLIMB DOCUMENTED

This march of prices has been well documented by official figures. The report last week by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics of cost-of-living Indexes in 10 major centres across Canada showed these changes from a year ago, with 1949 representing 100 on the index:

St. John's, Nfld., 127.1, up 7.6; Halifax 129, up 3.5; Saint John, N.B., 141.8, up 4.6; Montreal 142.6, up 3.9; Ottawa 145.2, up 8.0; Toronto 147.9, up 7.4; Winnipeg 140.1, up 4.7; Saskatoon-Regina 136.7, up 4.1; Edmonton-Calgary 135.4, up 4.3; Vancouver 139, up 2.5.

More disconcerting, perhaps, is that the month-to-month index figures indicate the rate of price increases is accelerating —in the case of some cities, it's growing more than twice as fast as during the last year.

These Index figures, however, give only part of the picture of what rising prices mean to shoppers.



The survey compared, for example, the price of a bag of basic groceries in Ottawa today and a year ago. Included in the grocery list were milk, bread, meat, eggs, butter, potatoes, orange juice and breakfast cereal.

A year ago, a Toronto housewife could have taken that bag home for $6.21. Today it would cost her $5.30—but the price increase, despite cheaper potatoes.

In Halifax, the total price has climbed 7.4 per cent to $5.52 from $5.14. Montreal shoppers now pay $5.30 or 6.4 per cent more than last year.

In Ottawa, the price is up 7.4 per cent to $5.44 from $5.04.

Even Winnipeg, which reported some of the lowest meat

VARIED OUTLOOK — Temperatures across Canada are expected to vary from below normal in most eastern points to near normal in Central Canada and above normal in the West, according to the 30-day outlook by the U.S. weather bureau. Above normal precipitation is forecast for the Maritimes and the West Coast while southern parts of Central Canada will remain below normal and other points near normal.

The outlook, from mid-September to mid-October is not a specific forecast and changes may occur.

Other normal temperatures: New York 64; New Orleans 74; San Francisco 62. Other normal precipitations: New York 3.5; New Orleans 3.6; San Francisco .5. (CP Newsmap) prices of the survey, has seen an 11.9 - per - cent increase to $4.87 from $4.35. Edmonton housewives now pay $5.17, compared with $4.60.

By far the biggest price jumps in the grocery list occurred in meats, represented by sirloin beef and bacon. Beef price increases ranged from five cents a pound in Halifax, where the recent price war reported at $1.43, to 20 cents in Toronto, raising new prices to $1.18 a pound.

Bacon has jumped 28 cents a pound in Edmonton to $1.25, with several cities reporting prices ranging from 80 cents to $1.29, up 10 to 20 cents a pound.

Even such a staple food as milk is up two or three cents a quart, while butter prices have increased two to nine cents a pound, reaching as high as 71 cents in Halifax.

Everyone knows who's responsible for this chain reaction of increases that has spread through food, clothing shelter and almost all services. It's always someone else

SHIPPING BLUES HURT

A grocery chain spokesman in Montreal says stories that point to one cause are misleading, but he places the heaviest blame on transportation costs, labor, labor bills and producers' prices.

Beef prices, he argues, are higher because cattle growers are having trouble getting enough feed following Canada's large grain sales to Russia. He also says many producers oversold their position a few years ago and still are caught in short supply.

In Toronto, Foster Shoe Stores, which sells children's shoes in Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, advances two reasons for the 15- to 20-per-cent rise that has occurred during the last year.

First, the cost of leather has increased sharply because of a worldwide shortage. Secondly, labor costs are up, both in making and selling shoes.

Ruby Arneson, president of an Edmonton clothing store, says increased shipping costs resulting from the rail strike will be a factor.

But he also points to increased costs in other areas—with all of them being passed on to the consumer.

There may be some hope, however, for the customer in the recent experience of one grocery operator in Hamilton.

"We've found in the past few weeks that some of our customers are becoming almost rude in their objections.

"The worst was the hefty jump in pork prices and our own sales in this line are becoming to fall.

"I've never really seen anything like this before—a concerted action to boycott, I guess."

South Korean Cabinet Resigns

SEOUL (Reuters)—The South Korean cabinet tonight decided to resign after a legislator in the national assembly threw a can containing human waste at key cabinet members, including Premier Il Kwon Chung.

The legislator, independent member Doo-han Kim, was questioning cabinet ministers about an alleged smuggling incident.

Information Minister Chong chui Hong, announcing the resignation decision after the incident in the assembly, said the cabinet could not carry on after being subjected to "insult and violence in the legislature."

Status

ability and the kind of suggestion a party president should be making."

David MacDonald, MP for Prince, P.E.I., said a significant portion of the caucus felt strongly about the need for a convention. Gordon Fairweather, MP for Royal, N.B., and Thomas M. Bell, MP for Saint John-Albert, N.B., indicated support for one.

Edward Nasserden, MP for Northern, Sask., said, however, there is no need for a leadership convention.

While Mr. Camp bit the trail to the Maritimes, to speak to the P.E.I. PC Association Sunday, Mr. Diefenbaker moved to Toronto today for an address to PC businessmen.

He had made no comment on the Camp speech by Wednesday night and his office said he displayed "monumental indifference" to it. He has successfully survived three challenges to his leadership in the last three years.

LOST THREE MINISTERS

The first came with the 1963 cabinet crisis when he lost three ministers — Douglas Harkness, defence; George Hees, trade; and Pierre Sevigny, associate defence — through resignation, suffered defeat in the Commons as prime minister and was turned out of office by a minority Liberal government.

In 1964, the party's annual meeting endorsed him overwhelmingly on a standing vote after a bitter 90-minute debate. That was the meeting that elected Mr. Camp, 56, as national president.

The same meeting rejected a secret ballot on the leadership question. Demands are being made for a secret ballot at the forthcoming annual meeting.

In 1963, the leadership issue arose at a national executive meeting, held behind closed doors when a proposal for a national leadership convention was rejected. A vote on whether Mr. Diefenbaker should be asked to resign was reportedly turned down, 55 to 52.

Since then, the leadership question has remained out of the headlines. However, at-his 71st birthday celebration last week Mr. Diefenbaker said he intends to lead the party in the next election, whenever one comes.

Commonwealth

But at the same time they pleaded that these measures not go too far.

The opening day was devoted mainly to discussing world economic conditions and the specific items of international liquidity.

Although much was said about developments, it is not scheduled to come up for detailed discussion until today.

Some Canadian delegates intimpatience on the part of delegates from some developing countries. They say that Canada's colleagues appeared weary of hearing expressions of understanding and sympathy at international conferences but not enough action.

Arnold Smith, the Canadian who is the Commonwealth's first secretary-general, said he did not agree that the poorer nations are so discontent.

REGIONAL PROBLEM

He said the conference had brought together reasonable finance ministers who recognize the problems but know that poverty cannot be solved overnight.

These countries were plagued by instability in commodity prices, a relative decline in productivity when compared to the industrialized countries, and the population increase.

James Callaghan, Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, reported to the conference that the balance of payments situation for Britain and other sterling bloc countries should improve significantly during the next year.

He said little extra help for the developing countries can be expected from his country this year because of its serious economic problems.

Fight to Preserve Birthplace Of Author of Flanders Field

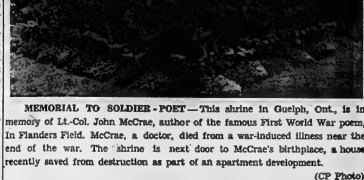
GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — An organization in Guelph is fighting to preserve the birthplace of the Canadian soldier-physician who wrote the poem, In Flanders Fields.

The Lt.-Col. John McCrae Birthplace Society has raised more than $12,000 toward the $17,000 that represents its half of the cost of purchasing and restoring the building.

The federal government, which recently declared the house a national historic site, will pay the other half.

Col. McCrae left a medical practice in Montreal in 1914 to go overseas with the first contingent of the Canadian Expeditionary Force as 1st Brigade surgeon. He died from a war-induced illness in 1918.

But his name lived on as author of the oft-quoted poem, written to comrades who fell in a gas attack at St. Julien, near Ypres, early in the war, and first published in the English magazine Punch.



In Guelph, his name is honored in a shrine and gardens, a street, a school and a branch of the Royal Canadian Legion.

The stone cottage in which he was born in 1872 now houses the McCrae Memorial Gardens and Shrine.

The movement to preserve it began late in 1965, when the family who had been living in it offered it for sale. The campaign accelerated after Governor-General Georges Vanier agreed to become the project's patron.

The society now hopes to operate the house as a small museum in honor of the poet who created a touching work of art out of the depths of his grief:

"In Flanders Fields the poppies blow
"Between the crosses, row on row ,
"That mark our place. And in the sky
"The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
"Scarce heard amidst the guns below. . . ."

MEMORIAL TO SOLDIER-POET — This shrine in Guelph, Ont., is in memoiy of Lt.-Col. John McCrae, author of the famous First World War poem, in Flanders Field. McCrae, a doctor, died from a war-induced illness near the end of the war. The shrine is next door to McCrae's birthplace, a house recently saved from destruction as part of an apartment development. total of American planes down over the Communist country to 1,446.

One plane downed was a navy F-4B Phantom from the carrier Coral Sea. Its two crewmembers are missing. The other was an air force F-105 Thunderchief and its pilot also is missing.

The enemy losses raised the U.S. score of MiG kills in the war to 21. Communist pilots have shot down five American planes.

HIT BY SHELLS

The two MiGs downed Wednesday and two of those downed aged were MiG-17s, the chief weapon in North Viet Nam's small air force. The other damaged plane was a MiG-21, the best Communist jet in Asia. Air wars by the score, the U.S. spokesman said, although the Thunderchiefs also fired missiles.

BILL U.S. GOVERNMENT

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The Dominican government has billed the U.S. Army for $176,389 damages caused to a golf course and polo field, a spokesman announced Wednesday. The Hotel Embajador polo field was the site of the Camp Randall Installation in the Dominican crisis.

Two-Day

trolled the streets, assisted by volunteer squads from the state headquarters of the country's ruling Congress party.

Many of these groups were armed with nothing more than bricks and sticks.

West Bengal's governor, P. Sen, reinforced his police with six battalions of armed police requested from other states. Two were stationed in Calcutta and four in outlying districts.

The extreme precautions were taken in the hope of warding off a repitition of the violence resulting from a one-day strike called by Jethia in mid-March. The subsequent rioting left more than 30 dead and caused millions of dollars of property loss.

The precautions included the arrest of more than 2,000 known troublemakers and leftist agitators. State officials also asked New Delhi to place the army on the alert to help if the situation got out of hand.

Sen appealed late Wednesday for a peaceful, lawful atmosphere and promised protection to all desiring to open shops and report for work. He told the leftists no amount of striking could bring an increase in food rations as the government now is allowing the maximum possible in view of the nationwide food shortages.

FILES FOR DIVORCE

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Lady Sarah Spencer-Churchill Russell, daughter of the Duke of Marlborough and a cousin of the late Sir Winston Churchill, has filed suit for divorce from her husband Edwin F. Russell, former publisher of Vogue magazine. The divorce action became public Tuesday in Reno with the filing court papers. The grounds were listed as extreme mental cruelty.

Marmora Red Cross Budget Set

MARMORA — A meeting of the Marmora Branch of the Red Cross Society was held in the Memorial Building with the president, Mrs. Howard Bleecker, presiding.

It was reported that a back rest and cane had been added to supplies in the loan cupboard.

Mrs. A. M. Jones, Water Safety Chairman, reported there had been six weeks of swimming instruction in the Red Cross swimming program conducted by the Marmora Recreation Committee, with a total registration of 144 children, three adults and nine students took the Bronze Royal Lifesaving course.

The proposed budget for 1967 was reviewed and passed and a total of $500. will be required for Red Cross activities. It is hoped that the 1967 campaign will be successful in collecting this amount.

A note of thanks is to be sent to Mr. Clint Nickle who donated the supplies for the first aid kit at Legion Park.

Marmora C of C Holds Barbecue

MARMORA — The members of the Marmora district chamber of Commerce opened the fall season by entertaining their wives at an outdoor steak barbecue at Marble Point Lodge last week. The men acted as chefs, proving very professional at the job, and with the trimmings supplied by Marble Point Lodge, an excellent meal was enjoyed.

Mr. Gordon Bennett, vice-president, acted as chairman in the absence of the president and welcomed the members and guests.

Assumed Flight of Bombers To Portugal Okay by U.S.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Lawyers for two men accused of conspiring to ferry B-26 bombers and other armament to Portugal illegally say their clients assumed the flights received U.S. government approval.

And, they say, another man, indicted in the case but not in custody, was the key figure in the plan.

The statements came Wednesday in the opening of the U.S. district court trial.

The government charges seven of the reconditioned, Second World War-vintage bombers were flown to Portugal without necessary export licences for eventual use against rebels in that country's African colonies of Angola and Mozambique.

The missing defendant is Gregory R. Board, a native of Australia and a naturalized U.S. citizen. His last known address was Tucson, Ariz., where the flights allegedly originated.

In his statement to the jury Wednesday, the lawyer for John R. Hawke of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., one of the defendants, said the flights had been secretly backed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, a claim federal officials have denied.

Prosecutors said Hawke, 38, an RAF veteran, was the pilot on the flights, which, they said, took place between May and September, 1965. They touched down at St. John's, Nfld.

'BOARD HAD PERMISSION'

Hawke's lawyer, Edwin Marger, told the court testimony would prove "the United States" allowed Board to leave the country at a time he could have been apprehended; that the government knows where he is and has done nothing to bring him back."

Marger said Hawke assumed he was working for the government and that Board had obtained the necessary clearance.

Edward Brodsky, the lawyer for the second defendant, Count Henri de Monmarin, told a similar story. He added that his client, a 58-year-old French import-exporter acting as agent for a Swiss firm, "had every reason to believe" the licences had been granted.

Re-opening statement on behalf of a third man on trial, Woodrow W. Roderick, a Winnipeg businessman now living in Tucson, was deferred by his lawyer.

Under prosecution questioning Kent Griggers, 42, an aircraft mechanic from Jamestown, Calif., testified the planes had been certified for civilian use by the Federal Aviation Agency after they were reconditioned.

Griggers was named in the indictment, but charges against him later were dropped.

Increased Car Prices Called "Shocking and Scandalous"

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors, giant of the auto industry, today followed the lead of Ford and Chrysler and raised its 1967 auto prices.

General Motors said its price adjustments "for both optional items made standard and new product improvements average $36 for all passenger cars."

GM said, as the other two members of the automotive big three did earlier, that the price adjustments did not include any provision to "recover increased wage and fringe benefits for workers or increased prices paid for steel, copper and other materials."

GM said the top increase on its 177 models was $89.

The General Motors price announcement aroused safety items which had been added to its cars this year as standard equipment.

"As a result, 1967 marks the ninth consecutive year that General Motors cars have been priced at the 1959 model levels, adjusted only for equipment changes," it added.

INCREASES CRITICIZED

The General Motors and Chrysler price increase announcements came amid criticism from President Johnson and United Auto Workers boss Walter Reuther of similar boosts by Ford Motor Co.

Chrysler Corp. today was announced Wednesday less than three hours after Reuther called Ford's increased prices "shocking and scandalous."

There were indications General Motors will join the price raising parade today but American Motors said it will hold off for a few days.

Ford's price increase, which it said was mainly to cover costs of new government-required safety items, figured out on basic price tag comparison to be $131, or four per cent compared with 1966 models.

Chrysler's arithmetic shows its new price list average $36 more than the price list announced when the 1966 cars came out. Chrysler said its increases averaged out to 2.2 per cent, which was not within the figure laid down by the Johnson administration's wage - price guidlines.

COVERS SAFETY

Chrysler said $72 of the increased price package covered safety items, with the remaining $36 representing "upgrading" of the product, new design features and cost increases in basic materials."

President Johnson said at a press briefing several hours before the Chrysler move that he regretted Ford's price decision.

"They (the auto companies) are free to make their own prices and they did," the president said. "We are analyzing what effect it will have on the economy."

Reuther called for a congressional investigation of the auto industry and its profits, prices and wage policies.

He told the United Steelworkers convention in Atlantic City, N.J., that the "great automobile corporations are taking more than their share of profit."

There are indications from an aide on the Senate commerce committee that it would look over the new price list and possibly call public hearings to ask the auto makers to explain them.

Reuther maintained that rather than raising prices, Ford could have cut prices $200 a car and still made "a very substantial profit."

Chrysler, as did Ford, restuffed the package of accessories on its 1967 cars. Some of them made available at extra cost last year were made standard items on the 1967 lines.

Conversely, some of 1966's standard items were made optional this time.

Rusk Sounds Out Gromyko For Any Soviet Change on Viet Nam, Other Issues

By LEWISH GULICK

UNITED NATIONS (AP)— State Secretary Rusk plans to sound out Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko tonight for any signs of change in Kremlin foreign policy on Viet Nam and other outstanding issues.

Some U.S. experts believe Moscow may feel free to deal with the West now that China's purge is damaging Peking's standing in the Chinese-Soviet rivalry for leadership of the Communist world.

According to this theory, the Russians have been locked into a rigid position toward the United States in recent times because of Chinese charges that Moscow is conspiring with communism's enemy — the United States. Now that Kremlin's star is rising in the Red camp, these experts feel, Soviet leaders should feel less restricted by Peking's challenge.

SHOWS NO SOFTENING

Gromyko has shown no public softening since his arrival Sept. 18 for the UN General Assembly. He and other Communists have accused the United States of aggression in Viet Nam.

Rusk's meeting with Gromyko tonight was the first opportunity for such a high - level canvassing of views by representatives of the two governments since the two met here a year ago. At that time massive U.S. military action in South Viet Nam was relatively new and China's Red Guard rampage was still in the future.

Rusk's indicator of the importance Rusk attached to the meeting was a strict secrecy edict. The secretary of state told aides and reporters nothing would be given out on the substance of the talks, publicly or otherwise.

A sign of Soviet interest in talking over a broader range of topics is that Gromyko was reported in favor, a second session with Rusk before the U.S. foreign affairs chief leaves New York at the end of the week.

Canadian Car Makers Told to Lower Prices

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian automobile manufacturers are heading for a clash with the federal government if they fail to narrow the price difference between U.S. and Canadian 1967 models.

A federal spokesman made it clear Wednesday the government expects a reduction in the differential when new-car prices are announced.

Finance Minister Sharp was reported as saying in Montreal Wednesday that Canadian car manufacturers have been told the government is opposed to automobile prices that would maintain or widen the price gap between Canada and the United States.

"We are taking all reasonable measures to stop the spiral," he is quoted as saying in an interview.

Announcements in the U.S. of price increases for 1967 models left the Canadian price situation unclear.

Earl Brownridge, president of American Motors (Canada) Ltd. said Canadians will likely pay $50 to $100 more for 1967 models due to new safety devices.

Mr. Sharp was in Montreal for a meeting of the Commonwealth finance ministers.

32 Ten-Foot Metal Saucers Track Sun in Algonquin Park

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—A row of 10-foot metal saucers is keeping tabs on the sun's daily progress across the sky over Algonquin Park as the National Research Council's new radio observatory moves into the operational stage.

The saucers—there are 32 of them strung out along a 700-foot, east-west line — are parabolic reflectors collecting radiation from the sun. Linked together and operated in unison by remote control, they make up a multi - element interferometer, the newest research tool at the observatory.

But they are dwarfed by the giant 150-foot-diameter dish of the radiotelescope at the installation in a secluded section of the provincial park, 120 miles northeast of Ottawa and away from most man-made sources of electrical interference.

The giant telescope already is in operation, although much of its present work program consists of tests.

"It is essentially complete and the tests will gradually peter out," says Dr. G. A. Miller, head of the radio astronomy section of NRC's radio and electrical engineering division.

The interferometer array is geared to follow the sun for four hours in the middle of each day to record the sun's emissions on the 10-centimetre wavelength.

COMPUTES EMISSIONS

While the sun's radiation includes all parts of the spectrum, scientists are specially interested in the 10-centimetre band because it follows the same pattern as x-ray emissions. The X-ray emissions are absorbed in the upper atmosphere, forming the ionosphere—a layer around the earth vital to long-distance radio communications.

Radiation on the 10 - centimetre band goes right through the atmosphere and can be measured on the ground, providing an accurate index for the unmeasurable x-ray radiation.

Scientists will use these measurements along with information on sunspots cycles—22-year periods of deviations on the sun's surface—to investigate the effects of the sun's radiation on the earth's magnetic field.

The long life of the sunspot cycles probably will make this a long-term job.

But the interferometer can handle more than one project.

"It can do six or eight short-term projects at the same time," Dr. Miller said in an interview. "We have one already under way."

The interferometer also could increase in size over the next few years. While no firm plans for expansion exist at present, the initial array was designed so it could be extended to form a giant T.

This would involve adding new units to make the east-west line run 2,850 feet—four times its present length—and a 350-foot north-south line running down from the middle of the east-west section.

Probably Safer in Your Car Than You Are in Your Home

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

You're probably safer in your car than in your home. . . . Nearly three times as many insurance claims are made for accidents in the home as for automobile accidents.

If all heart disease could be wiped out, it would increase life expectancy at birth by only six years. . . . There is still no medical miracle on the horizon that would enable the average man to live to be 100 years old.

A majority of people, publicly jeer at the idea that the stars foretell their fate, but some 10,000,000 Americans do have some faith in astrology.

Counselling Services Advise Those Who Can't Pay Bills

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP)—The tremendous surge in the use of credit during the 1960s is being accompanied by a related phenomenon: counselling services that advise or supervise those who can't pay bills.

The reception given a new counselling service here indicates there are a lot of people who thought they were basking in the good life, only to have a tidal wave of bills submerge them in debt.

Said William J. Martin Jr., president of Consumer Credit Counselling Service of Long Island:

"We haven't publicized the service much, but we have determined there is a definite need. People are banging down the door." Those seeking help are "confused, overwhelmed by their position."

Called by various names—debtors anonymous, credit counsellors, consumer counsellors—the different services have the same goal:

To take the avalanche of bills one can't pay, put him on a strict budget and, if necessary, berserk creditors into taking payments in smaller amounts.

WIDESPREAD

Credit counselling services are available in at least 27 states and in Ontario.

The facts behind the phenomenon are these:

U.S. consumer instalment debt has increased from about $48,000,000,000 in 1962 to close to $70,000,000,000 early this year. Personal bankruptcies, estimated at more than 140,000 a year, have had a similar increase.

Much of this represents the proliferation of charge accounts, credit cards, "easy" terms, and the buy-now-pay-later philosophy.

At fault for the prevalence of this attitude are those who dispense credit. Admittedly, they have complicated the case and not the pain.

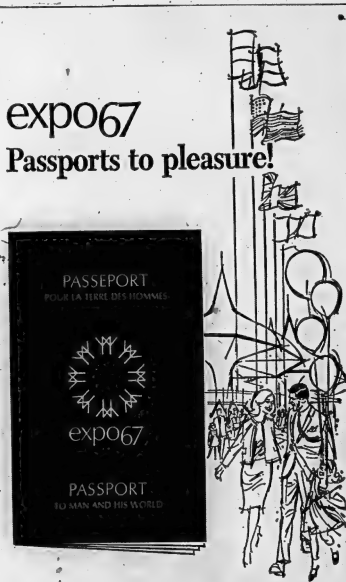
Users of existing counselling services generally are referred by a creditor, by the legal aid society, a social service agency or an employer.

Should one use such a service he will be provided with forms on which he must detail debts, income, instalment repayments and living expenses. An interview is scheduled at which he must bring payment books and other documents. Husband and wife are urged to come together.

A financial specialist analyses the problem, makes recommendations on budgeting and suggests improvements in handling money. The case may be more involved, though.

If so, creditors are reached, the problem explained to them and their co-operation asked.

A person involved is put on a budget, and makes regular payments to the service each payday. Once a month the service pays the creditors.



The service is free. "We don't believe a charge is ethical," said Alfred R. Hackbarth, educational director of the Credit Foundation, although some counselors may charge a small fee to keep the matter on a businesslike level.

Boyish Producer Builds Lavish Home in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It looks like a set from a Ross Hunter movie.

Hunter is the boyish producer of Pillow Talk, 'I'd Rather Be Rich, Madame X, and other documentaries of life in the upper classes. His films have the showy, sumptuous look that has seldom been seen on the screen since Norma Shearer and Joan Crawford turned in their Adrian gowns at MGM.

Thus you might expect that Hunter would erect an elegant showplace when he set about to build his own home. He has. With taxes and business managers now overlording the local economic scene, the producer's house could well be the last of the Hollywood palaces.

The cost? He would rather not think about it, much less talk about it. Estimates for house, lot and furnishings run to the neighborhood of $300,000, which is a pretty ratified neighborhood for a two - bedroom palace.

Before taking off on a business trip to Europe, Hunter consulted a friend on the newly-finished house. It is in the upper reaches of the Trousdale Estates, a hushed enclave nestled between the Sunset Strip and Beverly Hills.

ANACHRONISM INSTANT

Although he has lived in the house only a few weeks, the grounds give its place an established look. "That's my instant landscaping," he explained. "It was all planted in one day, including the large trees. Even the lawns were rolled out like carpeting."

The view from inside the massive front door resembles a Roman villa. You look through the marble hall to the marble pool on the terrace below; it bulges with the flow of three massive fountains. Beyond is the urban sprawl of Los Angeles, usually smog-enshrouded.

Hunter headed for the dining room. "The crystal chandelier is from Ireland, the China pieces are from Carol Channing," said the producer, referring to a star of his most recent film, Thoroughly Modern Millie.

The producer pointed out other aspects of the house's 9,000 square feet: A railing from a Spanish church; a mural, The Musicians, inherited by Douglas Riesborough; the verandah with overhead heating for use in any weather; the bridge room where he plays weekly with Burt Lancaster, Richard Conte and others.

At the end of the tour, Hunter paused to ponder: "I often wonder how a little guy from Cleveland could do all this. When I was 1644, I rented a room at the Plaza Hotel for $60 a month."

Fortune's Darling in Film World Is Breezy Cockney

By HAL DOYLE

NEW YORK(AP)—Fortune's darling in the film world today is Michael Caine, a breezy Cockney who looks more like a young general than a movie star.

The 33-year-old actor has a goal now that he's on top.

"It's money, pure and simple," he said. "I spent too long without it. For 10 years my income was $12 a week. Now I want something I never had before — security. To me that means money.

"It won't change me. It's too late to change when you're 33, and having your last pound. You only change if suddenly become a millionaire at 20 or 25."

Following the surprising success of the James Bond spoof, The Ipcress File, Michael has made five pictures in 19 months without a day off. They include the controversial Alfie, and The Wrong Box, a British comedy.

Besieged by offers, Caine now gets $250,000 and up a picture, plus a percentage of profits.

Michael is the son of a London fish-and-chips and fish market porter and proud of his Cockney heritage.

THE WAY TO GO

"It's an advantage," he said. "For a Cockney there is no way to go but up.

"Cockneys have the strongest sense of survival of any people in the world, and an actor needs that. They also have a sense of humor. I've never met a pompous Cockney."

Michael went to work as an office boy for a film producer

His Goal Is Not Money Says Tijuana Brass Leader

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"I don't seem able to get caught up with success," said Herb Alpert. "I'm not used to it.

"My goal isn't to make money — it's to find out what life is for."

But at 29, Herb, whose dark sideburns and matador build make him look like the late Rudolph Valentino, is riding a golden avalanche.

The slender trumpeter and his Tijuana Brass band will gross an estimated $25,000,000 this year as the result of breaking the sound barrier.

The sound barrier they broke was the sound of rock 'n' roll which has dominated the music world for years. They created a rollicking new sound, a sound in which Alpert wedded Dixieland jazz and the spirited rhythms of Mexico's strolling mariachi bands.

Herb, who has been blowing the trumpet since he was eight, first experimented with the new sound in a Los Angeles garage back in 1962. But it was a full two years before, the sound really caught the national fancy.

CAN'T PREDICT SUCCESS

"There have been a lot of new musical sounds, and you can never in advance really put your finger on one that the public will take to," said Herb.

"But perhaps people were tired of protest music. Ours has a happy sound."

Perhaps Alpert himself was subconsciously looking for a happier sound. One of his chores during a two-year stint in the army had been the playing of Taps at funeral services.

Some days he blew this mournful farewell salute as many as 16 times at military cemeteries.

His six-man band has made six albums of which 11,000,000 copies have been sold. Four of his six are still on the "top 40" list, and three are among the top five record best sellers.

One of his two firms, the A and M Record Co., expects a gross of $4,000,000 during 1966. His other firm, Tijuana Brass Enterprises, should gross better than $2,000,000 from the band's concert and television appearances.

He has bought two new cars, had little visible effect on Herb, but he lives in the same home and is investing his income to provide for the security of his two small children.

New Policy Direction for Liberals Seen

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberals plan to pack all their arguments and decision-making into three days here early next month to give the Liberal party a new policy direction.

The Liberal federation's national meeting for 1966 is being converted into a tightly-packed schedule of workshops and plenary sessions aimed at getting the grass roots' direction on at least the major party objectives and ways of achieving them.

Keynote speakers for the Oct. 10-12 meeting will be Lesly Bracken Ward Jackson, British economist and expert on international affairs, and Claude Ryan, publisher of the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir and an articulate interpreter of French-English relations in Canada.

Prime Minister Pearson is the only other major speaker.

Plenary sessions and workshops will be open to the press and closed-circuit television will be available in the Chateau Laurier Hotel on all plenary and some workshop sessions.

Three Fine Shows in Prime Time Spot on Wednesdays

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The final hour of prime network time Wednesday nights promises to be the most difficult period of the week for the viewing audience. The 10-11 spot is a time of agonizing decision.

The question is whether to tune in on the sorties of Danny Kaye on CBS, to sample the offering of ABC's refreshing series, Stage 67 which is the network's most ambitious effort of the season, or to enjoy the clook-and-dagger adventures of NBC's I Spy.

This viewer chose I Spy, a hit for his second season. And it was a good night—co-star Bill Cosby was carrying the love interest.

It appears the intrepid agents will operate in new territory this season. Last season it was the Hong Kong - Tokyo area. Wednesday night's show opened with the stabbing of a nuclear scientist in Paris and wounding with the usual hand - to - hand combat, near - Las Vegas.

It was a far-fetched and unlikely tale about a defecting scientist who was systematically dispatching his colleagues. But there was also the good-looking Nancy Wilson making her dramatic debut, singing a few of her distinctive songs and giving the engaging Cosby a chance to be dominant figure in the story. Quite often, because there is usually a pretty white girl involved, the romantic parts go to co-star Robert Culp.

CBS' Gomer Pyle, back for a third season, faces some formidable competition this season. The military comedy has been pulled out of its comfortable Friday evening spot and placed opposite ABC's Peyton Place.

Green Acres, the comedy that precedes it on CBS, continues in its unexpected rural way with Eva Gabor playing a bub-

Will Probe Adequacy of 16-Man Force

PEMBROKE (CP)—Two investigators are to be sent here next week to determine whether this community of 10,000 can be adequately policed by a 16-man force.

R. P. Milligan, chairman of the Ontario Police Commission, made the announcement Wednesday.

The action follows the city council's decision to fire three junior constables following settlement of a 35-month old age dispute.

The agreement was accepted by council Sept. 9. Mayor William K. Kotzkins announced Sept. 6, the firing of the three men from the 39-man force "for economic reasons."

MINISTER RESIGNS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Maitland B. Steinkopf has resigned as minister without portfolio in the Manitoba government, it was announced Wednesday. Mr. Steinkopf does not contest the June provincial election, declaring he wished to retire from politics, but continued to hold a cabinet post until this week.

Diefenbaker Was Most Imprudent In Failing to Dismiss Sevigny Says Spence in Munsinger Report

OTTAWA (CP) — The judicial report on the Gerda Munsinger sex-and-security affair today criticized Opposition Leader Diefenbaker on every count.

The report by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada said that Mr. Diefenbaker, then prime minister, should have removed Pierre Sevigny from the associate defence portfolio in 1960 when he found out about Mr. Sevigny's relationship with Mrs. Munsinger.

It said Mr. Diefenbaker had resolved doubt in a case of national security in favor of Mr. Sevigny instead of in favor of the country.

Mr. Diefenbaker should have consulted the cabinet on the case and have informed Defence Minister Harkness and Trade Minister Hees.

LATEST NEWS INSTALLMENT

"It is difficult to understand how anyone could be retained in any cabinet post when the slightest doubt remained as to his reliability from the point of five of national security, as all ministers must have access to much classified information, but to retain him as associate minister of national defence under the circumstances would appear to have been most imprudent," the report said.

"A more dangerous cabinet position than that of national defence, from the point of view of espionage by enemy agents or information - seeking by grossly dishonest, could hardly be imagined.

"Even if the decision could be made to retain Mr. Sevigny in the cabinet, surely enough doubt lingered to justify, indeed demand, that he be moved to a cabinet post not so vital to the national security as that of associate minister of national defence."

The report says Mr. Sevigny was not a party to deceit with Mrs. Munsinger and told Mr. Diefenbaker "much less than the whole truth" about the affair, and that was a "startling" degree of blackmail and improper pressure.

His attempted concealment of the closeness of his intimacy throughout 1959 and 1960 have driven him to tender his resignation.

Mr. Justice Spence's thorough investigation on Mr. Diefenbaker's orders would have revealed a situation which would have entitled Mr. Diefenbaker to call for Mr. Sevigny's resignation.

The judge said Mr. Hees' association with Mrs. Munsinger was "much less than the whole truth" about the affair, and that was a "startling" degree of blackmail and improper pressure.

Hees was not surprised at the criticism of his conduct in the report, but said he has been a casual one, not at all improper in character."

The national defence army forces when Justice Minister Cardin charged that Mr. Diefenbaker had misunderstood the Munsinger case when it was brought to his attention.

Stating his Commons seat on his charges, he also alleged that "two or more" ministers in Mr. Diefenbaker's cabinet were involved with the 37-year-old German woman and that this constituted a security risk.

Munsinger Report Highlights

OTTAWA (CP)—Highlights of Mr. Justice Wishart Spence's findings in the Munsinger inquiry:

The relationship between then associate defence minister Pierre Sevigny and Gerda Munsinger in 1959 - 61 constituted a "startling" security risk although he no actual breach of security was evident.

John Diefenbaker, then prime minister, did not properly handle the matter when it was brought to his attention.

Mr. Sevigny lied to Mr. Diefenbaker in December of 1960 when he claimed to have ended all association with Mrs. Munsinger months earlier, and should properly have resigned or been dismissed from the cabinet.

Prime Minister Pearson's action in asking the RCMP for any reports of impropriety involving MPs was a natural and proper one.

Justice Minister Cardin was justified in his contention that certain aspects of the Munsinger case were worse than the Profumo scandal.

It was "startling" that Mr. Diefenbaker did not inform Douglas Harkness, then defence minister, of the security risk that had been created by the Sevigny-Munsinger Liaison.

Mr. Diefenbaker also should have warned Mr. Hees of the situation but "failed" to do so.

There was "no scintilla of evidence or any indication that there was any disloyalty involved in any of the circumstances" investigated.

United Appeal Challenge

Belleville Bets Blood It Can Beat Chatham

Chatham is out for Belleville's blood.

And according to Mayor Jack Ellis, they're not going to get it.

At a meeting in Brantford last night, Mayor Ellis challenged Chatham Mayor, Clement Newkirk to a duel in each city's United Appeal Campaign:

Brantford Mayor Richard Beckett, addressing the meeting of Chatham, Brantford and Belleville United Appeal workers, said, with tongue-in-cheek, "Frankly, I don't know how your cities, with your populations, can meet the quota you set."

With that Mayor Ellis sprang to his feet and shouted his challenge to Chatham's mayor.

"I challenge Garnet Newkirk and that little town of his somewhere in western Ontario that he will never reach his goal first because we're going over the top a lot faster than they are.

"And furthermore, we'll kick in 100 pints of blood to the Chatham Red Cross if you get to your campaign goal before us.

"I'm even going to have to get in there and give a couple of pints myself if we don't do it."

Mayor Newkirk accepted the challenge and said jokingly that Mayor Ellis needed a lesson in geography. "Chatham is not a little town somewhere in western Ontario," he said, "It

Diefenbaker Remains Silent On Question of His Leadership

LAYING IT ON THE LINE — Dalton Camp, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, emphasizes a point in the leadership controversy within the Conservative Party. Mr. Camp was speaking in Montreal Wednesday night at a Young Progressive Conservative meeting.

TORONTO (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker emerged smiling and chipper Thursday night from a meeting with blanketing party supporters, but remained silent on the question of his leadership.

The two-hour meeting with the Toronto Progressive Conservative Businessmen's Club was closed to the press, but informants said later Mr. Diefenbaker was asked if he planned to put his leadership on the line at the next party convention.

Mr. Diefenbaker was reported to have avoided the question, saying it was one that could cause dissension in the party ranks.

Dalton Camp, national party president, said in Toronto Tuesday that Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership should be confirmed —or otherwise—at the party's annual meeting in Ottawa in November.

Mr. Diefenbaker brushed o'f reporters' questions as he en-

Everyone In UN Our Aim

- - Martin

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin today said Canada wants to see all the people of the world represented in the United Nations — indicating a flexible Canadian government attitude on the question of admitting mainland China to the world body.

Martin told the UN General Assembly the capacity of the United Nations to act in the Viet Nam war remains doubtful "as long as certain parties involved in that conflict are not members of this organization and are not bound by the terms of the charter."

The world body wouldn't necessarily be able to settle the conflict if China and Viet-namese states were members, but it "would have a better chance of doing so if these parties were sitting here today."

Martin, making Canada's first statement in general debate at the 1966 assembly session, said "there is a growing opinion in Canada that, if this organization (the UN) is to realize its potential capacities, all nations and especially those which, like continental China, represent a significant portion of the world's population, must be represented here."

"A solution to this problem of representation has eluded us for many years and, in spite of impelling reasons, I do not know whether it will be possible for us to resolve this question within the next few months. Universality, however, remains our objective."

The assembly has on its agenda this session a non-controversy resolution calling for "restoration of the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations."

Martin said efforts to control and reduce armaments cannot hope to succeed unless all the principal armed powers, including China, participate in the negotiations. He thought "the nonaligned countries have a special role to play in persuading the People's Republic of China to participate in such discussions."

Ottawa Police Search Hotel Where Miami Man Registered

OTTAWA (CP) — Police searched a hotel room here Thursday night seeking clues to the bombing of the Cuban Embassy building but found it had been cleaned out by the maid.

The room in the Alexandria Hotel was registered to a man who signed in as Orlando Alfonso of Miami. He stayed at the hotel Wednesday night after arriving without luggage and paying in advance.

Police checked the hotel after finding a rented car that apparently was used to transport the two anti-tank missiles used in the bomb attack. The car also was rented to a man who gave the name Orlando Atienza.

Only one of the 3.5-inch anti-tank rockets, of a type not used by Canadian forces, went off in the attack on the embassy Thursday morning. No one was injured as the single missile that fired ripped up the lawn and sidewalk in front of the building and punched in all front windows on its three floors.

Miami police also questioned a number of refugees from Fidel Castro's Cuban regime after Felipe Rivero Diaz, head of the Cuban Nationalist Movements, boasted agents of his group were responsible for the blast.

Police city detectives and RCMP officers spread through the city Thursday night questioning Cuban nationals and special guards kept an eye on the embassy and houses of other Cuban officials.

Caught in Own Mine Net, Seven U.S. Soldiers Die

SAIGON (Reuters) — Seven U.S. soldiers were killed and 14 wounded when they were caught in a network of their own mines north of Saigon Thursday, the U.S. military command announced today.

One soldier was killed when he accidentally set off the first mine. As other men hurried to the aid of troops wounded in the explosion they tripped off three more mines, killing six more men.

The blockup was the latest in a series of accidents that has cost more than 400 casualties since July 1. Earlier this week six U.S. soldiers were killed and 25 wounded by American bombs and artillery.

In the air raids against North Viet Nam, American planes Thursday pounded the area just north of the demilitarized border zone and blasted a fuel dump 35 miles northeast of Haiphong.

Air force planes made six separate strikes just above the northern edge of the six-mile wide buffer zone between the two Viet Nams, hitting suspected storage areas.

Heavy Bail Set for 13 Held

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York State Supreme Court justice today held 13 Cosa Nostra bosses on a total of $1,500,000 bail after their arrest Thursday in what was described as the biggest raid involving crime syndicate figures since the 1957 Apalachin conference.

Bail was set at $100,000 each for the 13, all listed as reputed members of the Cosa Nostra's national crime network by undercover informer Joseph Valachi.

Justice Joseph Conroy said the men were being held as material witnesses in the investigation of "major crimes" in Queens County. The group was remanded to civil jail when they were unable to post bond.

Chief Inspector Sanford Garelik, who directed the roundup Thursday, called it the most important since the gangland conference at Appalachian, N.Y., in 1957 was broken up by state police. Sixty top hoodlums and their friends were arrested then.

Thursday's raid came as the Controversies Mark Dief's 10 Years as PC Leader

OTTAWA (CP)—Public controversy involving the Conservative national leader and the party's national president seems to be a common feature of John Diefenbaker's 10 years in the leadership.

There has been controversy between Mr. Diefenbaker and nearly all but one who held the national presidency in that period and also with one who was president before the Diefenbaker years.

The latest controversy centres on the call of President Dalton Camp for the party to re-appraise its leadership, either confirming it or rejecting Mr. Diefenbaker.

His plans to seek a second term of office as president on the platform of a need for a leadership convention, which can be called only at the behest of the PC Association's annual meeting, first meeting is scheduled for Nov. 13-16 here.

The list of Mr. Camp's predecessors is studded with names of men who ran afoul of the leader on one issue or another.

Egan Chambers, former Montreal MP and president from January, 1963, until Mr. Camp's election in February, 1964, fell out with Mr. Diefenbaker over the issue of nuclear arms.

Mr. Chambers' candidacy for president in 1963 pitted him against Preston Gilbride, 51, a Toronto insurance executive who was generally regarded as Mr. Diefenbaker's preference.

Mr. Chambers' predecessor for two terms was Senator G. S. Thorvaldson, a Winnipeg corporation lawyer, who began his term as a Diefenbaker man. But in 1962, he was among those who favored the holding of a leadership convention and a change in leadership.

The issue was fought out at a national executive meeting behind closed doors. Senator Thorvaldson was out of the country by the time the meeting took place.

Leon Balcer was president from January, 1956, until November, 1959, and presided at the leadership convention which elected Mr. Diefenbaker leader.

After serving in Diefenbaker cabinets, he split with Mr. Diefenbaker in 1965, sponsoring the demand that the executive call a leadership convention. When this failed, he left the party.

George Hees' two-year term as national president started in 1964, before Mr. Diefenbaker was elected leader. He eventually quit the Diefenbaker cabinet in 1963 partly over the nuclear issue and partly because, he said, Mr. Diefenbaker aimed at a campaign of anti-Americanism.

Finance Ministers Agree To Change in Aid Programs

MONTREAL (CP) — Commonwealth finance ministers agreed Thursday that financing arrangements for aid programs in the developing countries should be changed to avoid burdening these countries with excessive debt charges.

The agreement came out of a two-day closed meeting of the Commonwealth's economic consultative committee which concentrated on development problems and reform of the international monetary system.

Another agreement termed significant by Finance Minister Sharp was that the developing countries should be allowed to participate in discussions leading up to new monetary arrangements.

Mr. Sharp said the Commonwealth countries have never before reached complete agreement on this point.

Some European countries oppose using the International Monetary Fund, which would include developing countries in the talks, on the grounds that these countries might ease up in efforts to improve their own economic situation.

A conference communique echoed the views of other international groups that plans must be made now to increase international liquidity although there is enough liquidity now.

SAYS IMPORTANT ISSUE

The liquidity issue was described by Mr. Sharp as cosmetic and one he did not pretend to understand in all its complexities. But it was important to solve if international trade was to continue to grow.

The view of developing countries that they are failing behind in efforts to close the economic gap between them and the wealthier nations was reflected in the communique.

Mr. Sharp told a press conference that in the last five years there has been no net increase in transferring resources from the wealthy to the poorer nations.

In the same period the gross national product of the main industrialized countries had increased about $250,000,000,000.

SHARE DECREASED

The communique said the developing countries' share in world trade has fallen, export prices of several important primary commodities have continued to decline and net capital flows have dropped.

It said the ministers agreed it was desirable to work out international arrangements for stabilizing prices at equitable and remunerative levels for commodities of special interest to Commonwealth countries.

It was not intended that the arrangements should make earth-shaking decisions The meeting provides an opportunity to discuss in a Commonwealth context the issues to be raised at next week's meetings in Washington of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

"I believe Mr. Camp is exercising his responsibility in an excellent fashion.

Will Not Accept Note Instead Of Usual Bond

TRENTON — The Trenton Public Utilities Commission voted last night to accept the town's proposed new sub-division by-laws as they apply to the Dufferin Development Limited sub-division, with the exception of accepting a promissory note in lieu of a performance bond.

Commission chairman Charles Hilton said he thought the commission would be establishing a dangerous precedent by agreeing to accept a promissory note from Dufferin's principals, Frank Miron and John Wiggers. The commission has always demanded a performance bond on jobs where the contractor must agree to do the work to specifications and within a certain time limit.

In other business, the commission agreed to increase its overall insurance by $73,000, at an annual premium increase of $85, on the recommendation of agent D. W. Whitley to cover additional buildings. The motion, calling approved payment of lawyers' bills amounting to $1,000 and decided to buy a new meter testing board at a cost of $5,200.

No Ambition For Leadership Says Camp

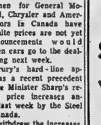
MONTREAL (CP) — Dalton Camp, national president of the Conservative party, said here Thursday party members are wondering where, if anywhere, the party is going.

"We no longer know what the party's policy is on the problem of Confederation, foreign affairs, defence, welfare," Mr. Camp said in an interview.

"The policy of a party is something other than a series of arbitrary judgments on the decisions of others."

The national president has been more active since making the suggestion earlier this week that appraisal of present party leadership is an urgent matter.

Interviewed in Toronto Thursday night, Conservative Leader Diefenbaker declined to discuss a call by Mr. Camp for a convention decision on whether Mr. Diefenbaker should stay in office.



Mr. Camp in his interview said there is no ambition for the party leadership, but there are indications that "there will be some very good candidates in the ranks and that satisfies me."

Unfortunately, "we don't have in the party the climate necessary for the candidates to assert themselves openly."

The national president said he has ambitions only concerning the party's organization and a seat for himself in the Commons.

The party was "passably democratic, less so in Quebec unfortunately." But in most of the constituencies across the country, our organization shows a very great flexibility."

Mother and Dad

No state was on her little heart,
No sound was heard to part,
And innocence slept sweetly on,
As angels took her home.
Her life was like a flower of fair mold
On earth.
Too beautiful to stay.
And so God's holy angel bore,
Our darling far away.
Sadly missed by Mother, Dad, and twin sister Shirley, brothers Warren Larry, Jeffy, Janice and Burton.

WEBER — In loving memory of a dear husband, Kenneth, who passed away Sept. 25, 1965.
We don't know when, he left home,
We only know he's gone,
And that death so soon would claim
Our loved one.
Memories are sweet to treasure,
We do not know what pain he bore,
We only miss him more.
Sadly missed by wife and family.

Price Situation On 1967 Cars Causes Concern

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday the government is "very much concerned" about the price situation on 1967 cars.

Industry Minister Drury said in a statement the government would expect "vigorous price warrowing" of the differential between car prices in Canada and the U.S.

This followed announcements by Ford, GM and Chrysler of price increases ranging from $56 to $113 on 1967 models over this year's prices.

Mr. Pearson also said at a press conference there is increased public awareness of the dangers of inflation.

Mr. Drury did not make clear whether Ottawa would tolerate some increases in car prices if they were lower than those in the U.S. His key words were stated in the context of the costs savings which longer production runs generated in the U.S.-Canada automotive free-trade pact.

CITES SAVINGS

"We believe that cost savings resulting from the rationalization program should help to offset any added cost resulting from the incorporation of certain safety items as standard equipment in the 1967 models," the statement said.

"We would therefore expect that when the prices for the 1967 models are established in Canada, we will see a further significant narrowing of the differential between automotive prices in Canada and the United States."

Spokesmen for General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors in Canada have said definite prices are not yet set.

Announcements would come when cars go to the dealers starting next week.

Mr. Drury's hard-line approach has a recent precedent in Finance Minister Sharp's reaction to price increases announced last week by the Steel Co. of Canada.

Stelco withdrew the increases.

Detectives said the purpose of the raid was to keep track of how the men relate to each other in importance within the underworld hierarchy. They did not speculate on the reason for the Forest Hills meeting.

Queens District Attorney Nat Hentel said he planned to subpoena the 13 to appear at a special grand jury session investigating the meeting.

Since Apalachin, there have been reports of smaller scale syndicate meetings in Worcester, Mass., in 1959; in Toronto in 1960; in Atlantic City, N.J., and a new series in New York.

Large Shipment of Cattle Arrives Here From West

Trail drives aren't what they used to be. Take the herd of 207 beef cattle that arrived in Belleville yesterday in five Canadian Pacific Railway Company livestock cars. The 18 - month-old Hereford feeders travelled all the way from Northern Alberta – a distance of about 2,600 miles – and didn't walk a step of the way.

But even though the cattle left the driving to CPR employees instead of herders on horseback, they dropped a few pounds during the trip east. This is one of the hazards of the cattle - buying business that men like W. G. (Bill) Laidlaw, Bert Latchford, live with. And of course there's the chance the cattle may catch colds or shipping fever.

Mr. Latchford purchased the 207 head of cattle at a sale held north of Lloydminster, Alberta, September 14. Yesterday at the CPR yards here, he was busy unloading the "critters". Handling beef cattle is nothing new to him. He's been in the business since 1950. Prior to that, he was a dairy farmer.

"These are some of the better beef cattle from western Canada," he observed yesterday, "men who should know, rate them as outstanding cattle."

Mr. Latchford keeps about 500 head on hand at his farm. These newcomers will pasture for a while and then be moved to a feed lot at Marysville. Later, they'll be sold to buyers in Montreal and Toronto.

"The cattle were fed and watered four times during the trip from Alberta. Our main concern is getting them used to our climate while they graze on pastureland. Then we'll move them to the feed lot," explained Mr. Latchford.

Shipping of cattle from the west to eastern points by rail is nothing new. But yesterday's shipment was the largest CPR has delivered to Belleville. The previous high was three carloads.

Belleville's Official Plan May Be Ready in a Year

Belleville's long-awaited Official Plan may be a reality by this time next year, Planning Director P. J. Beavis told Belleville and Suburban Planning Board at its regular meeting last night.

"Once municipalities give some idea of how they are going to tackle servicing in the parts of Sidney and Thurlow lying within the planning area, we can start on the plan," Mr. Beavis said. "At the moment lack of such guidance is not handicapping the staff. Survey information is now recorded and we are preparing large scale maps to present to the public. But to efficiently plan Belleville and its fringe area, we must know the adjacent municipalities' plans for development of utilities within the next 20 years."

The Official Plan, when completed, will include the area between one-half lot east of Elmwood Drive and one-half lot west of Bell Boulevard, and will be bounded by Highway 401 at the north and the Bay of Quinte at the south.

As part of the preparation for the Official Plan, the Board recommended that the development of the Hale Sideroad extension is preferable to the development of the Leming Sideroad at the east of the city. Thurlow agreed in principle with the Board's proposal and Mr. Beavis will request city council's comments and decision on the matter at its next meeting.

H.S. Board Okays Paving Of Driveway Areas at New West End Centennial School

Good news for the students and teachers at the new Centennial Secondary School in West Belleville.

In order to make conditions just a little better around the still unfinished high school, the Bay of Quinte High School Board this week voted to pave the driveway areas with the work to be done this fall. The costs will be paid from the general contract contingency fund.

There is still no heat at the new school and slacks, sweaters and coats are the order of the day. Board officials say that heat is expected to be on at the school within two weeks. Nineteen classrooms were ready at the opening of the fall school term and others have since been turned over by the general contractor.

WORK WEEK CUT

School caretakers are to have their work week cut from the present 47½ hours to 44 hours for day workers.

Stage crews working at the high school during outside use by outside organizations will receive pay at the rate of $1 per hour instead of the present $2 for four hours. The new rate will be effective in both Centennial and Trenton high schools.

The board also agreed to pay the salary of a public health nurse to work at the four local high schools supplementing the present half day per school service provided by the county health unit. The nurse will be engaged by the health unit which will be re-imbursed by the school board.

And high school students will be able to attend classes for a full seven years before they will be required to pay class costs. Previously students were charged after six years in high school with costs refundable if the student was successful in courses taken or received his grade 13 certificate.

APPROVE BUS TRIPS

The board approved in principle for arrangements with a local bus company to take high school students on two day trips to Expo-67 next year. The trips would be for a Friday and Saturday with overnight motel accommodation in Montreal. Plans are for teachers to supervise the trips.

The new Centennial Secondary School is expected to take care of high school accommodation requirements in the Belleville area for several years, but provision is already being made for possible expansion.

This week board members voted to leave one half million dollars in the city's capital works program for 1968.

Child Strikes Head on Milk Bottle

A twenty-month-old Glen Miller child is reported in satisfactory condition in Trenton Memorial Hospital today after falling from his highchair yesterday afternoon and striking his head on a milk bottle.

Gary Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Clarke of Peterson Road in Glen Miller suffered severe lacerations to his head in the mishap, which occurred around 4:30 yesterday afternoon.

The incident was investigated by the Belleville detachment of the O.P.P.

is the hub of western Ontario."

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE

"And if we're a small town, then so is Belleville because we're pretty close in size.

"One thing for sure, I'm certainly going to accept this 'bloody' challenge.

"I think Mayor Ellis is just whistling in the cemetery.

"I'm sure we'll all put our backs into it, and may the best city win."

Mayor Ellis explained that 14 United Appeal workers went to Brantford yesterday by bus and their own expense, to find final solutions to campaign problems. "Our United Appeal record has been something less than successful," he said, "and Brantford's is always successful. We felt a meeting with them was essential so we could discuss things with them and find out how we can improve our showing.

"I think the challenge with Chatham is just the ticket. I sincerely think we'll make our goal. The challenge will make that little bit extra committed that will make the difference."

Belleville's population is 31,000 compared to Belleville's 32,533. Belleville hopes to raise $160,000 and Chatham's campaign target is $107,000. In comparison, Brantford, a city of 65,000 set a goal of $231,046.

Bell Telephone manager, Charlie Buckley, has arranged a ball line bookup between Belleville and Chatham for the duration of the campaign so that each city can be constantly aware of the other city's daily progress.

BOOKS PRESENTED

Mayor Ellis presented a copy of the book "Mosaic of Belleville" to Mayors Newkirk and Beckett.

Mayor Newkirk then presented Mayor Ellis with a case of vegetable juice, remarking, "You're going to need something to replace all that blood you're going to lose."

Then Otto Seegers, Chatham campaign chairman, suggested that Chatham give Belleville something to assist them in digging out from under, and he presented Belleville campaign chairman Ted Boretski with a plastic shovel.

Mr. Boretski replied by having the Belleville delegation put their made-in-Belleville straw hats onto the heads of the Chatham people, commenting, "Now you can have something to hold onto as we pass you by."

Mr. Boretski said the aim of the Belleville campaign is to increase participation in industry.

"As an incentive, when an industry reaches 80 per cent participation we will inflate a three-foot helium balloon and extend it about 300 feet above the roof so that everyone in the city will know that industry has reached the 80 per cent level."

Mr. Seegers said, "I think there is only one ingredient that's going to put any campaign over the top, and that's enthusiasm. From what I've seen here today, I know there's no lack of enthusiasm and you'll all go over the top."

GIFTS EXCHANGED

Belleville Labor Council president, George Donald, presented a Belleville lock to Everett Yjelet, Chatham Labor Council representative. Mr. Donald said: "The lock is so that you can lock up your community chest. There are two keys here, one so that if you do happen to make it you can open the chest, and the other is the key to success."

Mr. Violet returned by presenting a miniature International truck which, he said, will be of use to carry Belleville's receipts to the bank."

Cec Pare, Chatham Industrial Commissioner, presented 50 pounds of Kent County sugar to Belleville Chamber of Commerce president Fred Deacon to "allow Belleville to experience the sweet success of success." Mr. Deacon replied by giving Mr. Pare a bag of Canada cement as "cement relations between Chatham and Belleville."

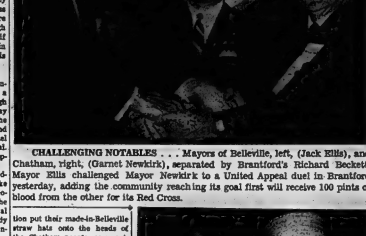
The Belleville delegation was also presented with a small sample of Handy Oil "to lubricate the wheels of Belleville's campaign vehicle."

Bert Beaumont, executive director of the Brantford United Fund, and guiding genius of most United Appeals in the province, organized the get - together in Brantford. Belleville's executive director, Robert Porter, gave him a Vivella shirt and Doug Fraser of Chatham gave him a set of crystal glasses in appreciation for hosting the day.

HONORED

In another presentation, Mrs. Barbara Harry, Belleville United Community Services secretary and her Chatham counterpart Mrs. M. Olney, were given gifts; Mrs. Harry received a cup and saucer and Mrs. Olney a gift from the Avon Jewellers.

Labor President George Donald said: "I feel the good roll deduction plan of giving in industry is the only way the United Appeal can get to organized labor.



"If you can say to a working man that a cup of coffee a week or even 25 cents, is enough if they all give, then you have something in work on."

CONVICT DISSIDENT

ZADAR, Yugoslavia (AP)—A Yugoslav court today sentenced Milka Mikulov, 40, defiant opponent of single-party communism, to 12 months in prison. The former university lecturer who pleaded not guilty, was convicted of spreading false information.

Mayor Ellis challenged Mayor Newkirk to a United Appeal duel in Brantford yesterday, adding the community reaching its goal first will receive 100 pints of blood from the other for its Red Cross.

DIGGING IN TOGETHER . . . Belleville United Appeal campaign chairman Ted Boretski, left, and his Chatham counterpart, Otto Seegers, dig in to start United Appeal challenge between the two cities. This Requires Action

Yesterday the Cuban Embassy at Ottawa was bombed.

At Miami Felipe Rivero Diaz said his Christian Nationalist Movement was responsible.

It will be interesting to see what reaction this calls forth from the Pearson Government.

It will be interesting, too, to see the response of the U. S. authorities.

If a letter to the President of the U. S. from a Canadian housewife is justification for a member of the FBI questioning her at her home about the merest hint of a threat, what is the proper response when a Cuban in the United States boasts that his organization is responsible for an explosion and says "Canada has been chosen for the initiation of the war against communism because of the insulting and provocative attitude maintained by the Canadian government?"

It is possible there is not sufficient evidence to bring Rivero to trial on any specific charge.

But surely it is not impossible for the government of a great power to exercise some restraint over the activities of refugees.

As a last resort, of course, the Canadian government could order an official boycott of Miami by Canadian tourists.

That would show them!

New Immigration Policy

Hon. Jean Marchand, Canada's Minister of Immigration, says he will submit to the House of Commons a white paper outlining a new policy which will abolish racial discrimination in immigration.

The announcement is in keeping with the image which this former Quebec labor leader has created since his appointment to the Cabinet — an image of courage, energy and high principles.

We could, however, have been happier about the manner in which the announcement was made, and the place in which it was made.

It deserved to be made in Canada, to all Canadians or to their representatives — rather than in Japan, to a group of newspapermen attending the opening of a travel bureau.

The setting gave to the announcement the appearance of a sop proffered the Japanese, rather than according it its true dimensions, the removal of an oft-derided but frequently prominent blot on our avowed belief in racial equality.

We should be happier, too, if we were sure that the implementation of this policy would not generate more new problems than it will solve old ones.

Mr. Marchand made it plain that, henceforth, Canada will open its doors to skilled immigrants regardless of their race. But, of the over-populated nations of the world, only a few have a surplus of people possessing the type of skills demanded by our highly industrialized economy.

Japan, of course, is one of these nations, which may have been why Mr. Marchand chose Tokyo for his announcement. If so, all the more honor to him — he was not putting up a false front with a change in policy which would have little practical effect on his listeners, as he would have been, for instance, had he been addressing a group of peons in South America or nomadic Arabs in North Africa.

Still, since we are being fair to individuals by the new policy, are we being fair to nations? Should we accept the skilled from lands which desperately need them? It is true that, once established here, they will repay the privilege of sponsoring immigrants relatives without similar skills. But skills are the result of training and training is largely reserved for the comparatively wealthy in undeveloped lands, so that skills tend to run in the family of the skilled. It will not always be so, in those recently independent lands which have established socialized education, with educational opportunities apportioned to those with high talents. But it is largely true today.

Yet, on the other hand, can we afford to take the ignorant and the unskilled? Would we really be doing them a kindness to set them down in a strange land, amidst strange people, with strange customs, a way of life which they would almost certainly be doomed to economic inferiority, if not to poverty as they have known it?

It sounds noble to urge that we open our doors to the poor, in talents as well as in goods, but we doubt that it is a practical way of helping them, or ourselves.

So Mr. Marchand has faced us with this new dilemma. Are we to rob the poor lands of their most promising wealth, their small store of skilled people? And, if not, will not this new policy mean little more than adding the Japanese to the list of the Italians, Germans, Scandinavians, French, Anglo-Saxons and Celts who are now welcome immigrants?

We look to Mr. Marchand for some guidance. Fortunately he appears to be the kind of cabinet minister to whom one does not look in vain.

Strictly Personal
Life Is One Big Paradox

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A reader in Toledo complains that I am "too fond of paradox." The dictionary defines paradox as "an assertion that seems contradictory, or opposed to common sense, but that yet may be true in fact."

In the very core of human existence, we find a huge paradox. Life is filled with catastrophic tragedies and tragic ecstasies; and, at the same time, life is filled with delightful experiences and comic situations.

Which view of life is "true"? It seems plain to me that each, taken alone, is false — that a sense of life makes a man ungrateful, and a comic sense of life makes a man superficial.

There is another deep paradox at the very core of human existence. All men are equal, and yet all men are unequal. Mankind is one, as the idea and creation of God, and must be equally treated as His children. But men are vastly unequal in their gifts of mind and body, and so their rewards must be unequal, in proportion to their merit.

Unless we know that all men are equal, we shall treat some men like beasts; and unless we know that all men are unequal, we shall impose a false uniformity and levels the greater down to the lesser.

There is yet a third profound paradox at the very core of political existence. All government represents a balance between freedom and order. On the one hand, citizens must have liberty; on the other, they must obey the rules set down for the common welfare.

Those who view politics as an instrument only for liberty are really anarchists, of the right or of the left; while those who view politics as only an instrument for order are totalitarians, of the right or of the left.

And the fourth essential paradox, which is at the very core of our moral existence, is the one between tolerance and rightcourage. We must judge not, that we be not judged; and yet we must take a stand for what we believe to be right.

If we obey only the first part of the paradox, and refuse to judge, then we commit the sin of indifferentism, of deciding to act as our brother's keeper; if, on the contrary, we take a stand for righteousness, and judge others without charity, then we commit the sin of fanaticism and smugness.

Balance is all. A simple view of life is necessarily a wrong view. And paradox — not for its own sake but for the sake of truth — is the only fair and accurate way of describing the human condition.

Neglecting Newfoundland

Corner Brook Western Star

Very few will dispute the fact that geographically, the principal eastern community of Canada is St. John's and the western one is Victoria, BC. But, as we have remarked on more than one occasion, a great many Canadian sources apparently believe that Halifax is the east-ernmost point of the nation.

A recent magazine article told about the centennial edition, the "colorful military pageant (which) will tour the country in 1967." But there's the rub — what do they mean by "the country?" According to the article, the tattoo will be staged at 40 places, from Prince George, BC in the north to Windsor in the south, and from Glace Bay (Cape Breton) in the east to Victoria, in the west.

And where, pray, does the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador fit into this picture? It doesn't! We are out here in the Atlantic, separated by almost 100 miles of ocean from the mainland, with only a narrow-gauge railway that many people think makes us second-class citizens of Canada.

For it will require the services of two 25-car railway trains (standard gauge, of course) for six weeks. But, surely, this tattoo could be brought to us just the same! It's going to cost someone over $2,000,000, and for a few thousand more it could be brought to some of the bigger centres, e.g., to Corner Brook and St. John's which are easily reached by sea. We're not sure if this is the same thing as the "Confederation Trails" which is also scheduled to visit every province but this one.

In this connection, too, we are reminded again of the Confederation caravans that will also tour the country in 1967. There are eight of them all told, but only one of the eight is designated to tour the four Atlantic provinces! Commenting on this matter about a year ago we reminded that by virtue of the very size of this province and the scattered nature of our population, Newfoundland and Labrador deserved a caravan to itself. We have heard nothing about this possibility, however.

The centennial has been somewhat neglected here while we went through the throes of Come Home Year. We had thought, however, with the appointment of a centennial officer that things were looking up. But that gentleman's activity took to the hustings and we've left pretty much where we were before. Still it's not too late, and we trust that centennial officials in Ottawa will reassy our position and do something about bringing it the newest province more fully into the celebration of Canada's 100th birthday.

Publicity And Trials

St. Catharines Standard

The attorney for the accused murderer of the eight young student nurses in Chicago indicates he will try to have his client tried in some other community — one farther away from the scene of the crime.

He says he fears his man couldn't have a fair trial in Chicago because of publicity surrounding the case.

If his request is granted, then all the lawyer will have to do is find a place where there hasn't been — and won't be — publicity about the murders.

This may take a bit of doing. After all, a mass accused of murdering eight young women in one night is — guilty or innocent, — likely to receive some attention, in and out of the newspapers, regardless of where he is tried.

One of the more intriguing questions involved in all this is, just how much publicity constitutes "the publicity" cited as harmful to a person accused of a crime?

Alice, you visited Wonderland too soon. You ought to see what going on now!

To Your Good Health
Variety of Courses Provided for Doctors

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Today's thoughts may bore some folks to tears, but others may find that it puts some meat on the bare bones of the remark that physicians "have to keep up to date."

It's a good deal more than a hearing an occasional lecture or skimming through a medical journal in the evening, hoping that the phone won't ring.

As an example, I have a list of postgraduate courses offered by the American College of Physicians, all of them in the next nine months. Various schools and clinics are hosts, with experts gathered from all over the country.

The courses cost each doctor from $60 to $100, plus as much more for food, lodging and travel, with four to five days of study.

The current course is sponsored by the University of Minnesota and the Mayo Clinic on advances in skin treatment for internists.

Others and the sponsoring schools are Care of the Critically Ill Medical Patient (State University of New York); Endocrine and Metabolic Disorders (Emory University); Care of the Downstate Medical Centre); Newer Aspects of Allergy (Harvard University); Progress in the Gastroenterology (University of Pennsylvania); Cancer (Columbia University); Infectious Diseases (University of Pittsburgh).

Renal (Kidney) Diseases (Cornell University); Biochemia di Lesions (Washington University); Arthritis and Related Disorders (New York University); Advances in Cardiovascular Diseases (Mount Sinai, New York); Cardiopulmonary Disease (Yale University); Fundamental Concepts of Gastroenterology (University of Illinois); Psychiatry for the Internist (Wayne State University).

Medical Association of the Heart (Georgetown University); Advances in Endocrinology (University of Washington); Application of Advances in Electrophysiology of the Heart (New York University); Current Physiological Concepts in Diagnosis and Treatment (University of Cincinnati); Clinical Applications of Recent Advances in Pharmacology (University of Iowa).

These are not for the doctor who can go back to graduate school for a semester or year, but for the practising physician who can put in a week of concentrated study at a time.

The American College of Surgeons, Ambulcon Academy of General Practice, American Psychiatric Association and many more specialized groups also offer national or regional sessions.

No doctor, even if he were brave, could attend all the sessions, not to mention staff meetings, local specialty groups and state and county medical societies.

The foregoing should give readers some inkling of the lifelong study that it takes for doctors to keep up with modern medicine.

Dear Dr. Molner: I thought my daughter was not eating right so I am giving her vitamins and iron. Now I've been told they will affect her menstruation — she is 14 and just starting. Is this true? Mrs. S.

No, it is not true. However, giving vitamins and iron sounds a bit like guesswork. Why not have your doctor examine the girl to see if something else is involved.

Note to Mrs. M.S.: Yes, birth control pills, in some individuals, can cause restlessness and stomach upsets such as you describe. On your second question, I think you are mistaken about the effect of the pill limiting the length of time they can be taken. At least, I know of no such attempts. Some physicians, however, limit use of the pills after a few years.

Sex Education in Schools

Toronto Star

Ontario teachers must know that the Victorian era ended 65 years ago.

But the attitude of many of them to sex education makes it seem they are still trying to live in that prudish period. Sex education isn't a fit subject for schools, their attitude proclaims.

This was evident at one of several delegates to the women teachers' federation meeting in Toronto when they refused to take responsibility for sex education belongs to the home, not to the school.

The Public School Men Teachers' Federation also has taken a stand which puts into the matter — next year.

Sex education ought to have had an open and a full airing at places in the Ontario school curriculum long ago. Teachers' organizations should be working on the problem instead of shunning it as if it were an embarrassment and the anatomy were obscene.

Most parents do a miserable job of teaching their children the facts of human love in. Instead of leaving youngsters in ignorance, or to lurid paperbacks, street corner boys and other misinformation, the school can and should give straightforward instruction. It should not be disguised as little chats about birds, and bees.

What is needed is not only a graded program of information on physiology and reproduction but also one in line with the psychological and emotional aspects of sex, to help pupils develop wholesome attitudes toward it.

The Department of Education is now dropping its old regulation that warned teachers to be careful not to deal with "family living" topics in a way that "may be construed erroneously in sex education."

A new course of health studies for Grades 7 to 10 is being launched. Sections will be added in 9 and 10 include a sex education program, though not labelled as such.

To their credit, many good teachers have been bootlegging sex education in guidance hours for boys and girls — to the relief of both parents and pupils. The fact that the Toronto Board of Education is instituting a course of its own on sex and human development, with departmental approval, and starting it at Grade 7.

The sexual drive is the most powerful and pervasive a human being has. The education of the whole child should include education of the male and female role within our society.

Extermination By Assimilation

Letter to the Globe and Mail

Since the Iroquois of the Six Nations are the acknowledged masters of the high-steel workers, there is absolutely no reason why other Indians could not be masters of hydro and pipeline work as well.

The Department of Indian Affairs should be urged to educate and train reliable Indian men in quality for these above-mentioned jobs, rather than encourage the disastrous trek to the big cities.

At the present time a real Department of Indian Affairs does not exist in Canada. There should be a Department of Canadian Indian Affairs all of their own, after Indian Affairs legislature at Ottawa headed by a native Canadian Indian.

Today the Indian is a great need for a new Indian land development program in Canada. Today much of the Indian reserve land is covered with underbrush, weeds, and second growth scrub trees. I would venture to say there is a definite need of closer co-operation between Indian leaders and representatives of governments, both provincial and federal to work and plan together and turn reserve waste lands into productive market gardens, tobacco farms, beef and hog production, poultry, and fur farming projects.

It can be done, and it must be done, if the Indians of Canada are to survive as people. Indian reserve lands must be preserved. They must be developed! And if necessary extend Indian land ownership instead of depriving them of it by tricky land deals and heeding the moff into the big cities, there to die and be buried in the potter's field!

Cuban Revolutionary Leader Disappointed With Bombing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A handsome Cuban exile revolutionary whose hobby is espionage is disappointed with his "comrades' bombing of the Cuban Embassy in Ottawa.

"I would like to have blown them to kingdom come," said Felipe Rivero Diaz, head of the Cuban Nationalist Association.

Rivero has a commanding appearance, is bushed, black-haired six - footer, he's a chain smoker.

Speaking fluwless English, learned from his Canadian grandmother, the 42 - year - old leader said:

"With this we declare war on international communism. The ultimate aim will be to settle against Cuba itself."

DID LITTLE DAMAGE

Rivero was talking about the brace of anti - tank rockets lobbed by a housewife, timer that exploded in front of the embassy Thursday, shattering the night - morning calm and a few windows, but inflicting little other damage.

It was Rivero's group that lobbed a shell at the United Nations building in New York in 1964. It also claims to have bombed a Cuban ship in Montreal and to have attempted to blow up the tomb of Karl Marx in London.

"When we tried to bomb Karl Marx' tomb, it was a perfect action," Rivero said. "Now there will be no more symbol. Hmm. How? Ask Khrushchev."

Born in Havana, the only son of a wealthy lawyer, Rivero studied law for a time, then quit to travel.

"I took a great interest in Egypt and made that my hobby," he said.

DIDN'T LIKE CASTRO

He took a commission to Fidel Castro shortly after Castro rose to power. His uncle was a prominent physician in Marina, Cuba's oldest daily was confiscated. Rivero fled to exile in 1960.

Two years later, he joined other exiles in the Bay of Pigs invasion and was one of the hundreds taken prisoner.

When Castro held his show trial on television, Rivero stood out by his cool, antagonistic attitude toward the interrogators.

Told he faced a firing squad, he laughed and smoked a cigarette. Asked whether he favored the United States over the Soviet Union, he said he favored Cuba.

Youth Ordered To Stand Trial For Murder

KITCHENER (CP) — Fred erick Sasz Jr., 18, of nearby Conestogo Thursday was ordered to stand trial on the capital murder of his mother, Mrs. Frederick Sasz, 32, shot to death July 24.

Sasz was arrested three days later in a bush area near Sudbury.

Frederick Sasz Sr. told a preliminary hearing he came home from work July 24 and saw blood splattered on the kitchen floor.

He said he followed a trail of blood through the living room to the hall by his son's bedroom.

He went down to the cellar and got a pail of water and began to clean up the blood. He also called doctors and a hospital in the area to see whether his wife had been involved in an accident.

Mr. Sasz said he walked out of the back door and saw something huddled under a blanket. It was his wife's body.

Commandment Not Applicable Says Justice

PERTH, Australia (Reuters) The commandment "thou shalt not kill" does not apply to military operations, Chief Justice Sir Albert Wolff ruled in the supreme court of West Australia today.

Wolff gave the decision in dismissing an application for exemption from military service by Dasilia Covich, 21, a Roman Catholic who said he does not believe in killing.

The crux of his argument "thou shalt not kill" was "directed at killing in the nature of murder, and does not apply to killing which takes place in the course of military operations," the chief justice said.

"This has been recognized from time immemorial."

He was ultimately ransomed from Cuba for $100,000.

In New York, he and seven other exiles formed the Cuban Nationalist Association.

"We had something in common," he said "Our position was the same as nationalists—pro-Cuba — for we were all Cubans."

White Backlash Highly Over-Rated in Elections Held in 1964 in U. S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — White backlash—the hostility to civil rights gains by 20,000,000 American Negroes—fell to be an over-rated threat in the 1964 United States elections.

Republican Barry Goldwater picked up only five states in his bid for the presidency, all in the South, despite Republican efforts to draw from backlash discontent with stepped-up energy violence in the streets.

But this is 1966, and Barry Goldwater isn't running. It has been two years of sustained Negro protests North and South, flickering Negro riots across the North and a near-crisis in Negro leadership split between the impatient young militants—Stokely Carmichael, Floyd McKissick—and the moderates urging restraint.

Politics and the war in Viet Nam will be major issues in the balloting for Congress Nov. 8. But civil rights and the country's mood about it is given little priority, too, by opinion polls.

Housewives may be forming clubs to try to beat the rocketing price of bread. But a stronger force in many areas is fear that the new housing in next door will be Negro—as evidenced by the fierce reaction of Chicago whites here to Negro demonstrations on behalf of integrated housing.

Many members of Congress who made possible civil rights reform in the last two years have run for cover now. The civil rights bill offering at least a start on taking segregation from real estate—the most Negro-conscious profession in the U.S.—folded last week because canny politicians including President Johnson knew it was dynamite.

In Maryland, reputedly a more enlightened state by these segregationist standards, candidate for governor is a six-time loser whose only slogan was that he is "not a civil rights vote to protect it."

Militant opposition to southern school desegregation has perked up. In Grenada, Miss., last week, as passive police watched, whites beat up Negro youngsters without stirring many big headlines.

Alabama Governor George Wallace, running wife Lurleen for the job he held until his continued control, has company now in his criticism of federal efforts to end de facto segregation by withholding funds from schools who don't comply. It is Lurleen who promised that segregationist Wallace, who contested 30, 34 and 43 per cent of the presidential primary votes in 1964 in Indiana, Wisconsin and Maryland, intends to run as a third-party candidate in 1968.

He could hardly be expected to win. But he might well decide the winner—either President Johnson or 1964 Republican who right now would probably be either Richard Nixon or Michigan Governor George Roney.

Tariff Board Defines Word Tractor for Duties

OTTAWA (CP) — The tariff board, which tries to keep order among scuffling interpreters of Canada's tangled code of customs duties, has struck another blow for just plain English.

A tractor is a tractor designed to push or haul a load—therefore the board in a 6,000-word ruling found that even it couldn't state it simply in that.

The board was asked a year and a half ago by the revenue department to give its opinion on what is simply meant by the definition of a tractor.

The request arose from 26 farm implement and heavy industry firms and associations, scores of witnesses, and lengthy argument among the experts.

The main problem confronting it, the board said, was that the old-fashioned farm tractor has been dressed up by "a bewildering variety of special purpose machinery, tools or attachments to which the jargon of the advertising world has given such names which must confound the most sophisticated interpreters.

"These additions produce a metamorphosis whereby the tractor loses its identity and reappears in the sparkling plumage of backhoes, dozers, loaders, sprinklers, tilt-dozers, U-dozers. ..."

There are also pneumatic-tired, crane, ripper, skidders, straddle - carriers, tractor-loaders, tractavators, and a host of other names for them.

The sub of the argument appeared to be: how many gadgets can be build onto a tractor and still have a tractor, not something else?

"One thing which emerges clearly from the evidence, is the lack of unanimity of opinion on the subject," the board said in after reviewing over 1,000 pages of transcript.

It went to four dictionaries and two encyclopedias. It found one common feature—a tractor must be self-propelled.

"Without self-propulsion the machine would lie unable to exercise its essential function of traction or pushing by its own locomotion." But, the board added, it was the addition of gadgets that might take a machine beyond being simply a tractor.

What was at stake was the rate of duty importers must pay on the highly and more complicated tractor - like machines. Tractors are admitted to Canada free from all customs duty, but some equipment used on a tractor requires payment of duty as high as 25 per cent when brought into Canada from some foreign countries.

The board said it couldn't leave it to the equipment designers to say what was a tractor and what was not, believing it could it leave it to the importer and Canadian user. He'd make the decision and say anything a tractor.

So the board ruled that a tractor must have an internal combustion engine as an integral part of it, and it must be self-propelled when performing its tractor function.

Then the board made a ruling like Solomon's judgment between the two harlots: divide the child in two.

The part that is unquestionably a tractor will be given tariff treatment as a tractor. That part that is equipment or devices "not as essentially constitutive as to form an integral mechanical unit" with the tractor, will be taxed as machines or tools for use on tractors.

tired the meeting. Asked if he intended to resign, he said: "No comment. The street is no place for discussion."

STAND OVATION

He spoke for an hour to about 300 supporters who gave him several standing ovations. After his speech he answered questions which an aide described as "polished and friendly."

In his speech, one informant said, Mr. Diefenbaker reviewed his years in and out of office and said he was confident as ever about the future. If an election was called tomorrow, he said, he would win.

Questions ranged from anticipation of the armed forces to Confederation. "The only leadership question discussed was that of Prime Minister Pearson's administration," an aide said.

When he left the meeting, Mr. Diefenbaker was asked on the street how secure he felt as leader of the party.

"What you should be thinking about is opportunity, rather than security," he replied.

AWAY FOR REPORT

Asked about a report out Gerda Munsinger, scheduled to be handed to Prime Minister Pearson today, Mr. Diefenbaker said he was away when the case first broke and will not be in the capital today.

Mr. Diefenbaker arrived Thursday afternoon and plans to fly today to Boston for a visit to Plymouth Rock, where Mrs. Diefenbaker's ancestors landed on the Mayflower. An aide said the party leader would be back in Ottawa Saturday.

Striker Struck By Vehicle at Plant's Gates

BRAMPTON (CP) — A wildcat striker at American Motors (Canada) Ltd. was treated at hospital and released Thursday after he was struck by a car at one of the plant's driveways.

Strikers say Winston Shoppbord of Brampton was thrown on the hood of the car which continued about 100 yards before stopping.

Brampton police said Charles W. Carr of Cookville, 20 miles south of here, has been arrested and charged with criminal negligence in the operation of an automobile.

One hundred and fifty workers walked out at the plant Tuesday to protest what they said was an unfair policy of hiring outside workers for new jobs.

Most of the plant's 1,900 employees, members of the United Automobile Workers, have honored the picket lines.

The Brampton meeting voted Thursday to stay away from the job until the company begins discussions with union leaders aimed at settling the cause of the walkout.

Seven Trapped In Apartment Die in Fire

CHICAGO (AP) — Walls of flame and acrid smoke killed seven persons trapped in the rooms and corridors of a South Side apartment building early today.

At least four persons were badly injured. One man was hurt when he jumped from the three-storey structure to escape the fire.

The fire caught many of the 11 families residing in the building in their beds. Many such residents were carried down ladders to safety as equipment from 18 separate units fought the blaze.

All those killed and injured suffered burns or smoke inhalation.

Damage to the building was estimated at more than $150,000.

The victims included a five-year-old girl, a nine-year-old boy and a 65-year-old woman. All the other victims were men.

Same Uniform For Forces May Come Soon

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP) Defence Minister Hellyer said Thursday he tries to get a common uniform for Canada's three armed forces may begin in the near future.

He made the comment at Greenwood, N.S., as he examined the guard of honor of armed forces unification policy to officers and men at RCAF station there. He also watched marching up a three-day visit to the Maritime Command.

Mr. Hellyer said the trials would determine "the acceptability of the cloth and the cut of the new uniform."

Although the trials could begin soon on a limited basis, it might take up to four years before uniform uniforms would be supplied to all forces.

Sale of Sulphide Church Knells End of Community

TWEED — September 21st1 marked the end of a small 1st one time thriving community, the village of Sulphide. With the closing of the Allied Chemical Plant in late 1963 the village started on its downward road.

Nichols Chemical Plant as it was first known was built in 1906 and completed in May of 1907. From 1906 to 1907 the mines were worked in Sulphide. The company built houses and these were used by employees, with electricity and water being supplied from the main plant.

With the nearest church being three miles away from Sulphide the people of Sulphide felt the need for a church of their own. In the late 1907 an old house was obtained and for a time services were held in it and in 1908 the Sulphide community church — a non-denominational church was built; with Nichols Chemical contributing a generous portion towards the cost of the church and the balance was made up of donations by members of the community and other interesting projects and was built on company property.

From 1907-19 ministers were supplied by Tweed Presbyterian Church. In 1919 they separated and joined the Bridgewater (Actinolite) circuit of the Methodist Church, this circuit consisted of Bridgewater, Potter Settlement and Sulphide. In 1925 Sulphide joined in with the Tweed charge and ministers supplied from Tweed the first being Rev. Nicholson.

CHURCH ORIGIN

Over the years this little church was most successful. The church was built by the late Findlay Hueston of Belleville and at the time it was built Mr. W. H. De Blois was superintendent at the plant. Rev. W. J. Burgoyne of Belleville was the first Sunday School superintendent and was followed by Mr. Lorne Gilbert, few of the first parishioners are living in the area: Roy Rath and Jack Rath now Gilbert Colleen Rath now Gilbert Colleen Rath now Gilbert Colleen

Ammonia, Vinegar Good Odor Absorbers

DEAR DORIS: "Unbearable" wanted to know how to clear the air of cigar smoke in her home.

Here is my idea: Put shallow dishes of either liquid ammonia or ordinary vinegar in the rooms affected by the smoke. They do not create their own smell, but do seem to absorb the smoke odors from the rooms.

In winter at bedtime I often try a variation on this theme. I pour a small amount of vinegar into a pan of water and let it boil vigorously on the kitchen stove until the water has nearly evaporated. This seems to work well, and also adds welcome humidity to our dry winter homes, when windows are less frequently opened.

DORIS CLARK

Good luck to the writer. Cigars are harder to clear than cigarettes, or even a pipe. I still believe that cigars are an outdoor smoke. — OUT OF THE FOG.

* * *

DEAR OUT OF: "Unbearable" will be grateful; along with many another, I'll be bound.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I've got a big problem: Love! I know that at my age (17) it's supposed to be just a passing fad with each guy. It's just got to be different with us.

The boy I want to marry is 20 in February and is as level-headed as a mature 35-yearold. He's got it planned for our future, about how to budget and home finding.

But there's only one problem, I don't think my parents will give us consent. His parents have. Please tell me how I can explain it to my parents and what the law is for marriage, etc.

If the first one doesn't work what is the penalty for eloping? When answering, answer as a friend; not as a parent, please. — PAT B.

DEAR PAT B: The penalty for eloping can be a lifetime of misery. Marriages of over-twenties have more than twice the chance of success that yours would have, at 17 and 19 respectively.

You can't marry without consent yet; the age is 18 in some provinces, in others 21. If this is the same answer you are getting from your parents, we are both the best friends you could have!

True love can prove itself, and improve, while you wait.

Confidential to WORRIED GIRL: If he hadn't broken up you would have, soon. The situation is normal. Don't, for goodness' sake, go back just because he wants to. You like somebody else. Now's the time to broaden your base of friends; don't go backwards.

* * *

Confidential to NOEL: I suppose you won't believe me, but the feeling will wear off. Just be sure you aren't passing up some really fine boys who have their eye on you. Later may be too late.

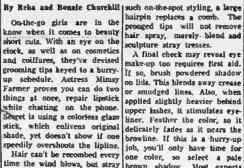
GROOMING ON THE GO — Actress Mimsy Farmer shows you can do two things at once, repair lipstick while chatting on the phone.

No Time for Grooming? Try Jet Age Methods



By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

On-the-go girls are in the know when it comes to beauty short cuts. With an eye on the clock, as well as on cosmetics and coiffures, they've devised grooming tips keyed to a hurry-up sobedule. Actress Mimsy Farmer proves you can do two things at once, repair lipstick while chatting on the phone. Secret is using a colorless glass stick, which enlivens original shade, yet doesn't show if one speedily overshoots the lipline.

Hair can't be recombed every time the wind blows, but stray strands can be made to behave without a major coiffure overhaul. Mimsy, featured in the MGM film "52 Miles to Terror," keeps a magnet bracelet in her purse. This holds bobby pins and hair getee, the essentials for a portable vanity. Use gelee to smooth bangs, anchor check curls or contour a flip. For such on-the-spot styling, a large hairpin replaces a comb. The pronged tips will not remove hair spray, merely blend and sculpture stray tresses.

A final check may reveal eye make-up too requires first aid. If so, brush powdered shadow on lids. This blends away crease or smudged lines. Also, when applied slightly heavier behind upper lashes, it stimulates eyeliner. Feather the color, so it delicately fades as it nears the brow shadow. Most experts agree this shade does more to beauty-balance than any other tone.

CAMERA CLUB

The Belleville Camera Club commenced its new fall and winter program on Wednesday. This year a complete instruction course in photography will be available for all persons in the Quinte district.

The Rite-Way Department Stores have announced that they are donating "a trophy — plus a $25 award" to the Camera Club member who submits the best color slide during the season.

Along with other trophies and award certificates, the Camera Club, through their monthly competitions, intend to compile "a photo-story of the Quinte district" which they will submit as a Centennial project to the city.

INSTRUCTION COURSE

The Kodak Company presented the first instruction course for the year, which provided a good training program for taking outdoor color pictures. Anyone interested in improving their picture-taking ability is invited to attend these instruction programs.

Many of the members submitted color slides for constructive criticism and these gave a preview of the top quality which will be entered in the local and national competitions to form the basis of Centennial picture story projects.

The evening was concluded with refreshments being served and a special invitation issued to all persons interested in photography to attend the next meeting, on October 5th, at the Kiwanis Centre in Belleville.

Must Control Tactics of Big Brothers

OTTAWA (CP)—"Big brother tactics for snooping into an individual's mind, activities and personal history must be controlled "before it's too late" an American sociologist says.

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club Thursday, Dr. Zelma George, said "an unknown and mysterious 'they' are making plans for you, and for a democracy this is wrong. But by default they have the right."

Dr. George, from Cleveland, is considered an expert on human rights and has been sponsored as a lecturer by the U.S. government.

She said citizens should think out controls for listening devices that could "pick up the conversation of two people in a crowd ten blocks away. Psychological tests were being used by government and businesses "to find out things you don't want to tell."

A computerized filing system could be developed which would record details of every individual's employment, scholastic, medical and personal history. "Who/is going to decide who should have access to my file and my information?"

The devices resulted from scientific research in communications and medicine but "we mustn't let science develop to the point where it will dictate our values of morality."

From Russia With Love Has Come Perfume

TORONTO (CP) — From Russia with love has come perfume to make Canadian women smell like Red Moscow.

An exhibition of fragrances is being held at a hotel here to tempt buyers to stock stores with perfumes and colognes like Red Moscow and Kiev Chestnut.

Attempts to sample an Evening in Lvov failed when demonstrators gave a cool "Nyet" to requests for a free whiff.

"Russian women living in cities wouldn't leave their houses without a dab of perfume," Russia - born Shura Jurowski said at the exhibition.

For men there's Frivolous Figaro, made by some of the 20,000 people employed throughout Russia in the industry.

The best perfume at the exhibition is Stone Flower, winner of the top perfume award at the Brussels world fair. It costs $20 for seven-eighths of an ounce.

New Ways to Gauge Woman's Chances to Have Normal Child Discovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unusual studies of human embryos within the womb only a few days or weeks old have uncovered possible new ways to gauge a woman's chances of producing a normal child or having a miscarriage.

And by implication, findings of the studies ostensibly open the door to new methods of safeguards artificially maximizing conditions that apparently tend to promote normal human reproduction.

An example of a major theory stemming from the research is this:

Male eggs from the female ovaries—that is, eggs released from the ovaries late in the woman's monthly menstrual cycle—appear to be among chief causes of abnormal embryos, and of miscarriages.

The report was made to the annual meeting of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists. The research spanning some 30 years involved studies of 31 normal embryos, including some only four days old within the womb.

The unusual research was reported by Dr. Arthur T. Hertig in a scientific paper co-authored by Dr. Rogers Gore, both from are of Harvard Medical School's department of pathology.

They said studies of the specimens and other factors relating to them suggest these conclusions.

—If the human female ovulates—that is, has eggs not yet fertilized released from her ovaries—on day 14, or before, or her 28-day menstrual cycle, the chances of producing a good embryo are 12 out of 13, or 92.3 per cent.

—If she ovulates on day 15, or later, her chances of producing a good embryo are only nine out of 31, or 42.8 per cent.

Other doctors said the studies conceivably could help pinpoint the actual mechanisms by which thalidomide and certain other drugs taken by pre-pregnant women can result in defective babies.

A Recipe for Garlic Dill Pickles

QUESTION:

A few years ago you printed a recipe for garlic dill pickles. I made them and my family loved them. I would like to make more this year but cannot find the recipe. I have tried other recipes but they turn out as nice as yours, so please print it again. Thank you. Mrs. B.

ANSWER:

Would you please enclose a self-addressed envelope, preferably stamped, next time?

POLISH DILL PICKLES (repeated from Sept. /64.)

Put 2 or 3 slices of onion in a jar with a small piece of garlic and half-fill the jar with unpeeled cucumber slices, about 4 slices to an inch. Add 2 or 3 more slices of onion and fill with cucumber slices. Put more garlic and a head of dill on the top. Make a solution of: 4 cups vinegar, 4 cups sugar, 1 cup water, ¼ cup non-iodized salt. Bring to a boil and pour hot over pickles in jars and seal. This is enough solution for 4 quarts. They are all done in a few minutes and keep beautifully. As a matter of fact I have never had a jar spoil. You will notice there is quite a shrinkage to pack the jars as full as possible.

QUESTION:

I bought a package of cornmeal to make the Tamale Casserole you gave a while ago and now want to use up the rest of it. Could you give me a recipe for Cornmeal Muffins?

Mrs. L. C.

ANSWER:

A very good request! These are repeated from November, 1961.

CORNMEAL MUFFINS:

1 egg

2 tbsps. sugar
1/2 cup milk
¼ cup melted shortening
2/3 cup flour
1/3 cup corn meal
1¼ tsps. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt

Beat the egg until light and mix with sugar, milk and shortening or butter. Sift the flour, corn meal, baking powder and salt together. Add liquid mixture to the dry ingredients all at once. Blend, using as few strokes as possible; do not beat. Fill greased muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 min. Remove from pans with a spatula and serve while warm.

Ann Landers

Often Pays to Know When You're Licked

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wrote to you two years ago about my husband who couldn't stay in one town long enough for me to enjoy the flowers I planted. You said it was a wife's job to "go where the grapes grow."—so off we went again —or 11th move in 18 years.

Well, the grapes are sour again. New Mexico was too dry and Oregon was too wet. California had too many people and Montana didn't have enough people. Alaska was no good because he couldn't understand what the natives were saying. Boston was no good because the natives couldn't understand what he was saying.

Our children have adjusted to these moves beautifully — so that is not the problem. It's just that I am sick of pulling up stakes every time my husband gets a bee in his head to move. Last night he started to cough and said, "I know I'd feel better in Phoenix."

He's a first class machinist and can make a good living wherever he goes. Is there any chance that I can get him to stay put this time? — MRS. NOMAD.

* * *

DEAR MRS.: Probably not. So be thankful the children haven't suffered from the repeated uprooting and go along with the hoax. I don't believe in egging people on to fight battles they can't win.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our eldest son is in his third year of college. My husband and I are having a serious disagreement over how much financial help we should give the boy.

Nick has always been a hard worker, a saver and very independent. He and his father do not get along well. The first two years my husband paid Nick's tuition and offered him a spending allowance which Nick refused.

This year Nick says he doesn't want any financial help at all. He insists on using the money he has saved from working. My husband says this is O.K. with him but it is not O.K. with me.

I feel parents are morally obligated to put their children through college if they possibly can. We are not millionaires but we can handle the boy's education with no strain. Please agree with me in print. I need your help. — N.B.

* * *

DEAR N.B.: Sorry, but you'll get no help from me on this one. Obviously Nick has opted to paddle his own canoe. His demonstration of independence and initiative should be applauded, not undermined. The more our kids do for themselves the better off they'll be. So for heaven's sake, mother, leave him alone. He sounds like a winner.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I sympathize with the woman who was terrified whenever she had to go to a funeral home and look at a dead person. I have the same horrible fear — but I know what caused it.

When I was a child (40 years ago) I overheard some adults talking about a man who had been pronounced dead and taken to a funeral home. He was actually in a coma. When the mortician saw the "corpse" move, he almost had a heart attack. A physician was summoned at once. He rushed over and revived the "dead" man who lived five years after that.

A few years later my grandfather died. When I went to the wake I was petrified. I was sure grandpa would come alive at any moment. The thought of it made me physically ill. From that day to this I have asked my friends to excuse me from going to funerals and I tell them why. They all understand. — COUNT ME OUT.

DEAR COUNT: If you haven't been able to overcome the fear after 40 years, you might as well stay home and spare yourself the agony.

Rusk, Gromyko Meet in Private Over Viet Nam

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk met for private talks on Viet Nam and other world issues Thursday night, following a major U.S. policy speech in the UN General Assembly that proposed to end to bombing of North Viet Nam if Hanoi agrees to take "corresponding" steps.

Both Gromyko and Rusk declined afterwards to comment on the substance of the first discussions they have had in a year—since the 1959 session of the General Assembly.

Mixed reactions here have followed the speech Thursday by Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, in which the U.S. also proposed that it and North Viet Nam agree to a phased military withdrawal from South Viet Nam under some kind of international supervision.

Some diplomats seemed to see the U.S. position on Viet Nam as more flexible, but others saw Goldberg's speech as a restatement of an essentially unchanged position and were skeptical about it leading to anything new.

Paul Martin, Canada's external affairs minister, told reporters Goldberg's speech was "one of the most constructive I've heard in a long time."

URGES PATIENCE

He hoped that careful replies would be made to the questions posed by Goldberg and that "the U.S. government will likewise be patient in the time that will be taken to get responses to these questions."

Martin indicated later he found even more room for encouragement in what Goldberg had to say about the relationship of mainland China to the United Nations.

Goldberg told the 15-member General Assembly the United States isn't trying to isolate and injure China. "On the contrary, we have sought to limit the areas of hostility and to pave the way for the restoration of some historically friendly relations with the great people of China."

But Goldberg said the United States will oppose any attempt to seat representatives of the Peking regime at the UN in place of the Nationalist Chinese delegation from Formosa. Mainland China was demanding terms of admission that would "transform and pervert" the United Nations from the purposes expressed in its charter.

Some diplomats saw it as significant Goldberg didn't say the United States would oppose the seating of both mainland China and the Nationalist Chinese regime. They also saw significance in the fact that a high ambassador referred to Nationalist China as "the Republic of China on Taiwan (Formosa)" rather than simply as "the Republic of China."

"I think this is the most advanced statement that the United States government has made on China's admission to the United Nations," Martin said.

"I would like to think that this meant we might make some progress on this question at this session. I think it should be tragic if we do not, and I rather detect in Mr. Goldberg's words the strong conviction that the time had come when we must do something about the principle of universality in this organization."

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai Fedorenko called Goldberg's speech "a set of declarations and words well familiar to our ears and tunes."

Although Canada has already taken such initiatives as sending veteran diplomat Chester Ronning to Hanoi on a peace mission, and trying to persuade Poland and India, its fellow members of the International Control Commission for Viet Nam, to join in an effort to stop the shooting and start peace talks, Canadian diplomats declined to speculate on what new moves might be in prospect.

Diefenbaker Said "Most Imprudent"

that a security risk had existed.

He also said he is convinced that Conservative Justice Minister Davie Fulton—"despite his failure to remember"— knew that Mrs. Munsinger intended to return to Canada when she left for a trip to Europe in December, 1960.

Mrs. Munsinger lived in Canada from August, 1955, to February, 1958.

The judge said "it is to be regretted" that Mr. Diefenbaker didn't testify at the inquiry.

CRITICIZES DIEF

He said Mr. Diefenbaker had made a "most surprising statement" in the Commons March 7 that there had been no danger to national security in the Munsinger case.

He said Justice Minister Cardin's statements that Mr. Diefenbaker had not sought legal advice and that there were circumstances which might have affected security were "justified."

The report said it would have been imprudent and "clearly bad administration" on Prime Minister Pearson's part not to have asked RCMP Commissioner George B. McClellan for files indicating impropriety or scandal involving any member of Parliament.

The prime minister's request had been made at the height of the Coutmbe debate on the Lucien Rivard narcotics affair involving allegations of influence peddling.

Neither Mr. Pearson nor the commissioner could have understood the prime minister's request as an attempt to pry into Mr. Fulton's files, the judge said.

"To have contemplated any further investigation by the RCMP Security Panel years after they had reported in December, 1960, would have been purposeless."

Mr. Justice Spence says the same conclusion applies to Guy Favreau, former Liberal justice minister, who was given a copy of the RCMP report Dec. 1, 1960.

Mr. Justice Spence agreed with Mr. Cardin that in some respects Mr. Munsinger case might well have been worse than the Profumo scandal in Britain in 1963.

In the Profumo case, Christine Keeler had had no contact whatever with any matter concerning espionage or national security and Lord Denning had been satisfied in his investigation that she did not try to obtain any information for British War Minister John Profumo.

ENGAGED IN ESPIONAGE

"Mrs. Munsinger, on the other hand, according to the RCMP's reports which would appear to be the sole sources of information available to the Rt. Hon. Mr. Diefenbaker, was said to have acted on several occasions in Germany as an espionage matters, and might well have been continuing to do so in Canada.

"Those reports showed that she could have available to her an efficient method of passing on any classified information obtained.

"Moreover, in the Profumo case the minister tendered his resignation and apologized to the House. Here, Mr. Speaker, neither resigned nor was his resignation requested.

"In these aspects, therefore, the Munsinger case might well be worse than the Profumo case."

Mr. Justice Spence said Mr. Cardin's press conference statement that two or more Diefenbaker cabinet ministers were involved with Mrs. Munsinger had been confirmed."

He concludes that Mr. Cardin had heard a false rumor of Mrs. Munsinger's death from Indiremis, emotioned it at a press conference and believed that it came from the RCMP.

There had been no evidence whether any other cabinet minister knew that Mr. Cardin was going to mention the case, nor that former Diefenbaker minister had been threatened with exposure 10 days before the case was mentioned in the Commons.

COMMENDS FULTON

The judge said Mr. Fulton acted commendably in promptly informing Mr. Diefenbaker of the case and in taking action to get Mrs. Munsinger's re-entry to Canada.

But, he added, Mr. Fulton should have pressed the investigation into Mrs. Munsinger's background to determine whether any security offences had been committed.

"There was certainly a duty to investigate further and, at that time, the sources of information were known and easily reached."

The RCMP could not have investigated further reports of political pressure and blackmail of an important political person without instructions from Mr. Fulton "and these the Honorable Mr. Fulton did not give."

"In my view his direction to the RCMP to be kept informed generally was not sufficient."

Mr. Justice Spence said there appeared to be no valid criticism of the immigration department in connection with Mrs. Munsinger's arrival in Canada in 1955 after having been refused a visa in 1952.

Any error in issuing her a visa in 1955 appeared "to be the result of Mrs. Munsinger's planned avoidance of any revelation of her maiden name" Gerda Hassler.

WAS MUCH CONSIDERATION

Refusal to bar her re-entry in 1960—as had been requested by the RCMP—after she made a visit abroad "was a step taken on advice and after careful consideration."

"Finally, the desirable result of refusal to grant Canadian citizenship was attained despite considerable urging that such be granted."

The judge held that Mr. Hees' "lack of discretion was slight but regrettable."

He said he agreed with the statement of Clement Atlee, former British prime minister, that "it would be a great mistake to think that ministers should live cloistered lives."

In the case of Mr. Hees, "there was no security breach; as events turned out, there was no security risk."

"But if the association had continued and intensified there might have been a security risk."

Mr. Hees testified at the inquiry that he met Mrs. Munsinger four times and that this might have been indiscreet but never improper.

The judge said he had ignored the "many wild rumors . . . and livid stories . . . especially in the foreign press."

"I can find no criticism whatsoever of the RCMP's" conduct in connection with the case, Mr. Justice Spence said. "The action of the RCMP was efficient, prompt and discreet."

He said C. W. Harvison, then commissioner, and George McClellan, then assistant commissioner, gave Mr. Fulton verbally and in writing all the facts of the case late in 1960. This had been repeated to Donald Fleming when he succeeded Mr. Fulton as justice minister in 1962.

Both officers testified they received no instructions from either minister of the justice department.

Having reported the situation "the RCMP would have no mandate to proceed with further investigation; of the conduct of that cabinet minister without specific instructions from the government conveyed properly through the minister of justice."

"The RCMP are not and, so far as I have been able to discover, never has attempted to be a body investigating the personal conduct of any minister or any member of Parliament. That is not their business."

Regarding the actions of Commissioners Harvison and McClellan, the judge said:

"Less they could not have done. More they could not be required to do without specific instructions from their superiors."

He also said that with respect to Mr. Fleming's actions "I can see no criticism of his course." Mr. Fleming had reported to Mr. Diefenbaker when the RCMP officers informed him about the case.

Mr. Diefenbaker assured Mr. Fleming "he had dealt with the matter and therefore the latter took no further action and did not refer to the matter again."

Mr. Fleming "could not have been asked to take any further or different action in January, 1963."

In the introduction to his report, the judge said:

"I make the statement advance that there's no scintilla of evidence or any indication that there was any disloyalty involved in any of the circumstances which I have investigated."

He said the liaison between Mr. Sevigny and Mrs. Munsinger "was known to her fellow prostitutes and was the subject of some discussion amongst them." Moreover, the liaison was common knowledge in the Montreal underworld.

RCMP reports showed that Mrs. Munsinger lived in the same Montreal building which housed the office of a company which had business associations with Soviet-bloc countries.

Mrs. Munsinger had a part-time position as a bookkeeper for the building. This enabled her "to go from place to place within the building without question."

Mr. Justice Spence said he found the evidence of Gaston Levesque, Mr. Sevigny's executive assistant, of great help in determining the facts in 1960.

At the hearings, it appeared possible that Mr. Diefenbaker might have been influenced in the course he adopted by statements made to him which were at variance with RCMP reports.

Mr. Levesque's testimony became relevant and "it was very important as it confirmed the RCMP report." This could have easily been elicited by questioning Mr. Levesque in 1960.

Pennant Strictly For The Birds

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Thirty minutes after the crack of yawn tomorrow the duck artillery, already limbered into position will loose its first salvos and barrages at blacks, mallards or other billed and feathered "dinners" that venture within range.

At that time, gunfire echoing over hunt and hide-away will usher in the opening of the duck, goose, grouse, Hungarian partridge and woodcock season over a large area of southern and northern Ontario.

And it is to be hoped that you hunting buffs, as Chief Forester N. D. Patrick of the Tweed District, Lands and Forests, pointed out to the Fish and Game Club, have observed the new law that requires you to possess the new Federal Migratory Bird hunting permit in addition to the regular dollar hunting licence. This cost two dollars and can be secured at any post office.

Better get it, for the conservation laddies will be on the prowl and if you haven't got it — you've had it.

However there is a brighter side of the picture.

In previous seasons, illegal baiting by smart-alec hunters who thought they could outwit the law, resulted in the closing of various hunting areas of the district.

Each year legal feeding is done by serious-minded hunters who live up to the letter of the law by placing enough feed for a period up to seven days of season opening. This has been done in many areas this year.

Investigating Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers tell me that up to the present time no inspected areas have contained illegal feed placed by hunters.

But — one area has been closed off for the legal period of seven days pending further investigation.

This area is the one and one-half mile stretch of the Moira river between the Corby Distillery and the bridge at Coulter.

It appears that mash from the distillery is classified as food and found in the river within the prescribed seven-day period has resulted in the closing.

If it is found after the period end, the RCMP say, the area will be closed for the season.

The good hunter will use common sense and good behavior when questing his quarry. He will respect private property owners and not invade their domains without permission. And in deference to a neighboring hunter, he will not blaze away at ducks far beyond his range. He will have robbed nearby hunters of a kill.

This is especially true of nimrods who are using magnum loads for the first time. It was brought out at the Fish and Game Club meeting the other night that magnum loads will carry considerably further, but it was stated that the effective maximum range of any shell on the market today is 70 yards.

Invasion of private property without permission has been known in this district both in and out of duck-hunting season. The culprits were usually found to be hunters from Toronto and other large centres.

The Petty Trespass Act used to carry a fine of ten dollars but this proved little or no deterrent. Conplaints grew to the extent where an amendment to the act raising the fine to $100 was put into effect. This applies to anglers as well as hunters.

Two trespassers near Scarboro felt the bite of the law recently. They were tabbed fines of $100 each plus the costs of the legal machinery.

So there you have it, gentlemen. Keep your ammunition dry, your throats wet; pay heed to "private property" signs until you ask permission; don't shoot at specks in the sky, just wait until you can almost see the whites of their eyes; have respect for your hunting neighbors in your area and remember, ducks or geese don't wear windbreakers, peak-caps and waders.

Good hunting and if you bring home an extra pair of mallards or blacks — invite me to dinner.

"I won't be satisfied," Hank Bauer said two weeks ago, "until we have a 10-game lead with nine games to play."

The numbers fell neatly into place Thursday for Bauer's Baltimore Orioles.

California Angels' 5-3 victory over second - place Detroit Tigers in the opener of a doubleheader was old news at Kansas City when Baltimore centre fielder Russ Snyder speared Dick Green's ninth - inning line drive and the Orioles' first American League pennant.

Snyder's catch completed a 6-1 triumph over the Athletics, mathematically buried the Tigers and made Baltimore a major league title town for the first time since 1896, when the old Orioles captured the last of their three National League flags.

The champagne was still flowing in the Baltimore clubhouse when Detroit won its nightcap against the Angels 7-0, finishing the day 10 games behind the Orioles.

While the Orioles secured their World Series berth, New York Yankees bowed 4-1 to Chicago White Sox before 413 weather fans and slipped further into the league basement. The crowd was the smallest in the majors this season and the smallest on record for a Yankee Stadium guest.

The Boston - Washington doubleheader, only other action on the AL schedule, was rained out.

Frank Robinson drilled two doubles and a double, driving in two runs and pacing the Orioles' 12-hit attack against Joser Lew Krausse and four successors. The three hits boosted Frank's league - leading average to .316, also tops in homers, with 49, and RBI, with 120.

Jim Palmer, Baltimore's winningest pitcher, checked the Athletics on five hits in his 13th victory and first complete game since July 22.

Johnny Podres tossed a five-hitter and knocked in two runs with a eighth - inning double, helping the Tigers avoid a doubleheader split after rookie Jay Johnstone had sparked the Angels' first - game victory with four hits, including a run-scoring triple.

The White Sox clipped rookie pitcher Stan Bahnsen for runs in the fifth and sixth innings, then applied the crusher in the ninth when Tommie Agee and Tom McCraw hit successive homers off reliever Dooley Womack.

Joe Horlen breezed to his 10th victory, shutting out the Yankees in the seven innings he worked.

Gets CBS Contract

TV Brings NHL $3,600,000

By KEN PRITCHARD

NEW YORK (CP)—A three-year, $3,600,000 television deal that will make dozens of athletic young Canadians featured performers on U.S. television screens was announced Thursday.

Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Hockey League disclosed the general terms of a pact under which the CBS network will present color telecasts of an NHL Game of the Week. The games will be shown on weekends during the second half of the next three NHL seasons and during the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The NHL regards U.S. network television as the quickest way to win a substantial new following for the game that now is as institution in Canada and in U.S. cities near the Canadian border. The agreement covers a period in which the NHL will double in size by expanding into the U.S. cities.

Announcement of the agreement was made by William C. MacPhail, vice - president of CBS television sports, and Bruce A. Norris of Detroit, chairman of the NHL board of governors.

MacPhail told a press conference that the contract- is for "by far the largest amount ever paid for any sports series other than football or baseball."

PROVIDES REVENUE

As it did for pro baseball and football, network TV provides hockey with a substantial new source of revenue. This is of vital interest to the league, which has for years played to near - capacity crowds in most of its arenas.

"Only five per cent of NHL home seats were not filled last year, so we can't expand much that way," said William M. Jennings, president of the New York Rangers and chairman of the NHL's TV committee.

Although the NHL and CBS refused to discuss financial details, it was learned the NHL will be paid $600,000 the first year, $1,200,000 the second and $1,800,000 in 1968-69.

The present NHL teams—Toronto, Montreal, New York, Boston, Detroit and Chicago—will share equally the first - year payment. The money will be split 12 ways in the next two years, when a second NHL division will be in action.

The league has awarded conditional new franchises to Los Angeles, Minneapolis - St. Paul, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco - Oakland and St. Louis, effective in 1967.

CBS, bound by prior commitments for the television season now under way, has arranged to farm out its Game of the Week until sent spring's Stanley Cup playoffs. An independent network, Madison Square Garden-RDO General Sports Presentations, with more than 100 stations, will produce and show regular - season games on eight weekends from the weekend of Feb. 10 through April 2.

The CBS network will then televise weekend playoff games, possibly three in all.

CATS FIGHT BACK

Ron Ely, television's Tarzan, was bitten twice by a lion and once by a leopard in the first few weeks of filming.

Birds Bolt Bubbly

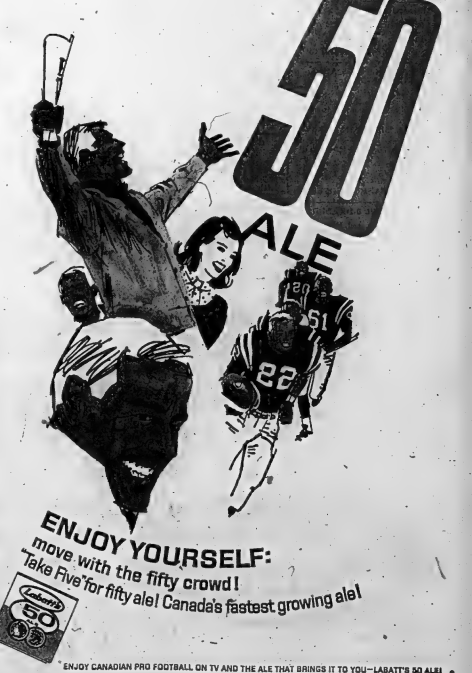
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Baltimore Orioles celebrated their first American League pennant with a wild champagne celebration in their club house at Municipal Stadium Thursday after defeating Kansas City Athletics 6-1.

All-star third-baseman Brooks Robinson, an Oriole since 1955, said:

"I got cold chills when there were two out in the ninth inning. I just didn't believe we were finally going to win."

As the champagne flowed, the Orioles began talking about the World Series.

"I don't care who we play," first-baseman Boog Powell said. "I'm just glad we're in it and we're going to give the other team a hell of a battle."



Nationals Lose Third Player

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's national hockey team lost three players that coach Jack McLeod had been itching to sign this week. Two went to professional ranks for what were reported to be high offers.

Junior Serge Savard, who had been on the verge of joining the nationals, signed with Montreal Canadiens. Bobby Orr, who had shown interest earlier, went to Boston Bruins.

Particularly hard to take was the loss of Grant Moore, a proven performer in world competition who has excelled at Osgoode Hall Law School in Toronto.

Dodgers Get Big Assist From Braves

THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

PROPER HEAD ROTATION INSURES SOUND SWING

Throughout the golf swing, your head should remain "steady." Good advice, though possibly misleading.

Actually, your head shouldn't move up or down, or laterally right or left. Such movement may throw your swing out of a proper plane and inhibit proper coiling and unwinding of your golf muscles.

However, the head should rotate slightly with your shoulders on your backswing and on your downswing. The illustrations, drawn directly from actual photos of my swing, show how my head turns at these times.

This turning of the head is not absolutely vital to a good swing, but it does help enable most golfers to turn their shoulders smoothly and fully.

Second - place Pittsburgh Pirates moved into Atlanta Thursday night, hoping to cut the National League lead of the idle Los Angeles Dodgers to one game.

Instead, the Braves trounced the Pirates 14-1 and boosted the Dodgers' margin to two games.

The victory was the Braves' sixth straight, 10th in the last 11 games and 30th against 13 defeats since coach Billy Hitchcock became manager Aug. 9.

The surge has taken them from seventh place, 12½ games out, to fourth place, eight games out.

"The big thing has been that we go to the ball park and know who's going to play," catcher Joe Torre said, explaining the change in the team's attitude and fortunes. "You don't have to look on the board to see if you're playing.

"If a player knows he's going to play, he can conduct himself accordingly. Your mental attitude has a lot to do with it."

MEET THREE TIMES

The victory Thursday night was their fourth straight over the Pirates, the first three having come in Pittsburgh earlier this month. And there are three games to go before Pittsburgh leaves Atlanta.

In the only other National League game Chicago Cubs downed Cincinnati Reds 7-2.

The Braves ruined any chance the Pirates had for a victory by scoring five runs in the fourth inning. Ed Mathews singled home two runs in the inning. Then, Joe Torre hit his 20th homer, a three-run blow.

The Pirates got to Pat Jarvis for one run on three hits in the first inning, but the rookie right-hander blanked them on two hits the rest of the way for his sixth straight victory.

Glenn Beckert powered Dave Dowling Hill to his first major league victory for the Cubs, slamming a three-run double in the second inning. Billy Williams added three hits for the Cubs.

First Kokanee Salmon Caught By Anglers

OWEN SOUND (CP) — The first Kokanee salmon to be taken by anglers from district waters have delighted lands and forests conservation officers with their growth since they were planted here as eggs 18 months ago.

The fish, 12 and 13½ inches in length, were caught at the Owyn Sound mill dam and in the Sauble River 20 miles west here by Bill Selman and Wes Martin.

Both were fishing with worms at the time.

Conservation officer Robert Selfah said the growth rate was "phenomenal" and at least some of the fish spawn two years earlier than had been expected.

The kokanee, a fresh-water salmon, was introduced to give Ontario anglers another species of game fish in trout waters.

Chicago, Boston Roadblock Brewer

Want Waivers

By JIM CREAR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Just when former all star defenceman Carl Brewer was being ginning to see daylight in his efforts to play for Canada's national hockey team Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks threw up a roadblock.

CARL BREWER

Brewer, suspended by Toronto Maple Leaf manager - coach Punch Imlach after walking out of pre - season training camp a year ago, is seeking reinstatement as an amateur to join Canada's entry in the world hockey championships in Vienna next March.

To get it, the suspension must be lifted and Brewer must be waived by all other teams in professional hockey.

He got a couple of breaks Thursday. First, the Leafs announced they have written to Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, agreeing to free him. Then Emile Francis, manager-coach of New York Rangers, agreed not to claim Brewer unless Francis earlier had said he would.

The future was looking bright for Brewer, a nine - year veteran with the Leafs, until Thursday night when Hap Emms, general - manager of Boston Bruins, said in London, Ont., his team would "take him . . . that's for sure."

And Tommy Ivan, manager of Chicago Black Hawks, said:

"I'd be a pretty poor general manager if I passed up a player like Brewer. Let them put him on waivers and let them find out."

RANGERS ARE FIRST

The Rangers, last - place finishers in the NHL last season, would have first chance to pay the $50,000 waiver price for Brewer and the Bruins, a notch higher in fifth place, would get second chance.

Emms suggested the Leafs were simply trying to improve their public image by agreeing to let Brewer go.

"It takes them off the hook publicity," he said, "but they know they darn well one of the other clubs will pick him up for the waiver price."

Toronto, however, made it decidedly understood they were not letting Brewer join to another pro team.

"May I make it quite clear that if Carl is to abandon professional hockey in favor of playing for our national team, then we have no objection," said the letter from Maple Leaf Gardens' president Stafford Smythe. It adds that if Brewer returns to pro ranks, it must be with the Leaf organization.

BREWER AGREEABLE

This would be agreeable to Brewer, his lawyer, Al Eaton of Toronto, has said. The ex-Leaf announced his desire to leave pro hockey three weeks ago.

The letter, an executive move, overruled Imlach who was obviously nettled Thursday.

"It's stupid; they can't do it," he said at the team's Peterborough training camp. "Who's going to tell the other U.S. pro teams not to touch him? There would be a lineup."

Sam Pollock, manager of Montreal Canadiens, said he first must study the situation and may comment today.

But Brian O'Neill, director of administration for the NHL, said in Montreal:

"Technically speaking, the team is professional hockey — not only the NHL — are in a position to block this move by refusing to waive him out of the league."

Brewer said a week ago he would go to court if necessary to have his suspension lifted. If the suspension is revoked, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association would be free to reinstate him. The CAHA and NHL honor each other's suspensions.

Brewer already has permission from the International Ice Hockey Federation to play in Vienna if he's reinstated.

Quits Training Camp

"The Moose" Hands Hawks Second Jolt

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tommy Ivan, general manager of Chicago Black Hawks, must be wondering what he has to do to round up a team in time for the start of the National Hockey League season.

The Hawks lost their second veteran within four days Thursday when defencemme Elmer (Moose) Vasko walked out of the Hawks' training camp in Chicago.

He joined goaltender Glenn Hall among the absentees. Hall announced Wednesday from his farm near Edmonton that he has retired from hockey.

Vasko, 30, a 10-year veteran with Chicago and the biggest player in the NHL at six feet, three inches and 220 pounds, said simply he can't get interested in practice.

However, there was no lack of hockey interest in Montreal, Hull, Que., and London, Ont., Thursday.

OPEN WORKOUTS

Montreal Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, workout today in Hull and Montreal with 110 players in tow.

"We split the camp in two this year for strength," said Habs coach Toe Blake. "We felt last year we were pressed for tie time for some of the youngsters. This year, players in both places will be able to get out and get a fair shot on the ice."

Today's drills were confined to skating with the first heavy workout scheduled Monday morning.

And in London, Ont., where Boston Bruins are working out in preparation for tonight's first pre - season exhibition game against Toronto Maple Leafs, interest is running so high a sellout crowd of 5,000 is assured.

The Bruins will start 12 regulars from last season along with a crop of rookies including defencemam Bobby Orr, signed to a two-year contract this summer for an undisclosed amount rumored as high as $50,000.

START BOWER

Goalie Johnny Bower, 42, will start for Toronto. But the Leafs will be without Bob Pulford, benched with a bruised knee, Kent Douglas, sidelined with a shoulder injury, and Eddie Shack, working out with Tulsa Oilers of the Central Professional Hockey League. Tulsa trains with the Leafs in Peterborough and Shack is expected to join Toronto by the time the season opens Oct. 22.

Two Teams Junior A Dropouts

TORONTO (CP)—Two of the oldest members of the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior B Toronto Marlie series, St. Michael's Buzzers and Brampton, have announced their withdrawal from play.

Carl Ingerfarston, speaking for the Brampton club, said financial difficulties made it impossible for his club to carry on.

We had negotiated a deal with a professional club to help defray expenses but the pact between the National Hockey League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, which abolished pro sponsorships, killed that deal."

Rev. Rocco Volpe of St. Michaels said a lack of playing talent at the school was the main reason for withdrawal of his team.

Ottawa Coach Cautious

Clair Won't Predict Finish

OTTAWA (CP)—Coach Frank Clair admits his Ottawa Rough Riders are in good position and have the schedule in their favor for a first-place finish in the Eastern Football Conference.

But he's still a long way from predicting the Riders will come out on top in the final standings.

"It's too early for prediction," he said Thursday. "Too many things can happen. We've been lucky in avoiding any serious injuries but you have to stay healthy to win in this game."

Despite the Riders impressive record of seven wins in eight games, Clair still is looking for an improved performance from the team that has made a habit of the recent years of finishing in second place.

His defence, the big factor in early season victories, has slipped in recent outings.

"Fortunately our offence took care of things," he added, referring to the 21-16 win over B.C. Lions and the 49-21 triumph over Edmonton Eskimos during last weekend's western road trip.

On past performances, Clair isn't likely to try his hand at predicting the football future for a long time.

His pre-season call for a first-place finish last season was shattered by a disastrous second half of the season and the final outcome was a familiar story for Ottawa fans—second place and elimination by Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the EFC finals.

The Tiger-Cats, who trail Ottawa by four points although they have a game in hand, have yet to make their rugged western swing for a pair of games in three days.

Hamilton still has one game left against Ottawa and that is in Ottawa. Also, Ticats probably will soften at Ottawa's next opponent when they are at home Saturday against Saskatchewan Roughriders, the Western Conference pace - setters. Saskatchewan will have only one day rest before moving to Ottawa on their eastern swing.
